Things Look Up For Canadians

SCHLADMING, Austria (CP) — The Canadian men's ski team brooded home during the weekend for a Christmas break, bouyed by a second downhill victory that has stamped it as a genuine contender in World Cup and Olympic competition.

"This has to be the most beautiful day of my life," said Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, Ont., after he won Saturday's downhill race by almost two seconds over Austrian Klaus Eberhard with downhill champion Franz Klammer of Austria placing fourth.

It was the first win ever for Irwin, 23, in his third season of World Cup competition. And it was only the second win ever by a Canadian man in this level of competition. Ken Read of Calgary scored the first win two weeks ago in the first downhill of the season at Val D'Isere, France.

"I told you that the Canadian team would win more races," said Irwin. "It is only the beginning."

"Right now I'm very anxious to be back in Canada with my family and rest for a few days."

Back home in Thunder Bay, where his father owns a ski resort and where Dave started skiing at the age of three, he will prepare for the next leg of World Cup competition which starts with a downhill Jan. 4 at Germany.

Also in the minds of Irwin and his teammates is the prospect of a gold medal at the Winter Olympics in Innsbruck next February, a prospect that appears much brighter since the victories by Read and Irwin.

"Innsbruck is a big goal for me," said David Murray of Alberta, B.C., who finished seventh in Saturday's downhill with a time of 2:03.49, his best result so far in World Cup.

"My turn will come one day," said Murray.

The Canadian skiers have been concentrating on the downhill, passed up Sunday's slalom race won by Hans Hinterseer of Austria.

Babies Die

LONDON (Reuter) — More British babies die of winter ailments because of poverty and inadequate heating than in other northern European countries, says a report published today.

"These countries have higher quality health care services for young children," child health experts Margaret and Arthur Wynn said in the report.

Britain's infant mortality rate, one one of the world's lowest stood at 16.5 per thousand in 1973, mainly because of seasonal deaths of babies. This compared with the Finnish rate of 10 per thousand and the French rate of 14.5, both for 1973.

Mechanics Ratify Contract

BURLINGAME, Calif. (AP) — Striking United Airlines mechanics overwhelmingly ratified a new contract Sunday to end their two-week strike, clearing the way for the United States' largest domestic air carrier to resume full service, a union spokesman said.

Monty Chavez, secretary of District 141, International Association of Machinists and Aerospace Workers, said the national vote was 70 per cent in favor of the contract.

The final vote tally was not immediately available, but the vote from Chavez' district—the union's largest with about 7,500 of the union's 17,000 members—was 2,353 to 1,823 in favor of ratification.

Chavez said about 2,000 mechanics in Chicago voted to approve the pact by a 75-per-cent majority.

United said last week that if the contract were ratified Sunday, 35 per cent of the airline's flights could be resumed today and 70 per cent by Tuesday. The full schedule would be restored by Wednesday.

There was no immediate word from the airline.

Answer Is Yes

JERUSALEM (AP) — Many an Orthodox Jew listens to a woman singing on the radio. The answer is yes, but only if he does not know her person, says Israel's chief rabbi. Some religious authorities say that a woman's voice can turn one's thoughts away from the spiritual. Rabbi Ovadiah Yosef said in a radio broadcast Saturday. But if a man has never met the singer, there is little danger of his being seduced.

Claims Illegal Wheat

OTTAWA (CP) — Lorne Nystrom (NDP — Yorkton-Melville) said Saturday that Agriculture Minister Eugene Whelan has confirmed that buckwheat from the United States is being stored illegally in grain elevators in Manitoba. He said during the Commons question period that the minister sent a letter to New Democratic Party Leader Ed Broadbent to that effect, adding that the matter has been referred to the Canadian Grain Commission and the transport department. However, port from the grain commis Transport Minister Otto Lang sion.

Despite Slow Economy Snowmobiles Sell Well

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Support for snowmobiling continued on the Canadian mainland to grow more than a decade ago in large numbers.

— Helen Bordeaux, 83, pulls a Volkswagen nine feet Thursday, by her teeth. Mrs. Bordeaux said she created the stunt in 1938, but had not done it in years. She was a stunt woman in Hollywood in the 1930s and had done diving stunts from a 70-foot tower in Palisades, N.J. "I didn't think I could do it," she said after today's experiment.

A survey by The Canadian Press indicates that snowmobile sales in Canada are generally holding their own or improving despite a slow economy.

"It looks pretty good this year," said one Winnipeg dealer. "There seems to be more money around."

One of the reasons for the growth in snowmobiling has been an increase in the number of trails operated by government and private organizations.

The trails have opened up large areas of the county which previously were accessable only to those willing to blaze their own trails. Often they were chased off by irate farmers whose fences they either went around or through in search of open spaces.

Another reason is racing. The calibre of snowmobile racing varies from local weekend gatherings to international events drawing professional drivers and manufactures.

In Ontario, for instance, the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation has sanctioned six major and 14 minor races. Drivers will be competing for points that will enable them to enter the North American championship March 6-7 at Ironwood, Mich., which will draw top drivers from the 18 recognized snowmobile racing associations in North America.

The first major race of the season in Ontario is the Kawartha Cup slated for Peterborough Jan. 4-5. Last year, the race attracted about 1,200 drivers and more than 100,000 fans. Purses this year total $13,000.

However, one factor that is taking some of the rosy-cheeked enthusiasm out of snowmobiling has been the increasing number of injuries and fatalities.

Snowmobile clubs and other private organizations have reacted by promoting safety programs.

Meanwhile, all provinces except Newfoundland have enacted snowmobile legislation which requires that snowmobiles be registered if they are operated on public land. Fees range from $5 to $15 annually, although in British Columbia the $5 registration fee serves for the life of the vehicle.

Other provincial regulations vary but most set a minimum age limit for snowmobile drivers ranging from 12 to 16 years. Some provinces require that drivers and passengers wear helmets while others require that vehicles be insured.

All 10 provinces have legislation banning snowmobiles from public roadways except in special circumstances.

The reason is obvious. During the 1973-74 winter season, 25 of the 26 snowmobilers killed in Ontario died on highways. Most other fatalities occurred on lakes and rivers.

Noise levels are governed by regulations set down by the federal ministry of transport. However, many communities have banned the operation of snowmobiles within their boundaries.

In Saskatchewan, snowmobiles are not permitted to be operated within 100 feet of a dwelling not owned by the operator or without permission of the owner between the hours of midnight and 7 a.m.

Officers End Revolt Against Isabel Peron

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The Argentine air force announced early today that rightist air officers have ended their revolt against President Isabel Peron after four days.

Spokesmen for the rebels could not be reached for confirmation.

A brief air force communique said that as of 2:15 a.m. the rebels holding Moron air base, 20 miles west of here, and Buenos Aires airport "once again answer to their natural commanders."

The communique named a new commander for the 7th Air Brigade at Moron.

Earlier, the rebels, led by 53-year-old Brig. Orlando Jesus Capellini, said they would not surrender until Mrs. Peron stepped down as president. They issued a communique saying: "The air force invites the people to the burial of the corrupt government of Isabel Peron. We will not surrender."

Another rebel communique asked: "Faced with the alternative of armed repression, who will our comrades repress? Their comrades of the air force who will give their lives to save the country, or the crime, the immorality and the corruption of a government that shames us before the world?"

The rebels, described as ultra-rightist Roman Catholic nationalists, demanded the resignation of the army chief, Gen. Jorge Videla, as president. Videla rejected the proposal, saying he supports the constitution. But he indicated the military would welcome a replacement for Mrs. Peron.

Political observers generally agreed that Mrs. Peron's position has been weakened still more.

The General Labor Confederation, the backbone of Peronism, called for a general strike to support the 44-year-old president.

Waves of government jets pounded the rebel-held Moron base Saturday but there were no casualties. The rebel officers threatened to bomb the government headquarters in Buenos Aires, in retaliation, but the threat was not carried out.

The revolt came after six months of increasing pressure for Mrs. Peron's resignation or pulling from her government's inability to cope with the country's grave economic situation, political terrorism and dissent within the Peronist movement. Her position has been made more precarious recently by charges of corruption against herself and some of her closest aides.

Vietnam Refugees Are Safe Now

TORONTO (CP) — The 14 members of Hai Long Phan's family will spend their first Christmas in Canada giving thanks that they are safe and together.

Last year, Mr. and Mrs. Phan, their two sons and Mrs. Phan's parents, brothers and sisters were living comfortably in two large expensive homes in Vietnam.

The Phans are among 6,000 refugees who came to Canada during the fighting in Vietnam and Cambodia.

Mr. Phan, 38, a laboratory technician at a sugar refinery in Oshawa, says he hopes that someday he will have a house and car again.

There are many different Christmas traditions in Canada, says Mrs. Phan. She says she is startled by the lavish Christmas toy displays in Toronto stores

Paperworkers Reject Return To Work Appeal by Premiers

SAINT JOHN, N.B. (CP) — Officials of the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU) in New Brunswick have rejected the joint appeal of Premier Richard Hatfield and Nova Scotia Premier Gerald Regan for an immediate return to work.

"I'm rejecting the premiers' appeal completely," said Victor McLean, president of CPU Local 601 in Saint John.

Mr. McLean said his local is waiting to see what happens in the settlement between the CPU and Irving Pulp and Paper of Saint John. The settlement of 22.5 per-cent increase in the first year of a two-year contract was rejected Thursday by the federal anti-inflation board. The board said 14 per cent over one year would be the maximum allowable increase.

In a joint statement Friday, premiers Hatfield and Regan called on the striking pulp and paper workers and companies in their provinces to accept the decision of the anti-inflation board for a period of three months.

The premiers' joint statement said an immediate resumption of work was necessary if a serious threat to the overall economy of the region was to be avoided.

Paul Young of Fredericton, national representative of the CPU, said Saturday the union plans to appeal the anti-inflation board's ruling.

He said the Irving agreement was a fair one, which put pulp and paper workers in line with the lumber industry.

Ouellet Still Urges Sugar Case Appeal

OTTAWA (CP) — Annoyed by the failure of federal prosecutors to win a price-fixing conviction against three major sugar companies, Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet has renewed his call for an appeal against the judge's decision.

"Maybe we don't have a good judge," he said in the Commons on Saturday, "but that does not prevent me from seeking justice."

This was Mr. Ouellet's response to a demand by James McGrath (PC—St. John's East) that Prime Minister Trudeau repudiate the minister's remarks about the court's decision Friday.

Mr. Ouellet said then that it was "a complete disgrace" and "completely unacceptable."

Redpath Industries Ltd., Atlantic Sugar Refineries and St. Lawrence Sugar Ltd., the latter charged jointly with SLSR Holdings Ltd., were charged with conspiring to fix prices and reduce competition in the sugar market between 1960 and 1972.

Mr. Justice Kenneth Mackay of the Quebec Court of Queen's Bench in Montreal ruled that federal prosecutors had not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the companies were guilty.

The trial lasted 16 months and heard testimony from more than 40 witnesses from Europe, India, South Africa and the United States as well as Ottawa and Montreal.

After Mr. Ouellet suggested Saturday he doubted Mr. Justice Mackay's competence, Mr. McGrath asked Justice Minister Ron Basford whether he agreed the judge was "somewhat less than competent." Would Mr. Basford repudiate the "unprecedented and reprehensible attack?"

The Justice minister said the judge obviously acted according to his view of the law and that the possibility of an appeal is being studied.

He said he had not intended his remarks about the court decision to be interpreted as a personal attack on Mr. Justice Mackay.

"If this is the impression that I gave . . . I regret it and I am sorry," Mr. Ouellet said. "I am indignant to see that Mr. McGrath has tried to put an interpretation on my remarks that I did not wish to give."

Stanfield Questions Liberal Austerity Work

OTTAWA (CP) — Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield says "the great national economic party is over" and Canadians are concerned about the Liberal federal government's ability to make its austerity program work.

"This concern, to me, has two basic elements at its roots: the government's credibility . . . the government's sincerity," Mr. Stanfield said in a statement prepared Friday for delivery Sunday night on CBC-TV's program The Nation's Business.

Mr. Stanfield said he, Canadians and the auditor-general all know the government is guilty of wasteful and inefficient spending.

"When the government's own house is in that kind of shape . . . when the government won't even acknowledge that its operations are in that kind of shape . . . and at the same time it says that one of the few places it can save a substantial amount of money is in family allowances, I think it undermines its credibility and makes a mockery of sincerity," Mr. Stanfield said.

Wagner Suffers Nervous Shock

TROIS-RIVIERES, Que. (CP) — Progressive Conservative leadership candidate Claude Wagner will rest a few days after an automobile accident Saturday which left him in nervous shock and with cuts to the face.

Mr. Wagner spent the night at Ste. Marie Hospital in Trois-Rivieres after the front end of the Lincoln Continental in which he was a passenger was crushed in a collision with a light truck.

Both drivers and Andre Beliveau, secretary to Mr. Wagner, suffered minor injuries in the accident in nearby Aston Valley, 50 miles east of Montreal.

Although Mr. Wagner kept a speaking engagement with Trois-Rivieres leadership convention delegates Saturday afternoon, he cancelled a Sunday appointment with Rene Cossette delegates. He had been unable to meet the delegates last week because of bad weather.

After doctors said his injuries included a minor concussion, Mr. Wagner decided to take a rest before pursuing his campaign to replace outgoing chief Robert Stanfield at a February party convention.

Workers Offered 30.5 Per Cent

THOROLD, Ont. (CP) — Ontario Paper Co. Ltd. offered its 300 workers—most members of the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU)—a contract settlement Saturday which would increase wages by 30.5 per cent in a three-year agreement, a company spokesman said Sunday.

Robert Prince, company vice-president, said the same offer is being made in negotiations which continue today in Quebec between CPU officials and four companies which make up the Eastern Canadian Newsprint Group.

A CPU representative said the union's decision on the offer will be made public today in Montreal, adding that negotiators probably will recommend that workers reject the proposal.

About 20,000 pulp and paper workers have been on strike since 23rd July in Eastern Canada. Last week, the federal anti-inflation review board rejected an offer by Irving Pulp and Paper Co. Ltd. of St. John, N.B., which would have increased salaries for its striking workers by 32.8 per cent in a one-year contract.

The Ontario Paper Co. offer provides for a 14-per-cent increase in the base pay of $4.82 an hour in the first year, an 8.5-per-cent increase in the second year and an eight-per-cent increase in the third.

Compounded, the offer would bring the base pay to about $6.45 an hour in 1977 and the average pay to $7.86, a total increase of about 34 per cent.

Mr. Prince said the company thinks the offer will be acceptable to the anti-inflation review board, which said last week that it would consider increases in the 14-per-cent range for workers at Irving.

He said a vote on the offer by workers at Ontario Paper Co. may be delayed until the CPU decides whether it will appeal to the federal cabinet on the review board's ruling on Irving.

Four locals of three unions are on strike at the Thorold mill—two of the CPU and one each of the Canadian Union of Operating Engineers and the International Longshoremen's Association.

Companies which have made the same offer in Quebec include Quebec-North Shore Paper Co.—Ontario Paper's affiliate at Baie Comeau—the Dolbeau mill of Domtar Ltd. of Montreal, James McLaren Co. Ltd. of Buckingham and the Quebec mill of Reed Paper Ltd., Toronto.

In Memoriam

BURNETT — In loving memory of a dear grandfather, who passed away December 22, 1968.
Two dear eyes are closed forever
Two willing hands are still.
For you, who did so much, so much, so eagerly to God's will.
Sweet memories linger near to us,
For parting was so hard.
We never could have said goodbye,
We miss you so.
—Lovingly remembered by Diane, Ronald.

COONEY — In loving memory of a dear husband and father, Thomas Cooney, who passed away December 22, 1964.
Time rolls on and I am reminded,
Of a day my heart was broken,
Of a day I miss my husband so sadly,
And we all in sorrow shall long for him to the blessed of the, death claimed him.
In the silence of my heart I hear your voice
Your smile I see day by day,
And in my soul I feel the love you gave me
—Always remembered and sadly missed by his loving wife, Ann.

CARDS OF THANKS

I wish to express my sincere appreciation to my friends, relatives and neighbors for the cards, flowers and visits during my recent illness. Also with General Hospital. Thank you to those who kindly offered to take me to come and visit me. To the nurses and doctors of 2 East, Dr. Chalmers and Dr. Ogilvie, Dr. Gerald Smith, Crook Sherlock and all for their kindness.
—Mrs Evelyn Reid.

We would like to thank our neighbors for the lovely dinner and shower given in our honor, and for the beautiful and useful gifts received, for many years to come.
—Mr. and Mrs. Ken Ostrander.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyr Bradshaw, Sidney, will be "at home" to their friends and relatives on the occasion of their 25th Wedding Anniversary, to be held at the Legion Hall, Frankford, on Saturday, December 27th, from 4.30 p.m. Please no gifts. Just come! DT-52

POOLE, England (Reuter) — Fishermen at this south coastal English town are complaining that soviet trawlers have ruined their sea lives—not by carrying away women, but fish.

The men say the trawlers are scooping up their traditional supplies of sprats—the little fish they believe are an aphrodisiac (sex stimulant).

A protest about the trawlers, which fish just outside British waters, has been made to the government by the Poole Fishermen's Association.

Association chairman Sandy Wills said: "It's not doing much for our sex lives. There are no large families about any more."

And a fisherman's wife added: "I had two children, both about nine months after my husband went to the town's annual sprat supper. A good feed of sprats does a man the world of good."

TAMPA, Fla. (AP) — "How will I ever know?" an elderly widow asks as she wonders which are the cremated remains of her 70-year-old sister—the ashes she buried in Virginia eight years ago or the ashes found this week in a nearly-buried box in an impounded car.

"I'm in sort of a state of shock," Virginia Walker, 76, of St. Petersburg said Thursday after the confusing situation unfolded 25 miles away in Tampa. "I want to find out what's what, but I haven't any idea what to do," she said.

Mrs. Walker says she carried the urn with what she believed were her sister's ashes to Strasburg, Va., and buried the remains in the family plot next to her mother.

"It's a confused mess—a tragic situation," said police sgt. John Fairbanks.

GENEVA, Ohio (AP)—Robert C. Coy has assured the Ashtabula County juvenile court his son, Jeffery, hasn't sneaked out in the family car despite the court's notice of a traffic citation.

Coy said the court sent a letter this week telling him to appear in court with his son and his son's driver's licence to answer the citation.

The trouble is, Jeffery won't be three months old until Dec. 28.

DALLAS (AP)—A 1975 senior class ring from Spence high school was pawned for $10. The initials engraved inside the ring did not correspond with the signature on the pawn slip, so police Det. James Lewis checked with the school.

School officials said Thursday the ring belonged to a coed. The girl wasted no time calling Lewis to ask what his inquiry was about.

Lewis mentioned the name on the pawn slip and asked if the young woman knew who it was.

"Of course," she replied curtly. "I gave him the ring to wear." Lewis informed her the ring was in a pawn shop.

Lewis said he then heard a gasp, followed by the telephone receiver being slammed in his ear.

SEATTLE (AP) — Actor Bob Cummings will go on trial Jan. 5 on charges he fraudulently obtained telephone service by using an illegal "blue box" device.

The 65-year-old Cummings pleaded not guilty Thursday in King County superior court to the charges.

He was arrested Tuesday when police raided a downtown apartment building in search of a blue box device and its user. The device duplicates phone company switching signals, enabling the user to obtain free long-distance service.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL

Tuesday, Dec. 23

ARIES (March 21-April 19) If you want things done right today, depend on yourself. Some one who promised to help may let you down and you'll lose valuable time.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) You may meet someone new and interesting. Sex is that his dynamic personality doesn't excite you so you hurt a friend by ignoring him.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) An ambitious project for the home can be a success today, but only if you're wise enough to realize your mate's blessing before embarking on it.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be sure to have the facts straight when you repeat something a friend told you earlier in the day. A twisted tale could cause embarrassment.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) If you're buying essentials for the home today, be wary of luxury items. You have a tendency to go overboard.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Though you have a lot of things on your mind today, you'll handle most things quite capably. However, make a check list. And check it.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't curb your impulse to be generous today. Others may have doubts about the appreciation you'll receive.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Early in the day you are conservative and go good value in items you shop for. Later you'll live and invite for second-best.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be more fortunate today in things in which you use your imagination. Don't fear being innovative. Pioneering is your strong suit.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Romantic distance from you will be on our mind today. Why not give the person a call?

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) A friend of yours will be impressively generous with you today. Accept, though you may be a bit embarrassed to be on the receiving end.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Have faith in your ideas today. You'll come up with a way to do something that is a departure from the norm. Nothing vendored, nothing accomplished.

Pneumothorax Not Always Hereditary

By C.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would appreciate your writing something on spontaneous pneumothorax. What causes it, is it surgery the only cure? Could it be hereditary if two teenagers in one family have it? Mrs. T.N.F.

First, I think it would be well to describe what is involved here the pleural cavity for the benefit of readers who are not as close to this subject as you are.

The "pleura" is a membrane that covers the lung. There is a narrow space between the lung surface and the pleura, and this is called the "pleura cavity." Its purpose is to facilitate movement of the lungs in breathing.

When for one reason or another air enters this cavity we call the condition pneumothorax. This can occur spontaneously as a result of various lung disturbances which allow air to escape into the cavity. Or it can result from a chest injury. Spontaneous pneumothorax can occur with emphysema, due to the rupture of a bleb on the lung surface. A spell of violent coughing can come this to happen.

Often, with rest the condition will right itself. Sometimes it is usually required. Where the build-up of the air becomes great, it can be drawn out. This is done as an emergency measure in cases of serious chest injury.

There is no doubt on the question of heredity. Usually it is not a factor. But a condition that would predispose one to lung problems generally could predispose to pneumothorax or other pulmonary problems. If the condition appeared over generations in the same family, one would suspect heredity as a factor.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Through years it has been determined that I have diverticulosis of the large intestine. After surgery of the prostate gland and a cystoscope of the bladder, I was told that my persistent bladder infection is caused by the diverticulosis in the intestine, is this possible? GTW

Bladder infection after prostatectomy is not unusual and I would suspect that as the cause. I cannot see any relationship between the diverticulosis and your bladder infection.

In diverticulitis fingerlike pouches of the colon (diverticula) the path of infection would be through the intestinal tract not the urinary.

Commons Ends Year With Angry Debate

OTTAWA (CP) — The Commons adjourned Saturday for a five-week Christmas recess after an angry last-minute uproar over MPs' salaries.

Prime Minister Trudeau, who announced two days earlier that MPs' pay would be frozen for 12 months, was accused of misleading the country.

Actually, the income of MPs will rise by $700 Jan. 1.

The $24,000 taxable income that MPs get is subject to the freeze, but not the $10,600 extra they receive as a tax-free expense allowance.

It will rise to $11,300 because of an indexing provision that adjusts allowances upward with the cost of living.

Opposition Leader Robert Stanfield called the pay increase exercise in "duplicity, stupidity and hypocrisy."

Stanley Knowles (NDP—Winnipeg North Centre) moved a quick passage of a motion to kill the plan. But the motion was torpedoed by Government House Leader Mitchell Sharp.

Mr. Trudeau said his Thursday statement on the matter made it clear that the freeze applied only to salaries, not expense allowances.

MPs voted themselves a 33½-per cent pay increase earlier this year after the government first proposed a 50-per-cent increase.

The unusual Saturday sittings—after which MPs went home free on government aircraft—was held to clear up outstanding business. It also produced an about-face on the 10-per-cent surtax the government announced last week for personal earning $20,000 and over annually.

NDP Leader Ed Broadbent said the tax will be phased out immediately. He calculated that a $23,000 wage-earner, with a wife and two dependent children, will pay only 35 cents in additional tax after all normal deductions are made.

He based his conclusion on figures that will apply for the 1976 tax year, when the one-year proposal will be in force. Government figures, however show a larger tax bite.

The adjustments came after MPs disposed of two bills the government wanted passed before the recess—a package of bail-lightening amendments to the unemployment insurance program and a bill to increase pensions for MPs, senators and a wide range of public servants.

The unemployment insurance changes effective Jan. 1, raise premiums for workers and employers, top persons 65 and over from participation in the program, and extend the waiting period for benefits to six weeks from three for persons who quit or are fired from their jobs.

The pensions bill ties pension rates to increases in pay for MPs and senators, meaning that they will get a 33⅓-per-cent increase on the strength of the salary bill passed earlier in the year.

Mr. Knowles, who called the bill over-generous, said it will increase the maximum pension for MPs after 25 years service to $10,000 annually from $13,500.

FOCUS ON ECONOMY

Approval of the bills ended a two-month fall sitting that was dominated by economic issues.

The session opened Oct. 14 with attention focused on the government's selective wage and price controls program to curb inflation. It came to an uproar in Thanksgiving Day by the prime minister.

Legislation was introduced later to put the plan into effect and to set up a federal anti-inflation board.

The bill prompted a stormy debate, with opposition MPs fighting unsuccessfully for hours. It was finally passed earlier this month.

The Senate also was marked by controversy over the government's handling of the six-week postal strike.

The strike ended with workers accepting a 40-per-cent pay increase over 30 months.

The anti-inflation board rejected the settlement on grounds that it exceeded limits set out in the anti-inflation program. But the board was overruled by the cabinet which said the settlement should stick because of overriding national interest.

Other major bills approved during the sitting included the long-awaited competition legislation, which outlaws a series of practices such as price-fixing, misleading ads, and a bill to inject $1 billion into the ailing housing industry.

Left unpassed were a string of bills including a hotly-debated proposal to ban advertisers in the Canadian editions of Time and Reader's Digest of their current right to deduct advertising costs for income tax purposes.

It is expected to come up again for debate when Parliament reconvenes Jan. 26.

Bylaw Changes

ST. CATHARINES, Ont. (CP) — City aldermen have approved canine control fee structures and bylaw changes which will impose $15 penalties on owners of unlicensed dogs, dogs running at large and unspayed dogs. Discounts will be given for rabies vaccination and early licensing.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

Oswald: The name "Uppercut" is given to these trump-promotion plays in which a defender plays a moderately high trump to force declarer to use a higher trump and thereby develop an extra trump trick for the defence.

Here: "West wins the first two tricks with the king and queen of spades. He sees no bone in a trump, diamond or club lead and decides his best chance to get two more tricks is to promote his ace of trumps. An uppercut is indicated, so he leads his five of spades.

Oswald: "East has to co-operate. He must ruff with the five spot. South will be able to overruff with the six. However, East sees what his partner is trying to do and plays the eight."

Jim: "That little eight spot has become a killer. South has to use an honor to overruff and now East is sure of two trump tricks, and a plus instead of a large minus score."

Ask the Jacobys

A Wisconsin reader says, "Here in Milwaukee some of the better players will open a four-card major with 1 club find no such rule in my limited bridge literature. What is your advice on this?"

Our advice is to bid as the Jacobys bid. We try to avoid opening a four-card major, but would surely open one here with:

♠ A K J 4 ♥ K J 5 ♦ 7 5 3 ♣ Q 5.

On the other hand we open one as do so practically all good players with:

♠ A 10 8 7 ♥ 7 6 5 ♦ 4 3 ♣ A K 6.

New Restraints May Hurt Liberal Credibility

OTTAWA (CP) — Federal spending restraints announced last Thursday, after closer examination, appear likely to add to the credibility woes of the government's anti-inflation program, rather than to reassure people.

What started as an effort to convince people that the government means business could result in resistance to the whole anti-inflation effort.

Promises to hold down the rise in federal spending—held up until shortly before Parliament was to adjourn for a five-week holiday—are short on detail.

First, the $1.5-billion of savings in the financial year starting next April was not explained. The government simply gave the total from which the amount was cut, nor the result.

Even conservative estimates put federal spending at about $37 billion next year, up about 18 per cent from about $32 billion this year. Selected wage and price controls introduced Oct. 13 hold wage rises to generally 10 per cent in the first year of new contracts.

But there are other more damaging omissions in the restraints program. Included are:

—The revelation that MPs get a $700 raise in tax-free income Jan. 1, despite a government pay freeze presented as part of the anti-inflation program. Senators get $300.

—The discovery that judges of the Supreme and Federal courts as well as provincial superior court judges, whose salaries were "frozen" for 15 months, were not due for pay raises anyway.

—The 10-per-cent cut in Prime Minister Trudeau's personal staff means only reducing it to 8 to 82 persons from 86 and may mean no reduction in operation's $40,000-a-week cost.

The spending restraints were released Thursday, forming a public relations double event along with the release of rules to show how the two-month-old controls program is to be applied.

Reporters were told Thursday that $446.7 million was being cut from programs eliminated or reduced below 1975-76 levels. The remaining reductions were from planned spending—in effect, a reduction from what might have been.

The exercise was similar to when former Finance Minister John Turner said in his June 23 budget that $1 billion was being cut—reporters were told only that $1 billion less than the government might spend would actually be spent next year.

Even the $446.7-million slash from current spending programs has to be viewed with caution. Fully $252.2 million of the savings come from the decision not to allow a cost-of-living rise in mothers' allowances.

Similarly, a $13.5-million saving shown from freezing salaries of 5,500 senior civil servants earning $28 or more a week is not a real saving.

Some senior civil servants already had been given pay raises up to $6,000 annually or $120 a week this summer. They would therefore not be due for pay raises for some months.

MPs voted themselves a 33-1-3 per cent pay raise last spring to a taxable salary of $34,000 plus a $10,000 tax-free allowance along with a cost-of-living adjustment. Senators get $24,000 plus a $5,300 tax-free allowance.

Storm Hits Western Ontario

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The tail end of a storm which crossed Ontario during the weekend, dropping up to 27.5 centimetres of snow—about an inch—in some communities, was expected to taper off today and bring light snow and partly sunny weather to most of the province.

Tuesday is expected to be clear and colder but a spokesman for Environment Canada said another snowstorm may hit Wednesday evening in the Great Lakes region and clear up on Christmas Day.

The Toronto-Hamilton-St. Catharines area and the southwestern Ontario communities of Simcoe, London and Chatham were hardest hit by the storm, which resulted in at least one death.

Santa Claus Never Ages

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Santa Claus never ages.

In fact, if you meet him at the Quinte Mall you'll find out just here contemporary the jolly gentleman is for Canadians.

He's bilingual.

Not that it's exactly a surprise when you stop and think. What with Santa's jurisdiction being the world, it's clear as a light on a Christmas tree he speaks every language.

And what he symbolizes is universal anyway. You can read it in any youngster's eyes this time of year.

His obvious fluency is just mentioned in passing by a man who shares much of Santa's confidence.

H. P. (Hap) Chartres has been Santa's closest helper at the Mall for the past five Christmases. It's a role that permits him intimate contact with the man who helps make the season merry and magical for million of moppets.

OPP Warn Shoppers

Although Christmas is a time of joy, the reality of life is still apparent as crime continues, says Insp. L. G. Brymer of the community services branch of the Ontario Provincial Police (OPP).

In a news release issued this week, Insp. Bruner offered some tips "to help make sure that you do not lose in a Christmas rip-off."

He advised shoppers to "put your Christmas shopping in the trunk of your car and lock your car while you shop."

Women shoppers should "keep your purse with you all of the time and do not let it hang open, be noted. "Do not leave it on store counters or in shopping carts where it can easily be stolen."

Alarm Box

Belleville firefighters responded to the following calls for assistance during a 24-hours period which ended at 8 a.m. today.

Monday, Dec. 22, 2:18 a.m. — smoke damage caused by faulty furnace at Ed Logan Jeweller Ltd. at 256 Front St. and McMaster's House of Vogue at 254 Front St.

Monday, Dec. 22, 2:36 p.m. — frozen sprinkler system broke at McFarlane Gendron Manufacturing Ltd. (Belleville Division) on Sidney St. and set off alarm at fire department.

Float Recognized

John Lewars, chairman of the Quinte Santa Claus Parade Committee and his assistant Karen Wright present the most spectacular float award to members of the Ontario Provincial Police, Belleville detachment. Constable Brian Turner, left, and Constable Don Kuzyk, organizers of the OPP float, were also awarded the Smith-Walkers-White trophy for the best public service float. This was the first year the OPP entered the Santa Claus parade, held Nov. 29.

Court Date Set

Gordon William Graham, 23 of 13 Earl St. in Belleville was remanded by Judge J. L. Clendenning in provincial court here Monday to Jan. 15 for trial on a charge of wounding.

Graham appeared in court following his return from the Penetanguishene Mental Health Clinic where he underwent 30 days' examination. He is in custody at the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee.

Police say the charge resulted from an incident on Nov. 8 when Arnold Ernest Thompson, 38, of 3 East Moira St. in Belleville went to Belleville General Hospital with a stab wound in his lower back and a broken hand following a fight in a apartment.

REAL ESTATE:
THE FINAL MOMENT
Ed. McKinney
Realty Ltd.
J. E. McKinney

You've look at many houses and you've finally decided on a choice. You sit back for a final look; a much more critical look than the others. Don't be timid. Check everything you think is important with a critical eye. No house will be perfect, but you should know about any defects before making a final decision.

And when the time comes, let the REALTOR handle the actual price negotiations. This is always the toughest and most sensitive part of any home purchase. He's an expert in this type of negotiation. He knows both parties' financial positions, and can usually come out with a better arrangement than via personal confrontation between principals. One party will usually be at a disadvantage. Don't be afraid to quibble. Few homes sell at the asking price — but don't ask him to do the impossible.

And, be sure you know the answers to all the dollars and cents questions, such as: taxes, operating expenses, closing costs, fees, etc. If you don't know — ask!

Interment was at Mount Evergreen Cemetery with Rev J. A. Dyson officiating. Bearers were: Mickey and Charles Naphan, John Charlton, Wayne Cooney, David Foote and Martin DeGroot.

Chamber Warns Firms Of Telephone Sales

Local businesses should be on the lookout for "distress sale customers" selling apparently reduced price office supplies, warns Don Sutton, Belleville Chamber of Commerce general manager.

Mr Sutton said Monday the Chamber has received a number of complaints from local businesses who have received telephone calls from a Vancouver company apparently offering office supplies at a reduced rate because a customer has cancelled a large allotment which is in transit.

"This may simply be a gimmic to give the impression the purchase is at a discount price," said Mr. Sutton.

Operating such a business in Ontario, offering goods at a discount price which is actually the regular price is in contravention of unfair business practices Bill 55.

Mr. Sutton said firms in other areas of the province have also received calls.

Two Express Interest In County Warden Post

PICTON The new warden of Prince Edward County will be elected Jan. 5, 1976 during a special meeting at Shire Hall and two members of county council this week have stated that they are interested in the office.

Sophiasburg deputy reeve Jack Spragge said Monday that in the past 25 years only three Prince Edward County wardens have been representatives of its municipality.

He said he is interested in becoming the fourth Sophiasburg Township councillor to hold the warden's office.

Hillier reeve Allan Pettingill stated Monday that he is "definitely considering" the warden's seat and intends to let his name stand.

Deputy-reeve Spragge, a farmer who lives at R.R. No. 1, Demorestville now is completing his second term on county council as is Reeve Pettingill who is a salesman with Gary Rorabeck Realty Limited.

First elected to county council in 1972 as deputy-reeve of Hillier Mr. Pettingill was re-elected in 1974 after defeating incumbent Lewis Wight.

Skate-a-thon Nets $2,000

TRENTON — More than 125 skaters participated in the Trenton Rotary's first annual skate-a-thon Monday to raise money for minor sports at the Community Gardens.

Douglas Whitley, spokesman for the group, said the first time affair went well and was a good learning experience for the club members and organizers.

"We received a positive response from the town and we hope that the total money raised this year, more than $2,000, will be increased at next year's event," said Mr. Whitley.

More than half of the skaters were from minor hockey and 50 per cent of the proceeds will be given to the organization, said Mr. Whitley.

More than 125 skaters participated in the Trenton Rotary's first annual skate-a-thon, Monday and raised $2,000 for minor sports. Douglas Whitley, spokesman for the group says he hopes this year's positive response from Trentonians will be duplicated for next years skate-a-thon. Display Shows All Toys Not Made of Plastic

BY MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — For harried parents struggling to assemble plastic toys for Santa's pack the Prince Edward County museum this Christmas offers a glimpse of a turn-of-the-century toyland.

As a holiday greeting to all county residents museum curator James Gooding and his staff have prepared a special exhibit of all items donated in the past year. This display opened Dec. 15.

Among the donations is a two-storey doll's house built circa 1900 in 1918.

The cozy family home is hand-made and features gaily papered walls, small lights that operate and a chimney just right for Santa's upcoming visit.

Museum curator James Gooding says the doll's house is a favorite with children and adults alike and the grown-ups often spend long periods of time studying its hand-crafted furnishings.

A common observation is, "There's nothing made of plastic."

The doll's house was donated to the museum by Jeanne Mishinnick and a collection of old-fashioned children's toys is also on display through the courtesy of Mrs. Hamilton, James Musgrove and Elmer Young, all of Prince Edward County.

The toy chest includes a horse-drawn fire truck, a circus lion in a cage pulled by two white steeds, early model farm machinery and a touring car.

Mr. Gooding says the toys probably were owned by most youngsters in the early 1900's and many of them were hand-made.

In addition to the doll's house and the toy collection the museum's Christmas exhibit includes several high fashion outfits.

Among the clothing donated in the past year is a striking Paisley shawl contributed by Blanche Van Dusen of Tamworth, a former Prince Edward resident.

The special Christmas exhibit is on the second floor of the museum and a number of display items contributed during the past year have been integrated with ground floor displays.

In addition to the Christmas exhibit, community residents are invited to share a tour of the Macaulay House adjacent to the old church.

Pay Hike Tabled

TRENTON — Council here Monday tabled a motion to increase the salaries of the town's non-union management staff by 10 per cent for 1976.

Mayor Robert Patrick asked the council members present at the afternoon session to table the motion until Treasurer Brian Fagan, who was ill, can comment on how the Anti-Inflation Board guidelines would affect the raise.

The increase would raise the salary of town clerk Aubrey Sharp to $24,300; Deputy Clerk Arden Royce to $17,045; Commissioner of Public Works Arie Hoornweg to $21,636; public works foreman Charles Scaletta to $18,310; and tax collector Allan Weaver to $14,846.

Christmas Holds Special Meaning At Prince Edward Heights Centre

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff-Reporter

PICTON — Perhaps there is "no place like home for the holidays" but for mentally handicapped residents of the Prince Edward Heights here who must spend Christmas at the centre, festivities there hold special meaning.

Administrator Robert MacKenzie said that of the 433 residents housed by the provincial government facility for the mentally retarded a total of 111 has no next of kin or legal guardians.

Some residents may spend the holidays at home but many will remain at the complex to enjoy the festivities planned there.

"The main idea is to make Christmas Christmas," asserts Mr. MacKenzie who is greeted by residents in the halls with a cheerful "hi" or "hi, Mac".

"We try to make Christmas a religious time, not a hand-out time," he adds.

Of course, there is gift-giving at the centre with preparations beginning just before the holiday with shopping excursions.

Mr. MacKenzie says residents are encouraged to buy Christmas presents for friends and family in Picton stores or in shops visited during special bus trips to Belleville and Kingston.

The administrator adds that in addition to providing residents with pleasure the shopping trips offer experience in selecting gifts and spending money.

Residents also learn by gift-wrapping their purchases and preparing them for mailing.

The halls and recreation areas of Prince Edward Heights' buildings are decorated with colorful streamers, lighted trees and all the Christmas trimmings.

Christmas concerts also are planned and family and friends are invited to these pageants held near Christmas Day.

A highlight of the festivities is a tree trimming competition among the houses in the complex.

Mr. MacKenzie says on Christmas Day some staff members will take residents to their homes to share in family festivities.

Residents who remain at Prince Edward Heights join in a celebration similar to that of their friends who are spending the holiday elsewhere.

There is a Christmas dinner and, of course, a visit from Santa who brings gifts for all.

Special church services are held during the holiday and groups of carol singers from Picton and Prince Edward often visit to provide Christmas music.

This year members of the Prince Edward Heights workshop had reason to celebrate early when the float they entered in the Picton Santa Claus parade won the trophy for best community effort.

Kiwanians Meet

PICTON — The Picton Kiwanis Club will hold its next meeting Monday, Dec. 29 at Prince Edward Yacht Club at 6:15 p.m.

A light meal will be served during the discussion.

Museum Plans Open House

PICTON — An open house will be held at the Prince Edward County museum on Sunday, Dec. 28 from one to three p.m.

Seasonal music will provide the setting for a special display of new donations to the museum says curator James Gooding.

Students Raise $2,100

PICTON — Prince Edward Youth for the Mentally Retarded (PEYMR) this month donated a cheque for $2,100 to the Prince Edward Association for the Mentally Retarded.

The money was raised this year by Prince Edward Collegiate Institute students holding their annual walk-a-thon.

Cutting a Cool Figure

Trip to Toyland

Children and adults are invited to visit a special Christmas exhibit at the Prince Edward County museum this month where a hand-made doll's house and its turn-of-the-century furnishings are displayed. Museum curator James Gooding is adding the finishing touches to this annual exhibit where nothing is plastic.

Theatre Reopens

PICTON — The Regent Theatre, Picton's only movie house which closed about two years ago, will re-open on Boxing Day for a week's run of the film W.W. and The Dixie Dancer Kings.

Owner of the theatre, Miss Louise Cook of Picton, says the theatre will be open on weekends only during the month of January.

She added that she is reopening The Regent in response to public requests and noted that the theatre's stage also will be used for several live performances.

If there is sufficient community support the theatre will remain open for movies and live shows, she said.

Uncontrolled Inflation: Canada Should Take Heed of Drift in Argentina

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

In the 1930s, two countries in the western hemisphere were considered to be parallels to each other. They were Canada and Argentina.

And at that time, the comparison made sense both economically and demographically. Both were still developing nations, were still going on major wheat producers during the boom years of the twenties.

Population growth was about the same in both as was the verification away from the founding races. Spanish in the case of Argentina, English and French in our own.

Immigration from Italy in the 1930s, mainly to escape Fascism, often meant a decision between Canada and Argentina where earlier and still small Italian communities had been established.

Even today there are Italian families in Canada who keep in touch with family members who decided to settle in Argentina.

The 1930s also saw the growth in both countries of major roads, a nationwide railway system and stable central governments. Long after the phase of comparison had disappeared, Argentines were still saying that Canada was the country closest to them in physical shape and racial make-up.

This usually centred on the racial structure, calling their country "la mas blanco" that is, the most white. The largest white population in the western hemisphere except for Canada.

Between Argentina and our selves, a great difference arose the same as that between central Canada and Peking, and the same as the national communities of Latin America which have large Italian and Negro racial groups than white ones. Hence the historic and racist Argentine communist.

And then in 1930 Argentina drifted away from that pattern of similarity with ourselves. A military coup ended the long tradition of elected presidents.

The nation never recovered from this. In the early '40s successive military interventions resulted in the emergence of Juan Domingo Peron and his persuasion. A peculiar amalgament of the right with mixed elements of European Fascism and Marxism.

Peron and his second wife, Eva Duarte, divided Argentine society and the economy into a turmoil by pouring the country's wealth into massive welfare and social assistance programs, inflating wages without the productivity to go with salary increases.

When Peron was overthrown in 1955, he had created a permanent but aborted revolutionary movement with thousands of Argentines prepared to take a turn of a regime like his which would guarantee them jobs, pensions and a sense of destiny. Instead between that date and 1973 when Peron returned again, the time of his old man with his third wife, Isabel, Argentina had staggered under successive and inefficient civilian and military regimes.

And now with Peron dead, Isabel as president tries to cope with a nation disintegrating internally, wracked not only by left and rightwing terrorists, but by the old problem of skyhigh inflation which successive give-away doctrines had brought about.

Thus thinking especially of Argentina's staggering inflation rate of 335 a growth rate 16 times our present 19 per cent, proper and more destructive than the Canadian.

In this I see a lingering similarity between ourselves and Argentina. If we ever failed to control Canada's inflation it would reflects on our economy.

Kangaroo Court

Canadians are an apathetic lot. While all manner of alarming developments flare up at home and abroad, we pursue our unconcerned — and even docile — path toward an uncharted but potentially dangerous future.

Consider the postal strike. It's now history, but there is no guarantee it will not be repeated. And still there are disquieting events in its wake. Or in particular actions by the Canadian Union of Postal Workers that are highly questionable and contrary to any sense of fair play that might be claimed for Canada as a nation.

That is, the disciplinary measures which the CUPW has imposed on its Ottawa members who returned to work during the strike and any which are contemplated at the local level.

The Ottawa local has suspended 196 postal workers until they pay into its coffers the money they earned after crossing un ion picket lines during the strike. A total of 11 workers in Belleville and Brighton have been suspended from union activities, although they continue to pay union dues.

What a mockery of individual rights in a so-called democratic society. What a mockery of this traditional season of peace and goodwill. And the post office in Belleville, it may be noted, is displaying a large Christmas tree in its concourse. A Christmas tree and presumably, all that it signifies of Christian brotherhood, love and charity. Meanwhile the knives are being sharpened.

Citizens should be shocked, but will anyone do anything about it? We have had some appropriate comments from the public on matters of union policy of late — the reported ostracization of CUPW members who went back to work, for example. Is anyone else prepared to say what should be said? In the wake of these latest developments?

Union action taken, or about to be taken, against members exercising the rights of any indivdual in a true democracy may be regarded as something in the nature of the dictates of a kangaroo court.

These are matters which should concern everyone in this community — the "Friendly City," as it is called.

Are we living in a democracy? Or is the CUHW "dancing to the dirge of a distant drum," as a recent letter to the editor put it.

Are the rights of individuals being—compromised? Upon the answers to such questions may depend the future of democracy in this country. In the meantime, though, let these CUPW actions be seen for the injustices that they are. And let's hear it from an aroused public.

OLYMPIC RELAY

Minority House Has Worked Well In Some Ways, Badly in Others

By DON O'HEARN

Queen's Park Bureau

Thomson News Service

This made it more representative. And more vital.

There was a new stature for the opposition. This led to steps such as chairmen of committees being from the opposition parties.

And also, of course, and perhaps most important, it led to the opposition. This led to steps which could — and did — change things.

The minority house was bad, however, in that it meant the government didn't have the grip it should and perhaps could be reached for far.

Government has to administer legislation and programs and take the final responsibility for them.

In such a role it needs a decisive final word.

And in a minority it can be deprived of this.

An example was in the rent control legislation in which nominal houses were rushed into the act.

The government said such a control would mean a bureaucratic nightmare, and it is probably right.

But still it must try and administer this.

At the same time the premier and his followers did show a minority could stand up to an opposition, such as in the move for a provincial anti-inflation tribunal. They challenged the opposition parties to defeat them, and won.

Minority is a permanent feature would probably be hopeless. But a spell of it, 't would appear, can be good.

Some of the innovations introduced in this house probably will become permanent and make for better legislatures in the future.

TORONTO — And now we have had our first experience with minority government in 30 years.

The results?

Good and bad. But overall good.

Good in that it was quite a different house than what we have been accustomed to.

After years of Tory dominance, a dominance which inevitably had been turning to the autocratic, the house was one in which all parties had a say.

Growth of Annual Money Supply Worries Economists

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

This may be the season for merriment but it's more like the morning after for a government that's been on the widest spending spree ever.

It's clear that the prime minister is several years late in discovering the government's spending was contributing to super inflation, and that any anti-inflation measures would be useless unless Ottawa first set an example.

Let's give one rousing cheer, then, for a government that admits—even if only by implication—that it has become profligate, and promises to try to reform.

A reduction of just under $1.5-billion "in projected spending (not, let it be noted, in actual spending), when gross national product is running at an annual rate of $157.4-billion, may not seem big enough.

But it ought to be enough to give a sobering jolt to the big spenders in government—those empire-builders who equate power with the magnitude of their expenditures of public funds.

Opposition critics were quick to dismiss the government's spending restraints as a con game and a hoax.

And there does indeed appear to be some sleight-of-hand in a program that:

—Freezes the salaries of parliamentarians and senior public servants just after they have been partially increased.

—Forces Canadian National to borrow elsewhere.

—Estimates information Canada's $9.5-million annual budget, but arranges for other agencies and departments to share its $5-million payroll and its $2.5-million outlay for bookstores and exhibitions.

But a certain amount of subterfuge may be necessary in trusting not only an alcoholic but also an economy that's in increased danger of destroying itself on the intoxication of inflation.

It's regrettable, perhaps, that some potentially useful government services have to be sacrificed—information Canada, for example.

Yet in its five years of existence — and presumably — that agency apparently never was able to pull together and rationalize the outflow of government information to the communications media and the public.

As 1975 comes to an end, the prime minister and his colleagues have all to hold down public attention forcefully to the problem of inflation.

They have made a long-overdue start at impending some restraint on public spending.

And polls show that public opinion supports them unanimous, despite the loud and bitter attacks of those who want even greater inflation.

One of the most valuable features of the new program is that it forces all Canadians to look ahead two or three years to take a long-term view of inflation.

Our political leaders, for their part, will have to continue their anti-inflation attack on other fronts.

There's a good deal of concern among economists, for example, that the Bank of Canada's intention to let the money supply grow at an annual rate of 10 to 15 per cent is excessive, even though it is lower than 19 cent growth.

And the cabinet must be especially vigilant in ensuring that its spending restraints are in fact implemented by the bureaucracy which has been notorious for its ability to circumvent austerity programs in the past.

MPPs and Salary Boosts

The Globe and Mail

When elected tribunes of the people bring up the subject of salary increases for, ahem, themselves, it must be rather crow uncomfortable for them of New Democratic Party persuasion than other parties less outpoken — or fastidious about political service.

Thus, two NDP members of the Ontario Legislature, Michael Cassidy (Ottawa Centre) and Elie Martel (Sudbury East), have taken pains in their suggestion, that MPPs are due for a pay boost to show they are not motivated by greed. Instead, they have applied the logic that if workers elsewhere in the country can claim annual increases of 8 to 10 per cent under the anti-inflation guidelines, so should elected politicians.

MPPs, who have not had a raise for more than two years, are just like everybody else, say Mr. Martel and Mr. Cassidy. They and their families are feeling the ravages of inflation.

Ravages of inflation, perhaps. Ravages just like everybody else, bo-ho-bo.

MPPs in Ontario earn $22,500 a year. Unlike everybody else earning $22,500 a year, however, they pay income tax on only $15,000. The rest is labelled tax-free, non-accountable expense.

A rough calculation — and for arithmetic's ease we assume their MPP's salaries account for total family income — shows Mr. Cassidy (with three children) and Mr. Martel (with four children) each paying about $1,600 in income tax. Everybody else earning their salaries, but without the perk of $7,500 tax-free, would pay about $6,400 income tax.

Put another way, Mr. Cassidy and Mr. Martel take home about 15.5 per cent more from their income than persons earning the same amount with the same family responsibilities who hold a seat in the Legislature. Let Mr. Cassidy and Mr. Martel and their colleagues abolish the tax-free nature of that $7,500, and then they will be like everybody else.

Issue Of Canadian Content

Kitchener-Waterloo Record

This country is unique in its openness to the flow of cultural influences from one of the world's most aggressive modern cultures. As a result, unusual problems are created.

After about 20 years of controversy, on the issue a Canadian government is legislating to take away tax privileges from such so-called Canadian editions of foreign publications, but it is finding it difficult to determine how best to differentiate between the true and the illegitimate.

Partly because of the best-ditch fight being put up by publishers, it is necessary to set specific and definitive rules for publication for Canadian content. A lot of nonsense is being talked about this as a threat to press freedom, but it is unfortunate that pressure groups have arisen at all because they might have the appearance of censorship.

A Marina for Oshawa

Oshawa Times

The best news to come out of Oshawa harbor in years is that a marina will be built for pleasure craft. Ontario Cruise-marine will cost $1.7-million to build a marina which will eventually accommodate 400 sailboats and yachts. Initially the marina will cover the area used by Oshawa Yacht Club, a facility that has been defunct for selves found in years, they they got up at Oshawa's inhospitable dock.

In the plans announced by Harbour Commission Chairman William Selby, it was said that the coal piles, now lying beside Simcoe Street south of the harbor, are to be moved to the east side. This property is then to be converted into public open space to form a link with Lake View Park to the west.

The U.S. Navy has taken some fine, progressive steps in recent years—women pilots, longer hair, dormitories instead of barracks, sonobuoys to hear communists.

But in doing away with the traditional sailors' uniform, replacing it with the nondescript office-like garb that seems better suited for a Broadway theatre tickets than strolling the streets of exotic ports, the Navy has gone too far.

After a two-year transition period, "Navy" is supposed to be "Navy," as the service likes to call itself. Gone are the bell bottoms, the fast-button-fronted bell bottoms, the wide sailor's collar, jumpers with the distinctive and dashing scarf, and that famous white hat.

And what has the Navy gained for its attempt to cut costs? Nothing. Instead, it costs more, is harder to maintain, and is bereft of tradition. Not only that, while the traditional uniform could be folded and stored in a seabag, the new one requires more space and is prone to wrinkles.

And now with Peron dead, Isabel as president tries to cope with a nation disintegrating internally, wracked not only by left and rightwing terrorists, but by the old problem of sky-high inflation which successive give-away doctrines had brought about.

Thus thinking especially of Argentina's staggering inflation rate of 335 a growth rate 16 times our present 19 per cent, proper and more destructive than the Canadian.

In this I see a lingering similarity between ourselves and Argentina. If we ever failed to control Canada's inflation it would reflects on our economy.

Israel Ignores UN Council Meeting

JERUSALEM (Reuter) — Israel said Monday it will not attend next month's United Nations Security Council meeting to which representatives of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO) have been invited.

This was made clear to Alfred Atherton, the United States assistant state secretary for the Middle East, in separate meetings with Foreign Minister Yigal Allon and Premier Yitzhak Rabin.

Atherton, who came here after visiting key capitals in the Middle East, spent nearly two hours with Allon, Israeli officials said.

They said Atherton told Israeli leaders that the U.S. wants Israel to reconsider its decision not to attend the meeting in New York Jan. 12.

Details of the U.S.-Israeli strategy at the UN will be worked out during talks next week in Washington early in January, the source said.

Ratify Contract

COLLINGWOOD, Ont. (CP) — An agreement with 14 work employees has been ratified by the town, providing a 12½-per-cent pay increase retroactive to last May 14, it was announced today.

The employees, members of Local 1217 of the Canadian Union of Public Employees, staged a one-week strike Dec. 3 when no agreement was reached with town representatives and a provincial government mediator.

Fined $900

KINCARDINE, Ont. (CP) — Roger Wayne Saunders, 24, of nearby Tiverton was fined $900 in provincial court Monday after being convicted of three charges under the Aeronautics Act. He pleaded guilty to flying while under the influence of alcohol, flying at an altitude of less than 1,000 feet, and not recording a flight in the pilot's log book. Police received a complaint Nov. 2 that a light aircraft was flying at a low altitude over Tiverton. Saunders was arrested after landing the plane on a field near his home. The plane hit a utility pole during landing, damaging a wing. Kincardine is about 40 miles southwest of Owen Sound.

Back to Normal

NEW YORK (AP) — United Airlines, largest air carrier in the United States, began a return to normal operations Monday after mechanics' ended a two-week strike. The United mechanics ratified a three-year contract Sunday calling for increases in the base pay of mechanics from $7.64 to $10 a hour over the life of the contract.

Prognosis Good

SASKATOON (CP) — John and Olive Diefenbaker will be cutting short their Christmas vacation in Barbados following Mrs. Diefenbaker's slight stroke last week, officials in the former prime minister's Ottawa office said in a telephone interview Monday. A spokesman said the doctor's prognosis is good and Mrs. Diefenbaker is regaining the use of her left hand and leg.

Appendix Removed

TORONTO (CP) — Claude Bennett, Ontario's minister of industry and tourism, underwent an emergency appendectomy here Saturday. A spokesman for the ministry said the 39-year-old cabinet minister would be away from his office for about three weeks. Mr. Bennett, who underwent the operation for a ruptured appendix, is listed in satisfactory condition in Toronto General Hospital.

Ottawa Urged To Promote Dried Milk

OTTAWA (CP) — The food prices review board said Monday that governments and the dairy industry should mount an aggressive advertising campaign aimed at getting Canadians to use more powdered milk.

"Consumers generally have shown an amazing indifference to this unique food bargain," the board noted in a report on dairy prices.

It said reconstituted skim milk powder generally costs less than 20 cents a quart, less than half the price of any of the fluid milk products.

"The board urges all consumers truly concerned about food prices to recognize the very real cash savings to be made by using more skim milk powder."

"Recent figures indicate a sharp per capital decrease in 1973 in fluid milk consumption and a levelling off in the consumption of cheese," the board said.

A main reason was rising prices: The average retail price of a quart of milk rose to 37.6 cents in 1974 from 30 cents in 1971. Similarly, mild cheddar cheese went to $1.39 a pound from $1.01 over the same period.

Pollution Gets Worse

OTTAWA (CP) — After three years of improvement, urban air pollution worsened, on average, by almost six per cent across the country in 1974, the Economic Council of Canada says.

The increase, from 17.3 "impact units" a person to 18.3 units, was caused mainly by pollution from burning fuels, the council says in its 12th annual report released Monday.

The report, which did not define "impact units," showed the situation varied widely in readings taken in 11 centres.

It worsened by 59.9 per cent in Calgary but declined 39.3 per cent in Cornwall, Ont.

People Now Living Longer

OTTAWA (CP) — More people are dying in the prime of life but people in general are living longer than ever, says the Economic Council of Canada.

It does not give exact figures but estimates in its 12th annual report that prospects for long life have improved since 1971 when men could expect to live 71.4 years and women 77.2 years.

The report says the main contributing factor is a decline of nine per cent in deaths among infants during 1972 and 1973.

The decline was unusually large, it says. The decrease between 1951 and 1972 was four per cent.

There is no clear explanation for the decline "but it could be partly related to general improvements in the accessibility and delivery of health care."

At the same time, "prime age mortality" deaths among persons between 35 and 54, rose 1.7 per cent among men and 3.5 per cent among women between 1971 and 1972.

"A major factor . . . was a four-per-cent increase in the rate of mortality from neoplasms—cancer and related diseases."

Drastic Changes Foreseen By Local CAS Director

By Isabel Huggan

Adoption services in this area will be among those hardest hit by the provincial Government's directive limiting Children's Aid Society budgets to a maximum 5.5 per cent increase.

Bruce Kerr, director of the Family and Children's Services of Hastings County, predicts that the extent of the present adoption program will be decreased in order to bring the 1976 CAS budget down from its projected increase of 9.7 per cent.

The situation "is bound to be drastic," said Mr. Kerr on Monday.

"We'd still be placing to meet local needs, seeking for good homes for local children," he said. "But we'll be much less involved in bringing in children from other areas to meet parents' demands for children to adopt.

"The welfare of children in this area, remains our first concern.

"Our primary function is to protect neglected children, and this will remain untouched. But the budget limitation means that we'll be cutting right back to basic services."

Mr. Kerr also foresees a definite "variation in services to unwanted parents", as another way of limiting CAS expenditure.

"We'll simply have to carry a deficit next year," said Mr. Kerr, "in order to continue our services to children sent to our care by the courts. If we have the children to care for, we have to do what we can.

"I'd seriously question whether we'll be able to get municipal help, because city councils are in the same budget-cutting state we are. We can't make unreasonable demands."

Mr. Kerr said he is sympathetic to the premise of curtailment of spending in order to support governmental price restraint, "but if people are demanding more services from the Children's Aid, they'll have to be prepared to pay for them."

The 1976 budget was drawn up with the knowledge that budget cuts would be coming, he said. "That 9.7 per cent increase represents considerable realignment of services already."

As a result, reduction of valuable community services are inevitable as long as government limitations are imposed on the budget, even if the Children's Aid Society is willing to carry a deficit.

There are presently 145 children in CAS care, said Mr. Kerr, adding that the number of children is constantly fluctuating because of high turnover.

The CAS adoption department, a three-person department until staff departures in November, is currently operated solely by Margaret Bailie.

Budget Limitations 'CAS Catastrophe'

TORONTO (CP) — The welfare of disturbed and neglected children has been placed in jeopardy by the Ontario government's limitations of Children's Aid Society budgets, a society spokesman said Sunday.

Joseph Messner, chief of the Ottawa branch of the society, said in a telephone interview that the government's announcement last Thursday to limit budget increases to a maximum of 5.5 per cent amounts to an order to violate the Child Welfare Act.

After the announcement, Mr. Messner said he went over expenditures in an attempt to eliminate any programs that were "not essential to our function of providing care for children."

But he said he came to the conclusion that the society really needs a 25-per-cent increase over the 1975 budget of $7 million.

"We could use 50 per cent but children have been placed in jeopardy by the Ontario government absolutely get by on," he said.

Mr. Messner said his society's services are so strained that it cannot cope with the demands placed on it by the courts and other agencies.

"On Friday, a judge ordered a youth returned to our custody and we simply did not have a place for him in any of our group homes," he said. "That is how overstrained we are."

Bert Edwards, president of the Metropolitan Toronto branch of the society, said the restraints are a monumental catastrophe that will "destroy years of work."

And in Hamilton, John Finley of the society said the government ceiling might mean a delay in admitting children to care and a forced reduction in the number of social workers.

"We figure that with everything included, it costs about $18,000 a year to place one child in a group home," Mr. Finley said.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Harvey Bronson

Bronson — Chapman

Deborah Anne Chapman and Robert Harvey Bronson were married in November in Tabernacle United Church.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. James W. Chapman, Montrose Road; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Harvey Bronson.

Rev. Leslie Dean officiated at the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore a satin gown with lace inserts and lace collar, sleeves and cuffs. Her ensemble featured a full length two tiered veil. She wore American Beauty roses in her hair and carried them with white roses, in her cascade bouquet.

Anne Ethier was maid of honor in a blue satin gown with marble trim. Cheryl Chapman, Nancy Bronson and Gena Brubson also attended the bride in similar costumes.

Doug Preston was best man, assisted by ushers David Chapman, Dean Chapman and Scott Bronson.

A reception was held at the Four Seasons Hotel followed by a wedding trip to the East.

The couple resides in Belleville.

More Festive Meals Will Feature Goose

With the price of meat, turkey's no treat.

That's one reason why some Belleville householders will serve goose again this Christmas, believes Don Wilson.

Saturday, in Belleville's market, he delivered the last order of the season to a customer who'll have a goose cooked for Christmas.

Mr. Wilson of RR 2, Stirling, whose main occupation is keeping bees and selling honey, first tried selling geese on the market three years ago.

The first year, the dozen or so birds quickly sold out. Last Christmas he upped the numbers — and met the same firm demand.

This season he raised 60 geese — and says he got more orders than he has birds to meet them.

Like most everything else, the price of goose flesh has taken wing in recent years. Rising feed costs are a major inflation factor now. This Christmas he sold the birds for $1.50 a pound — up about 10 cents.

This compares to 68-98 cents a pound for turkeys advertised last week by Belleville supermarkets.

Mr. Wilson noted many of his customers this year were younger couples.

The reason, he believes, is that turkey — with rising food prices — is among the cheapest meats on the market. The bird that once was succulent centrepiece of the yule board, is now part of the common diet for many.

So by Christmas, many can be "tired of turkey. It's not a treat anymore," says Mr. Wilson.

The geese are raised from day-old goslings — and usually take about five months to raise for the Christmas market. By that time, the bird is sufficiently matured and fully-flavored, he says.

As to cooking: There's a popular conception that goose produces a heavy fat runoff in the oven. Mr. Wilson says it could be the particular species he raises, but he finds geese no more oily than other fowl.

But he has one tip: It should be cooked longer; goose can be tough. Allow 3½ to four hours for a 12-pound bird.

PEARL S. BUCK'S BOOK OF CHRISTMAS
—Prefaced by Lyle Kenyon Engel

About this time of year Christmas stories are in demand for programs and for home entertainment. Here is a rich and varied collection of thirty-nine Christmas stories by some of the world's greatest writers.

The idea for such a collection was born in the mind of that prolific American writer, Pearl Buck, while working with Lyle Engel on various projects. For a period of twelve years each time the two were together they would discuss their favorite Christmas stories and the question "How about this one?" would fly back and forth. At the time of Miss Buck's death in 1973 a great amount of material had accumulated, is now part of the common diet for many.

So by Christmas, many can be "tired of turkey. It's not a treat anymore," says Mr. Wilson.

QUEENSBORO UCW

For their December meeting Unit 2 of the Queensboro United Church women had a social evening on Monday night at the home of Roberta Ramsay, beginning with a potluck supper. This was followed by games and contests. There were 14 members present.

Grace O'Rourke was hostess for the meeting of Unit 1 at her home on Thursday afternoon. Goldie Holmes, unit leader, was in charge of the program which was on the Christmas theme. Several carols were sung.

After the close of the meeting the group visited the local Court home where they presented gifts to the children who are there at the present time.

They were taken on a tour of the home by Rose Badynski, after which lunch was served by the staff.

BGH AUXILIARY

Lillian Ashley and Barbara Neiles, members of the nominating committee, presented the following slate of officers which was accepted by the membership at a recent BGH Auxiliary meeting: Lillian Ashley, President; Selma Bochnek, president; Eunice Driscell, first vice-president; Molly Box, second vice-president; Eleanor Giroard, third vice-president; Pat Bools, treasurer; Shirley Mathies, recording secretary; and Jean McLeod, corresponding secretary.

Today's Child

By Helen Allen

JOHNNY

Johnny needs a mother and father.

That doesn't make him different from other children. A family setting is generally agreed to be the best simulation sphere for all youngsters up thrive in.

But two factors make Johnny's need unique.

There is a need for haste, because this laddie is ready to be discharged from hospital and he has nowhere to go. A foster home would be a possible answer, but the hope is that Johnny will show experience — from the ward where he is the darling of the staff to an adoption home where he will stay.

The second need has a more important basis.

To look at these round cheeks and that sturdy body you'd never suspect Johnny has a health problem that might make it hard to find parents for him.

He has cystic fibrosis, that serious, mysterious disease which affects one child out of 1,600. It attacks the lungs and digestive processes. There is no cure, but with prescribed medication and treatment it can be controlled and the child can be as active as other children.

Dedicated researchers, many of them in Canada, are constantly improving diagnostic methods and treatment. The life expectancy, which used to be limited, has been constantly rising so that doctors now do not mention an upper limit.

Apart from his CF, Johnny is a healthy boy. He had a colostomy as an infant because of a bowel stenosis but it was closed in May. He needs careful diagnosis as his little seat won't be sore, but there will be no problem when he is toilet trained. That has already started, though he is not quite two.

Johnny is a delightful child with a personality that wins all hearts. He's nice looking, too, with light brown hair, blue eyes and fair skin.

In the cystic fibrosis ward at the Crippled Children's Centre in Toronto where he has spent most of his short life, Johnny gets lots of loving from the staff. They will be sorry to part with him but they are anxious for him to have a mother and father of his own.

That staff, and doctors at the Hospital for Sick Children, have been asked to prepare Johnny with possible parents.

Johnny is bright and alert, interested in things going on around him though a bit easy in strange surroundings.

He likes other children but can be content to play alone.

He sleeps well, eats well and is making good progress in feeding himself.

Johnny likes to be cuddled, though he wants to choose his own time. If he's not in the mood, he just says: "No".

He makes no fuss at all over his treatments, which consist of three 20 minute periods a day of breathing through a special mask and three more 20 — minute periods of massage on back and chest to dislodge mucus in his lungs.

A most lovable child, Johnny will be a fine son to parents who will make sure he gets the care he must have but will still treat him as a normal child.

Eleven CF children have appeared in Today's Child. Ten have been adopted and there are possibilities for the 11th. I have no doubt dear small Johnny will be the 12th.

Johnny should have his family as soon possible for his own sake — and as his spot in the Centre can be given to a child who needs that kind of round-the-clock vigilant care.

The Children's Aid Society will consider offers of long — term foster homes, but much prefers an adoption home. Yours?

To inquire about adopting Johnny, please write to Today's Child, Ministry of Community and Social Services Box 298, Station K, Toronto M4P 2E5. In your letter tell something of your present family and your way of life.

With Johnny Today's Child ends till after the holiday season. In the festive weeks people are too busy to give the time and thought needed for such a lifechanging event as adopting a child. The column will resume after the party season.

Tourist Objects to Bringing Home 'Gifts'

Dear Ann Landers: It's a good thing you're out there so people can hide behind these letters and ask a question for me. I'm fuming.

Why in the heck do friends, when they learn you are taking a trip to a foreign country, say "Would you mind bringing me back a ..." Then they lay on some "small" request that requires a lot of time plus money which they expect you to put out for them.

Today I delivered a gift for a friend who asked me to pick up something in Paris. I was shocked when she said, "Thanks"—and mentioned not one word about the money I laid out. What's more I had to mail the gift home (at my own expense) because I had too much to carry.

This same friend would never ask me to pick up something from a local department store and pay for it myself. Do people think gifts in foreign countries are free? I'd like your thoughts on this, Ann Landers. —Ita Ifadd

Dear Ita: Did you leave your vocal chords overseas along with your brains? Why didn't you spend to her "thank you" by telling her what the gift cost and then handing her the receipt?

Wipe the egg off your face, lady, and admit that your gullibleness made you the perfect victim.

Dear Ann Landers: Lots of advice has been written about how to make the best impression when going for a job interview, but I've never seen any on's and Don'ts for the person conducting the interview. Maybe it's a touchy subject, but I ask you to pass on this information to other employers.

DO tell the people you are interviewing that if they haven't heard from you by a certain date (be specific) they can assume someone else got the job. Lives and careers have been changed because potential employees didn't know how long to wait for your call.

DON'T tell everyone you interview that you will "let them know" when you have no intention of calling the applicants who didn't make it.

DON'T say anything remotely discouraging when you know from their qualifications they don't stand a chance.

DO extend common courtesy and thank the applicant for coming. Perhaps the person you want to hire is measuring your organization against another one and YOUR good manners will impress HIM.—Wern Beth Palm Of Shoes.

Dear Shoes: Here's your letter and it's a good one. So far as I know I've never seen any helpful hints for the person on the OTHER side of the desk. Thank you for writing.

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column in a Michigan newspaper. You suggested to a guy who gave his girl a pair of white mice (sic) ended up with 130 furry creatures) that he should have given her a couple of brushes.

Wrong! Two male mice in a cage are brutal. Nature conditions mice to mark off, protect and fight for home areas. Better you should have suggested a couple of sisters.—M. L. F.

Tartan History Shows Origin Isn't Scottish!

LONDON (CP) — Though almost everyone associates tartans with the clans of Scotland, they in fact arise from a more general European tradition, the cloth design, says E. S. Harrison, who has studied their history.

"The great variety of designs in the Scottish tartans indicates an early link with mainland Europe," he said in his interview. "The French have Aquitaine and used them in Brittany, and yet by some trick of nature then these intricate designs have found a resting place in Scotland.

"Most Scots mistakenly think that these beautiful cloths were truly a Scottish inspiration."

In 1724, Gen. George Wade, an Englishman, was sent to Scotland to restore law and order. Wade was the man who put beetle in the Scots and his idea was just to keep them in check. He started by building roads and bridges so that he could effectively control the terrain.

"In order to look after what was called the Highland Line, and thus that separating the wild country of the Highlands from the cultivated Lowlands—he recruited a force of military reserves," said Harrison. "These were Scottish troops divided into six companies, well commanded by a colonel of known loyalty to the government.

"The colonels, among other duties, had to clothe their men and naturally they chose their own tartans. For a few years the companies were thus clad, but it soon became clear that these men in their varied tartans were not distinctive enough. So Wade sent out an order that they must all wear 'a dark tartan' and must all be clothed in the same colors. In this way the idea of uniforms was introduced.

"The dark design chosen for the soldier-engineers rapidly earned them the name of the Black Watch or (less commonly) the Black Guard. That was in 1727.

"The adoption of a fixed pattern for these guards set a precedent for the whole of the army in Scotland with companies adopting their own designs." Harrison said there are no records of how these patterns were selected but in the Black Watch itself there are records of how the choice was made.

The dark tartan of the Black Watch soon became well known through the fame that the regiment achieved in many battlefields.

In more recent times many clans and chieftains took the dark ground of the Black Watch and placed to it various brightly colored checks.

The Murrays added three red lines; the Mackenzies of Seaforth, two white and one red; the Gordons, a single yellow line; the Forbes, a single line.

The Macklaskys had one red line and the Farquharsons alternate red and yellow. The Macleods of Skye follow the Macleod design with yellow for white; the Chiefs of Campbell also yellow and white, but not grouped; and lastly, the Sutherland Tartan is the Black Watch in lighter colors.

"So although these tartans are not ancient, they are totally genuine," said Harrison. "Anyone may adopt any design or coloring he likes and these tartans are neither more nor less 'genuine' than the new tartans that have been designed for, say, the provinces of Canada."

He added that present-day Scottish tartans are exceptional in being European costume cloths, most of which are used only narrowly for national accoutrements for peasant costumes and do not touch the fashion trade of the world.

"The tartans are exceptional in their great variety, their confusing adaptability and their international popularity," he said.

Deep-sea Trawlers Disappearing

BUCHANS, Nfld. (CP) — The age of the conventional side trawlers seems to be ending in Newfoundland's deep-sea fishery.

Just as the sail-fishing dory-builders of Nfld. long were replaced 20 or 30 years ago by draggers, the conventional side trawler has been replaced by the more modern and sophisticated stern trawlers with all their modern equipment.

Today around the Burin Peninsula it is almost impossible to get crews for side trawlers and at Burin, Grand Bank, and Fortune several side trawlers are being dismantled.

The hulls of these ships are rusted and ready for scrapping or to be taken to sea and sent to the bottom.

At some ports side trawlers continue to operate but only until their owners can replace them with new stern trawlers.

Apart from having more speed and being better sea boats, the stern trawlers offer better food and accommodations. Young men are find, deep-sea fishing an attractive way of life because of these conveniences and the guaranteed incomes that accompany jobs as fishermen today.

Plans Expansion

SEATTLE (AP) — The P-Patch program began three years ago when a group had the idea of using the abandoned section of an old truck farm as a public pea patch. Last year, P-Patches expanded to 12 sites and plans call for expansion to 13 sites. The gardens cover more than eight acres.

Hall Being Built

ROCHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — A new student recital hall, seating 70, is under construction in the Eastman School of Music here. The hall will be named Howard Hanson Recital Hall, honoring the composer and retired director of the school. In 1944, Hanson won the Pulitzer Prize for his Symphony No. 4.

Peace River Called Last Pioneer Frontier

PEACE RIVER, Alta. (CP) — Thorvald and Coleen Adolfson are pioneers, homesteading three quarters of a section about 20 miles north of Peace River.

"This seems to be about the last frontier left in the world," said Coleen.

Like the pioneers who opened up the central region of the province 60 or 70 years ago, the Adolfsons have taken on the job of turning a wilderness area into productive land.

The technology of homesteading has changed but the basic task still is the same—to clear the trees and brush from the land, burn it, pick off the roots, break the new soil and seed a crop.

The Adolfsons hire a crawler tractor to do the initial clearing. Roots left behind are picked off the ground by machine, but some are missed and have to be picked by hand.

Once the land is cleared, the soil is turned over for the first time with a breaking plow pulled by a tractor.

The increased use of machinery has significantly reduced the back-breaking labor that once went into homesteading but it has increased the costs. The Adolfsons estimate that bringing their land into cultivation has cost them about $75 an acre.

Because of the expense of present-day homesteading, land no longer is given out as freely as it was in the past.

Every applicant for a homestead is screened by a provincial committee. Preference is given to people who have a knowledge of farming and some capital or skill that will bring in an outside income to cover the costs of getting established.

Mr. Adolfson has worked on farms, both in his native Denmark and in Alberta, and is a skilled truck driver with a good part-time income.

After being granted the right to homestead seven years ago, the Adolfsons spent most of their time working in Peace River.

"If you don't work, you don't eat," Mr. Adolfson said.

They put most of the money they earned into the homestead. Every weekend and holiday they came out to the homestead to do the farm work, which they shared equally.

"Whenever one of us got tired of driving the tractor the other would just take over," Mrs. Adolfson said.

So far, they have managed to fulfil government requirements to clear 10 acres of land every year on each quarter-section. They cleared only two acres in their first year, 2c in their second. Now, they have 130 acres cleared and are picking roots on 50.

To anyone who thinks that homesteading in 1975 is easy, Mrs. Adolfson said, "It's a mistaken conception."

"People think it's only a matter of finding the land and you're away."

"It's a tough go, you know," Mr. Adolfson said. "We went without a lot. Last year we had our first holiday in eight years."

Now things are looking up. They made their permanent move on to the homestead last summer.

A new house they moved on to their land is small, but comfortable. They even enjoy the luxury of having electricity and natural gas. A road has been built to replace a wagon trail and there is good access to the farm.

They will still have to work hard over the winter but, Mr. Adolfson said, "I feel that in four years I'll be able to stay on the farm."

The Adolfsons are laying plans for their new life on the homestead. Coleen is learning to be self-sufficient in the preparation of food, even to the extent of making her own soda crackers. Thor is looking forward to acquiring a cow, pigs, chickens and geese in the spring.

The Adolfsons have no regrets.

"I'd do it again," Thorvald said. "It's a real challenge."

Ontario RENT REVIEW

IMPORTANT NOTICE

If you have entered into a new lease or tenancy agreement which became effective between July 30 and December 31, 1975, inclusive, you should know about two key provisions contained in Ontario's new Residential Premises Rent Review Act. The maximum rent increase for such agreements cannot exceed eight per cent of the last full month's rent charged prior to August 1, 1975, unless the landlord obtains the approval of a rent review officer or the landlord and tenant agree on a higher rate of rent.

Should a landlord and tenant wish to agree on an increase in rent above the eight per cent guideline, during the period July 30 to December 31, 1975, they must complete a rent increase agreement, substantially in the form below, no later than January 19, 1976. Copies of such agreements should be retained by both parties. The form below, or a copy of it, may be used.

If, after having signed such a rent increase agreement, the tenant wishes to revoke the agreement, the tenant may do so within 30 days of the date of the agreement by completing a statement of revocation similar to the one at the bottom of the form below.

By signing a rent increase agreement, the tenant waives the right to dispute the increase in rent agreed upon during the above period and waives the right to collect a rebate of rent as provided for in the act other than the amount of rebate, if any, stated in the agreement.

Such a rent increase agreement does not apply to the rental rate for any period after December 31, 1975, and does not constitute a waiver of the tenant's right to appeal the amount of rent charged after that date. Nor does it relieve the landlord of his obligation to obtain the approval of a rent review officer to change rent after that date that is more than eight per cent in excess of the rent charged in the last full month the premises were rented prior to August 1, 1975.

Future advertisements will outline where literature is available on Rent Review, the location of offices as they are opened and where forms will be available. Until the Rent Review mechanism is in place, please do not telephone. For additional copies of this form, write to Rent Review, Box 580, Postal Station F, Toronto, M4Y 2L8.

Ontario Motor League Eastern Ontario Club

By ISABEL FULLER

QUESTION: We are motoring to Mexico in February and would like to visit some of the most interesting cities. Will you name a few and give us a brief description and also the climate we can expect at this time of year.

Mr. M.K.
Kingston.

ANSWER: Mexico for the tourist has two quite different personalities. One is found on the sophisticated, urbanite west coast. The other is Mexico as it really is and hopefully always will be. Most of us need a gradual exposure to the real Mexico through the cosmopolitan centres like Mexico City and Acapulco.

Mexico's fare of enchantment, mystery, culture and gaiety can be a pretty heady diet for the newcomer.

Acapulco is one of the major spas of the world. Great mountains slide down to the sea, rendering vistas that are awe-inspiring. Splendid hotels dot the beaches and wild nightlife matches the action anywhere. The people are the beautiful ones: the Hollywood set, the Jet Set, the moneyed set and just plain people rub suntanned elbows at parties that never stop.

Mexico City with a population of 7,000,000 is a big sprawling city. But also one of the world's great cities. The Mexicans have brought off a superb blend of Modern, Spanish, Colonial, and Pre-Columbian architecture. Whatever your interests are: art, archaeology, anthropology or folklore — Mexico City has them all. The Museum of Anthropology is beyond comparison and almost beyond description. Don't miss it. And if you want a new and beautiful experience, go after ten in the evening to Garabaldi Square to hear the Mariachi bands.

The Yucatan Peninsula on the east coast of the Gulf of Mexico is one of the most fascinating parts of the country to visit. Mexico is a product of Spanish and Indian culture. Ruins of pyramids and richly ornamented temples are of great interest to tourists and especially archeologists.

Guadalajara is Mexico's second largest and loveliest city where you'll find large numbers of retired Canadians and Americans. It is about 400 miles west of Mexico City.

San Miguel de Allende is 180 miles northwest of Mexico City, and is one of Mexico's major art centres. It is a drowsy little town very popular with artists and writers where donkeys still rattle across the cobblestones. Church bells ring out as they did more than 400 years ago after Juan de San Miguel, a Franciscan Monk founded the town. For visitors the main attraction is the Institution weaving, photography, ceramics and art. Living is very inexpensive here. Servants are very reasonable also.

Manzanillo and Mazatlan are popular, quiet resorts on the Pacific coast, north of Acapulco, with excellent sandy beaches and good fishing and swimming.

Taxco is 95 miles south of Mexico City and built on a mountain filled with silver, each shop is like an Aladdin's Cave, glinting with treasure.

These are the main places of interest in Mexico but there are many more. The temperature in February should be lovely. Mexico City, at 7,000 feet above sea level, is usually in the seventies during the day, summer and winter. It is about 20 degrees cooler at night. Acapulco has about the best winter resort climate in the world with sun shining almost every day and with average temperatures 78 degrees in February.

Kingston to Mexico City is 2,840 miles.

Workers Want Pension Upgraded

TRENTON — Municipal outdoor workers have asked the town to subsidize their employee pension fund to increase retirement benefits and if council agrees it will cost Trenton about $18,000 to implement the program, said Douglas Lindsay, a spokesman for the group.

Mr. Lindsay said Monday there is no union representation on the clause and if council does not begin work on it the union will either go on strike or go to arbitration.

Mr. Lindsay made the statement after leaving council where he told councillors the union will have to file a grievance on the matter but that this is "strictly a technicality."

Last week the outdoor workers presented their 1976 contract demands to council asking for a pension upgrade for the 23 member public works department staff.

Mr. Lindsay, a labour representative for the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) which represents the outdoor workers, approached council during Monday's session and asked the group to begin discussions on a clause in the 1975 contract which the union interprets to mean the town must raise the employees retirement benefits to the maximum allowed by 25 years.

Aubrey Sharp, Trenton clerk-administrator, told council he did not feel the town is obliged to implement pension upgrading.

Currently, an outdoor worker receives 22 per cent of his average salary after 25 years. The union wants to increase this to 70 per cent after 25 years with the figure based on his five highest-paid years.

The town and the workers currently contribute four-and-a-half per cent to finance the retirement fund but if the new plan is accepted, the town will have to pay another five per cent to upgrade the benefits in addition to the $18,000 payment while the employees continue to pay four-and-a-half per cent.

Committee to Attack Juvenile Delinquency

BY SUSAN McCONNELL
Staff Reporter

The results of a report by a subcommittee of the United Community Services (UCS) social planning committee has spurred the formation of an ad hoc committee to deal with the problems of juvenile delinquency here.

The Committee to Investigate Adolescent Services (CIAS) provided the stepping stone for a second committee — Committee for the Prevention of Juvenile Delinquency (CPJD), headed by Don Morgan. The committee will work independently from the UCS.

Susan Craig Bernstien, chairman of CIAS said Monday the CPJD has been promised a $12,000 grant from the ministry of correctional services to organize such a service in Belleville.

The second committee will act on a suggestion from the report to set up an institute for the prevention of healthy young people."

Mr. Bernstien said the grant will finance the formation of a three-tiered program: Community neighborhood assessment and development, community organization and primary preventative programs.

The CIAS pointed to December 31 as a deadline for target areas for the prevention of juvenile delinquency.

The report researched in October, concluded that the number of beds available for temporary housing for young people in trouble did not "begin to meet the needs of the community."

The needs of the community were determined by a survey circulated by the CIAS among public services, schools and probation and after care units in Trenton and Belleville.

The CIAS determined the type of facilities necessary that could have been utilized by these social services.

The survey showed:

Twenty-eight adolescents could have been placed under supervision in group home facilities in the rural area while 42 could have used minimum supervision in the same facilities;

Thirty-six adolescents could have used minimum supervision in the urban area while 18 needed maximum supervision;

In-patient psychiatric setting could have been used by 12;

A psycho-social assessment centre could have been utilized by 42 cases and a private boarding house by 29 cases with 12 adolescents referred to a halfway house.

The focus is on prevention.

"Help prevent the problems that create the need," the report states.

"It's like treating a wound and not taking the glass off the street", Mr. Bernstein said.

The CIAS surveyed other community facilities provided for adolescents including a three-phase system in Oakville-the Youth Program Incorporated.

The committee originally recommended the UCS set up an institute to deal with the prevention and treatment of problems affecting young people and their families.

The project will be called Youth Action Incorporated.

Seniors Gather

Senior citizens of Fairview Towers, 347 Bridge St., west, held their first Christmas dinner recently with more than 75 residents in attendance. The turkey dinner was prepared by the women of Fairview Towers, who raised funds through a bake sale and bazaar earlier.

Cubs Face Off

The Cosom Hockey Tournament — an annual tournament for cubs and scouts to put their skills to test will be held Jan. 3 from 8.30 a.m. until 5 p.m. at Quinte Secondary School. Trophies and ribbons will be awarded to the top scout and cub teams.

Honorarium On Agenda

The Hastings County Board of Education will meet Jan. 5 to re-open the honorarium increase issue in early January.

The board went behind closed doors in early December and by 8-4 recorded vote approved a $30 honorarium increase for themselves, to $320 from $290. The board's maximum honorarium is $400 due to its student enrolment.

Trustee Richard Williams gave a notice of motion the day night to re-open the subject. However, a majority vote is needed at the next meeting in order to put the question back on the floor. The board has come under criticism since their decision. The increase was about 16 per cent.

Scouting Uniforms Hard to Buy

Mothers of scouts in Belleville and Trenton are having a hard time dressing their youngsters in the required uniforms for scout meetings.

Ken Bartlett, president of the Belleville District Council of the Boy Scouts of Canada, said Monday it is virtually impossible to buy scouting supplies anywhere locally.

Former agents — Walters in Belleville and Jack Frasers in Trenton — completed their contracts the end of November.

Mr. Bartlett said the council has unsuccessfully tried to interest local merchants in selling the uniforms.

The supplies come from the national headquarters for scouts in Ottawa.

Mr. Bartlett blamed inflation as the instigator. "It's like everything else today," he said. "Merchants think the costs will be higher next year."

In a report published in the District Flash — scout newsletter — Mr. Bartlett said merchants' reluctance has its origin in the high cost of sales in this inflationary time.

He said the lack of interested merchants is a national problem.

Mr. Bartlett said the alternative is to buy the scout supplies directly from Ottawa — a process that takes five or six days — or purchase supplies in larger centres.

Remand Date Set

Leland Herbert Diamond, 21 of no fixed address and a former Belleville area resident, was remanded by Judge J. L. Chamberlain in provincial court here Monday to Jan. 5 to have a date set for trial on a charge of break, enter and theft.

Diamond appeared in court by the Crown after he was in custody at the Quinte Regional Detention Centre (QRDC) at Napanee.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville say Diamond, as well as others being held at QRDC, who appeared in court Monday will be automatically remanded for one week by a justice of the peace at QRDC Dec. 26.

A person ordered detained during provincial court proceedings must be remanded every eight days. Regular court business does not resume until Jan. 5. There are income tax proceedings scheduled for the first three days of next week.

Police say Diamond's charge resulted from an incident at Cook Motors in Shannonville Dec. 14 during which about $100 in cash and a quantity of cigarettes were stolen.

Arbitrator Remains Silent

Provincial arbitrator Thomas McIver has returned to Toronto giving no hint as to when he will hand down a decision on the feud between Belleville City Council and Local 667 of the Ontario Professional Firefighters' Association (OPFA) here regarding the re-establishment of a firefighting position.

Mr. McIver, a Toronto lawyer and lecturer in law at the University of Toronto, heard evidence and arguments from both sides Monday in a 3½-hour hearing at the Four Seasons Hotel.

Council refused to replace a fireman who retired in March and the firemen sought arbitration as the means to overturn that decision and return number of firefighters to 44 men.

Smiling Faces

Bonnie Pym, student at Centennial Secondary School and member of the Interact Club for students gave out bottles of pop Monday to Belleville Rotary Club Christmas party for members' children. The Interact Club, sponsored by the Rotary Club, has entertained at four Christmas parties.

School Board Takes Action To Ease Space Problem

The Hastings County Board of Education Monday night alleviated its serious accommodation problems by approving the rental of two portable classrooms for the Stirling Elementary School and the North Hastings Senior Elementary School but its short-term problems are far from being resolved.

The board also approved the allocation of one portable in the system to Bayside Elementary School to help ease this school's serious accommodation problem.

The board's space problem is two-fold. First the board has experienced dramatic growth in some areas of the county such as Sidney Township and secondly, the ministry of education has cut off capital spending which means there can be no new schools constructed.

Director of education Eric Runacres outlined in detail the board's options for making further accommodations. He said the use of portables is the most inexpensive but that some schools can not accommodate them due to poor core facilities.

Among the other alternatives Mr. Runacres said the board could re-activate some of its now-defunct school buildings to provide immediate relief for the troubled areas.

He also said the board may have to consider increasing its class size.

Mr. Runacres suggested renting facilities which could become expensive with current rental rates. Another alternative deals with eliminating special education classes and integrating these students into the regular classes. Mr. Runacres also suggested that the board could place some of the schools in shifts to free up classroom space.

Even Pets Remembered Christmas Morning

By SUSAN McCONNELL
Staff Reporter

Looking for something special this year for Christmas? Owners of local pet shops suggest a live present.

Melva Calles, manager of Fish 'n Critters at Belleville Plaza said puppies are always a popular gift at Christmas, especially for children.

Mrs. Calles said the busiest time at her shop is Christmas Eve when animal owners stop in select a last-minute gift for their pet.

"People buy gifts for their pets; as well as their family and friends," she said.

Most pet shops stock candy treats, grooming aids, aquariums, dog baskets and even knit sweaters for small dogs.

Gifts range from under $1 to $170. Unless you want to purchase an exotic bird from the Tropical Garden Pet Shop.

Located in downtown Belleville, the shop sells exotic tropical birds valued at $300 each.

Manager Sandra Dainard said about 14 of the birds have been sold recently.

But if tropical birds aren't exactly what you are looking for the shop stocks aquarium starter kits.

Dogs and cats are always available at the Quinte branch of the Ontario Humane Society.

Director Harry Brown urged that people make their selection early.

Donations of $10 per dog and no more than $5 per cat are requested.

Gifts for Pets

Local pet owners have a large selection of gifts available for pets of all kinds. Shop owners suggest pets as unique gifts. Shoppers are urged to make their selection early. The Quinte branch of the Ontario Humane Society also has a large selection of dogs and cats available for adoption.

Paint Contractor May Have Key to Ending Energy Crisis

BY ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

A 36-year-old paint contractor from Stoney Creek, Ont., who escaped from his native Bulgaria in 1964, has invented a device based on a simple, mechanical principle which, he feels, might solve the world's energy crisis.

Dimitar Dosev, known to his friends as Jack, says he has developed a means by which he can increase the horse power of a small motor to deliver over 20 times work output without increasing the motor's fuel consumption.

His blueprints and other related documents are currently in the hands of a patent lawyer and he is now expects final patent approval within 2 years. His invention now is registered with the patent office and eventually he eyes he intends to secure a worldwide patent.

Dosev says he chose the Belleville area to construct a working model and conduct experiments due to its sparse population spread.

He said he feared his secret might have been discovered if he began work at his home in densely-populated, western Ontario.

Dosev has been aided in his venture by Donald M. Kurpik of RR 5, Belleville, a community services officer with the Belleville detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

The inventor plans to marry Constable Kurpik's sister, Dinka, on Jan. 1 and provincial police officer says he was only too happy to help his future in-law the charge at his country home.

"The possibilities of the future application of this device are immense," said Constable Kurpik following a December demonstration at his home.

Dosev mounted a motorcycle with a 100 cc motor on the front of a 4-ton pickup truck. He removed the truck's motor and replaced it with his device which he connected to the truck's transmission.

The motorcycle motor can provide only from 8-10 horsepower which Dosev notes is insufficient to move the truck on its own.

But with his device hooked up, the motor travel not only the truck but a heavy, luxury automobile being towed behind.

Dosev says his device increased the motorcycle motor's output to between 200-300 horsepower at the connection to the driveshaft of the truck without added stress to the motor.

The motor powered the truck for between 10-12 feet before Dosev's crude materials gave out under the strain.

He points out he could not use refined materials and could not secure assistance from expert mechanics because he was afraid someone might steal his idea.

Another observer to the demonstration was Constable Brian Turner, Constable Kurpik's fellow community services officer from Belleville.

"I wouldn't have believed it," Constable Turner commented. "What I saw was very crude, but with refinement, the application boggles the mind."

Dosev, an instructor in heavy machinery in Bulgaria, has worked on his model at Kurpik residence for the past seven weekends.

He discussed his operation after the demonstration and says he now wants to find someone to back him financially so he can refine his model.

He says he mailed over the idea for three years, always believing the method would not be workable, until his friends convinced him to attempt it.

Dosev says his main purpose is to apply his invention to an electric motorized vehicle. He points out current models of electric cars have failed because constant battery recharging has prevented them from reaching desired speeds and distances.

But he says with his device installed, the batteries would not be drained as quickly and the system would be largely self-generating.

Dosev says he hopes his device, when refined, will be applicable not only to the entire transportation industry, but to the manufacturing industry as well.

Dosev says that, naturally, he cannot divulge even basic details of his invention until the patent is issued.

But he says the principle is as simple that anyone with even a half-inventive mind could construct a similar device with knowledge of just the simplest details.

Suspect Remanded

Rodney Cameron Reid, 19, of 48 Main St. in Foxboro was remanded by Judge J. L. Clendenning in provincial court here Monday to Feb. 24 for trial on charges of possession of a weapon dangerous to the public peace and mischief damage over $50.

Reid appeared in court to have a date set for trial.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville say the charges resulted from an incident at Loyalist College Nov. 13 during a Keg and Barrel Night sponsored by the Students' Association of Loyalist College (SALC).

Police say earlier in the event, SALC's security force was forced to eject a man who was creating a disturbance.

Police say the man attempted to return to the dance, and displayed a knife.

Future Fuel Saver?

Dimitar Dosev demonstrates crude model of his fuel-saving invention. Dosev connected his new device, between an 8-10 horsepower motorcycle and the truck transmission to move the truck and a heavy car being towed behind about 10-12 feet at residence of Constable Donald Kurpik, Belleville OPP officer at RR 5, Belleville.

Warrant Issued

A warrant has been issued for the arrest of Libby Pasquali of 205 Bates St. in Midland, Ont. who did not appear in provincial court here Monday as scheduled on the first item on a charge of theft over $200.

She had been free on an undertaking to appear and to keep the peace to appear in court.

Police say she faces the charge resulted from a shoplifting incident here Dec. 11 at the Woodley Furriers at 273 Front St. observed a woman walk behind a rack of coats in his store.

Police say when the woman headed toward the door Woodley thought he saw something over her arm and followed her south on Front St., where he apprehended her and recovered a mink coat valued at $1,400.

Lou Marsh Trophy For Bobby Clarke

TORONTO (CP) — Bobby Clarke, captain of the Stanley Cup champion Philadelphia Flyers, is the 1975 winner of the Lou Marsh Trophy as Canada's outstanding athlete.

The award, in memory of the late Lou Marsh, a former sports editor of The Star, is presented annually to a Canadian athlete — male or female, professional or amateur.

Clarke, 36, was given the nod over skiers Ken Read of Calgary and Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, Ont., who produced World Cup gold medals in men's downhill skiing late in the year.

Clarke of Flin Flon, Man., sparked the Flyers to two straight National Hockey League championships and was named the league's most valuable player last season. Last week, he was voted Canada's male athlete of the year in a poll of sports editors and broadcasters by the Canadian Press.

Lindsay Lancers Swamp Terriers

LINDSAY, Ont. (CP) — Lindsay Lancers scored four goals in the second and third periods to defeat Orillia Terriers 9-1 Monday in the only Ontario Hockey Association Senior A game.

Lindsay led 1-0 at the end of the first period, then broke loose for two four-goal periods.

George Cornell, Bob Taylor and Bob Rivard each had two goals for the Lancers. Single goals came from Don Nicholson, Rick Purdy and Paul Grillis.

Stan Cross scored the Orillia goal at 2:29 of the final period.

About 400 spectators were on hand to watch Bruce Jackson make 29 saves in the Lindsay net. John Traicos made 41 stops for Orillia

Orillia is at Barrie on Friday.

Maroons Squeeze Out 5-4 Victory

HAMILTON (CP) — A third-period power-play goal by defenceman Glen O'Neil gave Chatham Maroons a 5-4 win over Mount Hamilton A's Monday in the only scheduled Southern Ontario Junior Hockey League game.

Bob Smillity scored twice for the winners, with Guy Lach apollo and Rick Nelson scoring one goal each.

A crowd of 407 spectators watched Chatham outshoot Hamilton 40-28.

The teams were tied 3-3 after the opening period and 4-4 going into the third.

The next league action is scheduled for Friday, with Owen Sound at Hamilton and Guelph visiting Niagara Falls.

Ian's Celebration Lifts Leafs

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Ian Turnbull gave himself a birthday present Monday night.

The Toronto defenceman celebrated his 22nd birthday by blasting a slap shot past Los Angeles goalie Rogie Vachon late in the third period to give the Maple Leafs a 4-3 win over the Kings in a National Hockey League game.

The goal, only the sixth of the year for Turnbull, was set up by defensive standouts Borje Salming and Jack Hammarstrom, who ended a 26-game scoring drought with his eighth goal of the season.

Errol Thompson and Stan Weir were the other scorers for the Leafs, who moved seven points in front of the last-place California Golden Seals in the Adams Division standings. Don Kozak scored twice and Sheldon Kaneglosser once for the Kings.

In Monday's only other major league game, New England Whalers downed Cleveland Crusaders at the World Hockey Association 4-1.

McDonald, who has been out with a shoulder injury, and Boutette, who was cut during Monday's game, should be ready to play in the Leafs next game this weekend.

McKenny, who had been a defenceman until Roc Ellis retired just before the season opened, will be out for two months with torn knee ligaments.

Hammarstrom was hopeful after the game that his goal and the assist on Turnbull's winning goal would get him back on track.

Vachon, who blocked 36 Toronto shots, said his teammates were having trouble finding the range on Leaf goalie Wayne Thomas, who had 38 saves.

Cleveland coach John Wilson said there was "no excuse for what went on out there" in the Crusaders loss before a home crowd of only 3,243 fans.

Tom Webster scored three times to lift the Whalers into a first-place tie with Cincinnati Stingers in the WHA's Eastern Division.

"That was minor league play out there tonight," Wilson said after the Crusaders dropped their 12th game in 15 starts.

Wilson said the Crusaders gave away the game with mistakes — "dreadful mistakes — that's been the problem, with this club all along."

"You have to be creative out there," he said. "We've got some good hockey players, but you wonder if it's the right blend."

The Stingers and Calgary Cowboys used the day off to make player changes, the Stingers dropping goalie Serge Aubry and the Cowboys signing 6-year-old defenceman Harry Howell, who was player-coach of San Diego Mariners last season.

Tonight's WHA schedule has Minnesota Fighting Saints at Denver Nuggets, Phoenix Roadrunners at Cincinnati, Quebec Nordiques at San Diego, Toronto at Calgary and Winnipeg Jets at Edmonton Oilers.

Royals' Leader Busy

TORONTO (CP) — Al McCrae had a busy night Monday leading Royal York Royals to an 8-66 win over Dixie Beehives in an Ontario Hockey Association Provincial Junior A game.

McCrae scored three goals, assisted on two others and drew 14 minutes in penalties, including a minor and two misconducts.

Dave Hobb, Ken McKee, Dave Blue, Phil Swain and Harry Benson were the other Royal York scorers. Bill Brodie and Cal Gorman had two goals each for Dixie, with Jim Baker and Mike Fitzgerald adding singles.

Stephenson Responds To a Stiff Challenge

MONTREAL (CP) — Goaltender Wayne Stephenson of Philadelphia Flyers, who may have expected to spend most of his time on the bench this National Hockey League season, has stepped in for the injured Bernie Parent and developed his own following.

With Parent recovering from pre-season surgery on a pinched nerve in his neck, Stephenson has played in 32 games for Philadelphia, recording a 2.81 goals-against average.

Stephenson had lost one shin, not compared with six for Parent at this time last year, but his 23 consecutive games is the most for a goalie since Ed Giacomin, then of New York Rangers, played 25 straight games in the 1966-67 season, the last before expansion. The most since then was 23 by Giacomin and Gary Smith of California Golden Seals, both in 1969-70.

Philadelphia's goals against total of 68 in 17 more than last year, but the team has scored 31 more goals.

The added offence has come from the team's top three scorers. Reggie Leach has 23 compared with 27 this time last year, while Bill Barber is three ahead of last year's pace, with 18. Bobby Clarke has 18 compared with 10 last season, and Rick MacLeish is keep up with 18. Gary Dornhoefer has 15 against six last year.

The offensive highlight of play last week, however, was the 14-2 shelling Buffalo Sabres inflicted on Washington Capitals. The last time an NHL team scored as many as 14 goals was March 14, 1967, when Toronto Maple Leafs thumped The Rangers 14-1.

The Sabres set a league record by sending 40 scoring points in the game Sunday and tied another with eight goals in the third period.

While Stephenson kept his consecutive-games streak going, Danny Grant of Detroit Red Wings saw his 168-game mark halted when an injury kept him out of action Saturday. The NHL record for consecutive games is 630 by Andy Hebenton of the Rangers and Boston Bruins. He played nine straight 70-game seasons from 1955-56 through 1963-64.

Coach Heading to NFL

USC Wins for McKay

MEMPHIS (AP) — John McKay wasn't buying the sentimental approach.

No matter that his University of Southern California Trojans presented him with a 20-0 Liberty Bowl victory over Texas Tech and McKay, who coaches at his final appearance as a college coach.

"Timing was the most important part of it," McKay said. "It was tired of hearing about the losing streak.

USC was in its first seven games and then went into a four-game losing streak before Coach McKay confirmed that he would leave USC after 16 years to become head coach of the new Tampa Bay team of the National Football League.

His record at USC was 127-40-4, including national championships in 1962, 1967 and 1972. The Liberty Bowl was the Trojans' ninth bowl appearance under McKay, but their first outside the Rose Bowl.

"It's not only coach McKay's last game, it's the seniors' last game, too, and we wanted to win as much for them as for the coach," said running back Ricky Bell.

Bell, who made his reputation as a runner, did it the Aggies with his only pass reception of the game. It was only his fourth of the year.

Quarterback Vince Evans tossed a screen pass to Bell in the 9-yard flat. Guard Dennis Hickman blocked A and M linebacker Garth Ten Napel, Bell cut back to the middle of the field and accelerated between defenders.

The play covered 76 yards and put USC on top 366 with 5:14 left in the second quarter.

SAINTS GET STRAM

NEW YORK (AP) — Hank Stram, 53, fired a year ago as head coach of Kansas City Chiefs, will be named head coach of the National Football League's New Orleans Saints this week, The Associated Press learned Sunday. A source close to Stram and his former friend said Stram wishes the announcement to be made on Dec. 27, the anniversary of the date he first led the Chiefs against Lamar Hunt.

KNIGHT OUT

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Billy Knight, the American Basketball Association's No. 3 scorer, will be out of action with a broken hand for three to four weeks. Indianapolis Pacers said Sunday. Knight suffered the injury in the Pacers' 121-98 win over Kentucky in Indianapolis Saturday night. He has played only in all 27 Pacer games this season, averaging 26.3 points a contest.

A and M, forced to play catchup, couldn't. The Aggies, who relied on their defensive game while compiling a 10-1 regular season record and earning a share of the Southwest Conference championship, completed only 34 passes all season.

A and M completed only one Jay was six for 14 against USC for 99 yards and 3:45 of time to throw on several passing downs.

The Aggies managed only 267 yards against USC. McKay said he Trojans had heard so much about A and M which led the nation in total defence and defence against the rush, that they wanted to prove they could stop the Aggies.

USC was determined not to give away anything in the second half. The Trojans kicked only three times in the final 30 minutes, relying on Bill Bell's running to move the ball.

Bell, who needed 24 yards rusher with 1,875 yards in 11 regular season games, carried 28 times for 82 yards—only the second time this year he has been held under 100 yards rushing.

Bell carried 16 times for 44 yards in the second half. He was stopped for a loss or no gain on nine carries, but managed to get enough yards to help USC maintain possession.

After USC gained a 3-6 first quarter lead, A and M moved up from its 31 to the Trojans' three. After a five-yard penalty, Jay Brunhel and Dave Lewis recovered at the USC six.

Two possessions later, USC had third and seven at its own 34. Evans backed up, looked left, and then threw long down the right side for Randy Simmons, who was behind Aggies defensive back Pat Thomas.

Simmons caught the ball at the 15 yard line, Thomas finally dragged him down at the one. Mike Tolson scored on the next play to make it 10-0.

Glen Walker had goals of 40 and 45 yards rounded out the scoring.

Big Guns Hammer Away

TORONTO (CP) — It's early to see if the Quebec Nordiques dominate the World Hockey Association scoring race and Cincinnati Stingers top the Eastern Division.

The two league powers rammed in a total of 10 goals in the second period Sunday night for a WHA record as the Stingers hung on for a 11-7 victory at home.

The shootout shattered by one the record for number of goals scored in a period, previously shared on four previous occasions.

Down 3-1, Cincinnati scored four times in less than four minutes before Quebec replied with three of its own. The Stingers then closed out the 20-minute session with three more unanswered goals.

While the Nordiques, who have scored a league high 146 goals, remained one point behind Winnipeg Jets in the Canadian Division, The Stingers climbed ahead of New England with two weekend victories.

Despite the loss, Quebec continues to dominate the scoring, placing six among the top 10 in official WHA figures announced Monday.

Mary Turdif, who recently signed a 10-year contract, continues to set the pace with a league-leading 32 goals and 65 points. Chris Bordeleau, who laps the circuit with 38 assists, is 10 points off the pace in second place.

Winnipeg's Bobby Hull holds down third place on 53 points, two ahead of teammate Bill Nilsson and Quebec's Rejean Houle.

Upset with Treatment, Wilt Sues the League

LOS ANGELES (AP) —Former Los Angeles Laker centre Wilt Chamberlain sued the National Basketball Association on Monday for allegedly conspiring to keep him from playing for New York Knicks.

Chamberlain 39, said in a United States District Court suit that the NBA, the Lakers and other NBA teams are "in violation of the Sherman Antitrust Act because of their reserve clause.

The clause was cited when the seven-foot-two centre, who had a year left on his Lakers contract, attempted to join the Knicks. He hasn't played basketball professionally since 1973, but the Lakers said that under the clause they were entitled to substantial compensation to allow the change.

"The purpose and effect of the NBA's option is to coerce the players to sign a new contract with the owner of his team and the owner's interest," Chamberlain said in his suit.

The suit added that the clause in effect endeavors to eliminate business competition in professional basketball, which he contended is a violation of the Sherman Act.

Chamberlain's suit also asks the court to prevent the NBA from further boycotting him as a player and for disclosure of compensation sought by the Lakers.

Missing Equipment Could Cost Phoenix

TORONTO (CP) — Phoenix Roadrunners face a $5,000 fine for missing a World Hockey Association game Sunday at Indianapolis because their equipment failed to show up.

Bud Poile, vice-president of hockey operations for the WHA, said Monday the league's operations manual calls for the automatic fine and payment of expenses for the defaulting team.

The Roadrunners arrived in Indianapolis from Phoenix in time for Sunday night's game with the Racers, but their equipment did not arrive until 11 p.m.

Walter Marowe, a spokesman for the Racers, said the team had expected a gate of 9,000-10,000 for the game, which had been promoted as a family night and Christmas special.

"American Airlines did not get it on board," said a spokesman for the Roadrunners. "They assured us everything had been taken care of.

"Normally, our people supervise placement of equipment on the flight, but for some reason our people were not allowed to drive around with the van to the back of the plane."

The Roadrunners practiced at Indianapolis on Monday and planned to take a bus to Cincinnati for tonight's game.

The league also is faced with the task of finding a playing date at Indianapolis, when the Roadrunners are available to re-schedule the game.

Nothing Goes Right

LOUISVILLE AP — The Spirits of St. Louis lost a basketball game and a fight Monday night to Kentucky Colonels.

With guard Bird Averitt scoring his 25 points in the first three periods, Kentucky cruised to an early 45-27 lead and breezed past the Spirits 126-101 in the only American Basketball Association game scheduled.

There were no games in the National Basketball Association. In the fight, Kentucky's Run The Plumber Thomas won a short altercation with St. Louis rookie M.L. Carr after the game had ended and the teams had left the court.

Carr had been beaten on a couple of picks and, when he sensed another on the way, "I guess he just decided to take it out on me," Thomas said.

"He hit me a good lick." Not to be outdone, Thomas called another screening play. And, as Carr tried to move by the muscled Thomas, "he took a swing and I went after him."

"I had him by the jersey and I had it twisted so he couldn't get away," said Thomas. "He never landed a punch."

Carr's side of the story, "He's probably got a good mouse over his eye."

Team of the Year

Canadian Press Poll Gives Esks the Nod

By IAN MacLAINE
The Canadian Press

Edmonton Eskimos won the Grey Cup by a number of votes but were voted Canada's team of the year in 1975 by a country mile.

The victory earned Eskimos the plaudits of sports writers and sports broadcasters in the annual year-end poll conducted by The Canadian Press for teams of the year.

The Eskimos, ending a string of Grey Cup failures with their 9-8 victory over Montreal Alouettes in a game played in Calgary, received 42 first-place votes, 17 seconds and 12 thirds for 171 points based on a 3-5-1 system.

Canada's national women's basketball team, which enjoyed huge success on a European tour before finishing off the October Tun-American Games edged Toronto Marlboroughs local junior hockey champions—for second place, 60-51.

The Marlboros were hard pressed getting by their own Ontario Major Junior A Hockey League and given only an outside chance of copping their second Memorial Cup title in three years after their ranks were thinned by the World Hockey Association.

The Marlboros, however, romped to a 7-1 victory over the Winnipeg New Westminster Bruins of the Western Canadian Hockey League in the final of a round-robin tournament at Kitchener, Ont., that included the Quebec champion Sherbrooke Beavers.

The basketball team received nine firsts, 11 seconds and 16 thirds in the voting while the Marlboros had six firsts, 17 seconds and 19 thirds.

Peterborough's junior lacrosse champions finished fourth in the voting with 23 points after sewing up their four successive Canadian titles.

They were followed by Thunder Bay Twins, Canadian senior hockey champions, with 20 points; University of Ottawa Gee-Gees, Canadian intercollegiate football titlists, and Montreal Canadiens of the National Hockey League, with 15 points apiece; the Alouettes and Canada's men's field hockey team, silver medallists at the Pan-Am Games, each with 13 points.

Vancouver Canucks, winners of the NHL's Smythe Division, shared 11th place with the Canadian junior football champion Regina Rams, both with 10 points. Quebec Carlbous, who routed Montreal Quebecois in an all-Canadian National Lacrosse League final, picked up nine points in the balloting.

Canada's Pan-Am track team was next with bright points while the over-all Pan-Am team and Victoria Salts, Canadian softball champions, received six points each.

JOE THEISMANN

Joe Wants Chance At No. 1

WASHINGTON (AP) Joe Theismann, who experienced some frustrating years as quarterback with Toronto Argonauts, has just finished another one with Washington Redskins with a vow that things are going to be different next year.

Theismann, who says he is in danger of becoming "a professional clipboard carrier," is in the final year of a three-year contract with the National Football League's Redskins and adds "two years of returning punts is enough for me."

As a result, his personal bid centennial project is a talk with general manager George Allen.

"I don't think it will be a confrontation," said the former Notre Dame star following Sunday's 23-3 loss to Philadelphia Eagles.

"I'm frustrated but not bitter. I don't mean to be disruptive, but I want to express my feelings."

The Eagles game was the final contest of the season for the Redskins, who wound up with an 8-6 record and out of the playoffs for the first time in the five years Allen has been here.

It was also the first time this year that Theismann was allowed to play quarterback. He went in for Sonny Jurgensen midway through the third quarter.

Theismann came to the Redskins from Toronto of the Canadian Football League as backup to Sonny Jurgensen and Billy Kilmer when it was decided Jurgensen was getting close to retirement.

However, when Jurgensen stepped out this year, the Redskins brought in Johnson and Theismann remained No. 3.

"I want a shot at the No. 1 quarterback job and I'm no longer willing to wait," Theismann said following the Eagles' massacre. "It has been so long since I played quarterback I don't know how to feel."

Draw to Decide First Pick

NEW YORK (AP) — The National League's expansion franchises, Seattle and Tampa Bay, will decide Saturday which team gets the first pick in the annual college draft.

Representatives of the two teams, which begin NFL play next year, will participate in a special drawing in Pittsburgh.

The drawing between owners Herman Sarkowsky of Seattle and Hugh Culverhouse of Tampa also will decide which team gets first pick in the special draft of veteran NFL players.

One club will get first selection in the college draft and the other will choose first in the draft of veteran players.

Following Seattle and Tampa in the college draft, the league's other 26 teams will follow in reverse order of their records, with the exception of the two Super Bowl participants.

For the first time, the order of teams with similar records is being determined by a system which rates the schedules the clubs played rather than by a coin toss.

Under the new system, New Orleans Saints were awarded the third selection in the college draft ahead of San Diego because the Saints played a stronger schedule than did the Chargers. Both clubs finished with 5-12 records.

After these clubs, the order of the draft is:

New England, New York Jets, Cleveland, Green Bay, Atlanta, Chicago, Philadelphia, San Francisco, New York Giants, Kansas City.

Also Denver, Detroit, Washington, Buffalo, Miami, Baltimore, Dallas, Houston, St. Louis, Oakland, Cincinnati, Minnesota, Los Angeles and Pittsburgh.

Because of trades, in the first round Detroit will get Green Bay's pick, Cincinnati will get Philadelphia's, Miami will get Washington's and San Francisco will get Oakland's.

That order will change only at the bottom. The two Super Bowl clubs will pick last, causing a slight change unless Pittsburgh defeats Los Angeles in the Super Bowl.

CZECH GETS OK

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has passed and sent to President Ford a bill giving Jana Hlavaty of Czechoslovakia permanent U.S. residency so she can become a member of the U.S. Olympic ski team. She is one of the world's best cross-country skiers.

NAMATH WILL RETURN

NEW YORK (AP) — Joe Namath, 32, says he will be back with New York Jets next year for the second half of his two-year, $900,000 contract with the National Football League team. The quarterback considered retiring after the six games he played in the season.

HOLDS RECORD?

LONDON (Reuter) — The International Amateur Athletic Federation says John Walker of New Zealand will be officially recognized as holder of the world record for the one mile run. The federation had indicated earlier that Walker had been added illegally by a pacesetter when he was timed in three minutes and seconds in Gothenburg, Sweden, last August.

MIGHT SWITCH SITES

LONDON (Reuter) — The English Grand National, the world's premier steeplechase, will be switched to Doncaster unless the owners of Liverpool's Aintree race course can submit satisfactory plans for the 1976 race by Dec. 31 the British Jockey Club says. The club has provisional plans for the race to be held at Doncaster April 3.

WILL DEFEND TITLE

NEW YORK (AP) — Heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali will defend his boxing title Feb. 20 against Jean-Pierre Coopmans of Belgium, promoter Don King says. Possible locations are San Juan, Las Vegas, Nev., and Paris. Ali would be Ali's first fight since the stunning Frazier in 14 rounds at Manila Oct. 1.

McKENNY IS OUT

TORONTO (AP) — Jim McKenny, 29, will be lost to Toronto Maple Leafs of the National Hockey League for six to eight weeks with torn ligaments in his right knee. The right winger was injured in Saturday's game here with Kansas City when checked by defenseman Jean-Guy Legare of the Scouts.

WEN MIDGET BERTH

MONTREAL (CP) — Jean Pronovost scored a short-handed goal with only 19 seconds left Sunday at Trois-Rivieres Draveurs defeated Sorel Black Hawks 4-3 to qualify as Quebec's representative at the Canadian midget championships in Calgary next month. Pronovost had three goals.

Olympigram to Aid National Ski Team

OTTAWA (CP) — With Canada's national ski team showing a bold new profile on the World Cup victory podium, the Canadian Ski Association hopes a new fund-raising scheme also will put the debt-ridden team on stronger financial footing.

Two weeks ago, Kim Read of Calgary became the first Canadian male ever to win a World Cup race when he breezed home two seconds ahead of his nearest rival in the downhill event at Val D'Isere, France, the season's first World Cup race.

Then during the weekend, Dave Irwin of Thunder Bay, Ont., apparently showing Read's performance was no fluke, captured Canada's second downhill World Cup win at Schladming, Austria.

Keith Nesbitt, executive director of the Canadian Ski Association, says financial hopes for the team's winning program lie with a novel scheme known as the Olympigram.

"During the month of January we will be canvassing people across the country to spend $1 to put their name on a good luck telegram, as Olympigram, to the team," Nesbitt said.

"We'll get 25 cents of each dollar and if we can clear $100,000 we'll keep our heads above the water."

The Olympigram will be given to the team just before its departure early in January for the winter Olympics in Innsbruck, Austria, he said.

Nesbitt said people who want to organize an Olympigram canvassing committee in their community should write to Mrs. Louise Watson, National Ski Team Fund, 333 River Rd., Vanier, Ont.

He said contributions can be made by a tax receipt and they are tax deductible.

Olympigram canvassing committees have been organized in Abbotsford and North Vancouver, B.C., Jasper and Calgary, Alta., Ottawa, Quebec City, Chicoutimi and Causapscal, Que. and Dartmouth, N.S., Nesbitt said.

Nine Young Athletes Hit Can-Am Circuit

OTTAWA (CP) — Five girls and four boys have been selected for Canada's national ski team on the Can-Am circuit after several weeks of intensive training.

The girls are Susan Astitt, 18, Toronto; Joan Wilson, 17, Port Hawkesbury, N.S.; Vanita Hale-Inc, 19, Calgary; Loni Kletil, 16, Jasper, Alta.; and Jeanette Pa-ne-ll, 19, Rossland, B.C.

The boys team includes Germe a Barrette, 18, Cassapscal, Que.; Jean Beaulieu, 20, Quebec City; Jack Woods, 22, Castlegar, B.C.; and Joey Lavigne 20, Ottawa.

Kletil, Barrette, Beaulieu and Woods appear on the national team for the first time.

"We feel we will have a very strong team on the North American circuit this year," said Lee Debott, Alpine program director. "Although we had to change our training schedule due to bad weather, the competitors were able to get sufficient exposure to plant slalom and downhill.

"Slalom training will be the order of the day immediately following the New Year's when the team will regroup in Calgary."

Chuckwagon by a Nose as Gas House Pack Rounds Second Turn

Tight fix highlighted Monday night's Gas House Hockey League action as four teams battled for single points. Bel-Tone Lumber and Belleville Yardmen battled to a 3-3 draw and Bayview Orchards settled for the same one point stalemate with Jim's Pizzeria. In the third game, Chuckwagon Foods kept their hopes for first place alive by way of a 3-2 victory over Bi-Temp Airconditioning.

The scores were demonstrative of the GHHL fight for positioning. Chuckwagon Foods battled down first place with 29 points. Bob's Sports is in second, with a game in hand, just one point off the pace. Tied at 26 points with Jim's are Belleville Yardmen. Bi-Temp Airconditioning is next with 25 and fifth spot is held down by Bel-Con Engineering and Bayview Orchards with 13 points.

YARDMEN 3, ROLLINS 3

The lop snapped a four game losing streak for Rollins, which has fallen to seventh spot. It also snapped a six game win skein by the red-hot Yardmen.

Dale Trumpour, Larry Colley and Jeff Soule each scored twice for Rollins and Ron Richardson, Bob Bastelo and Pat Mullins replied for the Yardmen.

JIM'S 2, BAYVIEW 3

Jim's Pizzeria earned just three points in their first eight starts, but have picked up six of a possible eight in their last four outings. Terry Trice, Ted McBride and Paul Meeten scored for the rejuvenated Jim's squad while Rob Dobie, Don Bonier and Ryalie Bryant tallied for Bayview.

CHUCKWAGON 7 BI-TEMP 2

Chuckwagon Foods moved back into the No. 1 spot via their fourth victory in a row, Monday. The Caterers lead the league in that department with 14 wins in 18 starts. The win evening a 43 loss to Bi-Temp earlier in the year.

Fred Stickle, with a goal and an assist, led the Chuckwagon charge. Wayne Brown and Wally Dalzell each potted single.

Campbell scored both Bi-Temp's markers.

Senior Squads Hit Tournament Trail

Yuletide Break Brings Little Relief

Local senior high school basketball teams will be busy over the holiday break as four of the clubs travel to tournaments.

The first team to take to the road will be Nicholson Catholic College Nicks, who play at the Waterloo Tournament today.

Also at tournaments will be Belleville Collegiate at Carleton University in Ottawa, Quinte Secondary School at the Windsor Senior Basketball Tournament and Moira Secondary School at the Queen's Invitational Tourney at Kingston.

Nicholson will be looking for its first tournament win of the year. The team was edged out in the Belleville McDonald's Classic earlier this year.

The only tournament club the Belleville team has met before is Guelph Collegiate.

"We know all of the teams are strong, and our only experience comes against Guelph" said coach Gary Duggan.

To supplement his bench, Duggan will be adding four of Nicholson's Juniors to the lineup for the tournament.

Starters Jeff Boyle, Dale Wilson and Dan Krasswski on the forward line, and guards David Holland and Brous Collins will probably see more rest because of his strong bench. Joining Mark Soule and Martin Semongual will be Eric Rainbow, Steve Dolan, Paul McAlpine and Boyd Kalney to help out the roughies.

Nicholson still has not made a commitment on whether to go Triple A, and this tournament will probably give coach Duggan a good indication of Nick's capabilities. Most of the teams participating are Triple A ball clubs.

Win, Tie for Rollins

Belleville Rollins Major Peewees were good for a win and a tie in a pair of weekend games.

In an exhibition game with the Belleville Broadtown Bantam Minor Selects, Sunday, Rollins scored a 7-3 win after a Saturday 4-4 tie in Trenton in a Quinte Minor Hockey Association group contest.

Terry Maher and Mike Shandraw each scored twice in the Sunday outing on goal each were Rory McLeod, Matt Whitley and Steve Molaski.

Dave Semark supplied the Broadtown goal.

In Trenton, Rollins overcame an early 3-1 deficit and held a single lead late in the game before the home team's Dave Yeager potted the equalizer.

Scoring for Belleville were Stu Emmerson, Bryson Lamoshe, Brian Moynes and Steve Simpson.

Contributing to the Trenton total were Ron Wilkinson, Steve Weston and Jamie Turner.

PETERBOROUGH, Ont. (CP) — Police Chief Jack Shubh said Monday that he will confer with crown officials about the possibility of charges being laid in connection with an injury suffered Saturday by a Peterborough Petes player in the Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A game. Rugr Neilson, coach and general manager of the Peterborough Petes, said Roger Fife Sunday suffered a slight skull fracture. Fife was injured in the game against Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds when he was knocked to the ice in a fight.

RUNS DISTANCE

FURNACE CREEK, Calif. (AP) — Bobby Riggs, the 57-year-old tennis and golf hustler, tried his legs at distance running Monday and with his 2 to 1 handicap in miles, beat Australia's Bill Emmerton, 56, in a Death Valley challenge. Riggs ran the 25-mile course in 4:19, which was 0:41 faster than Emmerton, who ran the course twice for a total of 50 miles. Riggs, who wasn't expected to finish the race, was paid $1,000 a mile by his sponsors.

Early Delivery

William Galland, right, the 100-year-old man whose three-wheeled cycle was stolen last week, looks at the rebuilt-like-new old one after it was delivered by Santa Thursday night. The cycle, which Galland uses for exercising was taken by some youth and found Wednesday abandoned and in need of repair. Santa, better known as Henry Fanlagua a local bike shop owner, rebuilt it to new condition, and delivered it to Galland. Galland said he forgives the youths who took the cycle because he was young and energetic himself.

Drilled Holes

MUNICH, West Germany (AP) — Bavaria's top court has upheld a $1,300 fine against a German who drilled holes in unsigned cheese and illegally labelled the chunks Swiss Emmentaler.

Sydney Now Gambling Capital of Australia

SYDNEY (Reuter) — Sydney has become the gambling capital of the Southern Hemisphere. Its inhabitants are happy to splurge their money on anything that moves.

That is the picture drawn by prominent New South Wales politician George Paciullo, who has been the state Opposition spokesman for sport and recreation.

Recently released figures showed that Sydney gamblers are undeterred by inflation.

They can bet legally on anything from horses and greyhound racing to British soccer pools and slot machines — or illegally in dozens of pools clubs and hundreds of betting shops.

The figures showed that state government revenue from gambling had soared beyond the $1 billion mark since the legalization of slot machines in 1956.

Paciullo, of the Australian Labor party, said that by the end of the fiscal year 1975-76 revenue from gambling would be a staggering $1.4 billion.

He said the recent budget framed by the state government revealed that revenue from gambling this financial year would increase from last year's record figure of $186 million to an estimated $242 million.

"The greatest source of gambling revenue for the government is slot-machine taxation which will yield an estimated record $90 million this year," Paciullo said.

The rake-off from racing was expected to amount to $75 million and from the newly introduced soccer pools $2.4 million.

An arm of the state government's revenue-raking mechanism is the Totalizator Agency Board (TAB), which conducts betting in hundreds of agencies scattered throughout the state.

Last fiscal year, TAB handled a turnover of $99 million and returned a surplus of $22.6 million.

Paciullo said the government is killing the goose that laid the golden egg.

"Despite the fact that New South Wales gains almost double the revenue from gambling of all the other Australian states combined, it returns less to leisure and sport than any other state government," he said.

The government's grip had squeezed the licensed club movement into a tight financial corner.

"The clubs, which paid out $30 million in slot-machine tax this year, are fighting for survival—but the government has ignored their pleas for help."

Paciullo said the situation is no better in the racing industry, which was forced to pay out an additional $26 million.

"Bookmakers now pay the heaviest tax in Australia, punters have poor facilities and owners and trainers receive a lower return for their investment."

Successive state budgets show a heavy reliance on gambling to boost treasury funds, he said.

"This financial year 12.2 per cent of total revenue in the state comes from gambling sources."

At the same time the government turned a blind eye to the activities of illegal operators and casinos, which he said were flourishing on an unprecedented scale.

We take great joy at this time to express our sincere thanks to our many friends!

All I Want Is

Visions of Christmas gifts are on the minds of these youngsters who visited Santa at a New York Department Store. Despite the dreamy look on these children, most kids know exactly what toys they want and by brand name, including Evel Knievel stunt cycles and the Six Million Dollar Man. But they're still asking for two front teeth, nuts, pizza events and other conventional goodies. (AP Photo)

CUPE Negotiators Resume Hospital Contract Talks

TORONTO (CP) — Negotiators for about 20,000 members of the Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) will resume bargaining for a master agreement with 87 Ontario hospitals, a hospital spokesman said Monday.

Rodney Thorlinson, chairman of a steering committee of the hospitals in charge of negotiating with CUPE, said in a telephone interview from London, Ont., that the two sides hope to resume province-wide bargaining by late January.

Its said an earlier impasse was cleared up late Monday during a meeting of representatives of the unions, the hospitals and the Ontario labor ministry.

Tom Edwards, a union spokesman, told a news conference in Toronto prior to the meeting that the collapse of the first attempt at province-wide bargaining between the two sides could lead to a confrontation that both sides wanted to avoid.

Mr. Thorlinson said hospital negotiators had asked the union to state in writing that it would accept conciliation or arbitration on any items not resolved during negotiations.

He said the hospital bargainers asked for written assurance because of earlier union statements that workers would strike if necessary to achieve its objectives.

The labor ministry said such written assurance is unnecessary since conciliation or arbitration must be adhered to under Ontario law.

"It is our understanding that the law will be enforced," Mr. Thorlinson said.

Both sides agreed after the ministry meeting to urge local hospitals to complete bargaining on non-monetary local issues by Jan. 20. After such issues are settled, the two sides will begin province-wide bargaining again.

Bargaining on a provincial scale was one of the main recommendations of a special committee report this year on labor relations in the hospital field. The workers include cleaning, kitchen and clerical staff, orderlies, registered nursing assistants and some technical personnel.

Union Waits for Decision On de Havilland Contract

TORONTO (CP) — A union spokesman for workers at the de Havilland Aircraft of Canada Ltd. plant here said Monday that the union will wait for official notification of a decision by the federal anti-inflation board before taking any action.

The board Friday rejected a contract agreement calling for a salary increase of 12 per cent for the 1,700 workers.

Jerry Hartford, spokesman for the United Auto Workers which represents the workers, said after a meeting of union officials Monday that the ruling could mean a resumption of the strike.

The board said that the workers, on strike from Aug. 22 to Dec. 7, should receive special consideration under the federal wage and price controls, but added that the increase should be no more than 15 per cent in the first year.

Another union spokesman said the workers have two other options aside from continuing to strike. He said the union could reopen negotiations or appeal the board's ruling.

Ottawa Standarizes Freight Container Size

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government plans to use international standards as a basis for legislation and regulations for freight containers, the department of transport said in a news release Monday.

The standards, the transport department said, were drafted by the United Nation's intergovernmental Maritime Consultative Organization.

Seven of the 82 member countries of the organization have ratified the standards, and when 10 signatures are received, the international standards will come into force. The department said this would happen around 1977.

The standards will ensure "a high level of safety in the handling, stacking, and transporting of freight containers and include provisions to ensure that container owners carry out periodic inspection, testing and maintenance to minimum standards," said the department release.

The transport department will arrange meetings with industry, labor organizations and provincial officials to discuss the proposed regulations and their enforcement.

UIC Cuts Off 330 During Mail Strike

OTTAWA (CP) — The Unemployment Insurance Commission (UIC) has cut off about 330 Ottawa residents from benefits after they failed to pick up their cheques during the recent postal strike.

UIC spokesman Peter Schmobb Monday warned that some claimants will have to pay back some benefits and some may be fined.

The Ottawa UIC branch started investigations after benefit cheques were not picked up at a special depot set up during the strike.

Mr. Schmobb said that roughly half of the 330 cases investigated were shown to be "improperly receiving benefits. But when you consider there are 15,000 claimants in the Ottawa area... it is still a small percentage."

May the joy and delight of the Yuletide Season be yours.

String Quartet to Visit

The Orford String Quartet is celebrating its 19th anniversary this year with special tours including a visit to Moscow.

Andrew Dawes and Kenneth Perkins, violins, Terence Helmer, viola and Marcel St.-Cyr, cello, will perform in Belleville on Jan. 1 at Centennial Secondary School, as part of a five-week Ontario tour.

Appearing with them will be internationally known musicians Gary Karr, double bass, and Anton Juerti, piano.

The quartet began with four musicians, an interested professor — Lorand Fenyves — and a grant from the Canada Council.

Concerts have been staged throughout Canada, the United States and most European cities.

The quartet is also famous for CBC performances. In 1974, the members received first prize at the European Broadcasting Union International Competition in Sweden, sharing the spotlight with Austria's Franz Schubert Quartet.

The six musicians will combine their individual talents for a complex program beginning with Johann Sebastian Bach, Allegro, Larghetto, Allegro, a non tanto, followed by Anton Dvorak-string quartet in G major Op. 77, Allegro con Fuoco, Scherzo-Allegro vivace-Trio: L'istesso tempo, quasi allegretto, Poco andante and Allegro assai as the finale.

The second half of the program will begin with Franz Schubert-Quintet in A Major, Op. 114 The Trout, Allegro vivace, Andante, Scherzo-Presto, Theme and Variation: Andantino and Allegro guisto as the finale.

Tickets for the 8 p.m. performance are available at McKnights Variety and Brumm's Pharmacy.

ARLINGTON HEIGHTS, Ill (AP) — Actor James Cagney, known for his tough-guy roles in movies, brightened the day at a nursing home — who has terminal brain cancer.

Keith Mitchell, 14, used to do impressions of movie stars — Cagney was his favorite—until he was stricken 16 months ago. He now is semi-comatose and unable to speak, communicating only with nods.

Cagney's agent called Keith's hospital room Thursday and told Keith's mother, Helen, that the actor wished to talk to her and him. The agent said Cagney had been briefed on the boy's condition and knew the boy could not respond vocally.

"When I handed Keith the phone he became alert," Mrs. Mitchell said. "His eyes opened up and he heard his best friend. After it was over, I thanked Mr. Cagney and he said that it was his pleasure and to give Keith a big hug. They when I became overwhelmed with emotion."

Mrs. Mitchell said Cagney, who now lives in retirement, talked to Keith for about 10 minutes.

ATLANTA (AP) — Jerry Lee Lewis has been sued by the estate of a man who claimed the country - and - western singer struck him with a shotgun three seven years ago and permanently damaged his eyesight.

The suit, filed in superior court on Thursday for the estate of Marvin Major, does not claim the injury contributed in any way to Major's death in 1978. The estate sought $20,000 in damages to cover medical expenses for treatment of the eye.

The administrator of the estate said in the suit that Major attended a Lewis performance in Atlanta on Nov. 1, 1968, and was hit in the left eye with the microphone after he made a comment about Lewis.

LONDON (AP) — Rod Stewart, one of Britain's top rock stars, announced Friday he has left the rock group The Faces and will form a new group next year.

Stewart said through a spokesman he will no longer work as lead guitarist with The Faces—and had ended his four-year association with the group.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Character actor Frank Sully, who appeared in more than 1,300 motion pictures and in scores of shows in a career that spanned 50 years, is dead at age 67, a family spokesman says.

His daughter, Nora Sullivan, said Thursday that Sully died Wednesday at the Motion Picture and Television Hospital in Woodland Hills, Calif., where he had been for the last month.

Cause of death was not disclosed.

Sully's last role was a part in Funny Girl.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Comedian Jack Carter has been sued for divorce by his wife of four years, Ramona.

The superior court suit, filed Thursday, seeks $5,500 monthly support.

Carter, 53, and his wife, 49, were married in Las Vegas in October 1971. They have no children.

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDE OSOL
Wednesday, Dec. 24

ARIES (March 21-April 19) This is going to be a busy day for you, with at lot of last-minute details. However, you'll find that special item for the one you love.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Today will prove to be expensive, but your hard-earned money will serve a good cause. The evening will be rather pleasant.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) You'll be busy as a beaver today preparing for the family and friends who'll be dropping in. They'll repay you by having a good time.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Spare yourself a heap of frustration today. Rely on delivery services rather than your own wheels. You'll be perfect for party time tonight.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) Don't be too lavish in gifts to casual acquaintances. It's embarrassing. Go all the way with loved ones and close friends.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You may have some career frustrations early in the day, but hang in there. Good news, good fellowship and good cheer come in abundance later.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) The day may start out with you being very irritable. Later you'll mellow. There may even be an early gift to cheer you.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Plan something "fun" for this evening. You're going to be in a good mood you'll want to share with dear friends.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) There's a strong possibility of a surprise bonus in store for you from the boss. He's going giving it as much as you'll like getting.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) A friend whose interests you've looked out for is not unmindful of all you've done.

End of Hour

EDINBURGH (CP) — For six weeks crush wears up to a third below normal prices during the first hour of opening at the King James Hotel here. The hotel owners raised their prices after protests from other licensees that it was too successful and endangered their livelihoods. As a result alcohol now costs 28 pence instead of 19 pence.

Hernia Is Source Of Confusion

By GC THOFTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thofteson: What can you tell me about femoral hernia? I've had it for years and I have one. It seems to have diminished as time has passed. Is this a condition that demands surgery? Mrs. R.M.

Because the term hernia is a source of some misunderstanding, let's define it. It is an abnormal protrusion of part of an organ through the walls of a compartment of the body that is supposed to contain it. Usually weakening in the wall makes this a common occurrence.

A femoral hernia involves the femoral canal, a passageway that carries the large femoral artery and accompanying nerves downward to the thigh, beginning just above the groin on the upper, inner sides of the thigh. A weakening in the canal allows a portion of the lower intestine to push through creating a large just below the groin.

Because hernias do not improve by themselves, but tend to get worse with time, treatment is often with trusses to hold them in place, or by surgery to correct the weakened structure.

Untreated, strangulation (a pinching of the protruded intestine) can occur.

A femoral hernia, which is more common in women, does not usually hurt itself or limit use, however, because it occurs lower than the inguinal hernia, surgery is the only really effectiveMethod of treatment for this type of hernia.

Dear Dr. Thofteson: I am 36, and I have high blood pressure. I would like to take taking vitamin E, but I DON'T know how to go about this, or whether I should.

You wrote once that vitamin E will not make your pressure go up.—J.W.

Yes, and I probably should have added that neither will it make it go down. Blood pressure problems are more complicated than you seem to think they are, but space doesn't allow me to discuss this in sufficient detail. You need more solid information than you now have.

Dear Dr. Thofteson: A male acquaintance eventually informed me that women are physically unable to hold any office of authority because of the normal cycles that create emotional crises: I insist he is incorrect.

Am I correct in believing that women are unable to hold any office of authority because of the normal cycles that create emotional crises: I insist he is incorrect.

Am I correct in believing that women are unable to hold any office of authority because of the normal cycles that create emotional crises: I insist he is incorrect.

Woman do have hormonal swings. But women have found ways to adjust to these, whether they are running complex households or important offices in government or business. Hormone therapy has been a boon in this area. A casual reading of some of our business journals should be sufficient to convince your chauvinistic friend of the errors in his thinking.

You are incorrect, though, in your belief that men experience the same or equivalent cyclical hormone changes. Not true.

Dear Dr. Thofteson: Is it true that a healthy person to go on a protein diet, eating only meat, fish and eggs and no milk, fruit or vegetables? Mrs. M.L.

This is unwise for anyone. The diet lacks essential vitamins and the bulk is obtained in fruits and vegetables. Protein is essential, but more fruit and vegetable intake would be a worthwhile addition to such a diet.

The trump-promotion play is similar to the squeeze. In this play the defence promotes a trump in a partner by forcing declarer to ruff with a high trump.

South really should double East's four-spade bid. He could expect to make a game, or a small, profit. Actually, East would be down two, but East has nine apparent winners and we can't really blame him for trying five hearts.

West opens his partner's suit. East takes two high spades and notes that West has discarded the deuce of clubs. This tells East that West doesn't want a club lead. A look at dummy's diamonds makes a lead of that suit inadvisable, so East simply leads a third spade.

This third spade lead upsets South's applecart. If he ruffs high, West will score his jack of trumps later on. If he doesn't ruff high, West gets his jack right then and there.

Ask the Jacobys

A Milwaukee reader asks what it means when a partnership announces that they lead third best or fifth best instead of the standard fourth best.

It means exactly what they say. When leading low from a long suit, the fourth best lead is traditional, but if you want to lead third best you may do so. As for fifth best, you don't always have a five-card suit.

Workmen recently began work on the Quinte area's first wooden basement — a project that holds the attention of both senior governments. Rollins Construction Co. Isabel Peron Vows To Stay in Office

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — President Isabel Peron of Argentina vowed Monday night to remain in office despite military opposition.

"Do not confuse calmness with weakness," the 44-year-old widow of the late President Juan Peron said in a television address following the surrender of rebellious air force officers who demanded that the army commander replace her.

Mrs. Peron said her government, "like all governments, has mistakes to overcome; therefore, I work every day to eliminate them."

Shortly before Mrs. Peron spoke, police used tear gas to disperse about 200 people demonstrating in Buenos Aires in support of the leader of the four-day rebellion, Brig.-Gen. Orlando Jesus Capellini. Police sources said at least 20 demonstrators were arrested.

Mrs. Peron said she succeeded in avoiding bloodshed by her handling of the revolt and "thereby correctly interpreted the real feelings of the Argentine people."

But it was generally agreed that the rebellion had further undermined her political position, which already had been badly eroded by 18 months of political terrorism and economic crisis and by recent charges of graft and corruption in the top circles of her government.

The rebels' choice for president, Gen. Jorge Videla, denied them his support but called for an "institutional solution" to the government's latest crisis. This was interpreted as a demand that Mrs. Peron resign in favor of her constitutional successor, Senate President Italo Luder.

The rebellion by right-wing officers at two air bases in the Buenos Aires area ended early Monday, and the leaders were held at air force headquarters. But military sources said the government has agreed that only Capellini will be punished.

Monetary Issues Disappoint Lawyer

OTTAWA (CP) — A lawyer who represented three public interest groups during hearings on an application for higher telephone rates said Monday he was disappointed a decision in the case stuck to monetary issues, ignoring the quality of service.

Andrew Roman, general counsel for the Consumers Association of Canada, was commenting on a decision by the Canadian Transport Commission awarding Bell the higher rates it sought to increase company revenue by $118.3 million next year.

"They said nothing at all about the human element, despite our evidence on the decline in service," said Mr. Roman, who also represented the National Anti-poverty Association and the Inuit Tapirisat at the hearings.

When Bell was granted permission a year ago to charge 25 cents on directory assistance calls it promised that service would improve, Mr. Roman said. But now it takes longer to reach an operator.

Economic Council Chairman Predicts Bleak Economy Between 1980 and 1985

OTTAWA (CP) — Andre Raynauld, chairman of the Economic Council of Canada, predicted Monday "a continuing deterioration" for the national economy between 1980 and 1985.

He said it means Canadians will have to adjust to slower growth in their standards of living and international trade problems will grow more serious.

Commenting at a press conference following release of the council's 12th annual review, Dr. Raynauld said the increase in national wealth—gross national product (GNP)—will slow to about four per cent a year in the 1980s, compared with increases of five to 5.5 per cent in the 1960s and 1970s.

The main reasons for this slowdown are smaller increases in the working-age population and reduced output per worker as more people enter service jobs, like government, the council says.

Capital investment—between $800 and $900 billion of development capital is needed in the next decade—and greatly increased immigration could offset slower growth. But public feeling is against both more foreign investment and easier immigration, says the council.

When Canada starts increasing imports of oil in the 1980s and as demand from the United States, the major trade partner, weakens because its economy softens, Canada's trade losses will grow more serious, the council says.

The 29-member government-financed advisory body analyses long-term economic prospects and states what it considers to be reasonable goals. Its members come from business, government and labor.

The council suggests that the time is coming when decisions must be taken to either encourage more rapid growth or, possibly slow expansion down, emphasizing recreation and quality-of-life goals. Shorter working hours would be one way to do this.

Dr. Raynauld said this was a political decision," one on which the council did not intend to take a stand.

In the short term, the council says that some permanent method for fighting inflation will be needed after the government lifts its selected wage and price controls. They are scheduled to run three years.

Dr. Raynauld also warned that the government should try to stimulate the economy to avoid aggravating an already-high jobless rate.

B.C.'s Financial Books Were Never Balanced Says Economist

VICTORIA (CP) — The $1.5-billion budget of former NDP premier Dave Barrett "was never balanced from the day it was struck. We cooked the figures," a finance department official said Tuesday.

Bill Stow, director of financial and economic research said British Columbia is expected to have a minimum $325-million deficit for the current fiscal year.

Mr. Stow, third man from the top in the provincial finance department, told reporters B.C. is facing expenditures of $571.8 million but revenues of $236.8 million might reduce that debt by March 31.

Mr. Stow, who was hired by the former New Democratic Party administration 18 months ago to assist with budget planning, said he was making his statements because he wanted to dissociate himself from the politics involved in B.C.'s figures.

Marc Eliesen, adviser to the former New Democratic Party cabinet, who said his office was responsible for balancing the budget, said Mr. Stow's figures are "a clear picture of the economy is available from the provincial finance department.

Mr. Eliesen also said the inquiry is unnecessary because B.C.'s own auditor-general, Jack Minty operates free of political interference.

He said the statement by former finance minister Dave Stephen last Thursday on B.C.'s economy was based on the most recently available figures from the finance department and accurately reflected figures presented by Mr. Minty.

Mr. Stow said approximately $100 million which was to go to the Insurance Corp. of British Columbia and $70 million that the Crown-owned B.C. Petroleum Corp. owes the federal government in natural gas tax, does not have to be paid this fiscal year.

He said if that $170 million is not paid this year, the $325-million figure would be reduced by that amount, which would have to be paid in the next year.

"I'm probably very unwise," Mr. Stow said, adding that his statements to reporters could cost him his job.

"We've got to a point where, I think, our professional standing is totally annihilated," he said. "We were prostituted right from the start."

Mr. Stow said finance department officials were instructed to include in the budget $150 million in natural gas revenues but the amount was only anticipated.

He also said the original estimate of natural gas revenue was $235 million but the province received only $87 million.

Leftist Guerrillas Attack Army Posts

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Five hundred leftist guerrillas attacked two army posts and several police stations in the Buenos Aires area Tuesday night, and the army said at least 50 guerrillas were killed.

A communique also reported four army men and two policemen killed and seven soldiers wounded.

Security officials said guards at the Bensal arsenal—10 miles north of downtown Buenos Aires—repulsed an attack by about 150 men.

Military sources reported four helicopters were sent aloft to support ground troops and several drew fire. Armored units also were dispatched.

It was the biggest guerrilla attack since Oct. 5, when 49 persons were killed in a raid in northeast Argentina by Montoneros, the ultra-left Peronist guerrillas.

The fighting raised the death toll from political violence to more than 1,700 since Juan Peron's widow, Isabel, succeeded to the presidency at his death 18 months ago. The guerrilla attack came on the heels of a four-day revolt by air force officers demanding Mrs. Peron's resignation and a new demand from the left wing of the Peronist party that she quit.

The army said the barrage fighting and most of the casualties occurred at the arsenal, but other army sources said tanks and police fought pitched battles to dislodge the guerrillas from the police stations.

The fighting at the arsenal spread into surrounding slum areas which the security forces have long believed to be a terrorist hideout. A police officer said snipers throughout the area fired on firemen and police trying to put out the fires started by the gasoline bombs.

Army officials said in addition to four army men and two policemen killed, at least 12 army men were wounded.

Navy sources said two helicopter gunships and two jet bombers flew over the area. They said the guerrillas opened fire on the helicopters, and the crews fired back.

Police threw a tight cordon around the area and kept newsmen out. Huge traffic jams developed, and some suburban rail services were interrupted.

The rest of Buenos Aires was calm.

News Briefs

U.S. Diplomat Killed

ATHENS (AP) — Police hunted today for three persons who shot and killed a United States diplomat recently named by a Greek newspaper as the chief CIA agent in Greece. Police sources said there were no clues to the identity of the assassins. But no attacks by Greeks on foreign officials have been reported in recent months, and there was speculation that the assassins might be foreigners.

Moluccans Charged

AMSTERDAM (AP) — Seven South Moluccan nationalists who held 25 hostages in the Indonesian consulate for 24 days have been charged with unlawfully detaining hostages, menacing behavior and illegal possession of firearms. They might get as much as nine years in prison. The seven young men surrendered last Friday. The city prosecutor said additional charges may be brought in connection with the death of an Indonesian diplomat who injured himself escaping from the consulate.

Santa Claus Apologizes

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — The woman in a pointed red hat, red suit and white fur cuffs took the stand and apologized to District Judge Adrian Allen. She explained she was late for work and wouldn't have time to change, so she wore her working clothes to court for her divorce hearing. She said she has a job as Mrs. Santa Claus at a local department store.

May Grant Asylum

ALGIERS (AP) — The Algerian government may give asylum to the terrorists who hijacked three men, including a Libyan government official, at an oil-cartel meeting in Vienna, informed sources say. Algerian Foreign Minister Abdelaziz Bouteflika, who negotiated with the terrorists after their flight to Algiers, discussed the possibility of a pardon in return for the release unharmed of the 41 hostages they brought with them, the sources said.

Sunday Store Laws Go Into Effect Jan. 1

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario's new Sunday store-hour regulations, which make things tougher on the big stores, go into effect Jan. 1.

Under the new law, passed during the first session of the 30th Ontario legislature that published last week, drug stores which employ four persons or less and have a floor space of 7,500 square feet or less may open on Sunday and holiday days.

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today his department has received information on the new regulations and with a limited number of mailing days, police may still be in the dark on Jan. 1. "It's not irregular to get notification in the press," he remarked.

And unless the government devises a method whereby police will know store floor space measurements and shelf sizes, "it's going to create an enforcement problem. Will we have to measure the stores and search the building to count employees?" he commented.

Chief Crosbie said he will have to decide on whether police will enforce the current Lord's Day Alliance Act on Dec. 28, the final Sunday under the old legislation. He said information he has been forwarded to the Crown attorney's office regarding last Sunday's police investigations.

Other stores exempt from the closing include small grocery stores, milk stores, news and tobacco stands, and antique and handicraft shops. But the selling area in all these must be less than 2,400 square feet and the business must be more than three persons in the store on Sundays or holidays.

Service stations and plant and flower stores will be exempt regardless of size and vegetable stands will be exempt from April 1 to Nov. 30, the growing season.

The bill passed with an amendment from the Liberal bloc brings pet shops under the regulations.

Restaurants, hotels, and motels, laundromats and other coin-operated services also will be exempt along with boat and automobile rental agencies and repair shops.

Although there is no mention of religion in the regulations, persons may open their stores Sundays if they close "during a period of 24 hours in the period of the 32 hours immediately preceding the Sunday."

Hunt for Police Killer Continues in Dartmouth

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — The city's police force had no hard leads but was making slow but steady progress Wednesday into the shooting deaths the previous day of Cpl. Eric Spicer, 30, and Keith McCallum, 22, a taxi driver on a downtown parking lot.

Results of a pathologists examination and a ballistics report were expected later today.

The men were found in pools of blood about 150 feet apart, near the Angus L. Macdonald bridge, across the harbor from Halifax. Cpl. Spicer, a detective, was the first policeman from this city killed in the line of duty.

An eight-year veteran of the force, he was on a routine one-man surveillance operation when he was shot. He had spent some time on the department's drug squad but police said he was on general investigation at the time of the shooting.

Police chief Roger Smith said: "Cpl. Spicer was a detective engaged in surveillance work which opens just about any possibility."

Mr. McCallum was alive when found but died in hospital. Police said a call came in about midnight concerning the shooting of the taxi driver and a search of the area uncovered Cpl. Spicer's body.

Armed Forces Family Celebrates Alone

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Heidi Powell has had a difficult time explaining to her three children why their father won't be home for Christmas.

The girls, Gwendolyn, 11, Brenda, nine and Christine, seven, have always been close to their father, but this year, for the first time since they were born, Cpl. David Powell will not be home to help them open presents on Christmas morning. Cpl. Powell will be thousands of miles away, stationed with the United Nation Forces, in Ismailia, Egypt.

"It was hectic doing all the holiday shopping alone," said Mrs. Powell, who lives three miles outside of Trenton and does not drive. "We both used to decide what to get the girls and this year it was not as much fun picking the presents alone," she said.

Col. Powell shipped out to Ismailia on Thanksgiving day will return to Canada in six months but his children remember little things he did on Christmas and he wasn't home to do this year.

"I'm going to miss him on Christmas morning because last year he helped me set up my dollhouse," said Christine, the youngest.

"I feel lonely when he's not here to play games but he always let me have a little wing and this year I won't have any," said Brenda, a Grade 4 student at Murray Centennial School.

Gwendolyn, the oldest said she was unhappy about the "whole" because she was never at father being home, but said that the entire family enjoyed hearing from him by letter and that just last week he had called from israel, while he was stopping a pass.

"That was my early Christmas present from my husband and never mind how he got anything else," said Mrs. Powell, who is originally from Germany, where her family lives.

"The family has not received any presents from Cpl. Powell but they think this might have been slowed down by the mail strike.

"We are keeping his presents and he will get to open them when he comes back from Egypt," said Mrs. Powell. "We have one special present for him that he has wanted and we will keep that for him also," she said.

The family was allowed to send one package of food in Cpl. Powell through the Canadian Forces mail.

"We sent him cheese and crackers and canned food because we were told if the food was just wrapped well boys would get into it," said one of the children.

Mrs. Powell said she realized that her husband and many other service people had to go off and leave their families but that all she and many of her friends wanted, was to see their loved ones home safe and secure.

"I have had the children to fall back on, and that has made the separation easier," said Mrs. Powell. "But the people at the base have been so helpful I don't know what would have happened if they were not there."

The entire family said they would probably throw their arms around Cpl. Powell and start crying when he returned but Mrs. Powell summed it up for them all.

"I want the whole man back, his good and his bad," she said.

Separated Christmas

When most families gather together on Christmas day, for dinner or to open presents, Heidi Powell and her three daughters, Gwendolyn, 11, Brenda, 9, and Christine, 7, will not have their father hope to share the good times. Col. Powell, along with many other Trenton area service personnel, is stationed in Ismaela, Egypt with the United Nations forces.

Thieves Steal Trees From Memorial Park

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A couple of Belleville homes will celebrate holiday festivities around the most expensive Christmas trees available.

And they didn't cost a cent.

Just a "warped sense" of the Christmas spirit, said Gene Gemmell.

He was the second successive Christmas two fir trees have been cut and stolen from Memorial Park — the city's setting for its war dead revolving from between Station St. and Cannifton Rd.

They were stolen from a stand of evergreens — most of them now about eight feet high — close to a roadway flanking the east end of the park. The trees are Colorado blue spruce.

"We noted a tree of that size would cost in the neighborhood of $200," says Mr. Gemmell city parks department horticulturist.

Planted some years ago the trees had just "started to settle in to growing."

Using a saw the thieves cut one tree at ground level. The second taller tree was cut about half way up.

The incident took place before the weekend's storm, since there are no signs of the trees in the snow.

Last year two trees disappeared in a similar manner from the same stand. The parks department didn't publicize the incident, fearing it might encourage other thefts.

"It was a brazen job, done in full view — the park is lighted at night," said Mr. Gemmell. "And they knew what they were doing."

"It's incongruous," he mused. "Here's a Christmas tree strong enough to stand a tree — and then stealing it."

Firemen Stress Caution Over Holiday Period

Belleville firefighters hope they will not have to respond to any calls for assistance during the next 48 hours.

But as Fire Chief Leo Culhane point out, it will depend on how safety-conscious the public will be on Christmas and Boxing Days.

He said today the department hopes everyone will enjoy a happy, fire-free Christmas by taking heed of some simple tips.

Chief Culhane advised people to make sure their tree lights are off when they go visiting, dispose of gift wrapping as soon as possible, exercise care around the tree and not in leave cigarettes burning on or near chesterfields or upholstered chairs.

He remarked that some people become careless by just being caught up in the holiday spirit and other produce danger by consuming too many holiday spirits.

He said there were no serious fires last year but "we've had some dandies on Christmas and the day after."

Some Churches Plan Christmas Services

Special family Christmas services are planned for tonight and Christmas Day in some Belleville churches.

Communion services will be held at Christ Church at 7.30 p.m. and 11.30 p.m. Christmas Eve with services at 8 a.m. and 10.30 a.m. the next day. Communion at St. Thomas will be held 11.30 p.m. Christmas Eve and 9 a.m. Christmas Day.

College Hill United Church will hold a carol and family service 7.30 p.m. tonight.

Other family services will be held at Centennial Free Methodist Church at 7.30 p.m. and St. Thomas at 7 p.m. Christmas Eve.

St. Andrew's Presbyterian Church will celebrate Christmas with a worship service Christmas Day at 9.30 a.m.

A candlelight service, led by the junior choir, will be held at Tabernacle United Church 7.30 p.m. Christmas Eve.

Toys Still Favorite Gift for Most Children

It's Christmas Eve and with the festive season comes a favorite pastime of children, imagining what they want for presents.

Kindergarten students at Sacred Heart Separate School in Batawa were asked to choose the one thing in the world they wanted most for Christmas and also what they planned to give a member of their family.

Many of the students chose the toys, for themselves and their parents or loved ones, apparently figuring if they don't get the gift they might at least be able to share it with someone else.

STEVEN FOBERAR

Steven, six, immediately chimed in that he wanted a truck for himself. When asked what he would get for his mother, the person he chose to give a present to, he answered without hesitation "she wants a train with tracks."

SCOTT HUTCHISON

Scott, six, told his classmates he wanted a car.

When he was later asked what he would like to give to his grandmother, he replies "a big lamp like the one we have in our house because she wants one."

THERESA SCHICK

Five-year-old Theresa was intrigued with dental hygiene, as were four of her other classmates and she asked for an Evel Knievel toothbrush.

Not as worried about her grandmother's teeth, she wanted to give her loved one a "teapot service."

DANNY McDONALD

Danny, four, was more practical than his other classmates who just wanted product endorsed by famous people.

"I want Evel Knievel," he replied when offered anything he could have.

The four-year-old student said he would like to give his grandfather, obviously a hunting enthusiast a new pair of hunting boots.

PHILIP BROWN

Five-year-old Phillip knew exactly what he wants for Christmas and also what his mother would like to receive if she could have anything in the world.

Fortunately for the family they will be able to double on gifts if Phillip has his way. Both he and his mother want a big tractor truck to be waiting under the tree Christmas morning.

JOHN LIDSTER

Many of the children appeared interested in various facets of hygiene and keeping clean.

Johnny, six, said he wants a Batman toothbrush.

Most children are reported to have a fear of baths and any related articles but this six-year-old wants to give his mom a bath towel and washcloth set for Christmas.

Jingling for Joy

Main Street in Picton is alive with colored lights and brightly trimmed trees and on street corners silver bells Jingle as Salvation Army members staff their Christmas cheer kettles. Mrs. William Willis of the Picton Salvation Army Citadel Tuesday welcomed donations from passers-by.

Bureaucracy May Be Gearing For PM's Brave New Economic World

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

"I will be speaking to you again in the coming months about the new kind of society we will need to create in response to the new economic circumstances in which we are living, here in Canada and throughout the world."

Remember these words? They were spoken on national television and radio last Oct. 8 by our prime minister. And for those who fear Pierre Elliott Trudeau is a socialist out to destroy "the free enterprise system" in favor of something strongly socialist in Canada, these words must have struck terror in their hearts . . .

But in making broad philosophical observations about the future of Canadian society, the PM has been since taking up the leadership of the Liberal party in 1968, Pierre Trudeau again leaves his critics in Gordic-mindedness.

From the author of the above-Just Society, what does he mean by "the new kind of society we will need?"

Already speculation is rampant that the socialist society he is planned to be more than a control agency against inflation, but a vehicle for some major shift in the structure of management-labor relations in this country.

And given the number of technocrats in Ottawa, young and old, on the prime minister's record-size personal staff and outside of it, there are many who think it could be in the minds of such planners.

And they range all the way from the right-wing concept of corporatism as practised by the historic fascist regimes of Europe to the consensus of labor and management, rather than confrontation which has become working procedure in the Scandinavian democracies.

In between there are several Western European models which have been in use for years.

The West German one wryly called is German "Mitbestimmungsrecht" means union and management sitting together on corporate boards jointly making decisions and like the Scandinavian system intentionally avoiding confrontation controversy.

Then there is the less-famous but French formula called "indicative planning" in which the state takes the leading role in long-range planning between industry and labor and with it, a major part of free-enterprise efficient labor-management differences.

Some or none of these models might have been investigated by the Ottawa bureaucrats involved in writing the anti-inflation legislation.

It is easy to say that corporatism would appeal to the patriotic French-Canadian mind. It has been mainly in Latin-so-ciented society, governed in right, Italy, Portugal and Spain, where labor and management were organized into "corporations" syndicates, the state being at the top as arbiter of salaries and working conditions.

But then it was the self-same and youthful Pierre Trudeau who bitterly rejected the Duplessis right-wing regime in Quebec whose ideologies were fascinated with Mussolini's and Franco's models.

But no, realizing the propensity of Canadian politicians in bureaucratic allies to not borrow ideas from other lands and ideologies, but to solidify along with them, it is to be feared that any "evil" plan for shifting Canadian society is in the offing in Ottawa.

What is clear is the government's intention of further reducing the historic adversary relation between management and labor in Canada, in that both sides have failed to make it work, digging in their heels in the "the six months" the 1974s were still upon us.

Christmas 1975

It's the season of peace on earth and goodwill toward men, (whatever it is is not necessary to look far to realize the traditional concept is badly tarnished this Christmas.

Men are divided.

They are divided as ever by personality conflict, differences of viewpoint, and by color, race and even the religion that speaks of brotherhood, and at this time of year in particular.

In Northern Ireland the friction of some 300 years of religious polarization is now approaching the seventh year of its current travail by bomb and bullet, and it has spilled over increasingly of late into England.

In the Middle East Arabs and Jews are locked in a fierce country especially — Lebanon — unbridled hostility between Christians and Moslems has cost more lives in a shorter period of time than any of the other brutalize encounters of the moment, from Ulster to Argentina.

Here at home there is labor strife and the personal obsession with materialism is compounded by the assault on the monetary and marketing system that is inflation. We are as children chasing butterflies — only for butterflies substitute greenbacks. "Poor Butterfly," as an old ballad puts it. Poor dollar bill. Most of all, poor citizen with his plethora of paper money chasing too few goods. And finally, wistfully, poor government which the Auditor-General reveals as extravagant and inefficient.

And all those people at the barganing tables . . . have they gained much? Have should be a Second Coming of biblical promise, would the Christ figure overturn them as He overturned the tables of the money changers long ago?

Have we reached a point that divine intervention is necessary in our affairs, to save us from ourselves? Or are we witnessing the very essence of the political system we are supposed to hold in such regard: "Government of the people, for the people, by the people," and let it be. Or are we heading for moral and economic ruin Armageddon?

There are other problems. Racism. We have it in Canada. Injustice, to the point it is said that even Annapolis Valley residents are unhappy at the prospect of an all-French-speaking squadron with their families moving into a Canadian Forces base in the area.

When all is said and done though these are but surface manifestations of underlying imperfections. Christmas symbolizes the belief of most in some divine providence. For those who still believe that, a line from Desiderata is of significance: "And whether or not it is clear to you, no doubt the universe is unfolding as it should . . ."

Life, indeed, goes on.

Beer and Spirits Taxed Heavily And Are Not Doing All That Well

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

At this season, appearances can be deceptive.

Looking around, anyone would conclude that the brewers and distillers are sitting on top of the business world.

But a closer look shows that, despite the seasonal sales boom they are enjoying, the beer and brewing industry is just holding its own while the distilling industry may be losing ground.

Both beer and liquor are heavily taxed—so the producers' troubles have a direct impact on government revenues.

Brewing has been a steady growth industry for many years, and the major Canadian producers have learned to diversify into other businesses in order to remain healthy.

Some smaller breweries have either been absorbed by the giants, or forced to close because of labor disputes.

Reduction in the minimum legal drinking age—combined with high immigration and the "baby boom" following the end of the World War II—gave some modest growth to beer sales during the past several years.

Now, however, population trends are running against the industry, and there is more to raise the legal drinking age seems to be gathering strength in Ontario at least.

The average adult Canadian drank 84.7 gallons of beer in 1974, down slightly from a record 85.8 in 1973.

The export market for Canadian beer is almost negligible, but Canadian distillers depend heavily on sales to the United States and elsewhere.

Recession and inflation were the main factors in keeping growth of U.S. consumption of spirits down to only 0.2 per cent in the year ended June 30.

Not only have U.S. consumers been buying fewer bottles of liquor, but they have been choosing cheaper brands.

This shift has been bad news for the two major Canadian liquor companies, Hiram Walker-Gooderham and Worts Ltd.—who are strongly represented in the high-priced segment of the U.S. market.

To some extent, they have been compensated by above-average profit reports of rye and scotch, to be bottled in the U.S.

Because their market is so sensitive to price, the distillers have been unable to turn their product prices abreast of the inflation rate.

Their restraint, however, is certainly to be noticed by consumers, since a succession of tax increases—with still more exceedingly coming—have led to repeated hikes in the final selling price.

Production costs have moved up faster for brewers and distillers than for most other industries, led by sharp increases in grain prices and compounded by big increases in the cost of labor, fuel, barrels and other containers.

The producers can therefore take some slight comfort from the anti-inflation measures. If those measures succeed, they may help to stabilize production costs—but they will probably be no threat to the industry's sluggish profit margins.

The fortunes of both the brewers and distillers are determined by popular preferences that are notoriously changeable. A return to the affluence of the 1960s would be a major sales stimulus, as would a step-up in the pace of the trend to consumption among women.

While awaiting such fundamental changes as those, the industries are constantly fine-tuning their product mix to meet changing demand. One trend is the shift of emphasis away from premium-priced liquors and beers to cheaper brands and gin.

"It's possible, too, that more producers may get ahead the diversification bandwagon, that has taken beverage makers into new businesses ranging from building supplies to oil and gas.

The Power of Music

Christmas, like life itself, would not be the same without music.

Possibly the greatest of the arts in the breadth of its power and impact upon the emotions, music is a force for unity too. The ideal of brotherhood takes on real meaning in such an atmosphere.

A Belleville resident who came to this country from Germany after the war tells of the rapport he has found in many lands through music.

Picture, in the aftermath of World War Two, a ship anchored in the Firth of Forth and this future Belleville citizen listening his first piano lesson from a Scottish guard, back home in Germany he had had occasion to play the violin for Soviet officers of the occupation forces. Subsequently, in France, as an immigrant in a land in which there was strong anti-German sentiment, he was invited to play in a dance band and civic orchestra.

Shortly after his arrival in Canada, while working on a farm, our friend was asked to participate in a Christmas concert.

The scene shifts now to Latin America this year — the occasion a conference convened by an international textile company. Seeking an instrument in a store in Curitiba, Brazil, the Belleville visitor was referred to a private collector. Communication difficulties were soon forgotten as the Canadian visitor played a few bars on the violin, and a host smiling in recognition was joining in with piano accompaniment. The purpose of the visit was all but forgotten too in the friendly hour that ensued.

Celebrated violinist Yehudi Menuhin demonstrated both his great his faith in its healing properties by being one of the first guest artists to appear in postwar Germany. In our own community there is a lively music tradition, a demonstrated by such groups as the Choral Society, the Eastern Ontario Concert Orchestra, and the Rotary Music Festival. In the continuance and expansion of such a trend lies not a little of the promise of a better world.

Merry Christmas

A $250 a Week Retirement But That Was 20 Years Ago!

by RICHARD JACKSON

OTTAWA — Just to be surprised the public opinion polls show that going on 70 per cent of Canadians favor wage and price controls.

It could be much, says Anti-Inflation Board Chairman Jean-Luc Pepin, that they are all that hot for controls "as such" rather it's that the alternative, continuing runaway inflation, has them cold with fear.

Small wonder.

You must remember recalled Mr. Pepin's tell-it-like-it-is chairman Beryl Plumptre the other day, those investment advertisements of only some 20 years ago.

Remember how they showed a smiling, gracefully aging and obviously contented and confident couple looking out of your telling you "How we retired comfortably on $250 a month."

If they are still alive today, you have got to wonder how much smiling they are doing.

That monthly $250 which provided them with security only yesterday — it was 1965 — would give them a little less than $1,000 below the rock bottom $3,000 poverty line.

The annual $3,000 generated by their monthly $250 would do little more than pay all but disequality them from any old age supplement at all.

The cutoff comes at $3,687 for a pensionable married couple, so they would still draw the full supplement, losing the benefit of their carefully saved $8,000 investment income.

They would still get the basic old age pension, but they might as well have spent the money they put into those savings that gives them their $3,000 private nest egg.

Or stop work for prudence and putting it aside for that rainy day.

Still, the idea of saving for our old age remains with a lot of us.

And this despite the arithmetic of inflation, which, runner at the currently 12 per cent annually, cuts the value of the dollar by half every six years.

Thus, if wages and price controls don't work, the cost of living will have doubled by 1981, just as the pensioning power of the collar has shrunk to 51 cents in the nineties nine years since Prime Minister Trudeau took charge of the ever-more rapidly inflation-prone land.

Which has to add up to mean only that if we controls don't "wrestle inflation to the ground" it will be worse off for those years ago, things are only going to get worse even than they are.

Yet nobody will be starving.

For wages and salaries will be right up there in the lead, never quite even with the rising cost of living.

And so will the old age pension.

But what about your savings you struggled and sweated to accumulate through the years?

Their value will be negligible and the income you rackets will be nothing.

For the government will deprive you of an increasing portion of your old age benefit by reducing your old age supplement in a rising proportion to your investment income.

Maybe it was Confucius who said it, or Plutarch, or Lao-tse readily get confirmation in Canada's mounting home for pensioners — that the only thing that will "stabilize" the lot of the aged is a long game.

Or, a dollar today and in six years it's worth 50 cents.

And what has been happening in Britain will happen here with increasing speed, perhaps as fast as they think it before its too late to do anything about it.

The wealthy, as they have been doing in Britain, will try to get their money out of the country.

Press Comment on Port Hope Radiation Issue

The Globe and Mail

Some of the responsible authorities seem reluctant to cause about the radioactive risks to which 216 Port Hope school children have been exposed. The school was built on radioactive fill from a nearby uranium refinery operated by Eldorado Nuclear Ltd. The fill damages a gas which has raised radioactive levels in the building above it is somewhere between 10 and 30 times what has been considered a safe level for the children of St. Mary's Separate School have been exposed since early for their Christmas break while better ventilation is provided.

"Gordon Cobourne, manager of the nuclear case, said the school levels were above normal, but no danger to the public. Geoffrey Knight of the Atomic Energy Control Board in Ottawa said he preferred to deal "in generalities". He would "feel give the figures on the radiation count. He said there were short-term and long-term dangers to exposure to this type of radiation, depending on the levels and length of exposure, and these dangers could include lung cancer and sterility. Health Minister Frank Miller has adjusted the levels are high but refused so far to give the exact figures.

No tests of the children have been ordered. Tests, in fact, might tell little at this stage. The danger would be greatest for children than for adults, and the damage might not appear until later life.

"If it was my kids I'd certainly have them checked at the doctor," said Peter Bosch, education director for the area, "but it's really every man for himself."

It had better not be, much longer. If tests of the children would be useful, they should be held immediately, with Mr. Miller giving the orders and the government footing the bill — if was Ottawa that permitted careless distribution of such dangerous fill. If the school cannot be made absolutely safe, it should be moved or rebuilt elsewhere, again at Ottawa's cost. And both Queen's Park and Ottawa, should be busy now determining the cause of the greater for children than for adults.

This is government work if there ever was government work.

Peterborough Examiner

Eldorado Nuclear Ltd. in Port Hope is a Crown corporation about which little is known to the public outside of its monumental complacency about possible effects of its system of disposal of its radioactive wastes.

In recent years, alarmed citizens of Port Hope have tried to storm this Bastille, only to be put off again and again by piecemeal placations. The bureaucracy remains entrenched behind its walls, and has even induced the politicians to join it there.

St. Mary's Separate School in Port Hope was closed down recently because it was suspected that pupils were being exposed to radiation higher than safe levels. It was closed by order of the medical officer of health.

Events leading up to the closing were revealed in a local Examiner reporter Jim Cutting had he believed the school had been built in an area where fill from the Eldorado plant had been dumped a quarter of a century ago. Mr. Cutting contacted Eldorado Nuclear and tests were put under way.

When Mr. Knight carried out its duty and informed the public that a decision had been made — that, even by the amorphous standards of the business mean revealed to Atomic Energy Commission there were sufficient grounds to fear danger to the health of 200 children, he was cleared from the company's spokesman was only that if the controls Mr. Examiner were being "investigated."

This from Stan Frost, "the main physical co-ordinator for the plant's so-called environmental program."

Not a change, in that context. The Examiner pleads guilty we brazen the fact before the public relations experts of the Crown corporation had a chance to raise the drawbridge, drain the bleak and prepare the obfuse propaganda Eldorado has become so expert at.

In short, the Examiner challenged the right of the bureaucracy to tell the people only what the bureaucrat thinks they should be told. If that is irresponsibility, the country needs more irresponsibility.

Xmas Lights

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Two years ago many communities in Canada presented awards in honour of the best display of a beautiful display of Christmas lighting on the outside of their homes.

As I was setting up outside lighting on my home with some what of a guilty conscience because of the continuing energy problem. I could not help but feel that my lighting was indeed energy conscious and that if other people, in every situation I think it would be very appropriate for The Intelligencer to cover other community agency to present an award for the most effective use of minimum amount of outside lighting. I think that this would provide the incentive towards a greater use of energy saving lighting being utilized, and would also allow people who cannot afford a large amount of outside lights yet a large electricity bill a chance to compete for the community award system.

Bernier Announces Mine Tax Exemptions

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government Tuesday announced tax concessions of $8 million to $10 million a year to the mining industry.

Leo Bernier, minister of natural resources, said the concessions would give a boost to the sagging mining industry in the Sudbury area.

Most of the tax savings will go to Falconbridge Nickel Mines Ltd which recently laid off more than 300 workers in the Sudbury area because of declining world nickel markets.

Mr. Bernier told a news conference that International Nickel Co. of Canada Ltd. (Inco) and Texasgulf Inc. also will benefit from the change of taxation restrictions on foreign processing of Ontario minerals.

Under provincial Mining Tax Act regulations introduced a year ago, only the costs of processing in Canada are allowed in the calculation of the tax of the producer.

However, Mr. Bernier said he has decided to permit the deduction of foreign processing costs for five years from the date the regulation was introduced to ensure that mining companies have the necessary financial resources to sustain employment in Ontario.

Report Misleading

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Environment Minister George Kerr said Tuesday that an Economic Council of Canada report which said air pollution is worsening in Toronto, Windsor and London, is misleading and inaccurate.

"The sound monitoring by the ministry has shown a consistent improvement in terms of air pollution in Windsor, London, Toronto, Ottawa and Cornwall, little change in Hamilton and any slight deterioration in Sudbury and Sarnia since 1974," Mr. Kerr said

Jackets in Question

MONTREAL (CP) — Imperial Industries Co. announced Tuesday that lifejackets and floating devices marketed by the company may have a manufacturing fault which could reduce their buoyancy by 30percent. their buoyancy by 30 per cent.

The company asked anyone who purchased the lifejackets to return them to Imperial Industries Co., 6500 Henri Bourassa Blvd. E., Montreal, Que.

Reduce Budgets

GUELPH, Ont. (CP) — The budgets of 15 local agencies supported by the United Way will be cut because the campaign, which ended Tuesday, failed to reach its goal, says Frank Balmer campaign chairman. Only $276,000 of the $278,000 target was collected.

Freeze Wages

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — Council members of the township of Yarmouth have imposed a freeze on their own wages for 1976 while granting township employees salary increases of 10 per cent Reeve Dave Cook announced the decision Tuesday after a special meeting of council Monday. The raises mean $80 a month, the deputy-reeve $70, and the three councillors $60 each. There are 75 full-time township employees.

Disband Circus

TORONTO (CP) — CIRCUS 1976, a group of 30 arts and sports organizations that is providing cultural events in Ontario to be held in connection with the 1976 Olympic Games, is to disband Dec. 31, David Nasby, co-ordinator of CIRCUS 1976, announced Tuesday. He said members decided to disband the group because it has had administrative and financial difficulties with the Ontario ministry of culture and recreation.

Taxes Increase

TORONTO (CP)—Ontario's target for tax revenue from forest industries operating on Crown land ,should be $40 million for the next fiscal year, a committee recommended Tuesday. The committee investigating timber revenues also suggested that a drop in the market price of lumber should prompt a drop in the level of taxes.

CANADIAN ADVERTISING ADVISORY BOARD

Bicentennial Will Dominate

WASHINGTON (CP)—No matter what it is, someone likely will be doing it somewhere in the United States during 1976—and doing it in the name of the bicentennial.

As a matter of fact, they've been doing some of it since last spring.

To get an idea of what they're doing, turn to the Comprehensive Calendar of Bicentennial Events, official publication of the American Revolution Bicentennial Administration (ARBA).

Among the 6,683 events listed state-by-state by date, you'll find:

Milaca, Minn., is involved in a bicentennial tree-planting ceremony on Arbor Day.

Currie, N.C., has plans for a July 4 festival featuring "18th-century games, old dresses, speakers, reading of the Declaration of Independence and a boy scout bike."

Sioux Falls, S.D., is headquarters for the national poetry contest—all entries on bicentennial themes, please. Washington Crossing, Pa., checks in with the national patriotic essay competition. The message: Spirit of '76.

Barre, Vt., is the site of the "traditional old-time fiddlers contest," whereas St. Louis counters with a competition for students to submit chamber music pieces.

The Freedom Train, 25 cars loaded with 700 objects of historical significance, still rumbles through the countryside. And unless it has run into heavy going, the Bicentennial Wagon Train out of Blaine, Wash., still is due Rich Valley Forge, Pa., on July 4.

A barge will float next spring to carry the music of the American Wind Symphony Orchestra to 76 cities, including Montreal, no strings attached.

You can see by this random sampling that—unlike the Canadian Centennial of eight years ago, which featured Expo 67 in Montreal—there's no grand local point to the 200th birthday of the U.S.

Of course, snags have developed.

The U.S. labor board commissioned a "history of the American worker," then ran into charges of censorship when it called for a rewrite of the chapter dealing with the years 1900-22.

There were further frowns when it was learned that the board was writing labor union executives, soliciting bulk orders for the book.

Then the National Lampoon came out with a bicentennial calendar, hailed by New York Times as "a brilliantly researched chronology of massacres, murders, mayhem, madness, sadoma, war, graft, corruption and disaster spanning two centuries of national history."

Chris Cerf, who conceived the work, said most Americans are being fed a sugar-coated version of their country's history at this time—"not that some of what's being written and said isn't true."

However, his calendar notes, for instance, that Nov. 30 could be celebrated as the date American troops refused to cross the Niagara River into Canada in the War of 1812.

1975 - Not a Banner Year For Canada's Party Leaders

OTTAWA (CP)—Thanks to severe economic problems and shifting leadership, 1975 was not a banner year for any federal political party. With the possible exception of Ed Broadbent, elected to head the New Democratic Party, most party leaders would probably like to forget it.

For Prime Minister Trudeau, it was his most difficult year since assuming office in 1968. Forced to reverse himself and impose price and wage controls, he also lost some of his ablest cabinet ministers.

In addition there were persistent rumblings of discontent within his own party and office, not to mention police raids and hints of scandal.

For Progressive Conservative Leader Robert Stanfield it was a winding-down year. With his previously announced plans to vacate the leadership in February, most party members were preoccupied with watching the battalion of potential successors line up in the hope of inheriting Mr. Stanfield's mantle.

For the 11-member Social Credit group, starting little in figures from the far corner of the Commons, the year ended in a search for a new leader to replace the ailing Real Caouette.

And despite the razzmatazz of a leadership convention, which saw the studiously serious Mr. Broadbent take over the NDP leadership from David Lewis, 1975 was not a gung-ho year for New Democrats.

With only 16 MPs, the fewest in 30 years, the parliamentary caucus is still recovering from the 1974 general election that chopped its strength by 15 members and deprived it of the balance of power it had held in the previous minority House.

Within a few months, Mr. Trudeau will be the only party head in the Commons who fought the 1974 election campaign as leader.

Nevertheless, 1975 is not likely to be an easy year for the government, now engaged in its biggest public relations campaign as it tries to sell the price and wage controls that Mr. Trudeau and other Liberals criticized so severely a year earlier.

The economy preoccupied federal politicians in 1975, as it probably will in 1976. Prices and wages continued to rise to the point where, on Oct. 14, the government slapped on selective controls, which the Conservatives had been derided for proposing a year earlier.

The subject dominated House proceedings and nearly every speech and interview given by cabinet ministers, and even brought some private criticisms from the cabinet that other portfolios, particularly those allocated, were being neglected.

The controls were imposed reluctantly and only after the government had spent months trying to gain a consensus on voluntary restraint.

"We thought it would work," said Mr. Trudeau. "But it didn't because each group would say: 'Well, I'll cool it but will the next guy cool it?' . . . So that's why, finally, as a last resort . . . we decided to say these guidelines will be mandatory for all those who have some economic power in this society."

Two months later the government announced extensive spending cuts which, Mr. Trudeau said from the beginning, "will hurt."

Had this controversial development occurred in a minority Parliament with an election just around the corner, the political effects might have been dramatic. But with a comfortable majority and an election several years away, the government was able to shrug off opposition criticism of its about-turn on economic controls.

"We have embarked upon a truly new era in the economic history of our nation," said the prime minister. "We don't know how long it will last; we hope it won't be too long.

"We are confident that the Canadian people, with the common sense and sense of co-operation that they have demonstrated over the past . . . will soon understand the new values which must underlie the society which is being built today."

With all eyes firmly fixed on the economy it was easy to overlook the fact that Mr. Trudeau, apart from his economic concerns, was having his most difficult year since entering politics.

He came to Ottawa in 1965 with Gerard Pelletier and Jean Marchand—the three wise men"—and 1975 saw the breakup of the team.

Mr. Pelletier resigned as communications minister to become Canadian ambassador to France. Mr. Marchand, after being convicted of a traffic offence and suffering recurring medical problems, stepped down as minister of transport.

Then there was the sudden resignation of John Turner as finance minister in August. Mr. Turner, long considered Mr. Trudeau's likely successor as party leader, quit to return to "private life," giving no other reason for his sudden departure. The move rocked the government.

The prime minister suffered another setback when he selected Pierre Juneau, chairman of the Canadian Radio-Television Commission, to be his new communications minister. Mr. Juneau ran in the "safe" Liberal seat of Montreal Hochelaga and was whipped by a Conservative.

Then there was the continuing investigation into the "Sky Shop affair," involving duty-free shops at two Quebec airports and one in New Brunswick.

Senator Louis Giguere, a former Liberal fund-raiser who made $90,000 on a $5,000 investment in the Sky Shop business, saw his Senate offices raided by the RCMP. Other Quebec Liberals were questioned by the Mounties.

On top of everything, Mr. Trudeau had outbreaks of discontent within his own office after the controversial appointment of his principal secretary, Jack Austin, to the Senate and his replacement by Jim Coutts, a long-time friend of Senator Keith Davey.

Senator Davey has frequently been criticized by Liberal insiders for his allegedly increasing influence within the prime minister's office. This was one of the factors in the decision of Senator Gil Molgat (L-Manitoba) not to seek a second term as president of the party at a November convention in Ottawa.

That convention endorsed Mr. Trudeau's job as party leader but not before more than 19 per cent of the delegates voted their disapproval.

May you and your loved ones share the contentment of "home for the holiday."
Our thanks and best wishes at Christmas.

Brunch — Perfect Holiday Meal for Entertaining Family or Special Guests

Holidays usually mean two things: getting up late in the morning, and having extra people to feed.

From time to time comes the happy custom of brunch, an extremely civilized meal lying somewhere between breakfast and lunch, both in time and in substance.

Here are some menu suggestions for your holiday brunches, whether for either small family gatherings or larger sophisticated groups.

Breakfast Orange Blossoms
Surprise Pancakes
Baked Eggs Gruyere
OR
Cranberry Raspberry Omelet
Baked Ham, Sausages and Bacon
Coffee
Milk

BREAKFAST ORANGE BLOSSOMS

ice can (12 oz.) frozen orange juice
o.e. can (12 oz.) apricot nectar
two tbsp. grenadine
¼ tsp. angostura bitters ice cubes
three orange slices, quartered
12 maraschino cherries

In large pitcher, mix frozen juice with amount of water suggested on can. Stir in other liquid ingredients.

Pour over ice in old-fashioned glasses, add orange quarters and cherries. Serves 12

SURPRISE PANCAKES

one cup milk
one egg
one tbsp salad oil
one cup packaged pancake mix
½ cup wheat germ
½ cup raisins
butter or margarine
hot maple syrup or honey

Heat griddle, and grease lightly.

In a medium-sized bowl, beat milk with egg and oil until just combined. Stir in pancake mix, wheat germ, and raisins.

Use ¼ cup batter for each pancake. Cook pancakes until lightly brown on one side; three minutes on each side.

Serve with butter and maple syrup or honey.

Makes eight medium-sized pancakes.

BAKED EGGS GRUYERE

six oz. Gruyere cheese
10 bacon slices, crispy cooked
½ cup milk
½ cup heavy cream
½ tsp. pepper

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Generously butter a 10 by 6 inch baking dish.

Cut cheese into thin wedges, and cover the bottom of the dish with the cheese. Crumble bacon over the cheese, and break eggs carefully over the bacon.

Spoon cream over the eggs, and sprinkle with pepper (you may prefer to either add or substitute nutmeg here).

Bake, uncovered, for 20 minutes, or just until eggs are set.

(This recipe serves six, can be easily made larger or smaller.)

CRANBERRY RASPBERRY OMELET

two tbsp. cornstarch ½ cup sugar
one cup sweet red wine
two cups fresh or frozen fresh cranberries, rinsed and drained one pkge (10 oz.) frozen raspberries, thawed eight eggs
one tsp salt
¼ tsp pepper
one-third cup milk
½ cup chopped parsley
¼ cup butter or margarine

In a saucepan, combine cornstarch and sugar. Stir in red wine, cranberries, and raspberries. Stir over low heat until sauce bubbles and thickens slightly. Simmer five minutes, keep sauce warm.

In a bowl, beat eggs with salt, pepper, milk and parsley. Melt butter in a 10-inch skillet. Pour in egg mixture. Cook without stirring, lifting edges of omelet with spatula to allow uncooked portion to run underneath, until top of omelet is almost firm.

Spoon some of the sauce over the omelet and with a wide spatula lift omelet at one edge and fold over. Slide omelet onto a serving platter. Each serving of omelet should be topped with some remaining cranberry sauce. Serves six.

BAKED HAM, SAUSAGE AND BACON

one 5-lb. canned ham whole cloves
two tbsp. red currant jelly mustard (if desired)
one lb. link sausages
one lb. sliced bacon

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. Place ham in a shallow roasting pan, with a sharp knife, score and stud with cloves. Melt the jelly and spread it over the ham. Bake for 30 minutes, until heated thoroughly.

Saute sausages, cook bacon. Place around the ham for the last 10 minutes of baking, spooning any jelly in the pan over the sausages.

Serves 12.

Champagne Punch Bowl
French Onion Soup
Salmon Souffle with Oyster Sauce
Golden Squash Rolls
Pineapple
Variety of Cheese
Coffee

CHAMPAGNE PUNCH BOWL

one large bunch seedless grapes two cans sauterne
one cup cognac
two lbs. sugar
14 oz. club soda
six strawberries (to float)
one bottle chilled champagne

Hull about half of them, wash the grapes, and place in the freezer.

Several hours before serving, combine the sauterne, cognac, and sugar in a bowl, and stir till sugar dissolves. Refrigerate

To serve, pour the sauterne mixture into punch bowl, stir in ice, add grapes and pour champagne into the bowl just before serving. Float strawberries on the top.

Makes about 14 four-oz. servings.

FRENCH ONION SOUP

½ cup butter
eight cups thinly sliced onions eight cans undiluted beef bouillon two tsp salt
eight or 10 French-bread slices, cut one-inch thick
½ cup grated Parmesan cheese

Heat butter in a large skillet. Add onion and saute, stirring till golden. Combine sautéed onion, bouillon and salt in saucepan, bring to a boil. Reduce heat, simmer for 30 minutes, covered.

Meanwhile, toast bread, and sprinkle each slice with grated cheese.

If you have oven-proof bowls, place the toast on top of the soup in each bowl and place under the broiler for one minute until cheese is bubbly. Otherwise, put the toast under the broiler before placing on the bowls of soup.

Serves eight or 10.

SALMON SOUFFLE WITH OYSTER SAUCE

six egg whites
one tbsp. flour
one tsp. Worcestershire sauce six egg yolks, slightly beaten one can condensed cream of mushroom soup one can salmon, drained and flaked (seven oz.)
½ tsp. cream of tartar

Sauce
one doz. oysters (seven oz.)
two tbsp. butter
two tbsp. flour
one cup milk
¼ tsp. salt
¼ tsp. pepper
1½ tbsp. lemon juice

In a large bowl, let the egg whites warm to room temperature. Preheat the oven to 350 degrees. Lightly grease a straight-sided souffle dish, or a medium-sized saucepan, combine flour, mustard, salt, pepper and Worcestershire. Gradually stir in egg yolks and soup.

Cook, stirring constantly, over very heat, until the mixture is thick and smooth. Remove from heat, add salmon, and mix well. Cool slightly.

At high speed, beat egg whites with cream of tartar until stiff. With wire whisk or scraper, fold salmon mixture into the egg whites until just combined.

Turn into prepared souffle dish. Set in pan containing one inch of hot water. Bake for one hour.

Meanwhile, make sauce. Drain oysters, reserving one-third cup liquid. Cut oysters into thirds. Melt butter in a small saucepan. Remove from heat. Stir in flour until smooth. Gradually stir in the oyster liquid and the milk. Cook, stirring constantly, over very heat, until the mixture is thick and smooth. Remove from heat, add salt, pepper and oysters and reheat.

Just before serving, stir in lemon juice. Serve sauce along with souffle. Serves six.

GOLDEN SQUASH ROLLS

two-thirds cup milk
one cup cooked squash
one-third brown sugar three-quarters tsp. salt
2½ tbsp. butter
½ cup lukewarm water
one pkg. active dry yeast four to five cups sifted all-purpose flour butter, melted

In a small saucepan, heat milk just until bubbles form around the edge.

In a large, warm mixing bowl, combine milk, squash, sugar, salt and 2½ tbsp. butter. Stir to mix well.

In a small bowl, pour warm water over yeast. Stir to dissolve. Add this to squash mixture along with two cups of flour. Beat vigorously with a wooden spoon until smooth, about two minutes.

Gradually beat in two cups of remaining flour. If necessary, add more flour until dough is stiff enough to clear sides of the bowl and handles easily.

Turn dough onto lightly-floured board. Let rest, covered, for five minutes. Knead until smooth and elastic for about five minutes.

Place dough in a large, greased bowl. Lightly brush with melted butter. Cover with waxed paper and clean dishtowel.

Let rise in warm place until doubled, about one hour. Turn onto lightly-floured surface again. Shape into Parker House rolls, or any other shape desired. Brush lightly with melted butter.

Place rolls about 1½ inches apart, on a greased cookie sheet. Cover with waxed paper, and let rise in a warm place until double in bulk. (About one hour.)

Meanwhile preheat oven to 400 degrees.

Bake rolls for 20 minutes, until golden. Makes about 36 rolls.

Magic Memories On Christmas Eve

A time when remembrance overings remembrance, when each moment sends forth a rush of evergreen memories to be caught forever in the spiral of ritual.

Christmas Eve.

The high, holy climb to the morning, to the fulfilment of all expectations. The waiting is always the same, eve after eve. The air is always charged with the same unbearable excitement.

Somehow, the intensity of our vision on Christmas eve brings a kind of memory that makes us say "We always did ..." or "We always went ..." even if it only happened once.

There is usually one time, among many than any other, that connects all the other eves in our minds and hearts.

"We always sang carols around the piano," you say, but in your mind's eye you see only that one evening when you were nine, and allowed to join the grown-ups for an hour or two before bed. An uncle had brought his violin, and your mother sang "O Holy Night" in her rich contralto voice, and you thought you had never heard anything so beautiful. And the sound of that music comes back, again and again, eve after eve.

What comes back to me on Christmas eve is the sharp perfume of burning tangerine. As if it had happened scores of times I can smell the sweet smoke, see the tiny orange lanterns.

But I know in fact that we were visited only once on Christmas eve by a Swiss man called Luther, who could make tangerines last forever. He was a very quiet, gentle person, infinitely patient, and with marvellous precisiln in his hands.

To amuse us children, he began to cut a circular top off one tangerine with his little pen knife. Then he started removing each section of the fruit so carefully that the rind remained intact. He'd pass out sections to us and we'd nibble and giggle and wish that he would work faster.

He worked his way through several tangerines as we sat around him on the floor by the fire. Each tangerine would eventually be empty except for the central white pithy stem he would take great pains not to harm, so it could serve as a wick. He'd twist it a bit with his fingers, and then place each tangerine on the mantel to dry while he started the next one.

After what seemed like hours he was done. We put the tangerines around the room, and turned off the lights, and then he lit the wicks one by one. The fire, each small globe glowed golden and wafted its sweet scent into the air.

It was magic. It was all the beauty and peacefulness of Christmas eve, captured in that moment.

We children went off to bed then without a murmur (at least that's what I remember) and dreamed sweet dreams of shining tangerines. And when we woke, it was Christmas.

Merry Christmas!

Mr. and Mrs. David Ewen

Ewen — Pollard

St. Columba Presbyterian Church was the setting for the candlelight wedding December 6 uniting Lynn Pollard and David J. Ewen in marriage.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Harry Pollard, and the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J.C. Ewen of Chesley.

Rev. David Murphy performed the ceremony.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride was attended by Linda Hadley as maid of honor.

Larry Miskie of Meaford was the groom's best man.

A reception for members of the family was held following the wedding at the bride's parents' home.

Live with Executive? Learn to Listen Well

TORONTO (CP) — "My wife greets me when I come home with two cold martinis, then she drinks them both. She says she needs them to get through an evening with me."

The man giving the new twist to the old martini story is Jack McQuaig, a top executive who gives lectures on how to live with a top executive.

The head of McQuaig Institute of Executive Development, Mr. McQuaig specializes in the selection and training of managers. He has been married for 27 years and is the father of five children.

In a recent lecture here, Mr. McQuaig said he believes a person's attitudes or skills or knowledge can be changed, but his temperament cannot.

Therefore, trying to change the basic person you married is like hitting your head against a wall.

"By the time we're five years old we're fixed in certain very important ways. We've developed certain attitudes towards people and ourselves that never change without a traumatic experience."

And the key to living with a top executive is to learn this valuable lesson, he said.

"Maybe top executives are grown-up boys. They are capable of solving all their problems. If you will only listen he can solve their problems."

By developing this art of listening you can generate negotiations where everybody wins and nobody loses.

Top executives fall into categories, he said.

"There is the specialist who is a very thorough, dedicated, reliable person" who does not like social situations very much and is a note-leader.

This type of person often suffers from negative stress and is hard to live with.

Then there is the generalist who is a born leader, restless, dissatisfied, has highly developed social skills, is independent, strong-minded and determined.

ROSLIN WI

The Christmas meeting of the Roslin Womens' Institute was held Thursday with a hum dinner at noon in the United Church Hall. Roslin, with 18 members and three guests present.

It was decided to give $50 to the Thurlow Rescue Squad to help pay for their new equipment.

All joined in singing Christmas carols. Several readings were given by Dorothy Parsons.

The guest speaker was Mrs. Don Leach from the Salvation Army of Tweed. She spoke on a fruit basket for distribution to the needy, and also a personal gift.

Members had an exchange of Christmas gifts.

— When buying leather coats or jackets for all-season wear with sleeves or quilted linings are good value says Elizabeth Hammond, director of the Leather Bureau of Canada.

This black suede belted coat with notched collar and fur cuffs should be brushed frequently with a dry, softbristled brush or suede rubber sponge. (CP Photo)

Pay for Good Quality When Buying Leather

TORONTO (CP) — Speaking of a leather garment as an investment is misleading, says Elizabeth Hammond, director of the Leather Bureau of Canada.

"The producer has no control over the care and treatment of a leather garment once it is in the hands of an individual," she said. "One can say that a leather coat will wear for 20 years or more, but will it be serviceable for that long in terms of current fashion and appearance?"

Miss Hammond said the only true economy is in quality and leather falls into that category.

"In other words, if you save money or spend most spend as much as the can afford on a leather product. Economy isn't cheap, it's also important."

She said a leather coat can last indefinitely provided it is given reasonable care. Styling in leather is classic, which ultimately prolongs its serviceability.

When buying a leather garment, the buyer should check labels to make sure it is genuine. "Many leather-like vinyls and cotton suedes are very deceptive."

Other tips:

—A leather garment should fit snugly but comfortably and have some ease of fit. This will prevent stretching and ripping at seams.

—When buying coats and jackets, the all-season one with slip-out or quilted linings are good value.

—When buying a leather garment ask the sales person if it has been specifically treated to repel soil and oily substances. If not, a protective spray should be applied.

—Never wear a scarf around the neck when trying on and wearing garments. This prevents soiling by skin oils.

—Test for the duration on which it is to be worn. Delicate lambskin and pastel colors can't be expected to stand up to rough usage.

—If it is wet, dry at room temperature, away from direct heat which will cause it to stiffen. Hang on a padded or well-shaped hanger to prevent the shoulders from losing their shape. Fan the garment with your fingers often while drying, and brush with a rubber sponge or soft bristle brush if it is suede.

—Most smooth and grained leathers may be easily cared for by wiping with a mild soap-and (not detergent) solution using warm water, then drying and buffing with a clean, dry cloth.

—Don't store garments in plastic bags or in warm closets with little ventilation. Grain leathers may fade and suede mildew.

—Leather can be preserved by using heavy, brown wrapping paper between the iron and the right side of the garment, working quickly and moving the iron constantly.

Dream Comes True

SASKATOON (CP) — Margaret Grandahl, whose childhood dream was to operate a nursing phomage, has cared for 100 foster children in 11 years. Mrs. Grandahl cares for infants awaiting adoption for periods ranging from one to nine months.

School Set Up

EDMONTON (CP) — A special school, the first in Alberta, has been set up for autistic children. The school's objective is to maintain more normal development in the children, with training concentrated in motor skills, language, self-help cognition and socialization.

In Edmonton

Emergency Centre Shelters Women

EDMONTON (CP) — At the women in the women's emergency accommodation centre you'll see women who are in different stages of getting it together.

The downtown centre assists homeless and transient women. The women, most of them in their teens 18 and 21 years of age, all are escaping from some sort of thing. Some have left parents behind.

"My dad is sending me money, so I'll stay away," said one young woman.

Many have come from the country or outside the province looking for work.

The centre receives 50 per cent of its funding from the provincial government and the building is supplied and maintained by the government. It has a budget of $130,000 per year.

There are 50 beds, full most of the time. Unlike the single centre you'd found across the street, women are permitted to stay in the building all day long.

Weekdays, they rise at 6 a.m., make their beds, and then go for breakfast at the men's basement cafeteria. From 10 a.m. until 1 p.m. the certificates are closed, but a recreation room in the basement with television, radio, chairs and tables, is open all day.

Lunch is at noon and supper at 4 p.m. The women are free to look for work, visit, whatever they choose, during the day but bedtime weekdays is 11 p.m.

On weekends the rising time at 10 a.m. and bedtime at 2 a.m.

The women say head supervisor Joan Evans and her 11 staff members are "cool."

There are a few complaints. Sometimes the regimentation is resented. There have been some incidents of lice infestation and some of the women with new comers were checked more closely.

Mostly, though, it's a clean, warm cocoon. There is no time limit period of residence, and some women stay for years. Others return periodically, when they can't cope with jobs or their personal hassles prove too much.

"It's our own fault that we're in here," said Jackie.

The women are defensive if asked why they don't get out and get working and make their own ways. They reiterate they're all at different stages of getting their stuff together.

Native women are in the minority and few of the women have ever been in jail.

There is a good feeling of camaderie between the centre women.

"We'll all go out and some times fight together," said Patty. "There's racism chicks here and real chicks here like everywhere else."

The women are referred to the centre through hospitals, police, government agencies and YWCA. Many come or their own.

"This place is helping me a lot," said Debby. "You see people come in beat up or doped up, much worse off than you. It makes you think, and helps you get started putting your life together again."

Ann Landers

Ann Scolds Alley-cat Husband

Dear Ann Landers: You hear from so many people it looks I thought you might appreciate a letter from someone who is sane for a change. My story might also make some hysterical woman think twice before she takes extreme measures against a husband who is having a fling.

My dad learned from one of her "friends" that I was seeing a young lady in my office. When confronted I admitted it and asked for time to get the young woman out of my system. My wife was very sensible and agreed to be patient.

For five months I had my own thing. My wife never asked questions when I phoned to say I wouldn't be home for dinner. She didn't throw a fit when I said I was going away for the weekend.

One day I decided my romance had run its string. I told my wife, her patient behavior was most admirable and that I was no longer interested in the other woman. Our marriage is better than ever and so am I.

Ann, I hope you will print this letter for all wives to read.—Gemini

Dear G.: I have no good conduct medals for the likes of you, Buster. Just because your wife didn't stick her head in the oven doesn't mean she wasn't deeply hurt.

Don't deceive yourself into believing your affair improved your marriage. Just consider yourself lucky your alley-cat thing didn't destroy it.

Dear Ann Landers: Please excuse the leaks at this letter but my wife and I are in a state of shock. Yesterday our daughter came home from college for the weekend. To our amazement she had a butterfly tattooed on one leg and a rose tattooed on the other. We didn't say anything, mainly because we didn't know WHAT to say. Thankfully her dresses and pants will cover the tattooing but her younger brother is very much impressed.

Should we say anything to her? What should we tell our son in case he's considering doing the same? Mary in 18 and Paul is 16.—Upset A Plenty

Dear Up: Say nothing to your daughter. We don't interested in your opinion or she'd have asked before having herself decorated like a circus freak.

If your son wants to have himself tattooed, suggest that he think about it until he's out of high school. Nice out of ten people who have gone in for tattoos(ah) and are sorry they did (today) say they were drunk (or ill, O.P.S. Tattoos can be removed, but it's a tedious and expensive procedure.)

Dear Ann Landers: Last night my alcoholic father drove home from a party—blinded out of his mind. It's a miracle he made it.

I realize some people can enjoy liquor and not abuse it, but others must drink until they get stoned. My dad is one of those.

I don't know how a host and hostess can permit a friend who is knowingly drunk to drive himself home.

Please print my letter and ask every host to insist that intoxicated guests be driven home by someone who is sober—or call a taxi—or drive them home themself.—Luck Can Last Only So Long

Dear Luck: Thank you for letter millions of people will identify with. The saddest thing about drunk drivers is that often they hit another car and take three or four innocent people with them.

Dear Ann Landers: Mary has been my friend for 18 years. I'm 49 and unmarried. One night when I was visiting in her house I admired the kitchen cabinets and asked what kind of paint she used. She said, "I'll have Pub get some for you." That's how it all began.

Bob had never been inside my apartment before. He came with the paint last Saturday and in no time at all he did the ceiling.

When I thanked him, he suddenly blurted out that I was the sexiest woman he had ever met and he had a secret desire for me. I was stunned and disgusted and practically shoved him out the door. The next day he phoned to say I insult you him. His pathologist says he needs a woman to talk to and I'm that woman. Now I feel rotten for not helping him solve his life's problems. Please advise at once.—Cow-Licked In Kansas

Dear K.: So his psychologist says he needs a woman to talk to? Well, how about his wife? Or a woman therapist?

If Bob calls again, read my advice to him right out of the paper. Then hang up.

Sending hearty wishes for all delectable things to fill your stockings to overflowing.

Merry Christmas and thanks.

HOLIDAY FOODS THAT ARE KIND TO GUESTS

From now through Twelfth Night you'll be greeting friends with everything from snack to full-course meals.

Festive food is a must, of course, but guests will appreciate light and zippy ones. "Open House", for instance, should lean heavily on fruits and vegetables, perhaps with yogurt or cottage cheese dips for the raw vegetables. Shrimp and crab are also low in calories, even with tomato cocktail sauce. And there'll be lots of demand for low calorie nut drinks.

For this Sunday's dinner and New Year's, consider lean roast beef as replacement or supplement for poultry or traditional New Year's ham. And for other guest ideas, get a copy of this year's Holiday Recipes in your Miracle Food Mart-Consumer Corner. Happy holidays!

MIRACLE FOOD MART WILL BE CLOSED BOXING DAY DECEMBER 26, 1975

Trenton Man Pleased With OPP Helicopter

TORONTO (CP) — Ray Fairman of Trenton, Ont., says he still finds it difficult to describe the relief and happiness he felt when an Ontario Provincial Police helicopter landed beside him recently.

"I was wet and cold after four days in the bush near White River," he said.

"I lives every night and cried for a day and a half so I couldn't have asked for a better sight."

The rescue of Mr. Fairman, who was hunting for moose when he became lost, was one of more than 800 missions OPP pilots have flown since the force got two Jet Ranger helicopters into service in November, 1974.

Mr. Fairman and the pilot and crew are as delighted as Mr. Fairman—the rescue service is also valuable in tracking down criminals, Constable Gerry Dowd said.

When Constable Dowd recently asked his pilot to fly near the ground so he could take a closer look at a suspicious-looking gathering in a field below, the OPP crew ended up arresting a group which allegedly had been in the midst of an illegal delivery of restricted drugs.

Police regularly investigate cars the helicopter crews sight in unusual locations because stolen cars are often abandoned in remote areas. Constable Dowd said several have been recovered this way.

The longest flight so far was 1,000 miles over rugged Northern Ontario wilderness to search for a missing Indian family.

It took two days of surveillance to find the seven who had been stranded without food after their snowmobile ran out of fuel.

Federal Guidelines Cloud Economic Forecasts for 1976

OTTAWA (CP) — Imposition of selected wage and price controls in mid-October, when the economy had already started to recover, added to the doubts that cloud the coming year's economic forecasts.

The general prospect is for more people to be out of work in 1976 but for some easing of pressure on household budgets as prices rise less rapidly than they did in 1975.

There is no consensus in government and private forecasts about the potential effect of the federal restraints program. It became law in mid-December and is to run for three years.

Unemployment will range up to eight to 8.5 per cent of the labor force, the Canadian Labor Congress (CLC) predicts. This compared with about seven per cent in 1975.

The CLC, representing about two million workers, strongly opposes the federal controls program, contending it will fall heavily on wage earners but will not control prices.

University of Toronto economists predict that consumer prices will rise by about 8.6 per cent in 1976 over it the restraints program works.

The government's announced goal is to hold the rise in consumer prices to about four per cent by 1978. Wage hosts are to be held to eight per cent in the first year of contracts signed after Oct 14, six per cent in the second year and four per cent in the third.

Additional allowances of two per cent are allowed as a worker's share of increased productivity plus four per cent as a catch-up for groups that have fallen behind the majority, giving a maximum gain of 14 per cent in the first year. Price rises are to be held to what is needed to recover higher production costs.

The anti-inflation board, monitoring agency for the restraints program, will require more than 200 large companies and their subsidiaries to give 30 days' notice of price rises that exceed two per cent of annual gross revenues.

Aside from some pressure on processors and distributors, food prices will not be directly controlled. Thomas Bolton, president of Dominion Stores Ltd., predicts food prices will rise 15 per cent in 1976.

A 60-day price freeze imposed on non-perishable goods by major supermarket chains in mid-November is unlikely to have lasting effect. But it is expected to help hold retail food price rises to slightly under 15 per cent for 1976.

The government spent most of 1975 firming up its program for handling the economy. The failure early in the year of voluntary restraints on wage and price demands, after labor refused its support, was followed by a federal budget in June.

John Turner, then finance minister, predicted a cut in federal spending of $1 billion. But the cuts were in spending plans and did not reduce the government's over-all expenditures.

By the end of the year, the government had launched another cost-cutting exercise to show its commitment to restraint. A new budget was expected early in the new year to underline the federal position.

After Mr. Turner's resignation in September, Donald MacDonald moved from energy to the finance portfolio. It was under his guidance that the selective controls were imposed.

The controls program came as inflation had started to moderate. During the summer the annual rate ran in excess of 12 per cent. After September, it eased to about 10.5 per cent.

The economy began to recover about mid-year after nearly a year of flat or negative growth. By the third quarter, the real value of goods and services was growing at an annual rate of four per cent.

But even with continued strong growth in the final three months of 1975, gross national product was expected to show no real growth or even a slight decline for 1975.

More consumer spending and a revival of the housing industry were expected to lead the economy to real growth of between four and five per cent in 1976.

But businesses still appeared reluctant to invest. The Canadian Imperial Bank of Commerce forecast that capital spending for plant and equipment, which means jobs, will cease in 1976, partly because of uncertainty about the controls program.

Housing construction, in a slump for most of 1975, began to recover late in the year. The government announced a program to attract $750 million more from financial institutions in 1976 to build homes for low- and middle-income families.

The United States was coming out of a deep recession during much of 1975 and appeared set for a continuing strong recovery. This would have a major impact on Canada's economy.

However, some U.S. resentment over such Canadian policies as Saskatchewan's nationalization of part of the potash industry, affecting U.S.-owned companies, aroused fears of possible retaliatory moves.

Stockholm Claims Longest Art Gallery

STOCKHOLM (Reuter) — A new, lavishly-appointed Stockholm underground line had been dubbed the world's longest art gallery.

The line, covering 8.5 miles beginning near the central station and heading to the northern suburb of Hjulsta, cost $165 million and continues the local tradition of decorating stations to lift the monotony of commuter travel.

Previously, stations along Stockholm's 36-mile underground network were mostly ornamented with ceramics, sculptures and high reliefs, together with distinctive sandblasted graffiti at the downtown Oestermalmstorg station. Walls were strictly geometrical.

But the latest vogue is to relain and even stress the grotto character of the stations tunnels.

Their roughly-blasted ceilings and walls have been sprayed with paint, sometimes in primary colors, sometimes in more unobtrusive shades.

One exception is Hjulsta terminal, where six artists have produced easy-to-change pieces of stand-ut dimensions on materials such as laminate board and sheet aluminum.

Central station is a fairy-tale grotto in various shades of blue, including "shadow paintings" of flowers by Per-Olof Ultvedt.

Hallonbergen station is all-white and ornamented with children's drawings and fantasy figures. At Tensta, huge murals also bring the child's fantasy world to life, and multilingual inscriptions point up the suburb's large immigrant population.

At Solna Centrum, artists Karl-Olov Bjoerk and Anders Asberg have depicted a forest area in northern Sweden where the pleasures of fishing and berry-picking are sometimes threatened by pollution and pesticides.

Other decorations include golden mosaics, a life-sized fishing boat and white wooden ski harnesses with a wingspan of 12 feet.

Artists' fees for the line—with the largest sums spent on the more heavily-used stations closed to the centre of Stockholm—totalled $312,000. Some of the 25 artists completed their part project work in three or four months while others labored for almost a year.

Their materials were included in the over-all cost of the transit system.

"After all, we have to paint the stations anyway," said a Stockholm county council official. "But we prefer to do so in a positive rather than in a merely adequate way."

Artificial Christmas Trees Gaining Share of Market

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Real Christmas trees — some people swear by them — they swear as they put them in the car, swear as they take them out and swear as they try to get them to stand upright in the living room.

More and more people every year are avoiding the hassles of the real Christmas tree and turning to more expensive but re-usable artificial trees.

Fire prevention insp. Paul Stephenson of Belleville Fire Department said although he still buys a real tree at Christmas the "great majority of people are changing to artificial trees".

"There is no doubt they are better than real trees as far as safety is concerned," said insp. Stephenson.

Most Christmas tree fires, said insp. Stephenson, are caused by carelessness, using improper or unsafe lights.

"We haven't had many fires in Belleville attributed to Christmas trees or lights," he said.

Ron Fox of Walker Hardware Co. Ltd., 250 Front St. said they are selling more artificial trees than in previous years but some stores don't carry them.

He said they are a difficult item to predict sales volume, are expensive and take up a lot of space.

Customers, said Mr. Fox, have mentioned to him they are hard to find.

Most of the artificial trees they sell, he said, are of high quality and more expensive than those sold in previous years.

Green colored authentic looking trees ranging in price from about $12 for a 4½-foot tree to about $20 for a seven foot tree are the only ones they carry. Multi-colored trees are no longer popular, he said.

Customers are particularly interested in the safety aspects of artificial trees. The growing popularity, said Mr. Fox, is also due to more families living in apartments where artificial trees are preferred.

"When people buy an artificial tree they buy a quality tree," said Mr. Fox.

Insp. Stephenson warns purchasers of artificial trees to check directions concerning the type of lights to use.

All trees are flame resistant, said Mr. Fox, but low energy strings of bulbs must be used.

Heat from older hot-burning strings of lights can melt the plastic trees.

Ross Row of Smith Dominion Hardware, 324 Front St., said they are going out of carrying Christmas decorations or artificial trees. Excluding demand, said Mr. Row, is too difficult to predict and there is too much carry over of stock to the next Christmas.

Like the Real Thing

Velma Johnson of Walker Home Hardware, 250 Front St., places a branch in an artificial tree. Popularity of authentic-looking artificial Christmas trees has increased due to savings over a number of years, safety and avoiding clean up problems of real trees, say retailers.

Santa Hard Pressed to Fill These Gift Requests

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Santa Claus will be hard pressed to find a way of wrapping the gifts that Belleville's chief public figures hope to find under the tree this Christmas.

For Hastings MP Jack Ellis, reaching for the sky is one way of describing his Christmas wishes.

"Last year I asked for a twin-engine aircraft and I didn't get it. I'm still waiting for it," he said.

"Seriously, I wish for good health for my family and myself," said the Hasting member.

Mr. Ellis' sentiments were echoed by Belleville Mayor Ben Corke. Although the mayor is quick to make light of his "Scrooge" appearance, he wished "peace and goodwill" as a present this year.

Belleville Fire Chief Leo Culhane might be the luckiest man in town this Christmas.

"Everybody wants something," said the chief. "Aside from continued good health, I'm thankful for what I have."

As a postscript, the chief said "last year I asked for a pumper and I'm going to get one."

Quinte MPP Hugh O'Neil doesn't stand a chance of finding his Christmas wish under the tree.

HUGH O'NEIL

CHIEF CROSBIE

All he wants for Christmas, besides health and prosperity for riding residents, is 20 more Liberal seats in the house at Queen's Park. Maybe for next Christmas?

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie says "I want something under the tree that will guarantee no impaired drivers and something to help stop vandalism in the city."

Retailers Report Green Christmas

BY CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

A survey of local merchants indicates Christmas sales are brisk with many consumers buying higher quality items.

"We've never seen anything like it," said Gerry O'Connor of O'Connor Jewel Box, 212 Front St., referring to volume of sales.

"We seem to have the items people want," said Mr. O'Connor and mentioned the "uncertainty" all merchants feel early in the year trying to predict what will be popular at Christmas.

Silver charms, he said, have sold better than in previous years. "We've never sold so many."

He said customers are investing in silver and gold and more expensive stones.

"Identification bracelets are just going crazy," he said, adding light emitting diode wristwatches starting at about $100 are becoming very popular.

Barry Hayes of Esquire Men's Wear, 228 Front St., said customers are buying higher quality items: "People want a quality now."

"People are making more money and buying things of high quality and don't want to go back to buying substitute items," said Mr. Hayes.

He said he noticed more customers coming in to make purchases with the person for who the gift is intended.

"They want to avoid the hassles of returning items that don't fit," he said.

Paul Leverton of Reward Shoes, 229 Front St., said they've sold a lot of slippers and boots.

He said they haven't sold many purses: "No one has any money to carry in them."

Ross Row of Smith Dominion Hardware, 324 Front St., said they have run out of nine Christmas items.

Customers are especially interested in high quality kitchen appliances.

"Anything related to gourmet cooking has sold well," said Doug Row.

"A week of business now clears your stock out in a hurry", said Ross Row.

They doesn't seem to be a shortage of money if people want it they buy it," said Ross Row.

Call Early

Bell Canada operator Ruby Day is one of over 30 operators in Belleville who will work over the Christmas season to make long-distance calling easier. But utility spokesmen say to make her job easier and your call go through faster . . . call early.

Bell Busy Preparing For Surge of Calls

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

There are no tricks, no short cuts, in fact, little the public can do to get through to overseas relatives quickly by telephone Christmas Day, traditionally the busiest day of the year for Bell Canada.

"Please be patient and keep trying," advises Rhoda Fletcher, chief traffic operator for Bell Canada in Belleville.

You might have to wait for an open overseas line for up to two hours, says information officer Patricia Howell, but eventually you'll get through.

Calls Christmas Day jump by 240 per cent over a normal business day, with about 11,250 long-distance calls are handled.

Actually, says Mrs. Fletcher, Christmas Eve is a better day to call Uncle George in Manchester, England. During the day, only 71 per cent of the normal daily volume of calls are received.

And calling the day before Christmas is one way of circumventing the heavy telephone traffic Dec. 25.

There are other ways to get Canada is helping the public to do just but.

During Christmas week, extra staff will be on the switchboards, Bell Canada, says Mrs. Fletcher, nine university students who have worked at Bell in summer will supplement the usual 34 board operators.

You can help by knowing the number you want before you call. Mrs. Howell says that the operator could get you your number, "but certainly, it would slow down the process."

And call during off-peak hours on business days, not between 10 a.m. and noon and 2 p.m. and 4 p.m.

Sundays, early afternoons and evenings are busiest.

Holiday Hours

Post offices, most banks and retail liquor store outlets will be closed Christmas and Boxing Day.

Most banks in the province will be closed Dec. 25 to 29 making it a four-day bank holiday.

There is to be no mail service Christmas and Boxing days. The post office will not open until 10 a.m. on Dec. 27 when they will be open until 5 p.m. Regular post office hours do not resume until next Monday.

Liquor Retail stores will be closed Christmas Day, Boxing Day and New Year's Day. They will be open Dec. 31. Liquor Control Board of Ontario stores will follow the same hours.

Belleville Transit Commission buses will not run Christmas or Boxing Day. Tomorrow bus service will be curtailed starting after stores close at 6 p.m.

Seniors Not Forgotten

BY SUSAN McCONNELL
Staff Reporter

Christmas means a hectic schedule for the residents of senior citizens homes.

But for many, the special part of Christmas is not the parties and entertainment. It's a visit from friends and relatives.

"Christmas is always special for people in the home who don't have active relatives," said Glen Whitehead, administrator of Hastings Manor. "It's nice to see people during the festive season but not those who visit throughout the year are more important.

Homes for the aged, including Hastings Manor, Bellcrest Villa and Maple Haven, plan special programs for the holiday season. Carol singing, a gift exchange and the traditional turkey dinner is always on the schedule.

The homes receive visits from high school bands and some elementary school children who perform their annual Christmas pageant. Parties, tree decorating, visits from church groups, outings to local theatres and shopping trips are also on the agenda.

Girl Guides, Brownies and the Canadian Girls in Training paid special visits to Maple Haven this year. A carol singing is planned for Christmas Eve with the Belleville Christian Chinese Fellowship group.

At Bellcrest Villa, the residents made the Christmas decorations and are preparing basket favors for exchange on Christmas day. A bus trip to see the lights and decorations in Belleville is also planned.

But in spite of the plans by the staff, administrators stress the most important aspect is visits from family and friends.

"We have a tremendous number of people who phone at Christmas but where are they the rest of the year?" commented Mr. Whitehead.

A Brief Glimpse at Christmas Past

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Free sprigs of holly and mistletoe imported from England, read the newspaper advertisements.

That's what George Wallbridge, grocer and wine merchant, offered his Belleville customers just before Christmas 100 years ago.

In a tribute to Christmas past, we took a brief look recently through our files to discover gift ideas during the last 100 years.

Brodie's Drug Store advertised in The Daily Ontario that a "large lot of bulbs" for winter and spring planting had just arrived.

There weren't many ads for toys but Mr. Wallbridge told residents he had a good supply of Christmas groceries including table raisins, loose Muscatels, currants and fresh mixed spices.

Conger Brothers offered teas and sugars "all of superior quality".

"The newest thing in furniture," was offered by G. S. Tickells. "Cheaper than ever", read the advertisement for folding spring lounge beds.

As a gift suggestion, Walsh's Commercial House on Front St., offered 50,000 boxes of paper collars: "Your choice for five cents — worth 10 cents and 15 cents a box."

They also had 70 dozen "handsome bow ties" for five cents each, boys shirts and 20 dozen corsets worth 60 cents for only 30 cents.

By Christmas 1920, 55 years ago, Charlie Chaplan was starring in the silent film The Vagabond at Griffin Pictures in Belleville. Mack Sennett's latest five-reel comedy, Down on the Farm, was also scheduled for Dec. 24 showing.

Bishop's Seed Store suggested readers "shorten the long winter evenings with the corn". It was on sale at 15 cents a pound.

B. Oliphant and Son, 44 Bridge St., offered mixed nuts at 30 cents a pound.

Watkins Ltd., "The Christmas Store", offered ladies boxed handkerchiefs at 75 cents each.

"If you're undecided what to give the dearest woman of the world," read the advertisement. The Hydro Shop, 22 Bridge St., suggested a vacuum cleaner.

G. T. Woodley, 273 Front St., had heavy trimmed coats on sale for $275.

At Sivolski's, coat and suit sales had been almost cut in half before Christmas 55 years ago. Included in the sale, they had coats on sale for $14.95.

By 1945 mixed nuts had jumped to 35 cents a pound.

Lipsons had 100 pairs of silk hose at 79 cents each and George McFee Jewellers offered "12 pieces silver place settings as "rare gift that says it all" from $14.35.

Old Favorites, New Prices

This photo reproduction of an advertisement from a 1953 edition of The Intelligencer will bring back a touch of nostalgia for many Belleville area Christmas shoppers. It shows that sales tactics have changed in the past 22 years due to the increasing number of sophisticated wares — especially toys — but the lower prices of that year will probably attract the most attention. Parents and grandparents alike, as they go over this holiday season's family budget, are likely hankering for a return to yesteryear.

Arbitrator Dishes Up Contractual Delights

Glamor Boys Thrown Grand Slam Decision

NEW YORK (AP) — Peter Seitz, the impartial arbitrator who combed Catfish Hunter towards a $3.75-million pot of gold, waved his magic wand Tuesday and ruled that pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally were free agents.

Seitz said that both pitchers played the 1975 season without signing contracts and, accordingly, have ended their contractual commitments. Messersmith with Los Angeles Dodgers and McNally with Montreal Expos.

Messersmith, a high-quality pitcher with two 20-victory campaigns under his belt and a 19-14 record last season, could command some sky-high bids from the major league teams.

On the other hand, McNally, who left the Expos last June be cause his arm was wasted, may only be worn dirt.

So it appears that Messersmith will be 1976's glamor boy and most wanted man, just like Hunter was one year ago. Hunter signed his lucrative pact with New York Yankees after leaving Oakland A's.

But it also appears there may be a lot of competition for that title in 1977.

On Dec. 20, all individual contracts had to be mailed to the major league players. Paragraph 10 (a), the renewal clause, which Seitz said could be invoked by the owners only if they had signed one of these contracts.

Marvin Miller, executive director of the Major League Players Association who joined Seitz in voting 2 to 1 against owners' agent John Gaherin in Tuesday's decision, says each player's contract is an independents document — separate from the labor contract between players and the owners.

Miller says the labor contract expires Dec. 31 but those individual contracts are a different matter. If a player does not sign his contract by March 1 and is told within 10 days of March 1 by his owner that the owner is reserving the contract in accordance with 10 (a), then the player may perform in the 1976 season without a contract.

And presto, he's an unsigned free agent.

Miller said it doesn't matter what happens in the forthcoming collective bargaining between the players' association and the owners on a new labor contract.

"The (a) is part of the individual contracts," Miller said. "And Tuesday's decision immediately affects almost every contract and any contract.

Miller said the only exceptions to this were players with multi-year contracts covering the 1976 season, players who already have signed one-year contracts for 1976 and players who go to salary arbitration, if there is salary arbitration, in 1976.

The American and National Baseball Associations completed his contractual commitments. But he said in the last five years, only nine players have switched leagues.

Baseball commissioner Bowie Kuhn, however, predicted disaster.

(Jim) Hunter last year. It was quite evident he wasn't tuned in on our business then. We should have relieved him then."

Seitz ruled last winter that Hunter, a star pitcher with Oakland A's, was a free agent. Hunter became the focal point of a bidding war eventually won by New York Yankees

"We agree an arbitrator should be able to handle garden variety grievances," McHale said. "We certainly don't think he should rule on foundation issues.

"Heavens, we've had the highest courts in the land rule against us on issues we have that overturned by one judge!"

aster.

"I am enormously disturbed by this arbitration," Cohn said. "If this interpretation prevails, baseball's reserve system will be eliminated by the rokes of a single arbitrator. Now is a disaster for the great majority of the players, the clubs, and most of all, the fans."

And Miller, pleased by the latest ruling, was looking ahead for more gains by his union.

"You have to look at this decision in the proper perspective," Miller said. "The ruling itself covers only one facet of the reserve system. Now there's a safety valve for a dissatisfied player, and baseball has been raised toward the level of other sports."

Football, hockey and basketball give their players the chance to switch teams after they comply with certain procedures. But MacPhail thinks a similar plan for baseball would damage his sport more than the others.

The American and National League offices maintain that the clubs will not bid on the two pitchers, at least until a decision is rendered in federal court.

"At this time, our clubs have not been advised that players Messersmith and McNally are free to negotiate with other clubs," said a statement from MacPhail and Chub Feeney, president of the NL.

So Messersmith, at least, is a free agent in search of a market place. Moss thinks he can find him one.

On Tuesday, Moss filed a counterclaim asking the federal court to order enforcement of Seitz' arbitration award.

Moss said he hoped for hearing on his counterclaim by Jan. 1 and if the players receive a favorable ruling, the owners would legally have to make an effort to sign them. If not, Moss said the owners would be in contempt of court.

McHale Pleased Seitz Was Fired

MONTREAL (CP) — John McHale, president of Montreal Expos, said Tuesday that baseball arbitrator Peter Seitz freed minutes after he ruled pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally free agents, should have been dismissed earlier.

"We should have done it a long time before," said McHale, at a meeting of the National Messersmith of Los Angeles Dodgers and McNally, who quit the Expos in June, have the right to bargain with other teams.

"I was the only one to vote to have him fired two months ago—make that three months ago," said McHale of Seitz.

"We completely disagree with his decision. Then, we disagreed with his decision on in the past, any player going to salary arbitration had to sign a contract, with the impartial arbitrator merely filling in a final figure.

Seitz agreed with Miller's interpretation of the free-agent potential of the 1976 individual contracts. Lee MacPhail, president of the American League, said he didn't know what affect Tuesday's decision would have on the individual contracts.

So what does all this mean?

The answers vary according to what side of the player-management fence you're on.

Dick Moss, counsel for the players' association who argued the Messersmith-McNally cases last month, said the decision "will not lead to many players leaving teams."

He pointed to basketball, in which a player can move be-

Seitz Fully Aware Of Owners Picture

NEW YORK (AP) — Arbitrator Peter M. Seitz said Tuesday he was not unmindful that baseball officials contended their sport would suffer great harm if Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally, were declared free agents.

But, Seitz wrote in his 67-page opinion which made the two pitchers free agents, that baseball's future was not the issue he was deciding.

At the end of his decision, Seitz discussed the fears of baseball officials, and why he could not take them into account.

"It was represented to me that any decision . . . sustaining the Messersmith and McNally grievances would have drastic results, wreak great harm to the reserve system and do serious damage to the sport of baseball," he wrote.

"Thus, for example, it was stated that a decision favoring these grievants would encourage many other players to elect to become free agents . . . that this would encourage clubs with the largest monetary resources to engage free agents, thus upsetting the competitive balance between clubs . . .

"That it would increase enormously the already large cost of training and seasoning young players . . . .

"That driven by compulsion to win, owners of franchises would over-extend themselves financially in improvident bidding for players in an economic climate in which, today, some clubs are strained financially."

Seitz said he "did not purport to appraise these systemic issues."

"Some of the fears may be imaginary or exaggerated," he said. "But some may be reasonable, realistic and sound. After all, they were voiced by distinguished baseball officials with long experience in the sport and a background, by judgment in such matters much superior to my own."

However, Seitz said, it was not for the arbitration panel to determine what, if anything, is good or bad about the reserve system.

"The panel's sole duty is to interpret and apply the agreements and understandings of the parties. If any of the expressed apprehensions and fears are soundly based, I am confident that the dislocations and damage to the reserve system can be avoided or minimized through good faith collective bargaining between the parties."

Matt Leyden Dead

OSHAWA Ont. (CP) — Matt Leyden, a prominent figure in amateur hockey in Ontario for more than 50 years, died Tuesday. He was 71.

A former manager of the Oshawa Junior A club from 1928 until 1953, Leyden was a life member of the Ontario Hockey Association which he served as president from 1935 to 1967.

In 1972, on his 50th anniversary of involvement in amateur hockey, he donated a trophy to the OHA Junior A series to be awarded annually to the league's top coach.

This year the Major Junior A league created a new two-division league and one of the divisions carries Leyden's name.

In 1956, the OHA presented Leyden with its gold stick award for outstanding service.

During his term as general manager, the Oshawa Junior club won seven consecutive OHA championships and three Memorial Cup national titles.

A funeral service has been sch-eduled for Saturday.

Buffalo's Ballhandlers Turn Tiger on Boston

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Randy Smith used to be one n. the worst free-throw shooters in the National Basketball Association. Now he's a tiger on the best.

"It's sure concentration," n. ceid the Buffalo guard. "I block everything else out of my mind. Now I've got all the confidence in the world."

Smith's ability to make the free throw was obvious Tuesday night—when he hit 13 of 15 shots to help the Braves beat Boston Celtics 128-109.

Smith's near-perfect foul shooting raised his season's average to more than 90 per cent and allowed him to score 31 points over all.

The Braves played without centre Bob McAdoo, the NBA's leading scorer who sat out the game with a strained back. But the shooting of Smith and his backcourt mate, Ken Charles, more than made up for McAdoo's absence.

Charles had 15 of his 23 points in the first quarter.

In other NBA games, Washington Bullets beat Detroit Pistons 120-102; Houston Rockets defeated New Orleans Jazz 105-97; Los Angeles Lakers walloped Kansas City Kings 111-97 and Portland Trail Blazers whipped Seattle Supersonics 125-108.

In the American Basketball Association, it was: New York Nets 107, Kentucky Colonels 104; Utah Stars of St. Louis 115, Virginia Squires 103; and Indiana Pacers 111, San Antonio Spurs 104.

GHHL Race Tightens

Rob Foster scored four times and assisted on two others as Sel-Con Engineering put together their strongest offensive output of the 1975-76 Gas House Hockey League campaign and routed Procter & Gamble 10-5.

In other Tuesday GHHL games, Bob's Sports edged Constellation Carpets 4-2 and Bayview Orchards downed Murray's Food Market 6-3.

The victory moved Sel-Con into a tie for fourth place with 15 points. Jeff Bradshaw scored twice for the winners and Brian Yearwood, Robert Holloway, Stewart Foster and Tim Bradshaw each scored once. Tim Bradshaw and Lynn Burley also collected four assists apiece.

Rae McNeil tallied twice for Procter & Gamble and Al Hesen, Greg Paton and Al Hodges scored singles.

Bob's moved one point into first place with their victory giving them 31 points on the season. Ray Summers had two goals and Bob Mulvihill and Russ Harrington one each.

Ken Kerik and Bill Yull replied for Constellation.

Bob Dolan topped Bayview's scoring attack with two goals, but George Jacklin checked in as the game's top point getter. He scored once and earned four assists. Hydie Bryant, Ken Bertrand and Hugh Holmes were the other marksmen.

Bertie Roper did all Murray's scoring.

Aerial Attacks Proven More Potent in CFL

TORONTO (CP) — The Grey Cup champions proved that the pass was mightier than the run in 1975 Canadian Football League action.

CFL team statistics released Tuesday show that the Grey Cup champion Edmonton Eskimos had the weakest running attack and the strongest passing offence.

Edmonton averaged only 4.1 yards per rushing play in the 16-game schedule while Montreal Alouettes their Grey Cup opponents, were only slightly better. The Als led with Sam Ketchum Roughriders and Hamilton Tiger-Cats with the second poorest rushing attacks, all averaging 4.4 yards.

Ottawa Rough Riders had the best rushing average with a 5.2 figure while Toronto Argonauts and Calgary Stampeders, who missed the playoffs, were second best, both with 5.0 rushing averages.

Edmonton was tops in total yards gained with 3,938, and Ottawa was second with 3,487. Edmonton's total included only 1,326 net yards by rushing and 2,612 by passing.

Eskimos quarterback Tom Wilkinson and Rider Larry Lecznar averaged nine yards on each pass completion. Winnipeg Blue Bombers and British Columbia Lions were second in the passing department with a 7.9 average.

The poorest passing attack was Toronto's with a 6.5-yard average.

The team record for penalties took the biggest beating during the 1975 season with Ottawa on top with the new marks of 142 penalties and 1,202 penalty yards. Toronto, Saskatchewan, Edmonton and B.C. joined Ottawa in topping the previous record of 134 penalties in a season held by Hamilton and Montreal.

One reason for the increased penalties was the new rule allowing pass-return blocking. This led to numerous violations of the five-year restraining zone and illegal blocking infractions.

Snowmobilers Get Chance To Prepare

Area snowmobile jockeys will be interested in hearing of the recent formation of Lingston Speedway's Time-up Competition on Boxing Day.

It was announced Tuesday the Speedway has decided to offer racers an event to prepare their machines for Sunday's Quinte Cup, held annually at Quinte Exhibition Raceway.

"We figured some of the drivers would appreciate a place to check out their machines," said the track's owner, Jim Sarasin.

Registrations for all 11 classes are from 9-11 a.m. at the track and actual competition gets under way at noon. Should it go beyond dusk, the track's excellent lighting facility will be utilized.

The track is located one-quarter mile north of 401 on Division Street.

MINISTRY of HOUSING
Ontario Rent Review Program

The Ontario Rent Review Program has been established under the Residential Premises Rent Review Act to monitor rental levels for residential premises throughout the Province and to adjudicate disputes between landlords and tenants arising from increases in rents. The reviews will be carried out by local rent review officers whose decisions may be appealed to the Residential Premises Rent Review Board. The following executive, administrative and technical positions are now available in the Rent Review Program Division of the Ministry, the Secretariat for the Rent Review Board, or in local rent review offices. These are contract positions and are all located in Toronto.

Director, Program Operational Support: $23,400 - $32,500
Responsible for a comprehensive technical, professional and administrative Province-wide support service for the program. This will involve planning and co-ordinating legal, financial, audit, information and staff training support services to ensure that the delivery objectives of the program can be met. File MH-2000

Director, Regional Operations (3): $23,400 - $32,500
Reporting to the Executive Director, you will primarily be responsible for the effective delivery of the program for a specific region of the Province and for ensuring the effective application of the Rent Review Program. More specifically, your duties will include liaising and consulting with senior Ministry officials, reviewing and appraising established techniques and procedures and recommending changes required to ensure the effectiveness of the program. File MH-2001

Co-ordinator, Program Planning and Development: $20,900 - $26,400
Reporting to the Executive Director, to be responsible for monitoring the program, researching its effects and socio-economic implications and making recommendations for improvements. This will involve continual liaison with Rent Review staff regarding the progress and administration of the program, interpretation of policy and identification and resolution of problems. File MH-2002

Manager, Technical Support: $23,400 - $24,500
Responsible for planning, co-ordinating and supervising the activities of a team of professionals including financial and property management staff engaged in providing advice and technical assistance to rent review officers. File MH-2004

Co-ordinator, Systems Development: $20,500 - $25,700
Responsible for assessing the systems requirements of the program, advising and recommending alternatives and co-ordinating the development and implementation of new or revised systems. This position is the liaison between the management systems staff of the Ministry and the staff of the Rent Review Program. File MH-2003

Registrar, Residential Premises Rent Review Board: $20,000 - $25,000
Reporting to the Chairman, Residential Premises Rent Review Board, you will be required to exercise considerable initiative and judgement in co-ordinating appeals to the board and in providing a wide range of administrative and technical assistance and expertise to the Chairman and board members. File MH-2009

Legal Advisor: $19,200 - $24,300
Responsible for providing legal advice and expertise to personnel involved in all areas of the program. This will include analyzing and researching specific problems, studying their legal implications and advising regarding appropriate legal procedures. In addition, considerable liaison with internal and external solicitors will be required. File MH-2007

Audit Advisor: $16,500 - $20,200
Working in consultation with the Audit Branch of the Ministry, you will be initially responsible for the establishment of auditing standards and procedures for the program. Additional duties will include the review and appraisal of the management controls, operating procedures and accounting practices employed throughout the program and to report any weaknesses with appropriate recommendations. File MH-2008

Manager, Staff Training: $15,900 - $19,200
In this position you will research, recommend, implement and administer staff training and development for Rent Review Program staff in all areas of the Province. This will necessitate liaison with staff at all levels to assess and advise regarding training needs, arranging for and, where necessary, designing programs to meet these needs and monitoring their success. File MH-2005

Staffing Control Officer: $13,600 - $16,000
As liaison between the Ministry Personnel Branch and the Rent Review Program staff, you will become involved in a variety of personnel related activities including counselling and salary and benefits administration. You will also be responsible for monitoring staff allocations and ensuring that adequate staff is available for all areas of the Program. File MH-2010

Manager, Administrative Support Services: $12,800 - $15,000
Assume overall responsibility for the planning, organization and administration of the following support areas: budget control, payroll and office services. This will require identifying specific needs in each of these fields, developing appropriate methodology and implementing effective procedures to satisfy these requirements. File MH-2006

General Qualifications: Applicants for these positions will have had considerable experience at the senior management level and/or in an administrative position, as well as a strong background in one or other of the following fields: finance, law, property management, economics and personnel administration.

Please submit resumés immediately, indicating appropriate file number to: Personnel Branch, Ministry of Housing, 3rd Floor, 60 Bloor Street West, Toronto, Ontario. For additional information call toll-free 1-800-261-7095. In the Toronto area 923-2997.
These positions are open equally to men and women.

Calgary Stampedes; Mariners Fill Nets While Records Set

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The struggling Toronto Toros are getting little sympathy from their World Hockey Association opponents.

For that matter, neither are Quebec Nordiques who lost 10-4 in a game Tuesday night against San Diego Mariners. The Mariners set league records with a total of 64 shots on goal and in the first period.

Calgary Cowboys added to the Toros' problems with a 5-2 victory Tuesday, handing the Toronto team its 20th defeat in 25 games.

For the second game in a row, the Toros were without coach Bobby Ross who has taken a leave of absence. An assistant manager Gilles Leger, who directed the Toros to a 4-2 win over Edmonton Oilers last Sunday, has apparently told the club he won't be back. Ross, a coach to take a week's leave of absence is now how the team does without him.

Last year, Billy Harris—former coach of the Toros—asked for and received a two-week leave of absence. He never returned.

In other games, Winnipeg Jets defeated the Oilers 4-2, Phoenix Roadrunners downed Cincinnati Stingers 5-3 and Minnesota Fighting Saints beat Denver Spurs 5-4.

The Cowboys came up with their highest scoring total of the season in defeating the Toros 5.10 Tuesday in Calgary.

Danny Lawson, Butch Deadmarsh and Bobby Leiter, all members of one Calgary line, each had a pair of goals. Lawson and Deadmarsh also picked up two assists and Leiter, who has scored five goals in six games since joining the Cowboys from Atlanta Flames of the National Hockey League, added an assist.

Mario Viti started in the Toros' goal.

Two Yuletide Chapeaux Worn

By SCOTT ABBOTT
The Canadian Press

Marcel Dionne of Los Angeles Kings and Ivan Boldirev of Chicago Black Hawks have several days to savor their three-goal performances in National Hockey League action Tuesday night.

Dionne registered his third three-goal game of the season as the Kings downed Boston Bruins 4-3 while Boldirev's three goals paced Chicago in its 4-1 win over St. Louis Blues.

In other games, Philadelphia Flyers and Atlanta Flames tied 3-3, New York Rangers edged Pittsburgh Penguins 4-3 and Buffalo Sabres defeated Kansas City Scouts 5-1.

Play resumes Friday night following a Christmas break.

Kings goalie Gary Edwards, making his 13th appearance of the year as Rogatien Vachon's backup, turned aside 40 shots as the B'nins enjoyed a big edge over the 20-shot Los Angeles attack. But defensive errors cost the Bruins the game and let the Kings snap a four-game losing streak.

Butch Goring got the other Los Angeles goal against netminder Gilles Gilbert, while Gregg Sheppard with two and veteran Johnny Bucyk provided Boston's goals.

Boldirev's three goals at Chicago helped the Hawks hand St. Louis its fourth straight loss. The Blues have not won since Dec. 14, when they beat the Hawks 4-3 in Lyon, Patrick's first appearance as Garry Young's coaching successor.

Grant Mulvey scored the first Chicago goal and Derek Sanderson replied for the Blues in the third period when the Hawks led 3-0. Boldirev rounded out the scoring with his 19th goal of the year.

Philadelphia's Bobby Clarke got past Flames defenseman Ed Kea to score the tying goal at 18:19 of the final period at Atlanta.

Dan Saleski opened the scoring for the Flyers midway through the second period but Claude St. Sauveur and Bill Flett put the Flames ahead 2-1 by 8:28 of the third.

Rod Gilbert and rookie Ed Johnstone scored 72 seconds apart in the second period and the Rangers got other goals from Carol Vadnais and Pete Stemkowski to beat Pittsburgh. A makeshift line of Stemkowski, Walt Tkaczuk and Johnstone got cautious praise from coach Ron Stewart.

"That's not a bad line," said Stewart, perhaps worried about excessive enthusiasm in New York where fans have turned bearish after a downturn in the club's fortunes.

"It was a real good defensive game," Stewart said. "We almost blew it out away but we regrouped in time."

Pittsburgh's Rod Schock scored in the second period, but Stewart was most concerned when former New York captain Vic Hadfield fired his 19th and 20th goals in the third to cut into a 4-1 lead.

Buffalo goalie Roger Crozier lost his shutout bid at 14:18 of the third period when Craig Patrick scored on a breakaway but that was all that was in doubt at Kansas City.

Richard Martin, Jacques Richard, Fred Stanfield, Don Luce and Craig Ramsay had put the Sabres up 5-0 as the overmatched Scouts contended with the absence of coach Bep Guidolin, at home in Barrie, Ont., because of an illness in his family.

The victory gave Buffalo a five-point edge over Boston atop the Adams Division.

NFC Pro Bowl Selections

Vikes, Cards Dominate

NEW YORK (AP) — Fran Tarkenton of Minnesota Vikings has been named starting quarterback for the National Conference team when it takes on the American Conference team in the National Football League's annual Pro Bowl on Jan. 26.

Tarkenton leads seven Minnesota players into the starting lineup for the game at the Superdome in New Orleans. Other Vikings named to start on offence are wide receiver John Gilliam, tackle Ron Yary, guard Ed White and running back Chuck Foreman.

Minnesota's contributions to the defence are tackle Alan Page and middle linebacker Jeff Siemon.

St. Louis Cardinals has six starters — including wide receiver Mel Gray, tackle Dan Dierdorf, guard Conrad Dobler, centre Tom Banks and running back Terry Metcalf on offence on defense.

With Minnesota and St. Louis dominating the offence, the lone Eagle is tight end Charles Young of Philadelphia Eagles.

Other defensive starters are ends Jack Youngblood of Los Angeles Rams and Ocdrick Hardman of San Francisco 49ers, outside linebackers Chris Hanburger of Washington Redskins and Isiah Robertson of Los Angeles Rams, inside linebackers Cliff Harris of Dallas Cowboys and Ken Houston of the Redskins.

Add to the St. Louis list Jim Bakken as the kicking specialist. John James of Atlanta Falcons will be the punter and Steve Odom of Green Bay Packers the kick return specialist.

Five of the starters were selected for the Pro Bowl for the first time—Banks, Dobler, White, James and Odom.

Jim Hart of St. Louis will back up Tarkenton at quarterback.

In all, 40 players, 20 on offense and 20 on defence, were selected for the team in balloting by the 13 NFC head coaches. None was allowed to choose a player from his own team.

The AFC leads the NFC in the series 5-2, although the NFC won 17-10 last year when Rams quarterback James Harris relieved the injured Hart and threw two touchdown passes.

Bradshaw To Direct AFC Squad

NEW YORK (AP) — Terry Bradshaw will oppose Fran Tarkenton at quarterback when the American Conference takes on the National Conference in the Pro Bowl football game Jan. 26.

Bradshaw, quarterback for defending Super Bowl champion Pittsburgh, is one of nine Steelers named today to start for the AFC team in the New Orleans Superdome.

Other Steelers selected were wide receiver Lynn Swann and running back Franco Harris and end L.C. Greenwood, tackle Joe Greene, outside linebackers Jack Ham and Andy Russell, cornerback Mel Blount and safety Mike Wagner on the defence.

Baltimore, which will oppose the Steelers in the playoffs, and Oakland and Cincinnati, opening-round playoff opponents, have two each.

Baltimore players named to start are tackle George Kunz on offence and end John Dutton on defence. The Raiders are guard Gene Upshaw and punter Ray Guy. Cincinnati starters are wide receiver Isaac Curtis and cornerback Lemar Parrish.

Other starters are tight end Riley Odoms of Denver, guard Bob Kuechenberg and centre Jim Langer, both of Miami, and running back O. J. Simpson of Buffalo on offence. AFC defensive starters are tackle Jerry Sherk of Cleveland, middle linebacker Willie Lanier of Kansas City and safety Jake Scott of Miami. Specialists in addition to Guy are kicker Jan Stenerud of Kansas City on a kick returner Billy Johnson of Houston.

BOX NAME MANAGER

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Bob Miller, a player-coach for Hawaii Islanders last season, was named Tuesday to manage Amarillo Gold Sox in the Texas baseball league. The 30-year-old Miller spent 17 years in the major leagues as a relief pitcher with a 29-41 record and 3.37 earned-run average. He joined the San Diego Padres organization at Hawaii last year.

Montreal Claims Record Slayings

MONTREAL (CP) — "Nobody knows what's happening in Montreal any more," said a police inspector early in 1975, at a time when the city was averaging a murder a day.

By the end of the year, the rate had dropped but the final tall—well above 100 slayings—still was a record for any Canadian city and vivid testimony to a year of grisly gangland executions which scandalized the population and horrified police.

The inspector's comments, made following the January slaying of 13 persons at the Gargantua nightclub in the city's northeast—one of the most chilling of the underworld-related crimes—were echoed by several police officials as 1975 neared its close.

By the middle of December, Montreal's homicide count had reached 105, an increase of more than 50 per cent over the 1974 total, and the province of Quebec tell had increased by 33 per cent to 206.

The criminal investigation bureaus of both the Montreal Urban Community police and Quebec Provincial Police (QPP) attribute more than one-third of the province's homicides to "settling of accounts," particularly among warring factions involved in drug traffic.

Four mass murders accounted for 26 of those killed, police said.

The Gargantua murders were particularly horrifying. Twelve of the victims—who died of asphyxiation after being locked in a small room which was then set afire—were believed to be innocent bystanders killed because they witnessed the shooting of the 13th victim.

Less than a month later, four men were gunned down on the eve of St. Valentine's Day at a bar-discotheque in suburban Brossard in what a witness at the Quebec police commission inquiry into organized crime described as the culmination of a year-long battle between two west-end gangs.

Police believe the May shooting deaths of three men and two women in suburban St. Bruno were related to drug traffic.

In another incident, the bullet-riddled bodies of a young woman described by police as "the brains behind several robberies and blackings" committed by east-end gangs, her boy-friend and his parents were found in an east-end apartment in October.

Police said they believe at least five youths not included in the homicide count who disappeared in June from an east-end motorcycle-gang hangout are also dead, victims of another underworld drug feud.

Insp. Jean-Claude Rondon, head of the Montreal criminal investigation bureau, said the wave of gangland killings had receded by the end of the year.

"A couple of really tough ones were bumped off in October," he explained.

Organized crime in general came under increased scrutiny through the police commission's two sets of hearings, one last summer on the sale of claimed meat and the current one focusing on more traditional criminal activities of underworld "families."

Insp. Rondon said he believes the Quebec police commission hearings are a positive force in making the public aware of protection available to those who testify after witnessing a crime.

However, the hearings have focused on older organized crime activities rather than this year's wave of killings.

A six-year-old boy killed in October, apparently by the suicide bullet of Denis Martel, was one of several children included in the high murder count.

Martel, released from prison a few weeks earlier because of an administrative error, committed suicide during a shootout with police after blacking a school bus following a bank robbery attempt.

Insp. Rondon said files were closed on about half the city's murders.

However, there were several officially unsolved cases, such as the Gargantua murders where police believe the killers were themselves murdered subsequently.

Extortion was also in vogue this year, but police reported more success in stemming this crime.

Perhaps the most spectacular was the June kidnapping of Lina Blanchet, wife of a wealthy margarine manufacturer. She was held for $1 million ransom in a Drummondville farmhouse about 80 miles northeast of Montreal until she was found unharmed by police five days after her abduction. Two brothers who pleaded guilty to the crime were sentenced to 12 years.

Hijacked Pilots Honored by Guild

LONDON (CP) — Two British Airways pilots whose jetliners were hijacked last year have been honored for their "courage and skill" by Britain's Guild of Air Pilots and Air Navigators.

In November last year Captain James Putcher was in Dubai waiting to take command of a Super VC-10 when four armed men shot their way on to the plane, wounding a stewardess. Putcher insisted on going aboard and was then forced to take off for an unknown destination.

The jet finally landed in Tunis and during the ensuing days and nights Putcher was said to have remained "resolute and calm" even when a passenger was shot and the hijackers threatened to shoot others.

In recognition of his courage, Putcher received the guild's award for meritorious service.

In another hijacking in March last year, First Officer G. W. Crawford assumed command of his Super VC-10 between Rhodes and Salonica after the armed men had removed the captain and engineer from the cockpit. For his courage and skill in navigating the aircraft to Amsterdam and his resource fulness under armed threats, the guild has given him the Hugh Gordon-Burge commemorative award which goes to a pilot whose action contributed outstandingly to the saving of his aircraft or passengers.

Nova Scotia's Grain Could Be Profitable

HALIFAX (CP) — Results of an agricultural study indicate there are many areas in Nova Scotia where the production of grain may provide a "very profitable" crop, says Agriculture Minister Jack Hawkins.

The Nova Scotia Grain Project '75 investigated the potential of cereal grain production in terms of yield and cost per acre on a number of Nova Scotia farms.

It was designed to involve farmers in farm-grain projects whereby the co-operating farmer undertakes to produce the highest possible yield of grain on a limited acreage.

Each participant was required to take accurate soil samples, make adequate applications of fertilizers and lime, seed early and provide weed and insect control where needed.

More than two dozen farmers took part in the program with the assistance of agriculture specialists, using the project as a means of assessing current production costs against the cost of producing grain.

One of the co-operating farmers is Robert Cooper, a hog producer at Great Village, Colchester County, who requires about 5,400 tons of grain annually for feed.

He said he hopes to acquire greater self-sufficiency in grain production and estimates his 1976 grain crop will cover 275 acres.

Extending our thanks and heartfelt prayers for a holiday filled with the true gifts of Christmas—
Love, Peace, Goodwill.

CHRISTMAS

MAGIC . . .

People in business, myself included, are not inclined to put much stock in "magic", possibly because most days involve just plain hard work, not supernatural happenings. This being true, it always amazes me when in spite of what I believe, I see magic in operation.

Once a year, around December 25th, some intangible thing invades the minds of people in Belleville and causes them to exhibit very interesting behavior. They walk up Front Street loaded down with parcels, smiling and shouting cheery greetings to everyone they meet. Everyone is caught up in the friendliness and good will that accompanies the Christmas season.

Perhaps it isn't magic. Perhaps this goodness is always there, but is accented by the events that take place at Christmas. Whatever the case, it is indeed wonderful. It shows people that it is not old-fashioned to be neighborly even in a city that has grown as large as Belleville.

On behalf of everyone here at Rollins Construction, I wish you and yours sincere greetings of the season. Thank you for many pleasant associations throughout 1975.

YOURS SINCERELY,

Maurice H. Rollins

"I know what you've been up to, and don't try to Jingle Bells ME!"

Your Holiday Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol
Thursday, Dec. 25

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Relax. Enjoy yourself today. Though some worldly matters may clamor for attention, set them aside. They can be attended to later.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Your first responsibility is to your family today. Once they're happy, take care of being jolly good fellow with others.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This will be a fun day for you socially. However, try not to indulge too heartily in all the goodies. Don't try to cram the whole season into one day.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Take time to enjoy yourself today. Fretting over whether the family is having a good time will diminish your fun.

LEO (July 23-Aug.22) You could be caught up in the spirit of the season and make an overly generous return for a small favor. Let reason rule emotion.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 23) Before you get caught up in the activities of this busy day, fulfill your obligations to one who is older. Then you can be carefree.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If you happen to receive an extremely large gift today, be tactful in talking about it to those who may not be as fortunate.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be happier today with older people who appreciate the day for what it is, rather than with those preoccupied with their ambitions.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Others are apt to treat you more generously than you anticipated today. Don't look for hidden motives. They're doing it because they like you.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 18) You could displease your mate by making some last-minute changes in what you've decided to do. Keep mum. Stick to what you agreed upon.

PISCES (Feb. 19-March 20) Spending the day with those for whom you have deep emotional ties would be the wiser course, but lure of the bright lights may be too much to resist.

Friday, Dec. 26

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You tend to be a shade too optimistic regarding the outcome of events today. Look at things realistically. Base your judgment on the facts.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) It would be a serious mistake today to feel that others would treat you as literally as you would them, if the roles were reversed.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Don't press your luck too far in business today. You're not as cagy as you think you are. A cunning opponent could take advantage of you.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Seeking outside advice on a delicate family matter is wrong for you today. You'll get well-intentioned opinions that aren't really pertinent.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Being beautiful today could be your downfall. You may be telling one of your big fish stories to a guy who's got a ruler in his pocket.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You're prone to take financial risks today, and may have to pay the piper for your extravagance. Lock up your wallet and credit cards.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Beware of those who make grandiose promises today. You're much too old to believe in fairy tales.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) Wishing won't make things happen, so don't expect much more from people than they're inclined to give today.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Shun friends known to be better takers than givers. They're likely to lower the boom and you'll wind up on the shortend.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Although you'll be ambitious today, your judgment is not red-hot and chances are you won't get what you go after.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Even if you resent having your ideas challenged today, heed those who dissent. A grain of truth could be in their warnings.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) Those who dangle a carrot in front of your nose today may be interested in something other than your hunger. Analyze their motives.

16-year-old Dresses In Mother's Clothes

By G. C. Thomson, MD

Dear Dr. Thomson: I have a son who is 16 years old. I am a little worried about him. He seems to want to dress up as a girl when he thinks I am not around. He gets hold of mine, pantyhose, etc., from my dresser. I found a dress of mine removed.

Should I take him to a psychologist, or is this just a phase he is going through? Should I mention this to him and chastise him? I am quite upset. Mrs. A.W.

This is a difficult problem to handle. It doesn't lend itself easy correction.

I think it would be safe to say that the boy is probably confused about sex drives at this point in his life. Perhaps the important phrase is "at this time in his life." He knows he is a male anatomically, but has some urge to be female, at least during these episodes at which you speak.

Some transmitter (that is the label) get a sexual stimulation by dressing in clothes of the opposite sex. This is in contrast to the transsexual individual, who rejects his sex.

This boy's problem may have existed from early years. Maternal dominance or paternal urges will marry and have children. If strong-willed enough, social pressure can convince them to abandon their urges to "cross-dress."

It would be a good idea to talk to a counselor, psychiatrist or psychologist either of whom can give you ideas on how to handle the problem. I would not chastise the boy. I would casually ask him what your dress was doing in his room. Accept his answer or his silence.

Beyond this, you would need, as I said, some professional advice. It is not unusual for small boys to dabble in mother's or even her dress. But this is part of play fantasy, and it usually passes rather quickly. By 16, this should have stopped.

Dear Dr. Thomson: I am 26 years old and in good health.

My doctor has found a dermoid cyst on one of my ovaries and has scheduled surgery for removal. What are the chances of this being malignant? Mrs. E.F.S.

A cyst is any sac containing a liquid or semi-liquid substances. However, some cysts can contain bits of foreign material, as bone or hair. This is a dermoid cyst.

Most cysts are harmless, but neglected they can change for the worse, becoming infected or obstructive. Removal is wise.

Your letter is a testimonial to something I stress continually, but only because I feel it is so important. That is the need for women to have occasional, thorough pelvic examinations.

Dear Dr. Thomson: My little boy, now 4, was not circumcised at birth. How often should the foreskin be retracted and how should the penis be cleaned at bath time?

I haven't done much about this up to now, and I have noticed that retracting the foreskin seems to be uncomfortable for him. H.C.

You should retract the foreskin gently at each bath and cleanse the part with soap and water. The foreskin will eventually stretched so that the procedure will become less unpleasant. It's an important hygiene. Because neglect of proper hygiene can cause schlitz (phimosis) that will inhibit retraction later.

Usually, the player who uppercuts does so to develop a trick for his partner. On rare occasions he develops a trick for himself.

East cashes two spade tricks and looks around for a third. He isn't going to get it. Can his partner?

South has shown the ace of clubs in the bidding. West might hold the king of clubs, but if he does it isn't going to do him any good. South will be able to discard any losing clubs on dummy's hearts.

That leaves a trump trick as a possibility. East leads a third spade.

South has to follow suit and West ruffs with the nine of trumps. The nine uppercuts dummy. It can only be beaten by the ace and if the ace is played, West's king becomes a winner.

If that third spade had not been led, South would be able to take a simply diamond finesse and make his contract. The uppercut has beaten him.

Ask the Jacobys

A Texas reader has us stumped. Vulnerable against nonvulnerable he holds:

♠ K Q 10 9 4 2 ♥ K 6 4 ♦ A 5 7 2 ♣ K 7 5 2

His partner opens one diamond and the next player overcalls with a three-spade bid.

Our slight preference is to bid three notrump, but four hearts might well be a better bid. Then, we could double and make a sure profit, but probably a lot smaller profit than we would get from bidding a game. You just can't be right every time.

HOLLYWOOD (Reuter) — Cher is pregnant, her agent admitted Monday.

Richard Grant said the singer, who is married to rock musician Greg Allman, is expecting a baby in late spring.

He said the pregnancy will not interfere with Cher's plans for a television series with her former husband and singing partner, Sonny Bono. The series is an apparent attempt to regain the popularity the couple enjoyed before they were divorced in June.

Cher's roller-coaster marriage to Allman appears to be reconciled after a spate of divorce suits and countersuits.

"A happy coincidence led to the reconciliation," Allman said after meeting Cher in Buffalo, N.Y., on his 28th birthday last Wednesday.

LONDON (Reuter) — Television personality David Frost was fined $40 Monday for refusing to take a breath analysis test when he was sober.

Frost's lawyer told a magistrate's court that Frost refused to submit to the test when police stopped his car.

He said he wanted to know his legal rights and have his lawyer present.

Frost was then arrested and later gave a urine sample showing a blood alcohol level well under the legal limit.

Scientists Feel Jungle Clearing Could Prompt New Ice Age

LIVERMORE, Calif. (AP) — A University of California research team says man's activities might have a radical effect on the earth's climate, ranging from making the world warmer to making it cold enough to set off a new ice age.

The team's computer experiments at the university's Lawrence Livermore Laboratory show that current efforts at widespread clearing of tropical jungles might cause temperatures to drop and rainfall to decrease around the planet.

Worldwide average temperatures would drop about a third of a degree if widespread tropical vegetation is stripped and more open land unscathed by reforestation is say. That may seem insignificant they point out, but in Ireland it was less than a degree and a half down from statistically normal temperatures that generated a "little ice age" that froze Europe 300 years ago.

The experiments also show, however, that leading the atmosphere with carbon dioxide through continued burning of such fossil fuels as coal and oil, tends to make earth warmer.

The team reports in the British scientific journal Nature.

Now, the researchers say, the world's average temperature is only seven to 10 degrees warmer than it was 5,000 years ago—when the great ice age covered covered most of the Northern Hemisphere.

They reason that since green vegetation absorbs the sun's warming rays and keeps the atmosphere moist, clearing jungles would reflect more energy back to space and cause less recycling of moisture inland.

As a result, they say, rainfall would decrease by a half-inch a year in the north temperate zone and as much as eight inches a year at the equator.

The scientists stress that while computer models are fallible, the trends up or down are likely to prove correct.

Meteorologist Hugh Ellsaesser, a member of the group, says the changes in global climate from widespread jungle clearing would be counterbalanced by the continued burning of fossil fuels.

Ellsaesser says that if the pace of fossil fuel burning continues to rise in the next century, many scientists believe the pillow of carbon dioxide in the atmosphere would double, causing temperatures to rise by at least 3 to degrees.

Were it not for that warming influence, he says, jungle clearing might well be enough to lead to expansion of the polar ice caps and start a new ice age.

Snow Stops Tonight

By CLIFF KENTON
Staff Reporter

Double weather forecasts of up to 25 cm. (10 inches) of snow today, weather and driving conditions are to improve Saturday with light snow expected Sunday.

A Belleville OPP spokesman said early today that had a deluge of calls from motorists hoping to make traditional Boxing Day visits. Callers were advised to stay off Highway 401 and secondary highways.

"If you don't have to drive stay home," said Belleville city police.

The duty forecaster at CFB Trenton said about 5 cm. (two inches) of snow fell between 1.30 p.m. Christmas Day and about 7 a.m. today.

Forecasts today called for between 15 and 25 cm of snow in the Quinte area by Saturday morning with freezing rain and winds gusting to 30 miles an hour this afternoon.

Snow is to stop overnight in the Quinte area and much of the province with clear conditions Saturday and light snow predicted for Sunday.

Belleville OPP said this morning snow was drifting on Highway 401 despite overnight plowing.

Clerve Fisher, city public works duty foreman, said although it is a holiday he had no difficulties getting men to operate plows and graders and expected city snow clearing operations to be in full force today.

Conditions are similar throughout the province, said Belleville OPP. Drifting is causing problems near Toronto on Highway 400 and the Queen Elizabeth Way, it said.

Snow is a result of a storm moving in from Ohio. There have been no reports of major accidents in the province. Traffic has been lighter than usual due to the holiday.

Bullets End Beirut Lull

BEIRUT (AP) — Christian-Moslem fighting raged through the night in Beirut, the Tripoli area and in Zahlah, east of Beirut, after a brief lull Christmas morning.

Mortar and rocket duels terrorized Christian and Moslem residential districts of the Lebanese capital. Hundreds of families spent the night in air-raid shelters or basements.

The government radio said all streets were under fire and the city's northern and eastern approaches were closed to traffic.

"Bullets are everywhere, shooting at even housewives who venture out to buy bread," an announcer warned.

Commandos of the army strike force guarding banking and business houses in downtown Beirut bedded in their personnel carriers and armored cars, ready to block the firing.

Three policemen and seven civilians were reported killed by sniper fire during the night. The toll among the combatants was not known.

City Cab Rides Will Cost More

BY AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Belleville residents may be paying an extra 10 cents a mile for use of city taxis early in the new year.

Grant Devolin, president of the holding company that controls the Central and Checker cab fleets, said Wednesday he will be applying to the city police commission for an increase.

"I want to be equal to Trenton (a fares charged)", he said. "But no way would I ask for more than Trenton."

In Trenton, the taxi company charges 10 cents each sixth of a mile, compared to Belleville's 10 cents each fifth of a mile.

A "just - to - get-in-the-car" charge of 70 cents is levied in both municipalities.

Mr. Devolin said the fare hike is "nothing of an increase."

Belleville fares are still lower than most surrounding centres, he Oshawa, he said, the flat rate is $1.

The city police commission is expected to deal with the request for a fare increase in late January, however, it is not known when any new fares will come into effect.

Mr. Devolin said that he did not wish any advance publicity on the proposed increase. "People are uptight about the fares now.

"I just would rather wait till we come up with something concrete."

He said city cab users were strongly critical of the recent switch to meters from the flat rate method of charging passengers.

"Meters shook people up," Mr. Devolin said.

48 Hours For Forces

OTTAWA (CP) — If the cold war ever heats up in Europe, Canada will fly over 1,100 men to bolster its army brigade up to peak fighting strength, the chief of the defence staff says.

The men will be flown to the central front within 48 hours of the start of the emergency and their equipment will be waiting for them.

Contingency plans to provide for this are being redrawn for Gen. J. A. Dextraze, chief of defence staff.

He now plans to have three squadrons of tanks—777 vehicles including reserves—in Europe at all times.

Six new self-propelled guns would be sent over and all artillery would be modernized to increase range.

Suspect Charged In Police Murder

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — A 22-year-old Elmsdale, N.S. resident was in the Halifax County correctional institute today charged with murder punishable by death while police pressed their search for a second man sought in the shooting deaths of a city policeman and a taxi driver.

Allan Joseph MacDonald, a 270-pound construction worker, was charged before a justice of the peace Christmas Day following intensive investigation into the slayings of Cpl. Eric Spicer 30, a plainclothes detective, and taxi driver Ivan McCallum, 27, of Dartmouth.

MacDonald has been remanded in custody until Monday when he is to appear before a magistrate.

Police declined to identify the second man they were seeking but said the search has spread to other areas of Canada. More information about the suspect would be released later, a spokesman said, probably when the department circulated a drawing of him.

Just after midnight Monday, police were alerted to a shooting incident in a parking lot near the Angus L. Macdonald bridge, across the harbor from Halifax.

Investigators found McCallum, and later discovered the body of Cpl. Spicer about 150 feet away. Both men had been shot and lay in pools of blood. McCallum was still alive, although fatally injured with gunshot wounds to his head. He died shortly after being taken to hospital.

Cpl. Spicer, an eight-year veteran of the police force and father of two, was the first policeman from this city to be killed in the line of duty. Senior police officers say Cpl. Spicer was on a routine surveillance detail on the night he died.

He had played Santa Claus at a police club children's party only hours before he was shot.

"We've been going full out and they're still working their holes off down there on the case—it's been a rugged week," Chief Smith said. "We're going to be asking for some help with another person we're hoping to find."

Chief Smith said the department hopes to issue a composite photograph today of a man the department is "very seriously" interested in for questioning. That search is being carried across the country, he said.

RCMP and Halifax city police have been involved in the investigation almost from the start and information has been supplied by police departments in the rest of Atlantic Canada.

The police officials organized an "around-the-clock" hunt for suspects and questioned more than 70 people in what Chief Smith earlier described as "a slow but steady investigation."

Police have still not released the details of a pathologist's report and an RCMP ballistics test on Cpl. Spicer's service revolver.

Funeral services for Cpl. Spicer will be held today at the Port Wallis United Church at 2 p.m. with representatives from police forces across Canada expected to attend.

Funeral services for Mr. McCallum will be held Friday in Truro, N.S.

100 Families Burned Out

MONTREAL (CP) — More than 100 families were left homeless Christmas Day after their homes were destroyed in three separate fires, two of which police suspect was caused by arson.

A police investigator said a quick check of the ruins of the homes of 80 families in northeast Cartierville seems to indicate one fire started in two different locations.

Five persons, including two firemen, were injured in the fire-alarm fire, which destroyed a four-storey apartment building and heavily damaged another. The injured were released from hospital after light treatment.

Later Christmas Day, 20 families saw their possessions go up in smoke within five minutes when a three-alarm fire broke out in the southwestern district of Point St. Charles.

Death Toll Reaches 15

SYDNEY, Australia (CP) — A woman died in hospital today, bringing the toll from a fire in a hotel fire Christmas Day to 14. Earlier reports put the toll at 15.

The fire broke out before dawn in a five-storey hotel, in a 1968 incident. Police said a gun battle that left four persons dead and two wounded may have been in revenge for an ambush in which a prison escapee was shot last week, officials said.

The Tennessee Bureau of Investigation said Jackie Layman, 21 walked into the Red Lantern Inn armed with a carbine about 3 a.m. Christmas morning and began firing.

Bureau agent Bill Russell said Layman escaped from a state prison last Aug. 12 and was wounded by shotgun fire a week ago in an ambush outside his mother's home here. He said Layman may have been in the tavern believing he would be the men responsible for the ambush.

Sheriff Tom O'Dell said Layman apparently killed three men and then was killed by one of the three men returning fire. Both wounded men were in hospital.

Three other men, who were not named, are being held on a six-count grand jury filing of charges today.

Sheriff O'Dell quoted witnesses as saying some of the approximately 25 people in the tavern fell to the floor when Layman appeared at the door and began shooting.

Layman was serving 99 years for murder and armed robbery.

Bolt Kills 21

SALISBURY (Reuter) — Lightning killed 21 people when it struck a hut in which they were seeking shelter from rain, police report. The dead included 11 children. Three people survived the incident in eastern Rhodesia.

Man Drowns

BUCKHORN, Ont. (CP) — The body of Philip Furlong, 21, of Dublin, Ireland, was pulled from Buckhorn Lake Thursday by three provincial police divers.

Police said Mr. Furlong was driving a snowmobile Wednesday when it plunged through ice into about 20 feet of water about a mile from shore.

Three Die

ALBERTON, Ont. (CP) — At least three persons died in a collision Christmas Day on Highway 2, just west of this community 10 miles southwest of Hamilton.

Good News

'Santa' Got Shirts

HICKSVILLE, N.Y. (AP) — Santa Claus got several shirts, ties and three suits—none of them red—for Christmas.

"It was a great day," said Santa Michael Claus, 28, after he opened the gifts from his wife and two daughters.

"I don't even own a red suit," said Santa. Nor does he have a pot belly, white hair or a long beard.

Santa, who toils all year for the New York Telephone Co., says fellow workers and friends "bring their children and friends around all year long to meet Santa Claus. I get a kick out of every minute of it."

Santa, who carries 15 identification cards with him to prove that really is his name, says he has no hard feelings about his sister selecting the name for him after her parents promised she could

Rescue Complete

HOPEDALE, NFM. (CP) — Eight persons stranded here by airplane Christmas Day from an inland camp where 20 indians were stranded without food, ended a rescue operation begun earlier this week when ferry mariners at the group wall 45 miles to later police.

The rescue was carried out by RCMP, one airline company and a government supply service.

"They lived on nothing but water that they boiled down from the snow . . . " the police spokesman said.

The Same To You!

MOSCOW (Reuter) — The West had a miserable Christmas with millions of workers and intellectuals unemployed, many of them going mad with despair, the Soviet Communist party newspaper Pravda told its readers today.

The Kremlin organ printed detailed reports from Britain, Italy, the United States, France and Japan giving a picture of gloom and despondency across the capitalist world.

The people of these countries, the reports said, faced an ever-more-joyless new year.

Her Gift A Miracle

WEST PALM BEACH, Fla. (AP) — "Anything thing I could think of was getting the lion off her," says Dennis Pruitt, 20, an employee of an animal park who rescued a lioness being mauled by a 600-pound lion.

"It's a miracle I am alive," Emma Bates, 72, said from a hospital bed. "It's a real Christmas miracle."

A Child is Born

Jenny Just Knows She's Happy

NORRISTOWN, Pa. (AP) — "Jenny giggled and laughed", said Mrs. Ronald Jones.

Jenny Jones, a three-year-old Korean orphan, celebrated her first Christmas in the United States Thursday, 24 hours after she arrived from Korea.

Jenny played with dolls and a toy train and also with the Jones's four other children, two of them also adopted Koreans.

"She had a great time," said Mrs. Jones, recovering herself from what she calls "the miracle" of winging little Jenny here and Christmas Eve in the first step of adoption.

"I don't think she knew what was happening to her, but she don't know she was very happy," Mrs. Jones said about Jenny's airplane flight halfway around the world.

The Joneses moved to adopt the child more than a year ago but were blocked by an immigration quota. However, last month, after Jenny's Korean guardian died and she disappeared they intensified their efforts, finally locating her for the first time of Song Sam.

The U.S. immigration service waived the red tape, granting Jenny's temporary entry for medical reasons. A bill was introduced in Congress to allow the child to remain here permanently.

"She's suffering from malnutrition and severe neglect," said Mrs. Jones after Christmas dinner Thursday. "We'll work on that. We'll pull her out. We're not worried.

Meantime, Jenny is making herself right at home—sharing a big bedroom with Chris, 8, and Susie 5 who also came from Korea as babies.

"We feel she'll feel more secure that way", said her new mother.

Children Help Capture Villian in This Play

The Prince Edward Youth Theatre — an energetic group of high school students boasting five performances since their organization only a few weeks ago — presented Pig Tales; to the children's group of Corby Public Library this week.

Under the direction of Larry Taylor, a drama teacher at Prince Edward Collegiate Institute the students have been organizing a program for children about children.

The group hopes to take their drama talents on a road trip next summer if financing can be arranged.

Their success rests with the involvement of their audience, usually children between the ages of four and 10 — and the occasional adult who enjoys a hearty laugh.

Pig Tales — by Ernest Schwartz, bursts with lines such as: "was that awful wolf here", to which the children scream: "yes"

"What is he going to do?"

"Eat the piggums!" And so on.

Obviously, a big success with children.

Pig Tales incorporates the story of the three little pigs and the big bad wolf.

The pigs are called Piggums, portrayed by Robert Hollett and Sharon DeVries, and they are off to Hogytwood to become movie stars. On the way, with their classmates in tow (children picked at random from the audience) they run into the cunning wolf, portrayed by Fred Lester and Donald Elson.

The rest is pig history.

The piggums build a house of children and capture the wolf until David Sherwin arrived on the scene.

But it's the efforts of Super Woman, who is really mild mannered school marm Miss Pickles, played by Nancy Power, that brings the wolf to justice.

And when the actors left the stage area, some kids in the audience rolled down their sleeves and one smugly remarked, "that'll teach that wolf."

Damage Extensive

TWEED — No one was injured Wednesday in a two-car rear-end collision that caused a total of $2000 damage here.

Tweed police say two vehicles southbound on Victoria St. and driven by Charles Way, 17, of 116 Frigate St., Tweed, and Brian Jerkos, 19 of RR 3 Tweed collided.

The Way vehicle sustained $1,000 damage and the Kehoe vehicle $2,000.

Family Loses Home In Christmas Day Fire

LATTA —A Thurlow Township family was left homeless Christmas Day when a fire destroyed their wooden frame house on the sixth concession west of here.

Thurlow Fire Chief Vince Hisher said today no one was injured in the blaze and the Clare Trevorton family managed to save some of their furniture.

Chief Hisher said both township fire halls responded to a call placed by Mrs. Trevorton after she noticed smoke rising from the eaves.

He said he suspected the fire in the 114-storey house started in the electrical wiring in the second floor. No loss estimate was available by press time.

The family, whose size is unknown, stayed with relatives overnight, he said.

"They had quite a bit of time to get the furniture out," said Chief Hisher, "but they didn't get any clothing on the second floor."

The chief said firemen from the Point Anne and Corbyville Lake fought the fire for about four hours

In Trophy Business Mistakes Can Be Costly

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Left-handed jewelry engravers are rare, says Bernie Chiasson owner of the largest engraving operation in the Quinte area.

Founder of Chiasson's Trophies, 10 years ago, while he was in the armed services in Quebec, Mr. Chiasson has seen his business grow until he now deals with companies and associations who want trophies and engraving work done, from as far away as Toronto and Brackebridge.

"It is too expensive to alter one of the engraving machines to allow a left-handed person to work on them," said Mr. Chiasson. "The machines cost about $5,000 each and are not easily changed," he said.

Mr. Chiasson and his wife Joan conduct the business from an addition to their home and they say during busy seasons, when there is a great demand for trophies for bowling awards or softball leagues, the plant might be in operation for 15-18 hours a day.

"We probably sell more than 6,000 trophies a year," he said. "We also service many of the jewelry stores in the area and engrave different items for them," said Mr. Chiasson.

Mr. Chiasson said the hardest work engraving jewelry, because of the high cost of the differed items.

"You can't make a mistake with the jewelry because if you miss on one of the letters the whole thing is ruined," said Mr. Chiasson. "If that happens, we must replace the item and pay for it," he said.

When Mr. Chiasson first began operations he had forty one machine but currently he has four engraving devices.

The trophies and plaques are purchased from a manufacturer in Toronto but once the pieces are delivered Mr. Chiasson can design any type of display a buyer wants.

"There are times when I build a large trophy, two or three feet high, that stays in the window for months before someone wants to buy it for an award presentation," he said.

Mr. Chiasson also makes signs, some for public buildings like schools. Orders are made especially for people for offices or at any gifts.

"We can engrave anything you want onto a sign and then mount it on wood or just leave it as a plastic piece," he said.

Mr. Chiasson said he has had to engrave and repair and build many different items but that just recently he did one he thought was very interesting.

"Ian Reilly, a local member of the St. John's Order received a medal from the Queen for the volunteer work he has done and we didn't want to make any mistakes with that," said Mr. Chiasson.

Hard at Work

Joan Chiassons engraves a trophy at one of the machi-es at the family-owned business. Mrs. Chiassons and her husband, Bernie, have been in the business for 10 years and are the largest suppliers in the Quinte area. The Chiassons also engrave jewelry.

Sidney Planning Seminar For Outdoor Enthusiastic

By AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

You're astride a snowmobile in rolling country 30 miles north of downtown Belleville.

It's a scenic, untouched woodlot. No one is in sight, and, suddenly, you're lost.

Or, you're out in the marsh during hunting. You've lost three decoys and you suddenly realize that you've lost yourself.

What do you do to try to survive until you're found.

Above all, don't panic.

"If you let fear get to you," says Wendy Neale, Sidney Township recreation director, "you'll last about a day."

Rather chilling news when you consider, says Mrs. Neale, that wilderness survival experts say that you spend, on the average, 10 days in the woods unaided between the time you're lost and the time you're found.

To give outdoorsmen the chance to learn how to survive Mrs. Neale has taken steps to bring instructors from the National Wilderness Survival School in Campbellford to the township.

The weekend seminar is tentatively set for Feb. 13-15. A price has yet to be decided.

The impetus for bringing the course to the township has come from the recreation director, who expressed her concern this week over inability of local hunters and snowmobilers to survive any accidental wilderness ordeal.

Snowmobiling is probably a big thing to stress during the upcoming course, she said, adding, however, that if weekin' be specifically aimed at this group.

And because they rarely expect to be out overnight, they don't carry guns for shooting edible animals or matches for lighting a fire.

The course will outline the means to find outdoor shelter, edible wild foods, and methods of setting traps and snares—giving any lost snowmobiler a fighting chance at survival, she says.

Mrs. Neale has taken the course herself. She said the survival skills, although not specifically aimed at recreational campers like herself, are an advantage in case of emergency.

Two Hurt In Crash

Three persons were taken to hospital following a two-car collision Wednesday about 5.25 p.m. at Bridge and Sidney Streets.

Kim Alexander, 17, of 2 Elgin St., was admitted to hospital for treatment of injuries and released Christmas Day. She was passenger in a car driven northbound on Sidney St. by John Alexander, 39, of 2 Elgin St. She was taken to hospital for treatment of minor injuries and released.

David George Parks, 20, of RR 1, Plainfield, was driving northbound on Sidney St. at the time of the collision. He was not injured.

Michael Kirby, 18, of RR 3, Belleville, a passenger in the Parks vehicle was taken to hospital for treatment of minor injuries and released.

Total damage was estimated at about $2,000, said Belleville police. Parks has been charged with impaired driving, said police.

This Couple Remembers Visiting Friends by Cutter

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON —In Prince Edward County at the turn of the century couples rolled back the parlor rug for a round of Christmas square dances.

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Morris of Picton, who celebrated their 70th wedding anniversary this month, recall taking up the carpet for winter nights of swing your partner.

Mrs. Morris also recalls the tedious job of replacing all the crepe tucks when the festivities were over.

"We used to shave wax and set it on the floor," said Mrs. Morris.

He noted that Prince Edward County caller Steve Thurston was in demand for the community square dances that often featured some round dancing as well.

Mrs. Morris says she remembers that dances lasted until 5 or 6 a.m. and on one occasion she and her husband drove home at 9 a.m. with the sun shining on their cutter.

As Christmas Day drew close farm families cut their own trees and prepared for a holiday highlighted by "an awful spread."

Mr. and Mrs. Morris, who often spend Christmas at the home of Mrs. Morris' family, noted that Christmas dinner sometimes was served in two sittings to accommodate all guests.

The turkey was not the "in" bird among business of the early 1900's. Most housewives served roast goose.

Christmas presents usually were hand-made and included woolen stockings, mittens or the pieces of fancy work.

"There was not so much of this 'buy everything' that there is today—because we wasn't there to buy," said Mr. Morris.

He noted that Christmas was not a commercialized holiday. The main emphasis was on a family day highlighted by a special dinner.

Times Change

Mr. and Mrs. Bernard Morris, who recently marked their 70th wedding anniversary, recall visiting friends over the holiday season with the help of a horse-drawn cutter.

Rescue Unit Frees Driver Trapped in Car

BRIGHTON — An Ameliasburgh man was pinned in his automobile for three hours Christmas eve and if it was not for the efforts of the Quinte Rescue Squad he still might be there, said a spokesman for the Brighton detachment of the Ontario Provincial Police.

"The eight men worked in the near-zero (fahrenheit) temperatures, cutting the man out from the flattened car," said the officer.

Bernard Richard Hill, 20, is in Trenton Memorial Hospital with a fractured rib, and other injuries. The mishap occurred ¼ mile south of Highway No. 2 on the Dug Hill Road.

Police said Mr. Hill was travelling southbound when his car went out of control, slid down into a ditch and into a stand of trees which collapsed the car around him.

Wilson Government Shores Up Chrysler's U.K. Operation with Big Subsidy

By JOHN D. HAEBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Even in trouble, in deep trouble like the Chrysler Corporation's large car-manufacturing subsidiaries in Britain, the multi-national company remains an economic power.

British Chrysler threatened to close its English and Scottish plants, pull out of the British market altogether until the Labor government of Prime Minister Harold Wilson guaranteed the firm $225 million of public funds to stay in Britain and in business.

That was an unusual move, even for a socialist government at Westminster. It would have preferred to nationalize the operation as present and previous British Labor governments have done with so many of Britain's hard-hit and high-technology industries.

Well Mr. Wilson is able to take over British-owned steel, shipbuilding, transport and power industries. But, as national's branch plants, even if they are about to close.

If you want us to stay in business, said Chrysler, the rules of the game are tough ones for British workers. Just give us enough funds to keep going and with only a minority government position on the board of directors.

With 100,000 jobs at stake within both British Chrysler and its many suppliers when British unemployment is the highest in history, Mr. Wilson had to give in to the—financing formula Chrysler favored.

The stakes with this auto multi-national were high for Wilson. He was in the middle of filling a multi-million dollar car export order for Iran, the kind which Britain desperately needs to lend its large deficit on foreign trade.

The crisis was marked by the now-familiar, confrontation language of British public life. John J. Riccardo, chairman of the board of the parent Chrysler Corporation, is quoted as saying "We'll not put another penny into the British company."

British Prime Minister Wilson is quoted as saying, "British Chrysler has not put out a new model since the Spanish Armada."

When negotiations did begin, the British government's negotiator is quoted as saying "We cover Chrysler's British losses over a four-year period, provided the United States and Ford invests its own funds in a plant to produce new models."

Chrysler's offer was to switch production of Chrysler's Alpine model from its Italian Simca plant where the U.S. firm has had a long-standing manufacturing and marketing agreement and to have new British-designed car and truck models added to its present U.K. lines between next year and 1979.

In this unusual agreement between Britain and Chrysler, we are all aware of the many labor and investment problems of British government-owned industry. Less well-known is that a good part of Chrysler's trouble is result from the governmental over-extension of car-making capacity through Western Europe's Common Market economies.

Plainly put, there are too many car plants in Europe with the U.S. big four car makers adding to the problem through their large and very competitive subsidiaries in Britain, West Germany, Italy and France.

Competitive that is until recession hit Europe in 1973. The British government offer is unlikely to be repeated on the Continent where national car firms like Renault in France and Volkswagen in West Germany have had the same kind of crises.

Source of Food Loss

"World Losing Half its Food," read a recent headline over a report from London quoting a British scientist as saying insects, animal pests, diseases and weeds destroy no less than a half of all the food grown in the world.

In Britain, nearly a third of the crops are wiped out by vermin and disease, according to Leonard Broadbent of Bath University's School of Biological Sciences.

In the world as a whole, crop losses from pests and diseases alone are equal to the value of the world grain harvest plus the world potato harvest.

Mr. Broadbent's revelations are just another example of the staggering waste that is part of modern living. He says it is up to the crop scientists to try to save the half that is lost. Certainly this is more a job for science than for the public at large, and yet in general, conservation of resources must continue to be an area in which everyone plays his part.

Double the world's population over the next quarter-of-a-century? Just think of that and then ponder why some people moan at government strictures to save fuel to name just one resource.

What about food rationing? Imagine the howls of protest that that would arise. There is no sign of any need for it. Not now, that is, but think again about the population explosion; it's a term that has not been heard much of late, for we have been lulled perhaps by our own declining birth rate into thinking the trend has been arrested. A look at these global projections should convince us otherwise.

It's good that the government is tackling inflation psychology with some determination. The public should give equal attention to the requirements of conservation in the growing number of resource categories in which it may be put into practice.

Airport Shortcomings

Canadians who travel by air can be said to have had a thoroughly bad deal so far as airport accessibility and design are concerned.

In three major cities — Ottawa, Toronto, and Montreal — the situation is a good deal less than perfect where passenger convenience and comfort are concerned.

With the Pickering airport project abandoned, Toronto is soldiering on with its existing overcrowded facilities, while Montreal has its new Mirabel international terminal all the hallmarks of an air traveller's nightmare.

As an Ottawa Journal report puts it, "Getting there is definitely not half the fun — especially if you want to change planes and find they are a minimum three-hour bus ride apart."

As for Ottawa itself, the nation's capital has an airport which one MP says has fallen far behind Canadian standards. Here from Don Mazankowski (PC-Vaqreville, Alta.). For instance Ottawa is one of the few major airports in the country which does not have enclosed ramps from terminal to plane. But if climate-controlled walks are missing, Mr. Mazankowski got a nice "snowjob" from Transport Minister Lang. The minister mentioned the current financial restraints of course, but then tripped up somewhat in saying the government would be doing less improvement work than in a "normal year when inflation was not a problem."

Which years have been normal since the present government came to power? And when was inflation not a problem? Mitchell Sharp when finance minister, and the Prime Minister were issuing warnings on the subject as far back as 1968 but of course did nothing about it. In fact Ottawa has led the way on spending.

In any event, Mr. Mazankowski will just have to button up his overcoat, for if Mr. Lang is to be taken at his word it will remain spartan going for air travellers in chilly Ottawa.

U.S. Envoy's 'Diplomacy'

Montreal Gazette

It is fairly common practice for democratic leaders to duck behind their electorates in conducting relations with one another.

The representative of nation A, wishing to turn down a proposal of nation B without giving offence, says, "We'd just love to do it for you, but right now it's a touchy political issue at home. The leader of the opposition would raise hell. The government might even have to wrestle with its own caucus."

Or the representative of nation X, say Ambassador William Porter of the U.S.A., wishing nation Y, say Canada, to shape up on a number of issues without having the message come directly from his government, says something like, "You know we're really starting to feel the political heat at home on some of those national policies of yours, and that I'm personally critical, of course."

Indeed, it turns out that Mr. Porter did say something just about like that, with the backing of his government. Nothing he said, mind you. Just a chat over drinks with a clutch of pundits.

Still, we are left to understand that the electorate in the states bordering Canada, who have 100 representatives and senators to elect next year, to say nothing of their share of a president, are highly indisposed. They are hostile. They are resentful, because of Canadian legislation tending to limit the growth of the Canadian economy by foreigners because of legislation to put Time and Reader's Digest on the same footing as other foreign magazines, because Canada has adopted the same energy policy of self-sufficiency as the United States because Canada's part which has wiped out Canadian manuperial initiative and Canadian research development in the industries has not also provided Americans with a job advantage, and so on, and so on.

Well, Americans implement policies for collective preservation and development, it is different — in matter of shoring up the free world and making liberty prevail. Canadian policies are "raucous" or "excessive" nationalism that should be repealed in Canada when they become election issues in the United States.

Well, Canada has its domestic politics, too, though it would be inadvisable for Canada to speak too loudly about them in Washington. The U.S. has a bag of tricks ranging from Watergate through assassination to revolution to keep other countries with their politics. Best just to let the American ambassador hurt it out over drinks and make way for his successor.

Union 'Tyranny'

Editor:
The Intelligencer:

The attitude of our post office are our affairs, we pay the wages, and we all suffered during the recent strike, a strike that many of us felt was unjustified.

It would seem that some of the workers concerned mistakenly thinking they had a right to their opinion, when refused to follow their union leaders on this occasion.

This gave rise to the question of union democracy, the union was mouthing democracy, and could be trusted to raise hell if its own democratic rights were infringed by some of its members, but their conduct when the question of Union Solidarity arose did not smell like democracy, it smelled of fascism.

To me who remembers the late thirties and early forties very vividly this attitude was obvious, and disturbing.

These union members had dared to think for themselves, and get out of line, and were promptly stripped of their right to express any opinion, or to vote on any issue, then all of them in the union were, and rightly, removed now one hears talk of further disciplinary action, and the possibility of wages earned being turned over to the union, which I for one made unpleasant to them in every possible way, and so.

How long will it be if we continue down this road before we come to massive doses of natural, plus wire and other forms of the gentle persuasion once all the communist place?

Will it prove democracy? When it conflicts with union solidarity?

This is tyranny, Sir! The tyranny of a trade union, drunk with its own power. This makes a mockery of freedom and democracy alike.

If Canada's as will permit this sort of thing in their own public service if Canadian workingmen will so forget their manhood and they will submit to this sort of tyranny from any source, then I suggest that we are no longer worthy of our proud heritage, and that we have sunk to the foul mud of our own contemptible inertia.

Honest Citizen

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

Yes, this actually happened. The 4th, Friday, December 22, 1975, a lady about in her seventy's passed out at the store. She claimed she couldn't sleep all weekend because she had left the store without paying her bill. The amount was three dollars. She asked our clerk if we were sure it is our store (which is natural) with the amount of small sales we do. The clerk, Bonnie, gave us the three dollars and then said she could pay back later. She insisted she take the money back and asked her name. But no name was given and she wouldn't take the money back.

With all the people that we have caught shoplifting in our store in the past week I just had to write to you and tell you this story. It is really amazing to have such honesty in us. The Good Lord still must be around.

ERNIE COLEBOURNE

New Policy Awaited

Passenger-train Service at Stake

Brantford Expositor

Transport Minister Otto Lang hopes his new federal policy on passenger-train service will be announced within the next month.

By Jan. 29, the Canadian Transport Commission must reaffirm or vary its 1971 ruling that Canadian National Railways and CP Rail must continue to run transcontinental passenger trains, and Mr. Lang wants general policy outlined before then, so the CTC can determine which routes to maintain or improve.

Considering the railways were perhaps the most important single factor in welding Canada, rail passenger service in this country today is woefully weak, and the failure of former Transport Minister Jean Marchand to draft an effective rail policy has made things worse than they needed to be.

Canada has the technological ability to build modern passenger trains. Even the U.S. national rail-passenger network, Amtrak, is interested in buying new Canadian designed and built LRC units. (LRC stands for light, rapid comfortable.)

At a time of energy crisis, Canada is one of the very few countries in every-incident, that are not emphasizing the efficiency of rail service. Canada's major railways have not bought new passenger equipment in 20 years, and will not order it even for 1978 delivery until they have the figure, you should do some calculations to see whether it would be to your tax advantage to prepay your anticipated medical bills.

Similarly, if your charitable donations exceed the standard $100 deduction, and you are planning to make further donations to charity early in the new year, you should prepay the tax consequences.

If you want to minimize this year's taxes, it would make sense to make an additional donation before year-end.

But if your donations to charity so far are below $100, it might pay to postpone any contemplated donations until Jan. 1, to increase your chances of exceeding $100 next year.

You are allowed to invest $1,000 in a Registered Home Ownership Savings Plan, and deduct it from your income. Of course but only if you didn't own a home at anytime during the year.

That means that, if you are on the point of buying your first house, you would probably be wise to defer the actual purchase until the beginning of the new year.

And if you have a home now but want to qualify under RHOSP next year, take action on your part—such as legally transferring the ownership of the house to your spouse—would have to be taken before the end of this year.

The deadline for your 1975 contribution of up to $1,000 to an RHOSP, or for your contribution to a Registered Retirement Saving Plan, isn't Dec. 31, however.

Normally the deadline is the 60th day of the new year.

Since the 60th day of 1976 is Sun., Feb. 29, the deadline has been extended this year to Monday, March 1, for contributions that can be used to offset 1975 taxable income.

Women's Year Won't Be Mourned by Many

Eleanor Mayfield in The Ryersonian

When International Women's Year (IWY) ended into history on Jan. 1, it will be mourned by practically no one.

What could have been a bold experiment in improving equality of the sexes—both in mind and in law—soon degenerated into what its critics said it would become from the start — a token handed to women as a bone might be tossed to a hungry dog. A few brief conferences which consisted mainly of preaching to the converted, a lot of statements telling us what should be done, but little or no significant action.

Ironically, just when "our" year is ending on the calendar, an Ontario government official is finally beginning to talk about "tender equal opportunity for women in law."

Marvin Clarke, director of the labor ministry's Women's Bureau, said recently, if companies do not recognize, train, and promote women voluntarily, legislation could be passed forcing them to do so.

Forgive us for sounding naive, but wasn't that the point of the whole exercise - to give women protection in law against discriminatory hiring and promotion practices? Did it take government, who came up with the idea of IWY in the first place, until now to figure out what the rest of us knew all along? Did government honestly think all those conferences, etc., would magically wipe out discriminatory attitudes that have existed for decades? Or second-thought, we aren't the ones being naive.

Can you't legislate attitudes any more than one can legislate morality. But laws are to prevent any group in society from being victimized by the prejudices of individuals. Attitudes only change slowly; it is up to governments to take the first steps in the right direction.

This step must be taken not only in the field of employment practices, but in laws on marriage, divorce, and rape which traditionally have tended to be more severe on women than on men. It is, then perhaps IWY will have accomplished something worthwhile.

Deadline Approaching for Moves to Reduce Tax Load

By VINCENT EGAN

Business and Consumer Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

A word to wise taxpayers: Dec. 31 is the last day to make most of those financial moves that could reduce your tax load for this year—and maybe improve next year's tax position as well.

Let's assume you have an investment that's worth less now than when you bought it—or less than its value on Dec. 31, 1971, when capital gains became taxable as earned income.

If you sell it now, you can apply your loss against this year's taxable income.

Or you can choose to apply it against last year's income. In that case, you would have to file an amended tax return for last year in order to claim a refund on your over-payment.

A third possibility is to carry your capital loss forward indefinitely, using it to offset your income in some future year of your choice.

Even if you have invested so unfortunately that there's no market now for your security, you can still claim a capital loss for income-tax purposes.

In such a case, you would sell the worthless investment to someone for a nominal figure, or give it to your spouse.

But be sure that the transfer is documented in such a way that it is final, and that you have retained no interest in the ownership of the security.

Remember that the first $1,000 of investment income is no longer taxable. If you hold shares in companies that are payable this year, zip them and cash the dividend cheques if you have not otherwise used the $1,000 exemption.

But if your investment income does exceed $1,000, "collect holiday pay" on dividends the new year. You'll then have the use of the money for an extra year before having to pay tax on it.

Medical expenses that exceed three per cent of your net income are tax-deductible. And you may use the total for any 12-month period that ends during 1975.

Edmonton Gay Club Acts as Counselling Service

EDMONTON (CP) — The world has become a happier place for homosexuals, partly because they have been making themselves known, says Bob Radke, a 25-year-old homosexual.

Edmonton's Gay Alliance Toward Equality (GATE) has been operating for more than three years to give them a means of expressing themselves in the rest of society.

In organizational terms, I see GATE as being for the purpose of gaining a position of equality for gay people in society," said Mr. Radke, who has been active in the organization almost since it was founded.

Included in GATE's activities of speaking to such groups as university classes, nurses and social workers, seeking legislative changes and encouraging homosexual men and women to declare themselves, is a counselling service to help homosexuals come to terms with themselves.

"I think people make a choice whether they want to negate part of themselves and have a part of false comfort or whether they are angry enough that they put up with whatever it takes."

Mr. Radke is obviously angry about it. He said he declared his preference for men when he was about 17 and hasn't regretted it. Aside from the "non-sense" he has to put up with from heterosexuals, he has found the experience "fulfilling."

But not everyone can be as open. A 19-year-old lesbian, who says she fell in love with a woman five years ago after an unsuccessful heterosexual marriage, had left her with one daughter, asked that her name not be published.

"Most of us can't afford to. There would be such a great crisis of tension and stress (at the job site) that it would be very disruptive and unpleasant to work there," she said.

But the situation is changing, she said, because homosexuals are forcing themselves into the consciousness of society through organizations like GATE.

"I think the increasing acceptance of gayness in society is obvious, so no one can say we haven't been successful. I think unimaginably so for people who were coming to terms with their own sexuality 10 years ago."

GATE, which Mr. Radke said has been refused recognition as a formal society by the provincial government, has about 30 members. Approximately one-third of them are women and so per cent of the membership is made up of students. Ages range from 18 to about 70.

GATE is the only group of its kind in the city and so tries to cover a lot of ground with volunteer workers. It has been most successful in getting any form of government grant. One of its most important functions is giving people who are trying to make some sense out of their feelings a place to go to learn about other people who feel the same way.

Mr. Radke said being a homosexual is neither better nor worse than heterosexuality and it is from that point of view that it is approached as the need for changes in social attitudes.

He pointed to such problems as housing, jobs and everyday activities such as cashing a cheque from a homosexual organization as examples of discrimination against which the homosexual has no legal protection.

To the lesbian, prejudice may be felt as early as the breakup of a heterosexual marriage.

"Custody of children, for example. The mother being a lesbian is not illegal. However, it's considered evidence for being unfit."

There has been progress, Mr. Radke said. Homosexuals are taking their cases to human rights commissions and some politico groups have discovered their support. Homosexual groups, he said, are bringing a new power to politicians who are beginning to see them as having some significant voting power.

Few Canadians Know About Ethnic Churches

Written for CP

By DeCOURCY H. RAYNER

Although about one-quarter of a million Canadians belong to the various ethnic branches of the Orthodox Church, few of their fellow-citizens know much about their beliefs and practices. So it was an adventure in understanding when representatives of the Canadian Council of Churches recently visited the Greek Orthodox Cathedral of the Annunciation in Toronto.

Introduction to the Orthodox worship began with celebration of the divine liturgy of St. John Chrysostom, led by Sotirios, Bishop of Constantia, who resides in Toronto.

Priests of Greek Orthodox parishes in Ontario formed a choir to chant the responses and sing the hymns, with no organ or instrumental music. It was explained later that congregational participation in the services came to an end during four centuries of Turkish domination and a cantor took over on their behalf. The people are slowly becoming responsive to worship services.

The choir, without a note of music or a word of liturgy in front of them, chanted and sang almost continuously through the 90-minute service, which centred on the celebration of the Eucharist. .

The liturgy bears the name of one of the most renowned of Orthodox preachers; in fact, Chrysostom means golden-mouthed. When he became Patriarch of Constantinople against his will in 398 AD, he was the highest ranking bishop in the East.

The liturgy which Chrysostom helped to make popular is a revision of an earlier one by St. Basil and is noted for its precision of language and clarity of thought. Celebration of that liturgy which is usually done in Greek although an English translation is provided, covers the doctrine of the church in detail.

This is the main emphasis of Orthodoxy, for the title itself arises from two Greek words, orthos, meaning correct or proper, and doxa, meaning opinion or belief. The Orthodox Church is thus defined as the one holding to the correct or true doctrine.

Perhaps this is what has kept the Orthodox churches apart from other denominations in Canada, although the Russian Orthodox Church joined the World Council of Churches in 1961 and one of the six presidents of the World Council recently is Patriarch German of the Orthodox Church in Yugoslavia.

Prof. Stanley S. Harakas, dean of the Hellenic College and Seminary in Boston, gave two lectures to the representatives of the Canadian Council of Churches explaining his church and its practices.

"The Orthodox tendency is to define by negation," said Dr. Harakas, "to say what something is not."

He referred to the Bible as one source of teaching and holy tradition, which comes from the fathers and the councils of the church, as another source. The great emphasis upon the consciousness of the church, which measures present-day problems and opportunities in the light of dogma that have survived through the centuries.

The Cathedral of the Annunciation is a building in Toronto's west end that once was a United Church. Now it is decorated with colorful icons or religious scenes and paintings in which the perspective is reversed. In an icon the subject, usually the figure of a saint, narrows towards the front, thus making the viewer the vanishing point.

An iconostasis, a wooden screen separates the altar from the sanctorium of the church, and the celebrants proceeded indifferently and together through the royal entrance in the screen. There was much repetition in the liturgy and no break for a sermon, which comes at the end of the service.

Many times the sign of the cross was made by the Orthodox in the congregation as well as the clergy.

The Orthodox sign of the cross differs from that of the Roman Catholic church. The thumb and first two fingers of the right hand are joined together, while the fourth and fifth fingers are bent down to the palm. With the three joined fingers, signifying the Holy Trinity, the Orthodox believer touches his forehead (in the name of the Father), his chest (in the name of the Son), his right shoulder (in the name of the Holy Spirit), and finally the left shoulder (Amen).

On this continent there are also archdioceses for ethnic groups within the so-called Greek Church—such as Ukrainian, Albanian, Serbian, etc. The Ukrainian Greek Orthodox Church in Canada claims to be the largest body of its beliefs beyond the borders of the Ukraine, with some 140,000 members and about 100 clergy.

While bishops of the Orthodox Church must be celibate, priests are allowed to marry. Only an unmarried priest is eligible for election to the episcopate.

Dr. DeCourcy Rayner is editor of the Presbyterian Record.

Youth Invents Electric Car

NIAGARA FALLS Ont. (CP) — Sixteen-year-old Sam Colesimo says his contribution to future city planning is a two-passenger electric car weighing 150 pounds and constructed from plywood, scrap metal and an automobile battery.

Sam, a Grade 10 student from Niagara Falls, said he got the idea of building an electric car about two years ago because he is "concerned about the future of the cities."

He spent about $200 building the sporty red and black machine which runs at a maximum speed of 18 m.p.h.

The plywood and glass-fibre car, complete with roll cage, has a shock-absorber front bumper, wheels from a riding-type lawn mower and the starter motor from a conventional car.

"This is only a half-size model," Sam said. "I built this one just to see if I could do it."

He said he is uncertain whether electric cars will ever be practical because of the heavy batteries. The car uses one automobile battery and each charge keeps it running 15 to 20 minutes.

"To have them run for any length of time would take batteries larger than they could carry."

Besides his electric-car invention, Sam is also working on his third model of a mechanical arm to manipulate.

Saigon Stresses Oriental Medicine

SAIGON Reuter)—Post-war South Vietnam is stressing the development of oriental medicine to supplement Western drugs and save precious foreign exchange.

Nam Xuan, president of the National Medical Institute and a practising physician, said it was hoped traditional Vietnamese medical techniques would be studied and refined to give the country a degree of independence from foreign medicine.

In the war years millions of dollars of drugs had been imported from the United States annually, he said.

Within a few years, South Vietnam hoped not only to have cut down its foreign imports of drugs substantially but to be earning substantial foreign exchange through export of its own herbal remedies.

Vietnamese medicine, though similar in some ways to that of China, Korea and Japan, has through the centuries developed its own techniques of acupuncture, blood-letting and massage.

Xa Thuong Lan Ont, who died in 1791, is considered the father of Vietnamese medicine. He collected 2,861 prescriptions and improved the uses of 305 herbs.

Whereas Western medicine tends to concentrate on attacking the organisms causing disease, Vietnamese medicine works mainly on the principle that if the body is strengthened it will naturally resist, Nam said.

The establishment of a research centre for traditional medicine at a former private luxury hospital has given fresh impetus to the revival, he added.

The deputy director of the hospital, Tran Thanh, said the search was being conducted into the use of local herbs in the treatment of asthma, rheumatism and diseases of the liver and kidney.

Rheumatism is common in South Vietnam, Nam said. He suggested this is due in part to the thousands of people who spent long, cramped hours in damp underground bomb shelters during the war.

The use of defoliants by the United States to clear jungle around suspected concentrations of guerrillas had resulted in an increased incidence of liver disease, he said.

In London, Dr. Arthur Galston, a plant physiologist from Yale University, said in an article in The General Practitioner medical magazine that liver cancer had increased sixfold in Vietnam since the spraying of defoliants.

But Galston, writing after a tour of North Vietnam, said scientists there have not established a direct link between defoliants and the increased in-

Swans Are Stubborn

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — A pair of mated swans at Waterworks Park are resisting parks department attempts to bring them in from the cold. The birds were put in a large enclosing basin which was to be their temporary home during the warm weather. There is a trap at the end of the basin where the swans receive their food but the birds eat only when employees have left the area.

Wins Contract

HUNTSVILLE, Ont. (CP) — Bontaywell Construction Ltd., of Barrie, Ont., has been awarded a $1.13-million contract to build a 4-district services building for the Ontario ministry of transportation and communications in Thornton, Ont. The new building will replace obsolete structures now being used by maintenance crews.

Firm Is Moving

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — St. Thomas Metallic Industries Ltd., one of the city's oldest industries—built in 1871—will move to Granby, Que., early in 1976 because of a great volume of business from Eastern Canada. The firm manufactures steel burial vaults and smokeless incinerators.

U.S. Labor Looks for Gains

WASHINGTON (AP) — Labor unions in the United States are look ing for wage increases for 4.5 million workers in 1976, mindful of the fact that business has not been good and there are not many jobs around.

Union leaders indicate they will be pressing for substantial wage increases to catch up with inflation, but fears of another recession and continued high unemployment also will influence their demands.

Most of the negotiations affecting twice as many workers as 1,075—take place between March and September in eight industries, rubber, electrical equipment, construction, food, steel and farm equipment.

Strikes in two of these—autos and trucking—might cripple the economy, should they occur.

There is concern within Ford administration that internal union pressures and competition between unions to outpace one another might touch off a wage spiral and a return of runaway inflation.

Michael Blocker, director of the Council on Wage and Price Stability, says wages are an area that will have to be watched very closely.

Inflation, tapered off somewhat in 1975 but still is running far above traditional levels. Its rate in 1976 will be the biggest influence in labor negotiations.

Most of the contracts expiring in 1976 were negotiated in 1973 during a period of wage controls. Since then, workers' average gross weekly pay has dropped $.5 per cent.

Their purchasing power has slipped because of inflation and taxes—in October was four per cent below its average for 1973.

Teamster President Frank Fitzsimmons says inflation's impact has cost his members 62 cents an hour because of the ceiling on the cost-of-living clause in his union's contract with the trucking industry.

In negotiations that began Dec. 11 against a March 31 strike deadline, the Teamsters demanded an unlimited cost-of-living escalator—an issue that will bear heavily in most 1976 contract talks.

Unemployment may have little effect on the size of wage settlements, but it is likely to prompt unions to push for early retirements, longer vacations, job transfer rights and restrictions on overtime and management's right to contract out work.

Management is likely to counter with demands to loosen work rules and manning procedures to increase productivity.

CN Hopes to Get Private Money

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian National Railways had hoped to borrow about $75 million for new equipment from private sources even before Treasury Board President Jean Chretien announced the government was not providing the money, a CN official said Wednesday.

But he said in a telephone interview from Montreal that Mr. Chretien's announcement last Thursday officially informed the railway it must turn to private institutions for the money.

The government's supplementary spending estimates approved in the Commons four days before Mr. Chretien's announcement, gave the railway the right to turn to the private money market.

CN President Robert Bandeen said in a statement Wednesday "our planning for CN earlier in 1975 "outlining its borrowing requirements from the government for 1976."

"Approval of the estimates now gives CN in the position of being able to finance its requirements externally," Mr. Bandeen said.

In Ottawa, Mr. Chretien expressed annoyance with earlier reports CN had in never heard of the $332.3 million it was supposed to be seeking from the government.

The treasury board presided as if I had lied to the public and that I wasn't a very competent president of the treasury board."

The publicly-owned railway submitted a request for the money from the government and after talks it was agreed that the money should be borrowed privately, he said.

Mr. Bandeen said in his statement that CN has received $1.6 billion from the government since 1960 for additional shares in the railway and to pay off debt.

The sale of shares to the government is a device for lending money to the railway for its regular operations, Mr. Chretien said.

A CN official said that the railway should early in 1975 a budget outlining its borrowing needs for new equipment and capital projects in 1976.

The railway has gone scaled its borrowing plans down to $305 million from $323.3 million, he said. This was partly because of a drop in traffic late in the year.

The railway's new budget has not yet been approved by the government.

The CN official said Mr. Bandeen expressed himself privately in mid-summer that the railway would be able to borrow from private institutions for new equipment.

CP News Roundup

Coal Deposit Discovered

FREDERICTON (CP) — The New Brunswick department of natural resources says a coal deposit estimated at 8 million tons has been discovered in the Lake Stanley area about 30 miles northwest of Moncton.

The discovery, confirmed Wednesday by the department's Dr. Richard Potter, was described as the first in the province in more than 150 years.

Dr. Potter said much exploration and drilling in the area during 1975 proved the estimated tonnage.

Tons of Help

TOKYO (AP) — North Vietnam said today that it has sent about a million tons of construction material and goods to South Vietnam since the Communist victory on April 30.

Diefenbakers Return

OTTAWA (CP) — Former prime minister John Diefenbaker returned to Ottawa on Christmas Eve, cutting short a Barbados vacation, to have his wife admitted to hospital.

The couple were flown back to Ottawa in a ministry of transport Jetstar after Mrs. Diefenbaker, 72, had suffered a mild stroke last week. She was reported in satisfactory condition.

Mr. Diefenbaker had taken the break from parliamentary duties to work on his memoirs.

Freighter Aground

TORONTO (CP) — A 10,000-ton lake freighter went aground last week off Toronto harbor Thursday evening.

The 604-foot George M. Carl, heading for Toronto from Cleveland, was carrying a cargo of grain when she went aground in Humber Bay. There were no injuries reported.

A harbor police spokesman said an attempt will be made to float the vessel Friday afternoon.

There was no immediate explanation for the grounding.

Pesticides Banned

WASHINGTON (AP) — The U. S. Environmental Protection Agency, finding that two widely-used pesticides pose an "imminent hazard" of cancer to man, is ordering an immediate ban on most uses of the chemicals.

The ban applies to uses of heptachlor and chlordane on lawns, gardens, turf and for household pest control. But the two pesticides may be used on some minor crops and on corn through Aug. 1, 1976.

Parcels Refused

OTTAWA (CP) — A group of St. Ukrainian-Canadian women who gathered in front of the Soviet Embassy Thursday were refused a request that the Soviet Embassy accept parcels of food and medicine for six women in Soviet hard-labour camps.

The protesters sang Christmas carols in Ukrainian and then placed one of the parcels in the embassy driveway. A few moments later an embassy official appeared and kicked the packages out into the street. The protesters put it back in the driveway and then watched the same official repeat his previous performance, however, the package was then run over by a passing truck.

Enrolment Drops

MONTREAL (CP) — Government statistics show Quebec's school-age population is expected to drop to 1.2 million from 1.7 million in the next decade.

The statistics, contained in a recent publication of the Quebec Federation of Catholic School Commissions, indicate that an increase is anticipated only in the late 1980s.

The document also says that the number of teachers required in the province will be 61,000 within the next decade, down from the current 81,000. In addition, almost 1,000 of the the province's 15,700 schools will be left empty by 1985 if conditions persist.

An earlier study by the Montreal Catholic School Commission predicted a 50-per-cent decline in the number of Montreal and Quebec City students by the early 1980s.

Construction Site?

MOSCOW (AP) — A Soviet newspaper says a film shown in the West, purportedly about a Soviet prison camp, was taken at a construction site where prisoners were working.

The film was shown last week in Canada, The United States, France, Britain and a number of other countries. It was said to have depicted a labor camp near High Lake, where gold mines were held in "intolerable conditions." A communist official said there were political prisoners in the camp.

Arrests Denied

CAIRO (AP) — The Syrian government has arrested some members of the Syrian Communist party in Damascus, Secretary-General Khalid Bakdash escaped, the semi-official Cairo newspaper Al Ahram says.

• A Syrian government spokesman in Damascus denied the report and said that the Egyptian government had floated it to undermine Saudi Arabian King Khalid's Arab solidarity mission to Damascus.

Ministers Invited

BEIRUT, Lebanon (AP) — Abu Dhabi has invited the oil ministers of the Organization of Petroleum Exporting Countries (OPEC) to resume their interrupted Vienna meeting in the Persian Gulf emirate in February, the Saudi Arabian radio reported today.

The broadcast said the purpose of the invitation was to enable OPEC's ministerial council to resume the oil-pricing discussion interrupted by the terrorist attack on OPEC's Vienna headquarters last Sunday.

The invitation was sent to the OPEC secretary-general in Vienna by Oil Minister Mana Said Otaiba, who left the Austrian capital a few hours before the attack. The terrorists took all ministers hostage and freed them Monday and Tuesday in Algiers and Tripoli.

Cabin Cruiser's SOS Might Have Been Hoax

CLEVELAND (AP) — The United States Coast Guard said today that radio signals received Thursday night reporting a cabin cruiser in trouble on Lake Erie may have been a hoax.

But a coast guard spokesman said a cutter in the area is continue searching, and will be joined by a helicopter if weather permits. Gale-force winds were reported on the lake today and near-blizzard conditions before dawn hampered the search.

The spokesman at coast guard regional headquarters here said a radio signal claiming to be from the vessel, which had radio operators had been monitoring ceased at 2:30 a.m.

The Federal Communications Commission (FCC) attempted to obtain a radio fix on the signal and tentatively placed it about a hundred miles inland near Zanesville, Ohio, making the officials suspect a hoax. The coast guard said there was a chance the fix might be wrong and so they were proceeding with the search.

The signals identified the boat in distress only as 25-foot cruiser with Ohio registration. The signals radioed late Thursday that the boat had 10 persons aboard and was taking water. The signals later said the boat's condition had stabilized and that it was no longer taking water.

The coast guard could offer no explanation what the vessel might be doing on the lake, which is frozen in places. The signals reported it was near Pelee Island in Canadian waters.

The coast guard buoy tender Mariposa, a 180-foot cutter, received the area early today but reported no sign of the vessel.

A 44-foot coast guard launch from Marblehead at the tip of Sandusky Bay in Ohio was also set out for the area, but turned back when it ran into ice several inches thick and poor visibility.

Rhine Fast Becoming A Sewer for Europe

LONDON (Reuter) — Throw a fishing line into the Thames and one may hook a pot trout, in the Rhine, one might land a fish but it might be blind and without scales.

In the Rhine, one will catch nothing.

The health of the fish population gives a pretty accurate guide to the state of pollution in the great rivers of Europe and it is a catalogue of useless stories and horror stories.

Take the Rhine, the source of drinking water for 20 million Swiss, Germans, French, and Dutch. A test tube of its contents will show a nasty cocktail of chloride, zinc, copper, lead and salt.

The Rhine is becoming Europe's sewer. And the countries along its banks cannot agree on what to do or who should pay the bill.

The Thames, on the other hand, has come back to life. Only 25 years ago, hydrogen sulphide gas from its evil-smelling waters would quickly result with lead in a ship's paint to change its color.

A clean-up campaign stopped the rot. About 82 species now have been identified in the estuary and its first salmon in 141 years was caught last year.

In France, fishermen in the Seine estuary blockaded the port of Deauville last summer to draw attention to the pollution that was killing the fish, and their livelihood.

The Danube, Europe's second mighest river, is one that can match the record of the Thames. It possesses self-purification qualities, but these are being severely strained by the 70 million people in the Danube drainage area.

All four rivers are polluted. The degree varies, but the basic ingredients are the same—an inevitable by-product of the industrial revolution and the growth of cities along mighty waterways.

Holiday Dressing

Fluffy and feathery or sophisticated and almost-tailored are the extremes of holiday party fashion and, in between, you can choose any one of a number of looks, including the new lingerie look. Whatever style you choose, you're sure to feel glamorous.

Lingerie look for parties is captured in three-tiered evening dress by Toronto courturier Maggy Reeves. It is made of black chiffon trimmed with Venetian lace and styled like a chemise.

Floral printed dress and black velvet jacket for wearing over the Christmas holidays was created by designer Amy Carter of Toronto. The dress has the new slimmed down silhouette. The jacket has pleated padded shoulders.

The era of ultra-cheap, short-life clothes has come to an end in Britain and designers are turning the winter fashion scene into one of compromise and good sense. Dress, designed by Susan Small, is made from new anti-stat Celanaire — a delicate fabric with fine, crepeike appearance which is exceptionally cool and comfortable.

A Lynna strapless cocktail dress topped with ostrich plumes is perfect for the holiday season. Designed by Norma Lepofsky, the gown was shown at a recent Toronto fashion show.

THE LONELY HUNTER
BIOGRAPHY OF CARSON MCCULLERS
By Virginia Spencer Carr

Carson McCullers was only 22 when she wrote The Heart is a Lonely Hunter. The novel, acclaimed as the work of a prodigious and gifted writer, showed much intensity and nobility of spirit.

This biography captures the vitality, courage and indescribable genius of Carson McCullers. The author traces her childhood in Columbus, Georgia to the years when she was a prima donna of New York literary circles.

Carson's life was marked constantly by tragedy. In later years she became paralyzed, crippled by a series of violent strokes. Illness was always with her. Married to Reeves McCullers, Carson divorced him only to remarry him a few years later, finally abandoning him completely.

This tiny, boyish author was wildly eccentric and capable of the maddest infatuations for members of either sex. A complex personality who seemed to inspire the greatest affection from her friends and admirers, she also made enemies of many of these people.

This new biography of the woman who wrote Member of the Wedding and Reflections in a Golden Eye, is now available in the Corby Library.

drink: Stir over low heat until gelatine is completely dissolved. Stir in remaining Cranapple drink and ginger ale. Chill until mixture becomes syrupy. Fold in fruits. Pour mixture into a 2 qt. mold. Chill until firm. In a bowl fold mayonnaise into whipped cream. Chill. When ready to serve unmold into bakewarm water, tap to loosen, and invert onto a platter. Spoon some mayonnaise mixture over each serving; or serve mixture in bowl so each person can help himself. Serves eight.

Dresses Dolls

TORONTO (CP) — Helen J. Bourgeois of Saint John, N.B., has been named winner of a national doll dressing contest by its sponsor, Montreal Trust Co. Dolls are bought and dressed at the company's branches across Canada and entered in the contest before Christmas. They are then distributed to needy children. This year there were 3,300 entries.

Anthony Newley Joins Protest Against 'Myth of Motherhood'

NEW YORK (Reuter) — Actor-composer-author Anthony Newley, writer Isaac Asimov and numerous other men and women are protesting the myth of motherhood and apple pie.

They art speaking out against the pressure society creates to procreate.

The message that motherhood is powerful and wonderful is brought to you by the people who brought you advertising, films, rock music, literature, and other popular and fine arts, the speakers said at a recent conference here on "procatal-ism and the arts."

Prenatalism is the concept of "woman as womb," explained Ellen Peck, founder of the Ballimore-based National Organization for Non-Parents (NON), which sponsored the day-long conference along with Zero Population Growth, Planned Parenthood and the National Organization for Women (NOW), America's largest feminist organization.

Anthony Newley, who wrote Stop the World I Want To Get Off and other Broadway hits, appeared at the conference and played a tape of his song Teach The Children He rings Procreation Is A Paradise for Fools and notes lyrically that behind every rogue is "the smiling pair who gave the world this monster."

Another song, by a different composer, Havin' My Baby, was played to show how pop music glamorizes and romanticizes pubescent pregnancy. Paul Anka warbles, "Having my baby, what a lovely way of saying how much you love me. . . ."

Writer Claudia Dreifus played and other songs and noted "... rock shows women 'only as eternal, earth mothers or groupies—no other alternatives are offered. This is particularly unfortunate because the $3-billion yearly rock industry is aimed mostly at people in formative years before 20."

Women are also seduced into motherhood by television programming and advertising, said Joyce Snyder, of NOW.

In one iron tonic commercial a daughter says to her mother, "you're incredible . . . I hope I look as good as you when I grow up." She said (they were selling not only a tonic but also children. "Who wouldn't want to breed their very own fast?"

She also pointed to the theme of pregnancy as deus ex machina, a mechanical saviour. One advertisement has the husband saying, "Now that you're expecting, I don't want you to lift a finger." Another has the husband offering to help around the house before his wife comes home from the maternity hospital.

"The implication here is that pregnancy will change the attitudes of a man who prior to pregnancy thought division of household duties a commonsense plot," she added.

Marjorie Rosen, film critic and author of Popcorn Venus, divided motherhood into categories including passage to maturity, antidote to selfishness, expiation of sins.

Childlessness, she said, was viewed in films as causing mental disorders, marital disolution, a meaningless life, loss of womanliness.

The critic said that an era of child worship swept in with the Depression on the tapping heels and toes of Shirley Temple. "This child worship devalued adulthood as an inevitable irrelevancy," she said.

Films had been afraid of glorifying enormous families. Cheaper By The Dozen and Meet Me In St. Louis, just as television has The Brady Bunch, The Partridge Family, and The Waltons.

In Blume In Love, George Segal rapes his estranged wife, makes her pregnant and thereby begins to regenerate a happy marriage.

In Georgie Girl, Lynn Redgrave plies "motherhood as a way to avoid dealing with men and the world. She cares for her roommate's abandoned child rather than the woman's discarded lover."

Even Marlene Dietrich in Blonde Venus gives up Cary Grant and stardom as an international chanteuse to return a gill-pecking, punishing husband to keep her small son, she said.

Rarely do films ever show a mother or motherhood as often with discomfort, overcome by morning sickness, exhausted by diaper clean-up," the critic noted.

Yet films imply that "a woman who chooses a career over a family is evil and selfish, a woman since is neurotic, yet a woman who reproduces is, if not divine, at least whole, complete," she added.

Dr. Suzanne Keller, sociology professor at Princeton University, told the conference that "women fall back on pregnancy as a solution because they have no other alternatives."

"We want to and need to degloriify motherhood, given the problems of our planet," she added.

The NOW co-ordinator said, "before you know it, those infants will be vying for our jobs; our food, our resources, our space."

Ann Landers

Father-in-law Too Fond!

Dear Ann Landers: My in-laws are both in their early 70s. I've had no trouble with my mother-in-law ever since I told her to please stop trying to shove her religion down my throat.

My father-in-law has become a real problem, however. He was always fond of me but he (the last survivor or so his "fatherly" kisses have become much too frequent and not very fatherly.

He never does anything out of the way when his wife or my husband are around, but when he catches me in the back hall or behind the bushes he gets painfully fresh. Last night I went to the fruit cellar to get some pickled peaches. He followed me into the fruit room and kissed me on the back of the neck.

When I was dating I knew how to deal with clowns who acted like that. I hauled off and plasted one on the schmo. But I just can't do that to my father-in-law.

My husband would be furious if he knew his dad was making passes at me. My mother-in-law would kill the old lecher. I don't want him pulverized or dead. What's the best solution?—In A Spot

Dear Spot: Make it a point not to be alone with him—ever. If he follows you again and gets out of line, give him a clop in the chops. On those occasions when he forgets you're his daughter-in-law, I say it's all right to forget he's your father-in-law.

Dear Ann: This is for the husband of "Dark Circles in Texas." She was worried because her husband Rodney insisted on keeping a loaded gun in the drawer of the nightstand by his bed. "A person has to be crazy," he said, "to be unprotected these days."

Rodney, you idiot, children do wander and get into things. But kids don't know how dangerous a gun can be. If your son should kill himself you'd never get over it. And those who love you most would never forgive you.

If you can't give up that gun I hope "Dark Circles" packs up and leaves you and takes the boy along. Harsh decision? Nothing compared with a gun accident that could kill your child.

Let the burglar take your wallet and the family silver. What does it mean compared to your son's life? If you pulled a gun on an intruder he'd probably get you first. They usually do.—Ex I.D. Please

Dear I.D.: Thanks for a powerful letter. I hope millions of gun-loving, trigger-happy Americans will take heed. There are at least 90 million guns loose in the United States. Small wonder President Ford was threatened by guns twice in 17 days. Wake up, America, we need a strong federal gun law.

Dear Ann: I'm not asking for advice. It's too late. I just want to warn others so they won't land in the spot I'm in right now.

I'm a 67-year-old widow who worked hard and saved so I could be financially independent in my old age. To eliminate probate court costs and delays I put my major asset (a piece of valuable property) in my son's name.

Last week his wife sued him for divorce and today I learned she is claiming my property. Just Sign Me—Not So Smart After All

Dear Friend: How sad to be holes on your own petard. A good lawyer might be able to help, if you don't have one—get one.

Israeli Would Talk To Some Palestinians

TEL AVIV (AP) — Defence Minister Shimon Peres said today that the government should agree to talk with Palestinian representatives other than the members of the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO).

"We must state our readiness to negotiate with the Palestinians," Peres said in an interview with the independent newspaper Maariv.

"Our 'No' to the Palestine Liberation Organization sounds like a 'No' to all Palestinians, and this need not be."

Israel refuses to deal with the PLO guerrillas, and Prime Minister Yitzhak Rabin has said he will negotiate with Palestinians only if they are members of a Jordanian delegation.

Peres did not specify what Palestinian group he considers acceptable. But he recently urged the development of a Palestinian leadership on the West Bank, which Israel took from Jordan in the 1967 war. West Bank Arabs, fearful of the PLO, rejected Peres's proposal.

Foreign Minister Yigal Allon also recently said he is in favor of some form of negotiations with the Palestinians, and the independent Liberal party, a minor member of Rabin's coalition government, announced Thursday that it approves of talks with moderate Palestinians.

However, all members of the cabinet are reported to agree with Rabin that a new Palestinian state should not be set up on the West Bank.

Gandhi To Seek Extension

NEW DELHI (AP) — Prime Minister Indira Gandhi is expected to seek and to receive a mandate from her Congress party next week for the continuation of her emergency powers and for constitutional changes reducing the authority of Parliament.

Authoritative sources said Mrs. Gandhi will tell the annual party convention starting Monday in Chandigarh that subversive forces at home and abroad still threaten India.

Extension of the emergency powers will permit the government to continue the repressive measures taken after proclamation of the state of emergency June 26, including imprisonment of thousands of Mrs. Gandhi's political opponents, severe press controls and suspension of most civil liberties.

The sources said Mrs. Gandhi and other party leaders have prepared a resolution saying "it would be premature to conclude that the dangers of internal and external subversion have been fully surmounted."

The resolution, asking the government to continue the national emergency, is expected to be approved with little or no opposition. Leading critics of Mrs. Gandhi within the party have either been expelled or arrested.

The emergency was proclaimed to block a civil disobedience campaign planned by opposition parties to force Mrs. Gandhi to resign because of her conviction of election law violations. The conviction was later overturned.

The sources said the resolution also urges a thorough re-examination of the constitution. Observers said this may be the first step toward a switch from the parliamentary system to a strong presidency heading the government, with Mrs. Gandhi as president.

A reduction of the powers of Parliament is considered certain. Newspapers said a Congress party committee will propose that Parliament reduce its current annual session of more than half a year to less than three months. More decisions would be taken in closed committee meetings, with less opportunity for criticism and motions of no confidence by the members of the opposition who are not in jail.

Since the Congress party has an overwhelming majority in Parliament, such motions have no chance of adoption. But because of the emergency restrictions, they are almost the only way of putting criticism of Mrs. Gandhi and her government before the public.

Not Everyone Gets Christmas Break

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Steve LaMorre doesn't mind working Christmas and boxing

STEVE LAMORRE

Day, providing there isn't any work to do.

He's an attendant for City Ambulance and spent Christmas Day hoping there wouldn't be any calls for help.

Despite the fact many persons are enjoying a four-day Christmas break, and most have Christmas Day off, to some it's just another working day.

Mr. LaMorre said he's been a casualty care attendant for eight years and has worked Christmas Day for the past seven years.

"It's a sad time of the year if anything happens," said Mr. LaMorre.

On Wednesday, he said he

was out of bed at 4 a.m. putting together Christmas gifts for his children who were up at 6.30 a.m. He went to work at 8 a.m.

Ted Wessells, Belleville fire department alarm operator worked Christmas Day. He's been with the department 20 years and said they have about the same number of calls Christmas Day as on other days.

"It's good working Christmas Day. It's my job, someone has to do it," said Mr. Wessells.

Bob Andrus, who has been with the department 13 years, said because it is a holiday they don't do any training but they do clean the fire hall and equipment.

"We pray a little harder there are no calls to go out on Christmas Day," said Mr. Andrus.

He said he was up about 6.30 a.m. Christmas Day so his family could open gifts before he went to work. "Your family gets used to building its life around your job."

Willie Williams, owner of Willie's Place, restaurant on College St. W., opened Christmas Day because it's too far to go home to be with his family.

MARION BUNCIMAN

He and his wife Sandi opened the restaurant about two months ago after leaving Toronto.

"People are really nice today. It's not as slow as I thought it would be," said Mr. Williams.

"I am amazed at how many cigarette addicts there are in town," he said. He was open before most variety stores.

Matt Thompson, manager of Mac's Milk on College St. W., said she doesn't like working Christmas Day. But this year it doesn't bother me too much because I'm going to be in Florida."

"I don't think anyone should have to work Christmas Day. One day out of the year every one should have off," she said.

Most persons coming into the store were buying cigarettes, soft drinks or batteries for Christmas gifts, she said.

Const. Tom Bergstrom of Belleville OPP said he chose to work Christmas Day and get New Year's off work: "It gives one more married fellow a chance to be at home with his family. I'm single and I don't mind working."

He's been with the force three years and has worked Christmas day each year.

"It's a quiet day. It's a good day to catch up on paper work."

Randy Farrar, Grade 13 student at Belleville Collegiate Institute, said he volunteered to work Christmas Day at the Shell self-serve station on North Front St., because he was offered better wages than usual to work the soon to a p.m. shift.

Sgt. Keith Wright of Belleville city police said Wednesday was an average Christmas: "None of us like working on Christmas Day but its our duty."

Bonnie Howard, front desk clerk at Four Seasons Hotel said she volunteered to work Christmas Day to see what it was like: "It's interesting. It seems like any other day."

Bell-man Peter Slaughter said he was working a 16-hour shift: "I just keep counting the money."

TOM BERGSTROM

"I don't find Christmas a big deal anymore," said Miss Howard. "It's too commercialized."

Marion Bunciman, nurse in medical surgical ward at Belleville General Hospital, said she volunteered to work Christmas Day because she has had Christmas off work for the past two years.

"It's nice to be in the hospital. Christmas Day. It seems to be a warm day with the families here."

Her family, she said, was at home making Christmas dinner.

The day before Christmas bothers some patients, she said, but by Christmas Day they have recovered them-selves that they are going to be in hospital that day.

City-run Skating Rinks May Be Ready Next Month

Work already has started on readying outdoor skating rinks around Belleville.

But it all depends on weather.

If it stays cold more than a dozen strategically-sited surfaces will be in operation by early January, says Clifford Belch, city recreation director.

The rinks are maintained by the city's parks department which, by early this week already has started work on several locations.

Snow was cleared from two of the biggest natural rink areas—East Zwick's cove and the harbor—and a pond area north of College St.

Plans call for snow removal to continue to cold temperatures will speed up surface hardening.

Elsewhere, the snow will be packed down and—if the weather holds—flooding should start about Jan. 5, says Lloyd Sayers, parks director.

Flooding already has been carried out at the Quinte Skating and Tennis Club where skating lessons are part of the city's winter recreation program.

More rinks will be added to the list of sites already chosen for flooding should demand require them, says Mr. Belch.

Canadians Start Tradition in Lahr

LAHR, West Germany — Over 5,000 people lined the streets in this black Forest region town recently to watch the local Canadian Armed Forces community put on what is becoming an annual Christmas tradition here — a Santa Claus parade.

Locally known as "Weihnacht Ummuge", the parade was complete with clowns throwing candy to watching children, floats and marching bands.

Parade entries were judged by the representatives of the commander of Canadian Forces Base Europe and Lahr's mayor.

This year, the prize for the best float was awarded to the Royal 22nd Regiment, which depicted a maple sugar festival. Second prize was awarded to "Old No. 6", a float of a train.

The 4CMSU came third with a float of Santa Claus and his reindeer. An honorable mention went to 4CMBG headquarters and signal squadron.

Trains, Buses Busy

Extra Equipment Required To Handle Holiday Travellers

BY AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Suitcases blocked aisles and Christmas wrapping spilled from bags at Belleville's train station prior to Christmas day as city residents, numbering in the thousands, flocked home for family turkeys.

Canadian National Railway spokesmen reported an increase in passengers, although no figures as to numbers could be provided.

Robert Burns, manager of CNR's Rideau area, said passenger traffic numbers have "certainly more than doubled" over the Christmas holiday season compared to other times of the year.

But food gates have not opened, according to Frank Becker, area supervisor of passenger sales.

"As far as I can see, the traffic has been fairly steady," Mr. Becker said. "Everyone has not been trying to go all at once."

"Certainly, we're considerably busier than we are in the fall," he added.

CN has increased the passenger-carrying capacity of its trains, he said. Where normally six cars would make up a train, now nine coaches are used.

"We've put on greater numbers of equipment," but added passenger and ticket handling staff were not increased in Belleville.

Mr. Burns said in addition to more cars entire extra trains — that don't stop here — were added on the Montreal-Toronto run, what he called part of the "main Toronto-Ottawa-Montreal" service.

Brian McDonnell, terminal manager for Voyageur Colonial Ltd., said he's noticed a greater flow of passengers entering Belleville rather than leaving.

"There's been a steady flow, more than normal," said Mr. McDonnell.

On Wednesday, he said, they operated on a weekend schedule with extra buses and extra service. He said they usually use only one coach on the noon run from Toronto to Belleville. Three coaches were used on Wednesday.

"It's a big rush to come for the holidays but they trickle back on different days," said Mr. McDonnell saying he anticipates few problems for visitors leaving Belleville.

Quinte Rescue Squad Buys 'Jaws of Life'

Accident victims in the Quinte area are about to receive a holiday present courtesy of the Quinte Rescue Squad.

Squad member Bob Pearce says the squad has ordered the Hurst Power Rescue tool, commonly known as the "jaws of life" — an implement designed to quickly extricate trapped motorists from motor vehicle involved in accidents.

But Mr. Pearce added the squad is taking a chance and is hoping area residents and businesses will pull through again as they already have done during the fund-raising campaign to collect the money required to purchase the jaws.

He said the squad has raised about $5,000 but almost $7,000 is required to cover the costs of not only the jaws but some accessories.

A $6,200 price tag includes the jaws, and a wedge, hooks, chains, a gasoline motor and a 16-foot hydraulic hose. But an extra $320 is required for cutting shears and the squad needs two extra 16-foot hoses, he noted.

"We're hoping the people will come through," Mr. Pearce remarked of the $2,000 difference

He said the squad will try to raise the remainder by the time of delivery but with the arrival date unknown, it also poses a problem.

He explained if the tool is in stock, it could be delivered any day now. But if it has to be ordered by the supplier — Hickey Fire Equipment Co. in Hamilton (Ontario distributers for the tool) — then it could take six weeks.

Mr. Pearce said a recent accident on Highway 33, half a mile north of Glen Miller, in which the driver was trapped for over an hour, forced the squad to make the premature order.

"What brought it to a head was that accident," he commented. "We're getting too serious. We've had two or three like that."

He elaborated that during the Highway 33 rescue, if the squad had had the tool, "we could have cut it down by over three-quarters of the time."

Mr. Pearce continued that the driver went into shock halfway through the rescue but if the jaws had been available, "we would have had him out and on his way (to hospital) before shock set in."

Crawford Gets Contract

From the Ottawa Bureau of The Intelligencer

OTTAWA — Crawford Metal Corp. Ltd. of Belleville has been awarded a $28,000 federal contract to provide the defence department with steel, the department of supply and services announced this week.

At the same time, the department announced the award of a $13,621 contract to Cobourg Construction Co. Ltd., which will be repairing concrete sidewalks at CFB Trenton.

They are among 180 unclassified contracts worth $18,000 or more that have been awarded by the supply and services department to Canadian companies during the week ended Dec. 12.

Total value of the contracts was $10,114,952.

Four Families Get Special Christmas Gift

Four local women were not home Christmas Day to unwrap presents under the family tree.

Instead, they were at hospitals in Trenton and Belleville being presented with a different kind of bundle — an addition to the family.

Despite the foul weather, the stork delivered an eight pound - seven and a half ounce boy to Claire Tanner and her husband, Carl, of RR 1, Carrying Place.

Another boy was also delivered at Belleville General Hospital. Cheryl Wilson of 31 Alice St., Brighton, and her husband Robin, are now the parents of a six pound 14½ ounce baby.

At Trenton Memorial Hospital, Loretta Borne of 30 Borden Dr., Middlesex Park, gave birth to a six pound, six ounce boy. The baby is the second child for Mr. and Mrs. Vernon Borne.

Trenton recorded the only girls with a six pound, five ounce baby to Norma Morgan and her husband James of 148 Bay St., Trenton.

Area Dealers Say Sale Of Real Trees Brisk

Sales of live Christmas trees this year ranged from "good" to "fantastic", according to two area dealers, who two days before Christmas had virtually none left in their lots.

And artificial trees says Foster Rosenpiel, "have not hurt sales a bit."

Mr. Rosenpiel said he bought close to 900 to his Foster's Used Furniture lot at Bayside and sold all but a few damaged trees.

Allan Whitney Jr., assistant manager at Sidney Inn on West Moira, reported the same experience. All but about 20 trees from 1,200 ordered were sold, he said.

His father, Allan Whitney, said the 200 extra trees brought to Belleville from Bancroft this year-they carried 1,000 in 1974—were sold without much trouble.

Mr. Rosenpiel lamented over his inability to provide enough trees to meet the demand. "I could have sold another 200 or 300 trees," he said.

Business was so brisk, particularly the last two weekends before Christmas, that at times, his small lot couldn't handle the number of cars arriving, he said.

"People were coming in droves," he said. People had to leave their cars parked on the shoulder of Highway 2.

In talking to customers, Mr. Rosenpiel said he noted that many were returning to the live tree.

People use an artificial tree for two years, he says, and then decide to switch — put up the artificial tree back in the box.

"We get that every year — people switching to live trees," Mr. Rosenpiel says.

Both Mr. Rosenpiel and Mr. Whitney Jr. say that both sprucy and scotch pine were equally as popular this year.

Building Outlook 'Stable' Says Sutton

The first quarter of 1976 looks "relatively stable" for the construction industry, Don Sutton, manager of the Quinte Construction Association said Monday.

"In total construction has been solvent in the Quinte area during 1975," said Mr. Sutton.

He said the local association agrees with suggestions made in a recent press release by Canadian Construction Association.

To provide for modest growth of the industry and "an early resumption of real growth" the press release from national president Henry de Puyjalon calls for: Sustained recovery of the economy, "vigorous adjustment" of government fiscal embalances and a visible sign that the inflation rate is easing.

Court Dates Set for Two Held on Theft Charges

William Arthur Hayes, 18, of 45 St. James St., in Stirling appears in provincial court here Dec. 29 for the first time on charges of theft over $200 and two counts of of willful damage under $50.

Hayes was ordered held in custody at the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee following a bail hearing Wednesday.

Also facing the same charges is David Stanley Rolfe, 20, of 230F Pine St. in Belleville who will make his first appearance here in provincial court Jan. 5.

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville say the charges are in connection with the theft of a tow truck from Woodbeck Auto Parts (Stirling) Ltd. at 39 Wellington St. in Stirling and broken windows at both Wells Ford Mercury Sales Ltd. at 88 Belleville Rd. in Stirling on Tuesday.

Cold Isn't It?

Belleville water purification plant employee, Edgar Lebow peers into an enclosed mini-weather station to check temperatures registered in the city overnight. As of 8 a.m. today, a high of -7 degrees and a low of -11 degrees Celsius were recorded. And Mr. Lebow said that since it started to snow heavily at 5 a.m., about 17.5 cm. (seven inches) of snow has fallen.

Tommy Williams Retires

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Washington Capitals centre Tommy Williams, a star on the United States 1960 Olympic championship hockey team, announced his retirement from hockey Wednesday.

A spokesman for the National Hockey League club said Williams was retiring for personal reasons.

He broke into the NHL with Boston Bruins a year after he assisted on the goal that beat the Soviet Union and gave the U.S. its only hockey gold medal.

Williams spent eight years with the Bruins before being traded to Minnesota North Stars where he had his best season in 1969-70 with 47 points on 20 goals and 31 assists.

He later played with California of the NHL and returned to Boston before jumping to the World Hockey Association's New England Whalers.

The Capitals signed Williams in July, 1974, and he went on to become the team's leading scorer in its initial season with 22 goals and 36 assists.

McAdoo Doesn't Mind

BUFFALO, N.Y. (AP) — Bob McAdoo, the suspended scoring star of Buffalo Braves, indicated Thursday he is in no rush to get back on the National Basketball Association team.

"I have no plans to do anything right now," said McAdoo when asked if he would visit to get a second doctor's opinion on his report of a "dull pain in the lower middle part of" the back.

His stance means that McAdoo will not play in tonight's game in Philadelphia against the 76ers.

Braves owner Paul Snyder said late Wednesday that

BOB McADOO

McAdoo was suspended indefinitely after a doctor and x-rays failed to reveal any reason for back pains. Snyder said his decision came after McAdoo declined to seek a second medical opinion.

"Before McAdoo can come back to the club, he has to be mentally and physically prepared to play basketball," Snyder said.

But McAdoo said: "I've had a couple days rest and I feel good enough to play right now, but I'm on suspension."

McAdoo, the NBA's leading scorer with a 31.3 points-a-game average, denied feeling any hesitancy or placing any blame, but said:

"I don't believe the Braves handled me fairly."

"Coach (Jack Ramsay) has always told us that if we're hurting or not feeling up to par to tell him. He said a player might hurt his career and the team if he played hurt.

"I told them I was hurting, but they don't believe me. I guess they think I'm Superman.

"Dr. (Stephen) Joyce examined me and saw nothing physically wrong, but he can't see my pain."

McAdoo said he learned of his suspension in a telephone call from a Buffalo reporter.

McGowan Tops Canadian Press Poll

He Came Back-Eskies Are Glad He Did

By MEL SUFRIN
CP Sports Editor

The Lou Lef of George McGowan to Canadian Football League stardom after an injury-plagued season is the comeback of the year in Canadian sport.

Sports writers and broadcasters participating in the annual year-end poll by The Canadian Press rank McGowan's first season of Saskatchewan Roughriders' last-game comeback to edge Toronto Argonauts for the third and final playoff position in the Eastern Football Conference.

As for the Argos, their last-game flagging was the disappointment of the year.

The biggest surprise of 1975 is an honor shared by Vancouver Canucks, who finished ahead of Chicago Black Hawks in the Smythe Division of the National Hockey League, and the NHL trade in which Boston Bruins sent Phil Esposito and Carol Vadnais to New York Rangers for Brad Park, Jean Ratelle and Joe Zanussi.

The chairwoman on professional hockey violence is Ontario Attorney-General Roy McMurtry who voiced the oddity of 1975 when a fair number of voters chose the incident at the Grey Cup in Calgary in which an almost-nude woman danced for several minutes during pre-game ceremonies.

And the thrill of the year was the Grey Cup game itself, won 9-8 by Edmonton Eskimos when Montreal Alouettes kicker Don Sweet missed a short field goal try in the final minute.

McGowan, a six-foot-two wide receiver from Kansas University, was named the outstanding player in the CFL in 1973. But last year a severe hamstring injury forced him to miss all but four games.

He returned in 1975 to set a record 38 pass catches, breaking the mark of 96 set by Terry Evanshen, then with Calgary Stampeders, in 1967.

Another highly rated comeback was the Alouettes victory over Ottawa in the Eastern final after Montreal Hawks had clinched first place by beating Ottawa 46-4 in the regular schedule.

Some voters picked the Rough Riders for finishing first and others favored Guy Lafleur, who established superstar status by setting goal records for Montreal Canadiens in the 1974-75 NHL season.

And wit found the comeback of the year in the World Hockey Association — the Winnipeg Jets, formerly Calgary Eagles-Phoenix-Calgary Cowboys — still managed to keep coming back each year under a new name.

Close behind the Argonauts in the disappointment-of-the-year vote were Montreal Expos, a Prime Contender Montreal finished in a tie for last place in the National League East.

Other disappointments included the loss of the world curling championship by the Bill Tetley rink from Thunder Bay, Ont., the failure of Toller Cranston of Toronto to win a medal in the world figure skating championships, and the suspension of runner Joan Wenzel of Waterloo, Ont., stripped of her Pan-American Games bronze medal after a drops test turned up a tiny amount of ephedrine left from a cold capsule.

The Wolf Cup downhill, won by Val d'Isere, France, by Ken Read of Toronto, was one of the major surprises of the year, with Montreal's victory over Ottawa in the Eastern football playoffs a record set by swimmer Nancy Garapick of Halifax, and the defeat handed to the Soviet national men's basketball team by Canada.

Jim's Prepares for Clash With Sweden

While many of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association's representative teams in Ontario Minor Hockey Association competition are beginning to find their legs in the city's third season in AAA company, the bit of the 1975-76 campaign has to be Jim's Pizzeria Juvenile.

The team, heading for two high spots during an already highly successful season, will carry an excellent record into Sunday's Belleville Yardmen Juvenile Tournament. And New Year's Day, at Memorial Arena the club plays host to the touring Swedish Juveniles.

Coached by Keith Kaine, the Belleville skaters would like nothing better than a tournament championship to busy them for the meeting with the Swedes.

On the season, Kaine's charges have roared to 21 wins while losing twice (both by one-goal margins) and tying a pair. For the first time since Belleville was moved to AAA the city has a first place team, in an OMHA grouping.

Jim's help pay the bill off Sunday tournament play when they hook up with Bowmanville in an 8.30 a.m. game at Memorial. At the same time, Trenton and Oshawa are scheduled to match skills at Dick Ellis Rink.

Other first round action has Toronto Rangers meeting Peterborough at Memorial while at Dick Ellis Rink, K's Brooklin-Whitby and Brampton in action. Both those games are called for 10 a.m. starts.

B and A championships will be decided at Memorial with the B final going at 3.45 p.m. and the A showdown at 5.45 p.m.

Team manager Bill Thompson says Jim's success is due in large part to the A.1 attitude shown by every member of the club.

"I've never seen a team with the desire this one has," offers Thompson.

"Coach Kaine has the players working very hard in practices but he has his knack of making it the kind of session that is enjoyed by everyone.

"The players really put out for Keith and it shows in our record," Thompson explains.

Being associated with a winner is nothing new for Kaine. In 1974 and again this year, he coached Belleville teams to Ontario Minor Lacrosse Association championships.

Blessed with solid goaltending, the team is rated tops on defence and up front, the attackers leave nothing to be desired.

Regular goalies with the team are Mark Meehan and Allan Portt. John Merrill has also seen action between the pipes and performed capably when called on.

Paired on defence are Roger Chapman and Paul Svoboda; Tom Belch and Dave Giddings, and Brian Hamilton and Mike Willman.

The team's top forward line to date has been the Cord Male-Mark Foster-Ray Skelly unit.

The centre, Male is the club's top point-getter with 28 off 22 goals and six assists. Left winger Foster checks in with 18 goals and two helpers while Skelly has a total of 26 points (15-11).

Paul Hayman is the pivot for Gary Thompson and right winger Rick MacLeod. The other line has Marty Lowry between Kevin Pope on the left side, and Tony Bennett.

A recent addition to the team, forward Ken Lynch has been making his presence felt while seeing spot duty.

It's a talented lineup, one that is responding to the guidance from the top. And it has that special ingredient . . . balance.

A tournament championship would be a fitting wrap-up to 1975. And a strong showing against the Swedes would be the best possible way for the team to greet 1976.

Goegan Sets Amazing Points Pace Since Return to Action

If it's been said once, it's been said a dozen times this season. But, it's going to be said again. The mainstay of the Belleville Bobcats; the man capable of boosting morale, scoring points and generally bringing it all together is 20-year-old centre Grant Goegan.

Joey Edwards, Cats six-foot-two defensive stalwart says, "As Joey Gopey (pronounced phonetically with two hard Go's goes, so goes the team."

Goegan plays between Andy Ricketts, on the right side, and either Eric Powell or Paul Johnston. The titanic face-off artist has accumulated 31 points in 18 games thus far.

"I guess I just got off on the right foot in training camp," he said, "I felt very confident there and -I've retained that feeling throughout the season."

Last year 'Gog' was stuck at left wing. When moved back to his familiar spot-up the middle-he quickly regained the momentum that made him a well known threat in his rookie season.

Though Goegan has appeared in 18 games two of those were very abbreviated appearances, along with the two games he missed, because of back injury, He has led his teammates in four wins and a tie since his return and in the past five starts has totaled 18 points on seven goals and 11 assists.

A Belleville native, he has been eyed by several universities, including Boston U and Northeastern.

Goegan will be leading his teammates tonight against the visiting Bramalea Blues, Central Division leaders of the Metro Junior B League, in a 8 p.m. encounter.

Sunday the Cats are in Toronto against the Young Nationals.

College Bowls Underway Today

If the Timing is Off Don't Expect All the Points to Fire

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nebraska coach Tom Osborne says timing is more important than talent when bowl college football bowl games roll around.

In most cases, if the team didn't time it right, it wouldn't be there anyway. But just like the distance runner who peaks for the major races, bowl teams must be mentally attuned and physically honed for the Big Day.

"Its (timing) may be the crucial factor in any bowl game," said Osborne, whose Huskers, with a 10-1 won-lost record, close on 11-0 Arizona State in the Fiesta Bowl at Tempe, Ariz., on Friday. "You have to get your players ready to play on the right day."

However, the Pelican Bowl committee apparently didn't see things that way. For weeks, the staff said that game in the Louisiana Superdome between South Carolina State and Southern University would be played on Friday. Later, they said it would be Saturday.

That sets up a double feature for the two days after Christmas.

Pittsburgh and Kansas meet Friday in the Sun Bowl at El Paso, Tex., at 11:30 a.m. EST before a CBS television audience. Arizona State and Nebraska follow at 3 p.m., also on CBS, from the 51,000-seat Sun Devil Stadium.

On Saturday, the first day of the National Football League playoffs on NBC and CBS, ABC takes over the college ranks at 3:30 p.m. with the Astro Bluebonnet Bowl in Houston, with Texas facing Colorado. Then, with no national television exposure, comes the Pelican in the Louisiana Superdome at 8:30 p.m.

Big Eight Kansas and independent Pittsburgh, each with a 9-1 record and undefeated in draw a record-crowd at the 30,000-seat Sun Bowl where they could be offensive fireworks from Pitt tailback Tony Dorsett and Kansas quarterback Nolan Cromwell. Dorsett finished third in the nation's rushing with 1,544 yards while Cromwell, the Big Eight player of the year, rushed for 1,134 yards.

"We could have already sold 30,000 tickets if we would have had the seats," said Sonny Yates, Sun Bowl executive director. "It's really the teams." he said. "These two ballclubs have been major powers that are going to other bowl games."

Longshot Knee Holds Texas Key

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Not only does Marty Akins' framework hange on his banged-up right knee.

So, it seems, does Texas' offence as the Longhorns head into Saturday's Astro-Bluebonnet Bowl against Colorado Buffaloes.

"Both Texas and Colorado are great teams," says Barry Switzer, whose Oklahoma Sooners have played both. "It should be a very interesting game, especially if Akins is able to play and is at full speed."

Both teams finished at 9-2.

Akins, Texas' quarterback, won't know if he'll be calling the signals until game time, 3:35 p.m. EST in Houston's Astrodome.

Originally, coach Darrell Royal said freshman Tex Consiamus would be at quarterback. Then he changed his mind and said he'd reserve his decision until just before the kickoff.

The Longhorns, co-winners of the Southwest Conference, will have more than one quarterback to worry about. Besides Akins' condition, they've got to contain Colorado's high-powered offensive game, led by David Williams.

"Their quarterback is quick Ry' Royal says. He is a good passer and a good runner."

The game is the first of the day's two bowls. The Pelican Bowl, between South Carolina State and Southern University in New Orleans' Superdome, starts at 8:30 p.m. EST.

The spate of big bowl games get underway today with the Sun Bowl in El Paso, Tex., featuring Pittsburgh and Kansas and the Fiesta Bowl in Tempe, Ariz., with Arizona State going against Nebraska.

On Monday night, Florida goes against Maryland in the Gator Bowl in Jacksonville, Fla., then the action gets hot and heavy.

On New Year's Eve, it's North Carolina State against West Virginia in Atlanta's Peach Bowl, followed by Penn State against Alabama in the Sugar Bowl at the Superdome.

On New Year's Day, its UCLA plays Ohio State in the Rose Bowl at Pasadena, Calif., Georgia meets Arkansas in the Cotton Bowl at Dallas and Oklahoma faces Michigan in the Orange Bowl at Miami.

Kansas, ranked 18th in the nation, beat Orange Bowl-bound Oklahoma 23-3 and Pitt, No. 20, beat Georgia, bound for the Cotton Bowl, 19-6.

While the Sun Bowl will be mostly an offensive battle, the Fiesta Bowl will see a strong Arizona State offence against a strong Nebraska defense.

Osborne says the Sun Devils "may have the best people overall that we've played this year, with the possible exception of Oklahoma."

Much of the explosiveness of the Sun Devil offence is provided by fullback Freddie Williams and split end John Jefferson, Williams had his second 2-night 1,000-yard season rushing with 1,126 yards and also scored 10 times on 248 carries. Jefferson caught 44 passes for 609 yards and five touchdowns.

However, Osborne thinks his defensive unit might be able to contain them. He said his defence is the best he has had in his three years at Nebraska.

Nebraska, gunning for its seventh straight bowl victory, a national record, received high praise from Sun Devils coach Frank Kush. He called the Huskers "one of the finest teams we've played this year."

Although Osborne says perfect timing is the key to post-season success, Texas coach Darrell Royal says that "there isn't anything perfect when you're in the Dunk."

That's all by way of saying that he won't let up on his Longhorns, who missed being Cotton Bowl bound by losing to Southwest Conference foe Texas A & M and lost to Auburn 27-3 in the Gator Bowl last year.

Despite the fact that Texas, 9-2-1, is an early two-point favorite over Colorado, also 9-2-1, the Longhorns don't intimidate Colorado wingback Billy Waddy.

"Oh man, we are ready for this game," said Waddy. "Texas is such a big name in football. There's no doubt we'll be up for this game."

Waddy, one of 12 Colorado players recruited from Texas schools, said the Longhorn defence may give them some trouble. "But I think our passing will be all right. I know one thing, this team has worked as hard as I've got to this game."

The Pelican Bowl, meanwhile, will be a duel between two mostly defensive teams. South Carolina State is 4-1-1 and undefeated in its Mid-Eastern Atlantic Conference, and Southern is 3-3-4 in the with Jackson State and Grambling in the Southwestern Athletic Conference Championship.

Last year, SC State was trounced in the Pelican Bowl by Grambling 26-7. But Grambling turned down a bid to return, and not only did the bowl committee have to when the game was going to be played, for a while, they didn't know who was going to play. SWAC officials finally voted for Southern, which beat Jackson State during the regular season.

NFL Playoffs Begin Saturday

Colts Aim for Touch of Yesterday

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Its like a mirror image of what used to be.

Once it was Baltimore Colts who were the Super Bowl champions, battling to maintain their image as kings of the National Football League.

And once it was Pittsburgh Steelers who were struggling out of a losing image and emerging as hungry, young challengers.

Now it's the roles may around—and on Saturday, the Colts, written off losers before the season began, try to take another giant step toward an impossible dream which the Steelers visited one year ago.

Now it's the Steelers who are defending a championship, opening the American Conference playoffs.

In Sunday's other AFC showdown, Cincinnati Bengals play the Raiders at Oakland. In the National Conference, St. Louis Cardinals are at Los Angeles Rams on Saturday and Dallas Cowboys visits Minnesota Vikings on Sunday.

"Trying to stay on top is the true test," says Chuck Noll, once an assistant at Baltimore, when the Colts were champions, and now head coach of the Steelers. "Some people have a strange picture.

"They think you reach a level and just stay there. They don't realize it's a heck of a job week after week, season after season."

In 1971, the Steelers won their first division title in four decades. They've been in the playoffs ever since.

For the Colts, 1971 was a turning point—the other way around. That was their last year in the playoffs. The next year, and the two after that, they wound up with losing records until they sent their regular-season finals at Los Angeles.

"I think we'll use the loss in the positive way," says defensive tackle Joe Greene. "We always bounce back after a loss."

Since Cincinnati has had trouble all year establishing a ground game, and the passing game of quarterback Ken Anderson has been so effective, Oakland's task would seem to be a simple one—and that's on paper.

Put from last year's 9-5, they've rocketed to 10-4 and are riding a nine-game winning streak that gave them the East Division title.

"They're well-peopled," says Noll. "They have exceptional personnel. A physical team.

"The same can be said of the Steelers, who won their third AFC Central title in four seasons with a 13-3 record. The Steelers had won 11 in a row until how a couple of the Rams'ers we it.

"We've got to get some long drives going and keep the ball away from Anderson and his arm.

"You can't have anything on that game," says Stabler, "I don't want to speak for Anderson, but I know I was terrible that day. I gave up four interceptions and so did he."

Stabler completed eight of 34 passes, Anderson hit on four of 19.

The Rams are hurting, but not on defence, which was so instrumental in carrying the team to the NFC West title with a 12-2 record.

Quarterback James Harris is nursing a bad shoulder and running back Lawrence McCutcheon, the team's leading rusher, has a pulled calf muscle. And Los Angeles had already lost two other running backs, Jim Bertelsen due to knee surgery and John Cappelletti with mononucleosis.

The Cardinals, on the other hand, are healthy with Jim Hart at quarterback, speedy Earl Gray, all-purpose running back Terry Metcalf and Jim Otis, the NFC's leading rusher.

The Cowboys won the NFC's card berth with a 10-4 record while the Vikings went 10-4 to take the Central Division title with ease.

"Minnesota probably has even more talent this year because the young players have come through," says Dallas coach Tom Landry. "It's as stable as the recent Viking Super Bowl teams."

And Coach Bud Grant of the Vikings returns the compliment. "They've moved the ball on everybody in the league," he says. "On defence, they don't use a lot of variations, but they're very sound."

COMMITTED FOULS

MEXICO CITY (AP) — The World Boxing Council said Wednesday that John Stracey of Great Britain committed several fouls in defeating Jose Napoles of Mexico for the world welterweight title on Dec. 6 but the council cannot order a rematch. Jose Sulaiman, WBC president, made the statement after viewing a film of the fight which Stracey won by a technical knockout. Napoles' managers had requested a rematch because of alleged fouls.

PADRES ADD COACH

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Joey AmalfiAne was named Tuesday as third-base coach of San Diego Padres in baseball's National League. Jim Davenport was shifted to first and Dick Sisler to the vacant hitting instructor's job. The 41-year-old AmalfiAnes was on the San Francisco Giants' coaching staff from 1972 until he was dismissed recently.

JOINS GP TOUR

LONDON (AP) — Mario Andretti was named Tuesday as a driver on the John Player Lotus racing team for the first two Grand Prix events of 1976. A team spokesman said Andretti will be a partner with Ronnie Peterson of Sweden in the Argentine Grand Prix Jan. 11 and the Brazilian Grand Prix Jan. 25. Andretti, 35, previously drove for Lotus in four Grand Prix events in 1968 and 1969.

BUSBY NAMED COACH

CHICAGO (AP) — Jim Busby, former batting centre fielder for Chicago White Sox, was brought back to the American League baseball club Tuesday as a coach. Busby will be working for new manager Paul Richards, as he did as a player when Richards first managed the Sox in the 1950s.

SCORE TIED

LONDON (Reuter) — Everton and Manchester United drew 1-1 in their English League First-Division soccer match Tuesday. Lou Macari scored for United in the 57th minute and Bob Latchford scored for Everton five minutes before the half.

ROSE WINS AWARD

PHILADELPHIA (AP) — The Philadelphia Sports Writers Association named Pete Rose of Cincinnati Reds the 1975 Athlete of the Year on Tuesday. Rose, who led the National League club to the World Series championship, will receive the award at the writers' 72nd annual banquet Jan. 12.

Sport Briefs

Bucky Dent, Chicago White Sox shortstop, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, Chicago General Manager Roland Hemond said Tuesday. Dent, who batted .253 last season, is the team's 23-year veteran.

Jim Bibby, Texas Rangers' pitcher, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, the club said Tuesday. Bibby, who had a 4-4 record last season, is the club's 24-year veteran.

Ken Griffey, Cincinnati Reds' outfielder, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, the club said Tuesday. Griffey, who batted .336 last season, is the club's 24-year veteran.

Ken Holtzman, Oakland A's pitcher, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, the club said Tuesday. Holtzman, who had a 14-14 record last season, is the club's 12-year veteran.

Bob Lemon, Chicago White Sox manager, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, the club said Tuesday. Lemon, who led the Sox to a 90-72 record last season, is the club's 30-year veteran.

Rich Gossage, New York Yankees' pitcher, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, the club said Tuesday. Gossage, who had a 2-4 record last season, is the club's 5-year veteran.

Bill Lee, Montreal Expos' pitcher, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, the club said Tuesday. Lee, who had a 12-9 record last season, is the club's 11-year veteran.

Mike Torrez, Boston Red Sox pitcher, has signed a contract for the 1976 season, the club said Tuesday. Torrez, who had a 15-9 record last season, is the club's 9-year veteran.

Lauda, Ferrari Are in for Run

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Grand Prix auto racing champions Niki Lauda and Ferrari are the favored combination to retain the titles of top driver and top producer of winning cars in 1976.

But new driver-car pairings and technical innovations, including two new 12-cylinder engines, promise to shake challenges to the Italian cars and the Austrian driver. And the field is wide open the list of men and machines that could dethrone the champions.

The wildest new design of all—Ken Tyrrell's six-wheel race car—is unlikely to be seen on the tracks before mid-season, if at all.

The 16-race season opens Jan. 11 in Buenos Aires. It will take the $385,000-a-race Grand Prix tour through Europe and North America and wind up in Japan. Innovations are the Heat Mount Fuji race and two championship races in the United States—in the streets of Long Beach, Calif., and in the Watkins Glen, N.Y.

Three events late in 1975 will cause major changes in the planned tour. Fire destroyed a plane crash that killed veteran Graham Hill, his protege Tony Brise and three key men in the Embassy Hill team; the dedication of the flamboyant Lord Alexander Hesketh to abandon Formula 1 because of economics, and two-time world champion Emerson Fittipaldi decided to quit McLaren for a Brazilian team.

Ferrari has unveiled a new car for next season, featuring a rear suspension, for Lauda and his Swiss partner Clay Regazzoni.

There is an impressive list of potential challengers.

Throughout the days of the Cosworth V-8 engine to be numbered, Brabham has adopted the Alfa Romeo engine which was the world sports car title. It will power a new car for Argentina's Carlos Reutemann and Brazil's Carlos Pace, third and sixth last season. The engine is said to give 500 horsepower, matching Ferrari.

McLaren snapped up top British driver James Hunt when Hesketh folded. He will lead young German Jochen Mass for the team and they will have a new car early in the season.

Lotus had a disastrous 1975 season, but it has designed a new car which has shown strongly in test sessions with Swedish driver Ronnie Peterson. Peterson is regarded as a potential world champion and Lotus is expected to field six cars.

Mario Andretti of Nazareth, Pa., will drive a Lotus in two Grand Prix events in Argentina on Jan. 11 and in Brazil on Jan. 25.

American Don Nicholls suddenly lost his U.S.F. sponsorship. But he is reported able to continue running two cars at least through mid-season for Tom Pryce of Wales and Jean-Pierre Jarier of France, two leaders of the younger Grand Prix drivers.

Ken Tyrrell's Project 34 with its four pint-size front wheels and two larger rear wheels attracted worldwide attention and major skepticism when it was unveiled. But drivers Patrick Depailler and Jody Scheckter have recorded respectable times with it in test sessions and the car might be racing late in the season.

There are two dark horses. Frank Williams, backed by millionaire Canadian Walter Wolf, bought the computer-designed Hesketh cars. And the powerful Matra V-12 engine is being installed in a new French racer which will be driven by Jacques Laffite.

And Fittipaldi? Only 29 and with two world titles behind him, the intensely patriotic Brazilian now considers he has time to develop a Brazilian car into a world champion racer.

It was a rear-field runner last season driven by Brazilian older brother Wilson. New Wilson moves to team manager Lord Hesketh and will head a two-car team.

A Few Wins Sparks Flame Under Knicks

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

A three-game winning streak has rekindled that old flame for Walt Frazier.

"For the first time this year, we feel we're getting the breaks, the Bills bounced into the old New York Knicks used to do," says Frazier. "We are playing the game together. It's up to us to keep going."

The present Knicks may not be as experienced as the team but certainly things are looking up now after a disastrous start for the National Basketball Association team.

The routine NBA champions had an 8-19 record at the start of the season since then they won three straight games and five of six, including Thursday night's 111-103 decision over Philadelphia 76ers.

"I feel we're playing intelligent basketball now", noted Spencer Haywood, the newest of the Knicks "We're paying attention greatively. We're really taking charge."

In Thursday's other NBA games, Phoenix Suns edged Kansas City Kings 123-111, New Orleans Jazz whipped Houston Rockets 101-99 and Washington Bullets whipped Atlanta Hawks 99-94.

No games were scheduled in the American Basketball Association.

Earl Monroe put on a dazzling floor display and scored 27 points, including a clutch basket with 1:27 left and two free throws in the final minute, to lead New York to victory.

Curtis Perry scored a season high 27 points and Paul Westphal added 25 to pace Phoenix over Kansas City. It was the seventh successive Christmas Day victory for the Suns, who tied a team record with 10 straight at home.

Pete Maravich, out since early November with a shoulder separation, made two slashes in the final minute and scored 13 of his 19 points for New Orleans in the final quarter to steal a game which Houston appeared to have locked up.

Washington moved into a tie for place in with Atlanta in the Central Division by beating Detroit behind a 29-point effort by Elvin Hayes and 23 from Dave Bing.

"In Memoriam"

CROOK — In loving memory of a dear sister Ethel Crook who died peacefully December 26th, 1974.
Peacefully passing, quiet and free,
The world's weary troubles and trials are over
Her pleasure she suffered, in patience the cross,
The Lord called her home to suffer no more.
Always remembered by sister Ada.

ALLEN — In loving memory of a dear father, Harold Allen who passed away on this day.
Not a day goes by so lonely,
Not a day we do not think of you,
Not a day we do not miss you,
And still miss our whole family.
His memory we keep.
—Lovingly inscribed by wife Marie, sons Robert and Donald.

Recreation Costs

CLINTON, Ont. (CP) — The recreation board here might enter 1976 with a deficit of about $65,000 for 1975, board chairman Len Fawcett said. He blamed the loss of about $4,000 in the operation of the town's swimming pool, $1,000 in repairs needed on the arena floor and expenses associated with centennial celebrations last summer.

Find Marker Stone

OTTAWA (CP) — Land surveyors checking old property boundaries here have found a red granite marker laid down than 125 years ago, by a surveyor working for Col. John Ross, the builder of the Rideau Canal linking Ottawa and Kingston Ont. The marker whose four inches square, was found 10 feet from the pavement on Echo Drive near the canal bank.

Loud Audiences Don't Bother Artist

WATERLOO, Ont. (CP) — It was the second night of Shirley Eikhard's one-week engagement at the Theatre of Wisdom on campus pub and the place was nearly full 15 minutes before the evening's opening set.

One's first thought was that the turn-out was an indication of the young singer's popularity, perhaps enhanced by good word-of-mouth reports about the previous night's performance.

But the hubbub of loud chatter, laughter and clinking glasses didn't let up a decibel while she was on stage that first set no matter what type of song she was singing, or if she were rapping about the next song, taking a humorous joke or playing a guitar instrumental.

Asked how she appreciated performing in this kind of environment, where only a handful of people actually showed any interest in her music, she replied, almost with enthusiasm:

"If I find there's one or two people out there getting something out of it, whether there's 100 people talking, that's all that matters.

"This kind of medium is really good experience because it's a challenge to sing over the noise. Then when you move on to another level, that is listening audiences, in a club or at a concert, you know what your voice can do and how to handle it.

Shirley, who was born in November, has been performing professionally for seven years, at all levels, winning song-writing awards for her compositions. It Takes Time and Something in Your Face, and twice being named Canada's top female country singer in national Juno Award polls.

The Sackville, N.B., native, who spent most of her adolescent years in Oshawa, Ont., no longer fits in a strictly "country-and-folk singer" image, although many people probably don't realize it yet.

There still is a tendency to associate her with the Anne Murray-like singing style of her first album, recorded about four years ago.

Her recently released second album shows greater sophistication and range, not altogether forsaking her roots but using them as a solid base to branch out in other musical directions.

She described the new album as only a half-way departure from the earlier style, "because half of it is very similar to the last one."

"But my voice has developed in range so I've gone into a little bit of rock 'n' roll."

She might also have mentioned an inclination at times towards spirited jazz-like vocalizing which has drawn some comparisons with people like Ella Laing and Ella Fitzgerald.

Lack of proper management and an agent to promote her are compounded by the fact that she was initially signed by an American recording company, although she continued to live and work predominantly in Canada, has caused the long delay between albums and a somewhat low personality profile during the last couple of years.

Shirley, however, expresses no regret or bitterness over not achieving wider recognition after the first flurry of publicity that followed her youthful singing and songwriting debut.

"I'm glad it's taking a long time because you build a better foundation to stand on when you finally reach the level of artistry you want, or the success, or whatever you're looking for."

She signed this year with Atlantic Records, a Canadian company co-founded by Gordon Lightfoot's former manager Al Mair, and she now has a Canadian manager, Les Weinstein of Vancouver.

As a songwriter—her songs have been recorded by such artists as Anne Murray and Chet Atkins, who was responsible for her first recording contract—she finds herself in a "scary" situation.

"Some writers are very disciplined and can sit down and probably write a song a week. I've always admired that, but I'm afraid of the mechanical process taking over.

"I guess I'm unprolific. I just don't want to force it, because then the songs are not up to the standard that I want."

Her main goal is "to get to the point where I'd have a total show of my own material.

"At this point I just don't feel that a lot of my songs make it in comparison with songs by other writers.

"I guess I'd like to get entirely into my own thing so then I'd have an honest judgment whether people liked my singer-

LECCE (AP) — Lisa Minnelli received the Rodolfo Valentino prize in weekend ceremonies held in this southern Italian home town of the late silent film star.

Previous winners of the prize, given annually to a top movie personality, include Elizabeth Taylor, Richard Burton and Sofia Loren.

ATLANTA (AP) — Police have seized the X-rated film version of an erotic French novel, The Story of O, and arrested three Doraville employees on charges of distributing obscene materials.

Theatre owners said they were seeking an injunction to prevent police interference in the showing of the movie.

The film, which has played for weeks in New York City, opened Friday in 40 U.S. cities.

A spokesman for the distributor, Allied Artists, said that the only trouble was in Atlanta.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Actor William London, who made more than 125 movies before beginning a career in television, died Saturday after a lengthy illness. He was 61.

Lendigan's film credits included, I'd Climb the Highest Mountain in which he co-starred with Susan Hayward, and Pinky, with Jeanne Crain.

ATLANTA (AP) — The RCMP have issued a lookout for a bearded hippie in a red and white and local police say they have a suspect.

"Subject's M.O. (method of operation) is, he usually enters residences only," the Mounties said in a holiday spoof sent to police stations.

Fulton County police said a man matching the description was seen peeking through the window of a house "apparently trying to determine who's being naughty and nice."

SOUTHAMPTON, N.Y. (AP) — A former school teacher was accused Sunday of breaking into the area's fashionable summer homes and taking more than $1 million worth of art and antiques.

Phillip Molloy, 58, of Sea Cliff, L.I., was charged with burglary after police said art treasures and antiques found in Molloy's house at Sag Harbor were worth more than $1 million. Police said Molloy told them he wanted to start his own antique shop.

ANOKA, Minn. (AP) — Big Mouth wished to his death at a slaughter house and with him went the boast of a city businessman who thought he could make a profit by raising the Holstein calf for a year.

Arnell Beckman, 38, who runs an oil distributorship and gas station, got the bull 13 months ago after he complained about National Farmers Organization (NFO) demonstrations in which calves were killed.

Beckman told NFO members he could raise calves at a profit.

Orville Voeltz, an NFO member from Emerald, Wis., gave Beckman a calf and Big Mouth came to live at Beckman's home in a Minneapolis suburb.

The animal's name came from a comment by Beckman's 12-year-old son Steve: "If Dad would keep his big mouth shut, he wouldn't get himself into these jams."

The experiment ended when the Holstein was weighed at 1,040 pounds.

Beckman said feed for Big Mouth had cost him $374. Other expenses increased the total to $422.

The animal yielded 400 pounds of dressed beef, which Voeltz estimated was worth 49 cents a pound for a total of $312.00. He calculated a net loss of $198.40.

Carlin Limits Concerts

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I don't live to work, I work to live," says comedian George Carlin, who bears out his philosophy by working only 60 days a year.

Despite his light schedule, Carlin is in no danger of becoming a charity case—not when he averages $50,000 per performance. His concerts plus record albums and television guest appearances make him one of the highest paid funnymen, an irony since much of his humor stems from his attacks on The System.

Carlin is a curiosity, a performer who changs his image in midstream yet managed to survive and flourish. Thousands viewers will recall the early Carlin, a clean-cut, well-dressed comedian with tales of eccentrics.

"I had a loose following in those years," he recalled. "but I didn't achieve any of the goals inside me. I had a lot of characters I played; never was a George Carlin talking as himself."

The change took place in 1969 when he underwent a heroin addiction. During the layoff he grew a beard and he felt embedded to "let myself be myself." His abandoned the fancy duds and launched his all-out attack on conformity.

"I had always been a man of irreverence, a rock 'an and a nonconformist with the anti-war movement and student demonstrations," he said. "Even though I was older—I was 33 at the time—I felt I could identify with the college-age audience."

INCOME GREW

Far from losing his popularity, Carlin's fortunes soared tenfold. He began playing to colleges and concert audiences, turning his back on the Las Vegas gold.

"I had to play nightclubs when I was starting out," he said. "But then I was selling steaks and selling whisky. A performer is just an adjunct in night clubs. As an artist and entertainer, I will only work to people who are sitting still to watch my performance."

Your Horoscope

By BERNICE BEDZEMOL

Saturday, Dec. 27

Aries (March 21-April 19) You know how to make the best of a bad deal today. You'll create a winning hand out of the ordinary cards dealt to you.

Taurus (April 20 - May 20) Your first view of a situation today is negative. After you put on your thinking cap, you'll see you have several good alternatives.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) There are a few tasks today that you have imagined are being difficult. Get going. They're not so tough.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Don't be hesitant about exchanging something you've been given. The donor is only interested in having you pleased and satisfied.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Leave until the afternoon, action on things that are important. You'll be better able to cope with the situation.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Count to 10 before speaking your mind today. Upon reflection, you'll see that you have a diplomatic way of handling things.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) In business matters today, it's best you stand up and bargain a bit. The other guy is looking out for his interests, too.

Scorpio (Oct. 24 - Nov. 22) You're likely to run into a roadblock regarding an accomplishment you desire today. However, you're ingenious enough to see your way around it.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Your freedom could be restricted during the early part of the day. Conditions will change quickly. You'll be back in the open before nightfall.

Capricorn (Dec. 22 - Jan. 19) Though you're a bit reluctant to indulge in social activities today, don't turn down an invitation to a gathering. It'll be fun.

Aquarius (Jan. 20 - Feb. 19) Others who watch you operate will come forth with odds and ends today. That's because you make the difficult look relatively simple.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) You're better equipped today to handle situations that involve mental powers. Concentrate your activities to favor creative endeavors.

Shingles' Pain Tough to Treat

By G.C. Thoelssen, MD

Dear Dr. Thoelssen: My husband had the shingles, which were painful. After two months he went to our doctor who told him that he had them, but that they were gone. He now has pains on his stomach and back where the shingles were. Is this neuralgia from them.

I want to know if there is any cure for this, or does the neuralgia leave in time? Mrs. G.W.

The pain of shingles is most difficult to treat. I can cite the case of one medical colleague who has been attempting to treat the pain in his elderly mother with little success.

That doesn't sound too encouraging. One study showed that the whole attack usually ends within a month for people under 40, lasts somewhat longer for those over 40, and hangs on for a year or more for about 1 in 10 those over 70.

Treatment? The case of my medical colleague and his elderly mother indicates that any treatment is unpredictable at best.

Ordinary pain killers, as aspirin, are rarely effective. Recent thinking leans toward combinations of tranquillizers containing perphenazine and amitryptyline or thioridazine, which have been effective. Strangely, one of these given alone does not seem to help. I mention the generic (non-trade) names for these drugs because there are several commercial brands available, each containing the main ingredients. Your doctor can prescribe.

I should add that no real "cure" but control of the pain. This usually subsides in time and without treatment.

This subject always raises a curious controversy among my readers. Does one attack of shingles confer permanent immunity? Well the prepondrance of medical opinion says it does. I'm willing to qualify that, and say that one attack "usually" confers immunity. This would take into account medical reports I believe — and reports of second attacks involve episodic recurrence of pain after the initial viral infection. A true second attack would include the appearance of new blebs.

Dear Dr. Thoelssen: We have a three-year-old grandson who has excessive thirst. He awakens at night for a drink. Is this something to be concerned about?

He perspires a lot, especially while sleeping. Mrs. R.N.

The fluid loss through perspiration can, of course, cause this thirst. If it occurs only at night, there is usually not cause for concern. Perhaps he is "overdressed" at night. Maybe some lighter covers would allow better perspiration. Temperature in a tot's room should be kept moderate.

Is there any brief description of the situation I would suspect with factors as best.

Dear Dr. Thoelssen: I have had a partial hysterectomy in which the uterus was removed, with the tubes and ovaries left in place. Is there a chance of pregnancy with the tubes? E.J.

No.

Dear Dr. Thoelssen: My daughter has a hiatal hernia, and she doesn't seem to get much information about how to cope with it. Her biggest difficulty lies in trying to eat solid foods. She seems to have an unusually small capacity to take in food, and it seems to pass through her intestines very fast.

Could you recommend a diet for her, plus any other advice you have? Mrs. R.K.H.

There are varying degrees of hiatal hernia. In this condition, which is an abnormally large opening at the diaphragm where the gullet passes through.

If your mother has not been checked for peptic ulcer although this should be done. Peptic ulcer often accompanies hiatal hernia. And, of course, this would account for other symptoms in the intestinal tract. x-rays would show the extent of hiatal herniation or any ulcerations.

There is much you can do to cope with this situation. There are specific diets available, and there are medicines that are prescribed for ulcer itself frequently diagnosed. Surprisingly, in cases of moderate herniation the conservative methods are effective in control. Surgery to repair the opening is rather rarely done.

If your mother is overweight, she should reduce. Obesity makes matters worse in this.

"Well," said Sally, "I guess these the bludgeonings of chance my head is bloody, but unbowed. Give me my hundred honors."

South had thought that his four-spade bid was high. He looked as if he had 10 cold tricks.

It didn't work out that way. East had two high hearts and led a third. South had to ruff with a trump honor to shut out the nine. Then South led the king.

East won with the ace and led another heart.

After this there was no way for South to keep West from making a trump trick and he was stuck with one loser.

This unusual defensive play was what is known as a double trump promotion. Poor South was forced to waste two high trumps.

Four-color Theory Helps Draw Schedules

VANCOUVER (CP) — A mathematical problem that has remained unsolved for 135 years has been broken down into pieces by St. Paul's Hospital, University of British Columbia (UBC) and the provincial B.C. RCMP detachment.

Brian Alspach and Pavel Hell, both mathematicians at Simon Fraser University, used the problem to examine a scientific mathematics underlying graduate, that mapmakers had noted a curious fact—no matter how complicated a map is, it never takes more than four colors to arrange that no two adjoining countries are the same color.

The observation became known as the four-color theorem, but no mathematician since then has been able to prove it.

In explaining the problem to a group of SFU students, Dr. Alspach used the example of constructing an examination timetable to show how the theory relates to scheduling.

In his plan, each country corresponds to a course and every two courses with a student in common are considered adjoining. Choosing a set of contrasting colors is then equivalent to choosing examination periods that don't cause conflicts such as having a student scheduled to take two exams at the same time.

The way Dr. Alspach "maps" are more complicated than those drawn on a plane and may require more than four colors.

Dr. Hell's first application of the theory was a UBC examination timetable. There are 600 countries (courses) and UBC planners had devised a computer program that generated a conflict-free schedule requiring 17 colors (time periods).

Dr. Hell was able to develop a conflict-free map with 27 colors, thus saving UBC a full day from the examination period.

The work can be done by hand when only a few people are involved, and, with some practice, can be done by an amateur, Dr. Alspach said.

Another example of the technique is a schedule the two mathematicians worked out for a 13-nurse ward at St. Paul's Hospital in Vancouver.

The schedule must provide for a set number of nurses on each shift and must involve no more than seven consecutive working days and no split shifts and must give each nurse one in every four weekends off.

The schedule the mathematicians developed has all days off occurring in groups of two, three or four, with many long weekends. They were able to fill a set number of nurses on each shift and must involve no more than seven consecutive working days and no split shifts and must give each nurse one in every four weekends off.

They were able to fill a set number of nurses on each shift and must involve no more than seven consecutive working days and no split shifts and must give each nurse one in every four weekends off.

Dr. Alspach said he and Mr. Hell have designed similar work schedules for Royal Columbian Hospital in New Westminster, B.C. and the Burnaby RCMP.

"Some people think of mathematics as being in a rut, never land," said Dr. Alspach. "But that never-ever land can sometimes pay off in useful results."

End in Sight?
Beirut Fighting On 'Timetable'

BEIRUT (Reuter) — The warring factions in Lebanon's nine-month-long civil strife agreed Friday night on a timetable to end the fighting "in the next few days," the state-run Beirut radio said today.

It was the higher co-ordination committee, which groups government security representatives and delegates of the factions, held a fruitful meeting Friday night.

"Discussions, which covered various issues, took place in total harmony and an overall timetable was set to end the fighting in the next few days," the radio said.

There have been several previous agreements, but these have not always stopped the fighting. More than a dozen ceasefires have been announced, only to be quickly broken.

Bursts of machine-gun fire and explosions were heard in Beirut early today as street fighting persisted well after midnight. At least 17 people were killed Friday.

Roads in Beirut and the suburbs still were considered unsafe but the radio said shooting generally had died down by this morning.

Eleven of the deaths were in Beirut. The heaviest clashes occurred around a north-south line separating the mainly Moslem western quarter of the city from the predominantly Christian sector in the east.

However, the bitterness generated by more than eight months of fighting between rightwing Christian Falangists and left-wing Moslem gunmen has passed beyond a mere religious feud.

Five of the deaths occurred in densely-populated Moslem districts to the west of the Beirut Al - Khoury Boulevard, where mortar shells also wounded 20 people.

Leftists in and near the area, presuming that the mortar fire came from mainly Christian Falangists on the other side of the boulevard, replied with rocket and mortar fire.

Fresh clashes took place in the southeast between the Moslem district of Shiyah and the neighboring Christian area of Ain Al-Rummaneh, where a battle of attrition between well-entrenched gunmen hardly has paused.

Little territory has changed hands throughout the war. Both sides say they are continuing to fight only to protect their districts.

An official truce declared nearly two weeks ago has collapsed in most areas, but it still holds in the luxury hotel district on the sea front, where internal security forces patrol the charred hulks of what used to be the country's finest hotels.

There was sporadic shooting Friday in the city's commercial centre long since deserted by everyone except the gunmen and the internal security forces trying to stop the fighting.

Meanwhile, Beirut radio reported that the organization negotiating between warring factions in the town of Zehle, east of Beirut, has made some progress toward ending the clashes. It said the two sides in the town, an area of high tension, had pledged not to attack each other and to withdraw their heavy weapons.

Mopping Up

Glanmore House custodan Tom Jordan brushes the velvet of a Victorian loveseat after a radiator burst at the museum Friday and damaged a room-full of furniture. The carpet was soaked by the ruptured radiator, which caused an estimated $10,000 damage to walls, ceiling, and paintings.

Museum Hit by Water Damage

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

A hot-water radiator, bursting in the reception room at Glanmore House Friday, has caused an estimated $10,000 damage and forced the Hastings County museum to close for up to a week.

Oil paintings, Victorian furniture, walls, carpeting and a multi-colored fresco ceiling have been damaged and will take months to restore.

Museum curator Marten Lewis stood in the room with drops of water dripping from the ceiling and called it a disaster.

It was the third, and most serious, rupture of a radiator valve in two days.

His cautious $10,000 estimate represents five quarter of the museum's current operating budget. He hesitated over the cost of restoration, waiting for tradesmen to go over the damage.

Potentially, Mr. Lewis said, it could have been a disaster of tremendous proportions, forcing the museum to close for six months to a year.

He said that if Glanmore's live-in custodians, Tom and Hilda Jordan, had been out of town for Christmas, the museum would have been unattended for two days.

The result would have been horrendous, with other radiators bursting, and damage not restricted to one room, but spread to two others, the drawing and dining rooms.

Mr. Jordan discovered the burst radiator Friday morning:

"The whole place was full of moisture. Water was spraying out through the vents in the radiator," he said.

The water, shooting into the room at 82.3 degrees Celsius (water boils at 100 degrees), created steam which condensed on the ceiling, the walls, and paintings.

Droplets on the ceiling, leaching lime out of the plaster and coloring from the paint, dripped on artifacts on the room—books, Victorian furniture.

Water worked its way behind the varnish of at least one oil painting, causing it to turn chalky white.

A second radiator then burst in the oriate drawing room, but damage from it was confined to the basement below. A third had burst Christmas day in the rear hall, he said.

Mr. Lewis, after talking to Archie McNeill of Trenton, once in the heating and plumbing business, blamed the bursting of the radiator control valves on "a water-logged hot-water heating system.

An expansion tank to relieve the pressure of pressure was full. The result was a buildup and rupture of the radiator.

The custodian Friday drained the tank and both he and his wife patrolled the 11 potentially dangerous radiators to check for further ruptures.

Mr. Lewis criticized the heating company which built the system for the lack of adequate maintenance instructions supplied the museum.

He said Glanmore's staff were not aware that the expansion tanks had to be drained.

Neither did he spare his criticism for the plumbing company the museum has on standby.

When the reception room radiator ruptured, company staff refused to come to look at the system till Monday.

"That's not good enough, said Mr. Lewis, when you consider the historical value of the museum's contents.

Second Suspect Found In Policeman's Murder

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Police investigators confirmed late Friday night they have located a second person believed to be able to supply details concerning the shooting death last Monday of a city police detective.

Police Chief Roger Smith said earlier in the day investigators thought it essential the second person be located. However, police have not said whether the man they were preparing a composite sketch of earlier in the day is the person they now have located.

The hunt began early Tuesday when police found the body of Cpl. Eric Spicer, 30, in a city parking lot. Keith McCallum, a 23-year-old city taxi driver who lay critically wounded 150 feet away, later died in a hospital emergency room. Both men had been shot.

Alan Craig MacDonald, 22, an Etonedale, N.S., construction worker, has been charged with murder punishable by death in connection with the slayings. MacDonald is being held in the Halifax County correctional centre awaiting a court appearance Monday.

Police also confirmed late Friday they have received pathologists and ballistics reports, but Chief Smith said the contents of both reports will not be released until introduced as evidence in court.

Wintario Offers Twin Jackpot

TORONTO (CP) — The winning ticket numbers for the $100,000 first and second prizes in the Wintario draw held Thursday were 63973 in series 44 and 52240 in series 52, respectively.

Winners of third and fourth prizes, each $50,000, are persons holding tickets with numbers 23033 series 10 and 84332 series 7, respectively.

The draw was the first time prizes totalling $100,000 had been offered for both first and second-place tickets and $50,000 offered for both third and fourth-place tickets.

Prizes of $10,000 go to 10 persons holding tickets with the first-place number of 63973 in any series other than 44.

There are 480 prizes of $500 for tickets with the final four digits 3973 and 4,800 prizes of $25 for holders of tickets ending in 973.

Prizes of $1,000 go to 50 persons holding tickets with the second-prize number, 5240, in any series other than 52.

There are 480 prizes for holders of any ticket ending with the digits 2240 and 4 800 persons with tickets bearing the final three digits 240 win $25.

The 20 holders of tickets with the third-prize number of 23033 in any series other than 10 win $1,000.

Holders of the 480 tickets with the last four digits 3033 win $500. Persons with any of the 4,800 tickets ending in 033 win $25.

For the fourth-prize number, 84332, in any series other than 7, there are 20 prizes of $1,000. Holders of any of the 480 tickets ending in 4332 win $500 and 4,800 persons with tickets ending in the last three digits 332 win $25.

There was $1,327,000 in prize money for a total of 21,000 prizes.

Mother Charged in Murder

NEW YORK (AP) — A 20-year-old mother who told police she had her two children while delivering Christmas Eve was charged early today with their murder, after the little boy and girl were found mutilated and buried in a garbage-strewn lot.

Also charged with two counts of murder was a friend of the mother, Alfred Forte, 20, an unemployed automobile mechanic.

The naked and charred bodies of two-year-old Rodell Mackall and his five-year-old half-sister, Candy Cunningham, were recovered Friday night from knee-high weeds and rubble of a recently demolished slum tenement in East Harlem.

An autopsy was scheduled for today.

Police theorized that the children were killed at Forte's apartment in the borough of Queens a day or two before their mother, Debra Mackall, resorted them missing. The alleged killers then took the bodies to the vacant lot, doused them with a flammable liquid and burned them, they said.

Police said they had found pieces of the children's clothing in Forte's apartment.

A Shovel Full of Trouble

Independent truck owner Gordon Cole is dwarfed by a front-end loader, his own truck, and a virtual mountain of snow in the Loblaws lot on Pinnacle Street Friday. Private snow removal companies in the city had to contend with shovel fulls of trouble in clearing city commercial and industrial lots after a Boxing Day snow storm.

Toronto Ticket Wins

TORONTO (CP) — Four Canadian ticket-holders won a total of $362,500 today on the results of the Irish Hospital Sweepstakes hurdle run at Leopardstown, near Dublin. One ticket on winning Night Nurse worth about $127,500 was held by a Toronto person using the pseudonym Capricorn and with the number YJ17253. Two tickets worth about $42,000 each on second-place Brendan's Road were held by Aladin of Glen Morris, Ont., WTK00422 and Alli of Kingston, Ont., WHB84021. There was one Canadian ticket on thy third-place finisher — Banker Hill — held by Stormy, Burnaby, B.C., WTM40121. It was worth about $21,000.

Cut Passenger Trains?

TORONTO (CP) — J. W. Pickersgill, former federal Liberal transport minister, says one way of cutting inflation and government spending would be to gradually eliminate most passenger train service. He said the losses for 1976 passenger service would probably will be close to $200 million. The federal government subsidizes 80 per cent of the loss.

Ceiling Biggest Headache

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

The fresco ceiling and about 10 paintings damaged in Friday's rupture of a hot-water radiator at Glanmore House are the biggest worries of museum curator Marten Lewis.

Mr. Lewis said he fears the ceiling finish may tarnish or crack, necessitating extensive restoration work.

Paintings damaged by water must be dried carefully to prevent warping, cracking or mold growth.

"I'm particularly concerned with the ceiling and the dampness," said Mr. Lewis.

To prevent extensive ceiling damage, no direct heat is being applied to draw out water.

Instead, fans are creating air movement, a method, Mr. Lewis says, that will dry the ceiling, slowly and as evenly as possible.

To maintain the required 19 degree Celsius and 50 per cent humidity of the museum—an atmosphere most conducive to prevention of extensive damage—Glanmore House has been temporarily closed to the public.

Furniture and drying paintings have been moved out of the reception room now almost barren, to other rooms in the museum.

Mr. Lewis said he expects some restoration will be needed in the room, where he estimates damage at $10,000.

Cornwall Blue Movies Spark Big Squabble

CORNWALL, Ont. (CP) — The blue movies billed at the city-owned Capitol Theatre have spawned a squabble among the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry municipal council and theatre management.

The battle opened last month when the Stormont, Dundas Council, representing Stormont county churches, placed an ad in a newspaper insisting that a "no supported by property should not be used" for purposes which do not contribute to the good welfare of the whole community.

City council bought the building which houses the theatre for $135,000 two years ago. Half the city derides what to use the building for—a performing arts centre is one place—council has found it for one year to Marcell Theatres Ltd. for $35,000.

Following the ad came a small flood of letters on the topic including a statement from theatre company president C H. Markell who said he was catering to the appetite of local movie fans.

In its ad, the church council complained of "disregard for righteousness and the mockery of virtue inflicted upon our children by a small group of patrons and a city council indifferent to the situation."

Baby Boy Present For Brenda

TORONTO (CP) — Brenda Baird, 18, a quadriplegic, gave birth to a baby, boy on Christmas Day.

To Mrs. Baird, who is unable to move her hands or legs in the result of an accident, the birth of Charles Jr., is "the happiest challenge I could ask for."

The Weather

Synopsis: Skies were mostly cloudy overnight with light flurries in some Ontario localities. Clear periods were reported notably in areas north of Lake Ontario. Today's weather will be much the same. Most localities will clear tonight. Milder air will work its way into southern Ontario on Sunday but will be accompanied by cloud and the chance of drizzle. Outlook: Temperature will be near the freezing mark.

New Year's Big Day in Lithuania

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — For Canadian youngsters it wouldn't be Christmas without Santa Claus and his sleigh packed with toys but in Lithuania the emphasis is on tradition, not gifts, says Emilia Kripatis of Washburn Street, Picton.

Miss Kripatis, who emigrated to Canada in 1947, recalled this week Christmas in her native land.

She noted that Lithuanian children have Santa Claus as "The Christmas Man", and just as Canada's St. Nick, he wears a bright red suit and a long white beard.

The Christmas tree in Lithuanian homes is not decorated with the traditional tinsel and ornaments familiar here. Instead cookies are baked and placed in the branches of the tree with candy purchased for the holiday, she said.

When Miss Kripatis was a child, she said, strings of electric lights were not used to trimmige the family tree. Tiny candles flickered in miniature holders dotted among the branches.

She recalled a holiday tragedy in her home community when The Christmas Man's suit caught fire during a party.

A candle on the tree touched the man's sleeve, setting it ablaze and he ran outside to roll in t.w snow.

Miss Kripatis noted Christmas was a time to visit friends and to attend church but both Easter and New Year's were considered more the holidays.

In Lithuania, roast goose is the traditional Christmas dinner remembered by Miss Kripatis.

She said turkeys are rare birds in her homeland but there is a plenitude of ducks and geese.

On one occasion there was such a surplus of geese that all citizens were ordered to buy the birds. The number of fowl bought by each worker was decided by his earnings.

Miss Kripatis said she was employed by a military captain who was ordered to purchase ten birds.

The 63-year-old Picton woman had vivid memories of New Year's Eve celebrations in her native country.

The holiday she said, is stressed above Christmas and at midnight the entire community celebrates.

Miss Kripatis recalled that soldiers would fire a salute to the New Year while throughout the city church bells rang.

The community's first fire trucks also arrived on the scene, sirens pealing to herald a new year.

She said where in Canada Father Time is portrayed by a bent old man who walks with a cane, the new year in Lithuania is represented by a young man smartly dressed in a velvet suit.

Music, dancing and toasting of years past marks the celebration of New Year's Eve in Miss Kripatis' native land.

Miss Kripatis came to Picton 28 years ago and although she spoke no English found employment in the laundry of the old Picton hospital.

Recently, she was presented with an engraved watch to mark her many years of work at the hospital laundry where she is still employed.

Part of Christmas is remembering and Emilia Kripatis of Picton this year recalled the holiday season in her homeland of Lithuania. Miss Kripatis left her country and emigrated to Canada 28 years ago. She has not returned since that time but still enjoys memories of her youth there.

Board Trustees Face Tough Road Ahead

By RON CARSON
Staff Reporter

Even though the Hastings County Board of Education is only half way through its current school year a few observations on 1975 are in order.

The Hastings board, with seven new trustees last January, has suffered another year of low provincial funding and recent forecasts it's going to be much tougher in 1976.

The board has in a very real sense discovered just how awesome the teacher unions have become. This pressure culminated in the passing of controversial Bill 100, designed to smooth over teacher-board relationships. The legislation has yet to be tested fully, but from the teacher strike in Toronto it's not turning out to be the saving grace government officials cranked it up to be.

Adding further to the board's woes was the October announcement of federal wage and price controls which will undoubtedly cause further aggravation at contract time. Taxpayers will finally see just how the supposed amicable relationship between the board and teachers in this county is actually a myth.

The third blow came this month when the ministry of education announced funding increases of only eight per cent. And the board this week took a dramatic step by freezing educational spending until the board finds out its financial position for 1976. However, board officials are predicting very high tax increases even maintain the current standards of education in the county

Director of education Eric Pinacres warns that the board will have to move to base-zero budgeting and re-evaluate every cent spent in the books.

However, outside pressure was not the board's only problem. Many trustees, mainly through inexperience, tended to over-react to controversial issues that arose during 1975. Notable examples were the special class for pregnant students and the board's handling of open meetings.

MORE

Even though the board passed a new bylaw apparently opening up more of the business to the public, there is still a problem in this area and one that won't be resolved until the board accepts the fact that controversy is part of the business and trustees can't hide from it.

On the brighter side of 1975 the board's various task forces, including the use of electronic calculators in schools, driver education, special education needs and the nutrition study were outstanding examples of a progressive and dedicated board.

They revealed the benefit of including teachers, principals, trustees, students and laypeople in the decision-making process of education. These task forces, which are really temporary committees, performed well and made valuable contributions to the educational community in Hastings County.

1975 was also a learning year for new trustees and this experience will be greatly needed as the board faces the worst financial year since its inception in 1969. Maturity, responsibility and, above all, common sense will be needed next year to cope with the pressures mounting against trustees.

Driver Charged

DELORO — A 23-year-old Tweed man has been charged with careless driving by Madoc OPP after a single-car accident on Highway 7 about a mile east of Deloro about 2:15 a.m. today.

William Beach was charged after the car he was driving failed to negotiate a curve and went into a ditch. Damage was estimated at about $750.

Beach suffered minor injuries but was not taken to hospital. A passenger in the car at the time of the accident was not injured, said police.

'Chanelling' May Drain Off Water

By ROSS HAWTHORNE

One of the problems in the proper watering of house plants is pot of your making. Even if you learn the watering requirements of each house plant you own (wet, damp, damp-dry or seasonal) and follow these requirements religiously, you can still have problems. And they're caused by a condition in the pot known as "channelling".

Over a period of time, even with the best of soil mixes, and especially if the plant has been in the same pot for a long time, water channels or courses can develop in the pot — cracks or minute tunnels lead from the surface of the soil to the bottom of the pot that carry the water from top to bottom in short order, leaving bone dry sections in the pot.

These channels can develop anywhere such as down a main root or/or inner surface of the pot, especially in those plants that are allowed to go dry between waterings. I have even seen cases where the drain holes weren't covered and the bottom quarter of the pot was almost totally empty of soil.

Now if water is not available to the entire root structure of a plant, that plant will suffer accordingly. Because water is the medium by which the plant obtains root only mineral nutrients, but the vital gases such as oxygen and hydrogen. And only with water can it maintain its cellular "blood pressure".

But there are ways to overcome the channelling problem. First, add a little soil if it appears to be needed. Secondly, every two or three months, pot your plants (excepting those in dormancy) through what I call — "the dunk".

Simply fill a pail, sink or laundry tub half full with tepid water. Then immerse each plant so that the rim is an inch or two below the surface. Now, the first thing you will notice is a frenzy torrent of bubbles emerging from the soil — and that's good. That means every pocket or channel — large and small — is exchanging its air for water. And that means every nook and cranny of the pot is going to be wetted.

When the soil stops bubbling, remove the pot and let it drain for an hour or two, or even overnight.

Now, the "dunk" every two or three months and you'll be sure every fibre of the root system is receiving adequate moisture. And incidentally, a day or two after the dunk is a good time to fertilize. And what kind of fertilizer depends on the plant.

I don't like the tablets or pellets. They tend to concentrate the fertilizer and keep it localized. I prefer a liquid or crystals that can be dissolved in water.

A foliage plant calls for a fertilizer with the numbers 30-15-15 or 30-30-30. A flowering plant should be fed with a formula such as 15-30-15 or 10-52-17.

You see foliage plants prefer that high first number that concentrates nitrogen, the growth. Flowering plants need the higher middle number, representing phosphorous, the element that helps stimulate flowering. And when you fertilize after dunking, you're more sure of an even distribution of the fertilizing solution through the pot from top to bottom.

Apple Protection Sought

Bob McKessock, Liberal MPP for Grey, has called upon the minister of agriculture to take action to assist Ontario apple growers facing competition from American producers.

"I questioned the minister in the house about the possibility of a similar program to that available for cow-calf producers, but he said he had no plans in this connection," Mr. McKessock said in a press release.

"A farmer receives approximately $3 a bushel (about 75 cents below cost). The packer who has some waste, packs apples in plastic bags, receives $6 a bushel from the retailer, who in turn sells the apples for $10 a bushel - about a 50 per cent mark-up for only handling," said Mr. McKessock.

Museum Poor Choice for Bash

By MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — The Prince Edward County museum, formerly the old church of St. Mary Magdalene, will forfeit a measure of dignity again next month when a bar is once more set up there for the annual warden's reception.

The tradition was started in 1973, just six months after the museum had been officially opened and, apparently, it is to continue.

Although the museum's spacious second floor does provide a convenient location for the annual afternoon reception a bar overlooking the stained glass window in the chancel area seems incongruous.

The naming of a new warden for Prince Edward County is an annual tradition deeply rooted in the community's history and the reception that follows similarly is anticipated among municipal officials as a special occasion.

In recent years, the receptions have been held in the dining room of a local hotel or at community clubs where a bar is in place.

The new trend that has introduced a bar at the former Anglican Church is in poor taste and deserves careful review by county council.

The museum provides attractive surroundings for the annual warden's reception and night lastefully accommodates a wine and cheese party if councillors feel it is the only location.

If a bar is planned, however, the reception should be moved to a hall or club where such functions are appropriate.

The county museum will never shake its church image for it was and is a place of dignity.

Constructed between 1825 and 1827 it was the oldest church in Picton, the first Anglican church constructed in this area and one of the oldest in Upper Canada.

Trenton Officials Say Restraint Top Priority

TRENTON — Local officials here have a variety of resolutions set to what 1976 may bring.

Mayor Robert Patrick says there are two major issues the town will be facing in the coming 12 months.

"We'll have to watch spending and make hard choices on our priorities," he said.

It will be a period of belt tightening, he said. "We can't tell exactly until we know what money is available," and the mayor.

"With a fair share of allotments and careful management, Trenton can go ahead as in the past few years."

The mayor also mentioned two studies now being done on the future alignment of Trenton and the Neighborhood Improvement Program (NIP) which will be a part of the Trenton's plans next year.

Council member George Greer, Town Clerk Aubrey Sharp, and Public Works Commissioner Arie Hoornweg all predict the money restraints a key issue next year.

"I hope we can get things yet to be finished, completed, but we can't do it without grants," said Mr. Greer

He also said he would like to see the continuation of the sidewalk and road construction, and placing money aside for the straightening and the widening of Front St.

Mr. Sharp said next year will be a time for everyone to reassess themselves. "I feel the effects of the restraints . . . but we'll have to look at what we have around," he said.

He predicted the town will carry out the usual programs within the guidelines and that council will set an example in spending and restraint.

Mr. Hoornweg said he expects to have a good year, but expenditures will have to be watched.

Council member Peter Aziz said he is optimistic of the future of Trenton.

"In 1975 there was a good road and residential program."

Council, he predicted, will continue its efforts for further industry development. He said that 1976 will be as good or better than 1975 and the tax and mill rate will be kept at reasonable levels.

MORE

OK

Ron Price, another council member, said he could not make any predictions for the new year. "I never predict things," he said.

Police Chief Dave Saunders and the Fire Chief Cecil Ellis also declined any predictions.

Little Change in Price For Livestock Feed

OTTAWA (CP) — Eastern The cost of finished feed at Ontario farmers and the organizations that control their product marketing say the price of livestock feed is not decreasing locally although the stock market indicates a downward shift.

The view came out through a series of interviews during the weekend.

"We're paying as much for some basic ingredients as we have all escaping high costs because along," Ralph Barrie, a Perth they grew their own corn and dairy farmer said.

local feed mills is not decreasing despite a decline in grain prices on the Chicago commodity futures exchange, Mr. Barrie said.

Jacob Feenstra, an egg producer in Kemptville, Ont., said some area egg producers are had a bumper crop this year.

Another Stoppage by Postal Union Could Signal End to Strike Privilege

By RICHARD JACKSON
Ottawa Correspondent for The Intelligencer

OTTAWA — If anyone can do it, Patrick Lesser thinks Jean Mackasey can.

But it isn't going to be easy, and perhaps impossible, even for him, to bring peace to the Post Office.

For while he didn't lose the strike — and he was the first PMG not to lose a strike — he didn't exactly win it either.

With public support he won the endurance contest against the strikers, persuading them to return to work, reluctantly, with no more gained in pay than they could have had without striking as long ago as last spring.

But after 41 days of suffering — he personally in terms of fatigue and possible damage to his already fragile health, and the public collectively in incalculable financial loss and enormous disruption and inconvenience — he lost the battle of wills against the postal union's Montreal militants.

And, as he is, in fact, many and ever-increasing fields of Canadian activity, it is Quebec, with its solid bloc of 60 MPs in the 141-member Liberal parliamentary caucus, that calls the tune.

So who's surprised — certainly not Bryce Mackasey, for Verdun is one of Quebec's ridings of Verdun — that the Montreal militants still boss the postal union?

The ever-put-upon taxpayer, public, after a series of national walkouts and scattered regional wildcats — some 65 over 10 years — was psychologically prepared to wait it out this time as the strike-to-end-strikes.

It took six weeks, and now business, industry, and every member of the paying public have been busy trying to recover some measure of lost time and money.

Even the postal workers are trying.

And in their trying is a measure of some of the anger the blitz-makers felt, in going back.

Bitterness sure as exposed its raw edge at Brockville, where Post Office workers, determined to sprecth every last dollar out of the strike settlement, struck again to enforce their job priority over casual part-time workers brought in to help handle the enormous mail backlog.

Not to think for a moment that the casual workers themselves were in need of the money they earn or they were needed to cope with the Christmas rush of mail — but in the dark and ugly mood of resentment as signalled by their leaders, the Montreal militants, to shut down the Brockville Post Office, force out the casuals, and pile up costly overtime.

It was another fleeting of the militant mood, more Black-Jack and the holding of the public to ransom — and it prevailed.

Not to stop for a moment and somebody like Bryce Mackasey fought in cahhnel — and won — against the Anti-Inflation Board's ruling that the 30 per cent strike settlement was in violation of the wage and price control guidelines.

Nor to feel any obligation or sense of responsibility in recognition of the government giving them the benefit of the doubt, of undermining its fragile restraint program.

Only to know that "strike power" had survived the 41-day siege and to fight Bryce Mackasey, the Post Office and the government every inch of the way to the next contract.

The Montreal militants make no secret of their intent, and the Brockville strike to enforce the union's monopoly of Post Office jobs confirms their power of intimidation.

The union, even if not winning — nor really losing — the strike still continues top-dogging it over management in the Post Office and battling Bryce Mackasey and the government.

The Montreal militants have publicly announced they will do through totally legalistic interpretation of the new agreement enforced, if and when necessary, by Brockville style transgression-and-strike tactics.

Sick leave entitlement, ill or not, will be used to the limit.

The short-cut of casual workers will be pushed to the hilt.

Grievance procedures will be pressed on every minutest point. Work to rule will be the rule.

It all signals continuing conflict with the threat in two years when contracts are up for bargaining again of another postal shutdown.

Next time though, the government, and the public, patience exhausted and unrewarded, will control backdoor work legislation and the begin-game of the end for the right to strike in essential public services.

Water Purity Issue

Are the days of chlorine, as an element that kills bacteria in water, numbered?

A recent article in Maclean's magazine suggests this may be the case, provided of course methods can be found to purify both drinking water and sewage that use less chlorine.

The subject first came to local attention last April with release by the Ontario Ministry of the Environment of a report showing Belleville had the highest level of chloroform in 12 centres surveyed.

Tests showed chloroform concentration in Belleville water after it leaves the filtration plant and before it reaches the consumer measures 144 parts per billion. The then minister of the environment, William Newman, was quoted as saying, "these higher levels are roughly equivalent to detecting the presence of a postage stamp in a half ton of paper."

As Maclean's points out, however, there is concern at the fact that chlorine reacts with some substances — including human excrement — to produce a family of chemical compounds called "organohalides," which have been shown to cause cancer (primarily of the liver) in laboratory animals.

The lethal dose for most of the compounds, according to the article, is far higher than the traces so far detected in drinking water. Long-term exposure, however, could be something else and the U.S. Environmental Agency for one is said to be working on this.

A recent letter to this newspaper, in the wake of the Maclean's article, drew attention to the existence of countless septic systems — many of them inadequate — along the entire Bay of Quinte region and beyond, which pose threats of contamination in the manner described.

Pollution of the waters of the bay by animal waste is a related problem. The overall problem is touched upon in a chapter headed, "The Growing Tragedy of Sick Soil," in a booklet called World Crisis in Agriculture put out by Ambassador College in Pasadena, Calif.

Animal waste in the United States alone is equal to the sewage of two billion people. Of course, the article acknowledges its value as a fertilizer, but points out also that in many instances it has become a pollutant.

It's just one more potentially hazardous factor in a planet under pressure from population and the fact only ten per cent of its land surface is under cultivation, plus the enormous usage — and wastage — of its resources. It's a matter of urgency as we head into 1976.

A Spirit of Love

Heather Shanks is a 13-year-old Belleville girl who expressed some thoughts about Christmas in a letter which unfortunately arrived too late for inclusion in our Christmas Eve issue.

What she had to say though is of value beyond this season alone. She acknowledges that with the years, and in her own case, there is not the same urgent anticipation about the arrival of Santa Claus. Yet having said that, she adds: "I think people of all ages, young and old, should believe in Santa Claus. Not necessarily as the man who slides down the chimney with a bag of toys but as a spirit. A spirit of love and giving. These are things we never outgrow and after all isn't that what Christmas is all about . . ."

A new year is almost upon us. In such uncertain times "resolutions" are very tender shoots which, even if they take root, may wilt either quickly upon the vine. Nevertheless, some element of personal resolve is never misplaced where it has as its objective a better world.

This letter from the Belleville teen is in that tradition.

The 'Dog' Was a Wolf

Kingston township's new dog catcher is Betty Cumpson, mother of three.

The Provincial Police had given Mrs. Cumpson a message to pick up what was believed to be a dog that had been hit by a car. She snared it with a chain

But it was no dog . . . it was a wolf and in this, International Women's Year, Mrs. Cumpson may be remembered as one of the few women, if not the only one, to have bagged such a critter in such unusual circumstances. A vet . . . incidentally, later put it to sleep.

Guns Before Butter: Russia Must Import a Lot of Grain

Ottawa Journal

Forty-six years after Stalin began his collectivization of agriculture that was to transform it from peasant into industrial farming, Soviet crop production is ailing. The struggle cannot be summarized in Marxist days and until the Second World War the Soviet Union was a net exporter of grain; today she is a net importer.

Deputy Premier Baibov disclosed some bad news about the 1975 grain crop failure to the Supreme Soviet, Russia's formal parliament. The harvest was so small that the Soviet Union must cut back its consumptive plans for 1976. The long-suffering Soviet consumer will feel the brunt. The planned increase for consumer industry must be cut by 17 per cent.

Typically Soviet in style, Mr. Baibov's report offered no hard figures about agriculture. But Western analysts deduce that the grain harvest was as little as 137 million tons, or 16 per cent less than planned. That would make it the third disastrous harvest in the past decade, one that has had at least three other bad crop setbacks.

Drought and severe weather are said to have contributed to poor Soviet crops. But harsh climate is not a Soviet invention. It has always harried Russian peasants.

Primitive farm machinery is a factor. Soviet farms have but five per cent as many trucks per 100 hectares as U.S. farms, an American statistic indicate that is put out at least by agriculture.

Then speculate whether the peasants still hate collective farming, which they introduced by civil war. It is claimed that one third of the food eaten in the Soviet Union, and the best food, is produced on the small private plots that farmers, with restrictions, may still cultivate.

An anomaly is obvious. The Soviet Union is the world's greatest military-industrial power. Yet next hereat, Yet no one since Russia was one of the world's breadbaskets, Soviet farmers have produced in conventional cargo vessels. Add to all this the vast Soviet expenditure for military production that could have been diverted, in part at least, to

Astronaut Turns to Evangelism For More Challenging Task

NEW YORK (AP) — Astronaut William Pogue, a veteran of the longest manned flight in space, says he wanted a more challenging assignment, and so turned to Christian evangelism.

He is the latest of several astronauts who have taken up work of a religious nature following their space experience.

He restored a proper balance to his outlook on life, he says.

Pogue, of Houston, Tex., resigned from the space program and joined the staff of High Flight, an evangelistic organization founded in 1971 by another former astronaut, James Irwin.

Irwin says his visit to the moon constituted a spiritual awakening for him.

Others have told of similar reactions.

Martin Caidin, science-fiction novelist and acquainted with many of the astronauts, told the American Baptist magazine:

"There has been a tremendous change, very quietly, in the attitude and the lives of the men who have gone to the moon . . . where they can see the planet in way God must have seen it."

Caidin said that it is "strange that only when man left his world could he see it for the first time," Caidin adds: "Most of the men who came back had a spiritual experience."

A recent hint of how it happens came from Werner von Braun, father of the U.S. rocket and space program, who says the "evidences of a creator are so overwhelming."

Von Braun, who headed U.S. space-rocket development until 1972 when he joined Fairchild Industries in Maryland, said in an interview for the Southern Baptist Radio and Television Commission:

"I just can't envision this whole universe coming into being without something like a force will, I cannot envision the creation without the concept of a creator."

Turning science and religion sisters in the effort to comprehend the truths of reality, he said religion searches for the will of the creator while science searches for the laws of creation.

He noted that space flight requires tremendous precision in calculating celestial movements, forces and things. He added that the exacting physical laws already are built into nature, from which science merely learns.

"The laws are there," he said. "The laws must have been laid down by somebody."

Pogue, who was one of three crew members on Skylab 3 that set a record of 84 days in space in 1973, says the mission made him more firmly convinced of spiritual reality.

"There's more to life than the body and intellect—it's the soul," he says. "There's that kernel that most of us miss."

Irwin, of Colorado Springs, Colo., says of his 1971 moon trip that such an experience "has to make a man truly appreciate the creation of God, the infinite precision with which God controls the universe."

He says: "I could feel God's presence."

Today's Wise Men Busy with Machines

By Dr. Gordon C. Smyth

The Magi were not wise according to sophisticated standards nowadays, but simple men, somewhat credulous.

Our standards are not perfectical considerations. They devise machines to save us toil, appliances for our comfort, remedies that prolong life. They fill the minds of youth with data. They pass legislation to remove all murder of discrimination.

However, our wise men are doing just as nothing to help people reach the "summum bonum". By silence in classrooms, chiffons conclude that "God" is an unnecessary hypothesis. Recent generations have finished school believing that what is moral is what one feels good after and what is immoral is what one feels bad after.

The Wise Men of long ago were truly wise. In carrying gifts to the Babe at Bethlehem they pointed the way. Let an individual who has made the journey himself offer evidence.

Malcolm Muggeridge writes, "Christ proclaimed as the only true freedom the glorious liberty of the children of God. He called men to a service that is, itself, perfect freedom, releasing them from the grueling enslavement to their own egos and appetites." Judging by his "Chronicles of Wasted Time", Muggeridge ought to know.

However, the hopes of the early Bolshevik to rid Russia of God have not been realized. A Soviet writer says that "the country's intellectuals are turning to Christianity. In the two years between Christmas prior has baptized no fewer than 5,000 adults.

Are we looking for an answer to the moral, material and demonic malaise in our own land? Are we longing for liberty, for peace on earth and goodwill towards men?

We will find them not in the lofty gifts of gold and frankincense and myrrh, but in the more richer gifts that the Magi carried to the manger. By kneeling before the infant in swaddling clothes, the fellow wise men made these gifts manifest — gifts of humility, faith, and love.

Places of Worship Simple, but Adequate

By R. J. ANDERSON
The Canadian Press

A place of worship may be only a grade in a week but there man acknowledges his insignificance before a Supreme Being, hidden from mortal eyes, perhaps, but real and living to those with faith.

The men and women who crossed the sea to a new life in the early days of New World settlement had the time, talent and resources—nor had they the desire—to emulate for the glory of God the towering cathedrals of the Old World. That they built usually was an simple, adequate for their needs.

Much of what they wrought still stands, to benefit the beholder today as it was to the builders.

Marion MacRae and Dr. Anthony Adamson concentrate on Upper Canada, now Ontario, in telling the story of church architecture as it developed over the centuries. In Halloved Walls, the authors move swiftly and sinuously from the beginings of worship to the post-Confederation period.

Many anecdotal references to congregations long gone leave the account on which Adamson and MacRae, experts in the field of architectural history, spent six years doing research. The book is illustrated with more than 300 photographs, and drawings.

The earliest structure in Ontario known to have been a place of worship, Miss MacRae writes, is an earth sculpture called the serpent mound, in the Peterborough area.

It was built by American farmers about 1,700 years ago, an effigy of their god, Kitchi-Gonfy, the serpent, and undoubtedly along a half overlooking Rice Lake. It has deteriorated badly due to weather and the encroachment of later settlers.

From there, the story is told in lively fashion with full explanation of the various "periods" and types of construction.

Brockville, in eastern Ontario, once was called Elizabethtown but the residents argued so much among themselves, particularly lower church matters, that it earned the byname of Smirkytown.

In 1831, the Anglicans there were forced to build a church; the courthouse where they had worshipped had burned down. William Buell, a leading citizen of the town, wanted to donate land for it but his offer was rejected.

"William Buell could not be allowed to give land to the church," says Miss MacRae. "The fellow was already a Reformer."

Anglicanism is a restoration architect and town planner and Buell was made an Officer of the Order of Canada.

Miss MacRae, an instructor in design and museum research at the Ontario College of Art, also wrote the Arbucklemen's Hall, viewed as a definitive work on the domestic architecture of Upper Canada.

Pre-natal Tests at Genetic Clinic Present Mothers with Moral Choice

TORONTO (CP)—Statistics at Toronto General Hospital's pre-natal genetic clinic show the chances of a woman expecting bearing a mongoloid child are more than one in 20.

Edna Toth, 44, took tests last summer to find out whether the child she was carrying had Down's Syndrome, a form of mental retardation commonly known as mongolism.

The baby was born in November and Mrs. Toth, because she had taken the test which turned up positive, was relaxed in the knowledge that her son was well and healthy.

She received an added bonus during the amniotic testing. She found out well in advance that she would be having a boy.

Genetic breakthroughs that allow scientists to tamper with the future were the topic of a recent seminar held here.

A leading Canadian geneticist, Dr. David Sumbit, said legislation requiring pregnant women to have their unborn babies inspected for birth defects might be a "real danger in the future."

He predicted a day when the nation will want to look at each embryo to determine whether it will become a useful citizen or whether it will drain on the country and urged that legislation be amended to allow large-scale screening of unborn babies.

But for mothers such as Mrs. Toth who may be confronted in advance with the knowledge that their unborn babies are abnormal, moral choices not faced by previous generations have opened up.

Mrs. Toth was not married when she was 16. Her three previous children were all born out of wedlock.

The test for Down's Syndrome, which involves removing a small amount of fluid from the pregnant mother's uterus for analysis, has not been available in Toronto for four years.

During that time, she notes, all over 35, have let medical experts look into the future for them.

Scientific knowledge does not always mean a happy ending. In Mrs. Toth's case. Other mothers have discovered to their chagrin that their unborn baby is a mongoloid or suffers some other serious abnormality.

The tests are relatively simple and virtually painless. The first is an examination by ultrasound, used instead of x-rays which might harm the baby. This test, which "gives doctors a picture of the fetus and placenta in the uterus, is an actual photograph of the baby.

In the amniocentesis test, a hypodermic needle is inserted in the mother's abdomen and a small amount of amniotic fluid—the fluid cushioning the baby in the uterus—is drawn out.

Dr. H. Allen Gardner, head of the Toronto General Cytogenetics laboratory, said that cells from the baby are contained in the fluid. These incubate from two to three weeks. They are then prepared for their chromosome structure.

Normal cells contain 46 chromosomes pre-present. In abnormal cells an extra chromosome—a triplet instead of a pair—means a mongoloid birth will result.

The test cannot be performed until the mother is 16 weeks pregnant. Results aren't available until the 19th or 20th week. The 20th week is the final week in which an abortion can be performed.

Canadian Woman Promotes Art in Antigua

ST. JOHN'S, Antigua (CP)—When Pamela Wright's husband died in 1963, she came to this Caribbean island from Toronto to do commissioned paintings for a new hotel and opened a small art shop, intending to spend a few months in St. John's every year.

Four months later, she decided to sell her Toronto home, accept a permanent-resident status outside St. John's and settle there permanently.

She became a whole-heartedly into fostering the arts on the island, beginning with private classes for children and adults in a restored cattle barn. She created a pottery workshop and helped to establish a building on the estate.

Antigua's outstanding influence in the arts is also Mrs. Wright's brainchild. The Antigua Artists' Society, of which she was president for six years, sponsors annual Carnival Holiday Painting, which provides free art instruction every Monday during school vacations for children in St. John's, the capital, and in villages. Classes are held in churches and attendance varies between 40 and 80.

Mrs. Wright's interest in helping children appreciate art goes back to her own childhood, when she was a member of the first children's art class started in the Toronto Art Gallery on Saturday morning by Group of Seven member Arthur Lismer.

"We were given newsprint and charcoal to work with," she said. "But mainly we were exposed to the wonderful and changing collections at the gallery.

"Children showing ability were given guidance in drawing and composition in a program that was revolutionary at the time. Lismer's son and daughter were interrupted Mrs. Wright's painting lessons and her friend was rekindled in 1969 when she attended a summer session at the Doon School of Fine Arts and first exhibited her work.

Shows in other Ontario centres followed and many of her paintings now are in private collections scattered over England, Scotland, Germany, Denmark, New Zealand and the United States.

In Antigua, she organized an art exhibition to mark the independence of the former British colony and was in charge of the visual arts section of the National Festival of the Arts in January, 1974.

"The public response was tremendous," she said. "For 10 days everyone was doing his or her thing, from students making to jewelry to pottery".

A member of the government's Arts Council, Mrs. Wright is included in a book about prominent Antiguan women published this year by a women's organization.

"I was most flattered," she said.

Korea's First Woman Lawyer Devoted to Sexual Equality

SEOUL (Reuter)—A 41-year-old woman who first spoke up for women's rights at the age of seven now is tackling male supremacy in marriage.

Dr. Lee Tae-young, South Korea's first woman lawyer, has earned international renown for her devotion to a cause which has brought significant advances for a considerable number of women in a variety of fields.

Dr. Lee, who is the mother of a Magsaysay—the Asian version of the Nobel Prize—for "effective service to the cause of equal Juridical rights for the liberation of Korean women."

When she spoke in an oriental context as the sex of women in her country. Now she [illegible] Family Relations Law, which she sees as favoring women in domestic legalities—especially in inheritance, property claims and wedlock.

In inheritance, for example, a son, regardless of his marital status, gets at least twice as much as an unmarried daughter. If the woman is married, the share is again halved.

A husband may inherit all his wife's property if she dies with no surviving children. A widow, however, has to share the legacy of her spouse with his parents-in-law if there are no children.

Dr. Lee said the present law almost allows bigamy by giving the husband the right to enter the records of his illegitimate children in the official family register.

Sixty-one women's organizations have joined forces to fight for amendment to the law, and Dr. Lee is senior vice-chairman of the movement.

Her efforts for the success are not regarded as bright in this male-oriented society. Many of the principles of Confucianism are vehemently opposed to the campaign. Sweeping changes would destroy the time-honored fabric of Korean families.

"The sex bias cannot be removed by revising laws alone, of course," Dr. Lee said "There more basic problem lies in social attitudes of unwarranted prejudice.

"For instance, a widow in Korea is still looked at more askance when she is remarried than a husband who takes a concubine."

Dr. Lee has concentrated her efforts on women's rights before the law.

After becoming South Korea's first practising woman lawyer, she set up a private, non-profit legal aid centre 19 years ago. Since then, some 18,000 women have visited it for advice.

In 1963, she was instrumental in the enactment of a domestic adjudication law setting up a family court in the formal judicial system. The court tries to conciliate the parties concerned or, failing that, hands down verdicts.

She has been vice-president of the International Federation of Women Lawyers and conciliator of the Seoul Family Court.

In 1971, she was given an award by the Conference on World Peace Through Law in Belgrade.

She can look back on several advances made by women in South Korea.

A considerable number of Korean women have become politicians, professors, professional artists, doctors, public administrators, judges—and even policeman.

But Dr. Lee, a grandmother of two husband, Chyung Ji-Pyong, is a noted member of the opposition in the Korean Parliament, still has plans—a public library for research into domestic problems, mobile legal clinics and most important, a new building for her legal aid centre.

Worldwide Fairyland: Truely a Dream

Healthy baby boy, born to Mike and Edna Toth, is a joy to the whole family. Everyone, including brother, 4, Anna, 7, and David, 6, wants to help mother attend to him. Mrs. Toth, 44, realizing that women of her age have one chance in a hundred of giving birth to a mongoloid child had a genetic test at Toronto General Hospital in August to learn if her baby would be normal. She received the reassurance it would and KITCHENER, Ont. (CP)—There's a never-never-land so taxes, inflation or recession where every wish comes true.

"It's the land of dreams come true," for Irma Loewenberg—and for it she thanks Kitchener city council.

The council waived its magic wand to give Mrs. Loewenberg permission to exhibit her "dream" collection of international dolls and miniature historic buildings.

The council's approval was needed because Mrs. Loewenberg charges an admission fee in an area not zoned for commercial use.

That approval will be withdrawn however, if neighbors complain. But the neighbors want fairyland on their street.

"I almost cried when council unanimously gave permission to exhibit my collection," she said. "It has been a 30-year dream—a dream my wonderful neighbors are happy to see fulfilled. They are with me 100 per cent."

The road to achieving this 30-year-dream has been fraught with anxiety, frustration, tears and 18-hour-working days.

"I didn't mind the work but when I was told the fee for displaying my exhibition would be $25 a day my dream was shattered. I couldn't afford it."

A Kitchener licensing bylaw provides for a licence fee of $25 per day to hold an exhibition where an admission fee is charged. This applies to a location that is not licensed as a theatre or a public hall.

But city clerk R. W. Pritchard came to the rescue by suggesting Mrs. Loewenberg present her case to the city council.

Mrs Loewenberg's skilled hands have creatively transformed her living room and dining room into a miniature fairyland where colorfully costumed international dolls, a sugar plum castle in Spain, a turreted mediaeval German castle and a motorized Dutch windmill all vie for attention.

Ever since Mrs. Loewenberg came to Canada 20 years ago her dream has been to build an international village.

Many times in her native Germany she visited the miniature outdoor display at Dusseldorf. The historic display of miniature railroads, mountains and rivers and historic buildings fascinated her.

"It was like magic! I just had to keep going back," she said. "It was so beautiful, I wanted to create this beauty in my adopted country."

But there was a long road before she could reach her dream. Ten days after arriving in Canada she joined a glove factory to save money. Her husband, Oscar, was in ill-health for the first 18 months, the responsibility of caring for their two young sons fell on her shoulders.

On regaining his health her husband joined her at the factory where he has worked as a glove cutter for 19 years.

Over the years as Mrs. Loewenberg ran the machine where sewing gloves—she kept her dream alive in her imagination.

She made hundreds of stuffed toys and dressed in many dolls for co-workers, their relatives and friends. At home her wood working machine whirred making cabinets and storm windows.

Then two years ago—Mrs. Loewenberg's dream was apparently shattered. She lost her job. Difficulty with her knee incapacitated her from working on an industrial machine.

Undaunted the woman with "a thousand ideas and a hundred hands" turned her mind to making dirndles and vests—and she never lost sight of her dream.

Last year memories of the many Munich Oktoberfests she had visited came flooding back and "I wanted to share the traditions with my grandchildren." And so she designed and made a mini-Oktoberfest parade.

It's success led her this year to invest her savings in design and make "a little fairyland."

Of special delight to the young of all ages is the gleaming white sugar plum castle in Spain, and the fjeyr of international dolls.

And for lovers of Strauss music the couples 'dolls' dressed in ball gowns and formal clothes dancing to Strauss waltzes 'played' by a miniature orchestra in a special delight, as the turntable revolves the dancers are reflected in a glass back drop.

The displays have taken thousands of hours of work, including research, machine work and sewing.

"I search for authenticity," she said.

With her husband's imminent retirement Mrs. Loewenberg hopes to further expand her display.

"I would like to portray the lives and cultures of the Inuits, the Canadian Indians and the Mennonites—where I will find a home for such a display—I don't know—but it's been like magic to achieve my dream so far."

Fall Apples Prepared for Drying At Mennonite Schnitzing Bees

KITCHENER, Ont. (CP) — Schnitzing bees, one of the most popular pastimes in Old Order Mennonite women's circles next to quilting sessions, are in full swing again in Waterloo County.

Without schnitzing bees, the country's most sought-after dried apples, apple rings and schnitz pies, would not exist. Usually held every Saturday morning at area markets.

The little green wedges of apples are displayed in plastic bags on tables mirroed by bonneted, calico-clad Mennonite women. Hours of work are put behind their preparation.

Bushels of apples are transformed by hard-working Mennonite women into schnitz during three and four-hour sessions. The women and pre-school children are driven to an appointed barn; there they sit hands who choose the same day to take a load of apples to Cassel's cider apple butter mill at Wellesley.

Each woman does a crisp white apron before she begins, settles her bonnet firmly on top of her braided hair, picks up a paring knife and works with speed and energy. There are peelers and schnitzers, thousands of red apples disappear under their deft fingers. Peelers work so skilful they can skim off red shiny peel in one long curving strand. Schnitzers can transform peeled apples into uniform schnitzes in seconds.

As the piles of sliced apples grow, some of the women take a stand at the end of the table and begin packing them into clean white cotton bags. Later they will be taken to Kallenstein where they will be dried in the kiln owned by a fellow Mennonite Noah Bauman. The slow drying process takes about three days.

During the current busy season two tons of apple butter are turned out each day.

Sons Learn from Mistakes

Dear Ann Landers: My oldest son is just recovering from a heartbreaking romance. He bought the girl jewelry, record albums, expensive clothes, took her to the fanciest restaurants and last week she broke off with him.

Now my younger son (age 18) is headed in the same direction. He had a good summer job and saved quite a lot of money. He thought he needs new shoes, a whole jacket and several other items of clothing, he doesn't spend one cent on himself. All his money goes on this girl's back. She calls him "a sugar-shopping" and like a sap he buys her anything she wants.

When I tell him he's making the same mistake his brother made he says, "It's my money and I'll do what I want with it."

What can I do about this dumb kid Dad?—Heartsick Watching

Dear Mother: If you are a "Heartsick Watching" my advice is to look the other way. You're fighting a losing battle. Mother. Some folks must get their bumps from hard knocks, and I'm afraid your son is due for some "on-the-job training."

Dear Ann Landers: Do I have the right to be mad? Recently I married a man who was spoiled rotten by his mother. She worked on him like a hand-servant. He never picked up a sock after himself.

I work an eight-hour day. After the honeymoon I had a talk with him and he agreed to do the supper dishes on weekends while I took the clothes to the laundromat. When I returned, my mother-in-law was washing out of the kitchen with a sheet in half hand. She had just finished doing the dishes.

After she left I hit the roof. My mother-in-law didn't eat with us. She just dropped in. I think she should and have done his work. What's your opinion?—Angry

Dear Ang: This is a problem! Grow up, kidds. If you're going to make a go of it with Junior you'd better learn not to sweat the small stuff. Save your anger for the major hassles ahead—and I can promise you there will be many.

How to Look After Your Poinsettias

The less you know about growing things, the more likely it is that you received a poinsettia for Christmas. That seems to be the way it w as anyway, judging from the number of people who, every year, telephone to ask just what to do with this popular but mysterious plant.

If you happened to receive one of the newer varieties like the variegated Jingle Bells poinsettia or the yellow-bracted type new to green houses this year, you may be even more confused. In fact, the plant should all be treated the same way.

They like good light expert a temperature of about 65 degrees or 18 Celsius, and fairly frequent waterings. A drop in temperature below 18 Celsius (about 61 degrees), fluctuating temperatures, drafts and drying out at the roots can cause yellowing and dropping of bottom leaves. They should be thoroughly watered when the top of the soil is dry to touch and should be protected from sitting in excess water.

In the spring, you can plant the poinsettia in the garden to be brought indoors in the fall or you can root the plant in a cool location, allowing the soil to dry out. Cut the plant back way back if you choose this method.

This is the time of year your garden needs some considerable care in spite of the fact that it's frozen hard and covered by snow.

Evergreens, for example, are prone to lose moisture and most somewhat are those exposed to sun, wind and ice. Wrap plants now or, better yet, screen them. Hinging wooden planks to make a tent shaped covering is a popular protection method.

Air circulation is essential, so if you choose to wrap your evergreens, burlap is an ideal material. Avoid plastics unless you tack it to posts around the plants. Black plastic should not be used.

You can use mulch to protect plants like roses, strawberries and other perennials and this is the time of year to apply the mulch. (Waiting for freezing makes it unwieldy.) Choose straw or sphagnum moss mulch to hold snow and protect plants from extreme temperatures. Bark, sawdust, and peat moss can also be used. Be sure to leave the mulch in place until spring; any danger of frost is past; premature removal of a winter mulch can be worse than no mulch at all.

Traffic over a frozen lawn can cause compacting from which your grass may never recover. Remember if you make a skating rink out of your backyard the lawn unless you waited until the ground was solidly frozen. Shrubbery, it's widely known, can form an ice layer that will smother the lawn.

A drive-in in Thompson, Manitoba was fined $200 for advertising the price of an Extra Large Combination Pizza as being 10 per cent off when, in fact, it wasn't. A large supermarket chain was fined $10,000 for advertising vegetable juice as a special value when it was the regular selling price. These are just two of the matters reviewed in court by the Misleading Advertising Division, Bureau of Competition Policy of the department of Consumer and Corporate Affairs.

Women's Year Meant Little to Local Women

By SHARON AIRHART

As it draws to a close, International Women's Year has been credited and blamed with everything from equal rights legislation to the rising rate of crime against women in the work world.

Most of false, it has certainly received wide publicity. But what effect has it had on the day-to-day life of women in our community?

JEFFREY

Jeffrey, with the Hastings County Board of Education, says that IWY has not made any difference in her day-to-day life.

"The things you want to do and the way you feel about yourself is inside of you. A resolution in a year won't make any difference.

"If women want something, they can do it and don't need people making allowances for them because they're female," she adds.

Salma Bozhour, president of the large and active Belleville General Hospital auxiliary, echoes those sentiments.

"I've never felt any discrimination. Besides hearing about women's year here and there, it hasn't made any difference to me. At home and at work and in my volunteer work, I've always been equal.

Another community leader by whom IWY has been otherwise but not involving is Robin Jeffrey, former mayor and candidate in the last election.

"For myself, it's made no difference. I get involved in things whether it's women's year or not."

Jeffrey feels however, that it may have affected others.

"The year may have had some stimulation for women across the nation because they've started to look at themselves and their status."

Like the former mayor, Ruth Burrows, most recently head of the Central Volunteer Bureau and currently a member of federal and provincial volunteer advisory councils, believes that women's year has at least brought the status of women to the public eye.

"I think a number of good things have come out of women's year if only to make the public realize that not all of the demands for rights are from radical groups."

She adds, "I think many of its effects are yet to come."

Dorothy Taylor, head of the maternity level at Belleville General Hospital, believes that professionally it has made little difference for women within the hospital setting.

"But in the universities," she says, "there is more awareness of women and the fact that nurses will be taking a larger role in the health care field can be in part attributed to IWY."

Additionally, Dorothy Taylor says that women's year "may have given some women an extra little push to get up and say what needed to be said."

"There probably are women who felt they needed International Women's Year," says Joanne Astonucci, "because they were put down or pushed aside and for them it was valuable."

Mrs. Astonucci, proprietor of the Door in the Wall, adds that for her, it has made little difference.

"I don't think of women's year as being pertinent to my life. It seems to be something that hasn't existed here."

Another prominent business woman, Lise Ann Johnsen, president of Quinte Development, agrees that women have been pushed back previously", she said" like a "second class citizen" but "now are pressing for their rights."

Ilga Cyturik, president of Alwebster's Station of Women's Institutes, said, "Many women do not know the resources of women's councils available to them and we hope more women will use the council here."

In Newfoundland the government has introduced legislation for day-care centres but has made no move to help pay for them, said Wendy Williams, president of the Status of Women Council in St. John's.

"Day care for children here costs up to $250 a month, so many women would be just as far ahead if staying home."

She said IWY had increased the awareness of women's needs but "few practical things have been achieved."

Blanche Bourgeois of the New Brunswick advisory council said the legislation setting up the organization in the last month of IWY "needs tightening."

She said the N.B. council is not an independent body like the federal council, of which she is also a member.

The provincial council was like a committee of people working in a government department, she said, with orders instead of advising the minister.

Jane Meneties of Winnipeg, vice-chairman of the federal council, said IWY will have no lasting impact on Canadian society but the advancement of women's rights in several areas remains slow.

"We haven't made much advance to change the laws affecting the division of marital property of women in the work force."

Women's Year: The Hard Work Starts Now

With International Women's Year (IWY) drawing to a close, Canadian women, especially those deeply involved in the women's movement, have expressed mixed reactions to its effects.

Representatives of federal and provincial councils on the status of women generally expressed favorable views of what was accomplished by the special year for women designated by the United Nations.

In Ottawa, Dr. Katie Cooke, head of the Federal Advisory Council on the Status of Women, described IWY as "both a milestone and a beginning."

She said it was the first time all nations in the UN recognized women's second-class status.

"In Canada, the hard work to put proposals into practice starts now."

These included legislation in the area of human rights, an omnibus bill on the status of women and policy discussion on no-fault divorce recommended by the federal law reform commission.

Dr. Cooke said she will push for legislation on division of marital property and changes to the Criminal Code on rape and abortion.

She does not see any slackening in the women's movement now IWY is over. "I think good many expectations have been rightly raised."

Laura Sabia of St. Catharines, Ont., chairman of Ontario's Status of Women Council, was less charitable.

"IWY has been an unmitigated disaster as far as government reaction is concerned," she said. "I think women have been conned. We still lack proportionate pay for equal work, we lack women in the top echelons of the civil service and affirmative action has been damn slow."

A report tabled in the Ontario legislature on equal opportunity for women emphasized, for a start, the need for special measures to enhance the status of female Crown employees.

Mrs. Sabia said: "We on the council have completely frustrated because of government unwillingness to act on such vital issues as improved day-care, abortion and no-fault divorce."

In British Columbia, a provincial status of women's office was formed co-ordinating Gene Errington said it was created in response to International Women's Year.

She said the $200,000 budget designated for the office by the former NDP government went partially to a research project by the women's auxiliary of a trade union on the history of women in the B.C. labor movement, for a women's news service and workshops.

Gene Errington said the government, which was defeated in the Dec. 11 election, had been asked by women's groups within the NDP to form a women's ministry, but nothing was done.

"One of the most important recommendations of the commission's reports deals with economic partnership in marriage," she said. "The commission recommends wives be given full economic partnership during marriage."

Lauretta Ingstad, president of the Quebec Council on the Status of Women said IWY was hindered by political and national biases on an international level.

She said she had misgivings when the UN first declared the special women's year.

"I thought it would be mere tokeism or just a long Mother's Day.

"To my surprise however, there were a number of worthwhile events. The most important benefit was that issues were discussed openly in the media."

She said her 11-member council considers the most important questions it must deal with are discrimination against women in the job market and in most pension funds, a shortage of day-care facilities and a stereotyped image of women in the media and in education.

"It has been instrumental in obtaining particular clauses in the provincial rights charter to be implemented early next year, especially concerning self-equality in the labor force."

Mary Casey of Halifax, the Nova Scotia representative on the Federal Advisory Council, said IWY "has served a useful purpose by making people aware of the fact that women suffer in a lot of ways."

Another Maritime representative on the council, Sarah Kerr of Rocky Point, P.E.I., said "I many Canadian women now are aware of where they stand.

"Women have been pushed back previously", she said" like "but now are pressing for their rights."

Ilga Cyturik, president of Alwebster's Station of Women's Institutes, said, "Many women do not know the resources of women's councils available to them and we hope more women will use the council here."

In Newfoundland the government has introduced legislation for day-care centres but has made no move to help pay for them, said Wendy Williams, president of the Status of Women Council in St. John's.

"Day care for children here costs up to $250 a month, so many women would be just as far ahead if staying home."

She said IWY had increased the awareness of women's needs but "few practical things have been achieved."

OLGA KORBUT: A Biographical Portrait

By Michael Seymour

Olga Korbut won a gold medal and the title "queen of the gymnasium" at the 1972 Olympics in Munich.

A mere slip of a girl at 96 pounds, she was seventeen when she won her laurels demonstrating her skill through competition and exercises. Never having appeared at a competition like the Olympics, it was all the more remarkable that a novice could reach such a goal.

Her success can be attributed to the gruelling hours of dedicated hard work and to the efforts of her trainer, Renald Kayoh, who early recognized Olga's potential. However, the mantle of accomplishment was not allowed to rest for very long on her slim shoulders.

After her return from the Kremlin, where orders and medals were handed to the Olympic winners, Mr. Kayoh congratulated her, and then snapped: "And now listen to what I am going to tell you. At the Olympic Games you didn't do even half of what you were capable of." Such is the life of a champion!

The author describes the training methods used by Kayoh and other trainers of the Soviet Women's Olympic Team from 1961 to 1972 which have produced so many Russian gymnasts.

There are excellent photographs and a final interview with Olga which includes illustrated routines for the beginning gymnast.

Work Is Often Race Against Time for Snow Removal Crews

BY AL ZARAS
Staff Reporter

So you think you've got problems clearing snow from your 25-foot-long driveway?

Consider your plain light and your backache small, however, compared to that of the professional snow removers in Belleville.

Take Gary Thibault, for example.

He's an independent tandem dumptruck owner who runs two snow-plow equipped vehicles on his own. He also hires three other vehicles.

He needs the equipment, he said Friday, because he has about 300 lots to clear of snow at commercial and industrial sites in the city.

It's not all done by him personally, of course. He hires men and works with several other snow removal contractors.

And the work is punishing, he said, while stopping for a minute from the approximate five-hour job of clearing the parking lot at Loblaws on Pinnacle St.

Starting from about 1 a.m. Boxing Day, "we might get an hour or two of sleep before we finish something on Sunday morning," Mr. Thibault said.

And, he said, sometimes he's jump into his dump truck and help clear nine apartment buildings into his North Front Street at the Quinte Mall.

Although some jobs are under contract, either on a yearly basis or by the snowfall, Mr. Thibault levies set fees for manpower plus equipment usage.

For a tandem, it's $16 an hour. For a plow equipped truck, it's the same. For a front-end loader, it's $15 an hour.

And the job isn't so simple here you're expecting mere snow to fall at any time.

Speaking Friday after Christmas Day's storm, loader operator Paul Vinkle said, "If another six inches is coming, a normal driveway, some 25 to 30-feet long, will cost you about $6.

The longer the driveway, the more it will lighten your cost. However, he doesn't plow driveways, though others in Belleville do.

One Hunt In Crash

A 22-year-old Toronto woman is in intensive care unit of Belleville General following a two-car crash on Glen Ross Road just north of Frankford about 2:30 p.m. Friday.

Shirley Henderson was passenger in a car driven by Betty Henderson, 56, of Toronto. She suffers from cuts and possible head injuries, said police.

The Henderson vehicle was in collision with a vehicle driven by Frank Justus, 50, of RR 3 Frankford.

Police said the vehicles collided head on in a curve. Due to heavy snow there was only one driving lane at the time of the collision.

Total damage is estimated at about $1,000.

Two Children Hurt in Crash

Two children were treated for minor injuries and released from Belleville General Hospital after being hurt in a two-car collision that police attributed to Friday's slippery roads.

Injured were Ricardo, 4, and Elizabeth Costa, 5, passengers in a vehicle driven by their father, Carmelo Costa, 34, of RR 3 Belleville.

Police say the Costa vehicle was northbound on Everett St. when it was in collision with a vehicle, eastbound on Catherine St. driven by Sylvie Glass, 20, of 8 Wickell St.

Total damage amounted to $450.

First Snowman

The Pasion family of Everett Street, made their first snowman Boxing Day. The family, including seven children moved to Canada from the Philippines about six months ago. Pasion children making the snowman are: Rodolfo (left) 13, Marla Sophia, 18, Val, 15 and Noel, 10.

Firewood Becoming More Popular As Many Try to Cut Heating Costs

BY CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Wood is increasing in popularity as a fuel, says Elwood Labow, of RR 2 Frankford who will sell you "any kind of wood that grows".

"It's been really good this year. I never did this well last year," said Mr. Labow who sells wood cut on his farm and neighboring farms.

"I made $424 profit last week," said the man who has been selling wood for fireplaces and stoves for about the last seven years.

"I think wood is coming back into popularity because of increased prices of gas and oil. Wood is your cheapest heat," he said.

Ninety per cent of the wood he sells is used for fireplaces and must be sold in Belleville.

"It's the most penetrating heat."

He said he provides a taxidermist with wood to heat his shop. The taxidermist says wood heat dries furs faster.

Mr. Labow says the price of wood has gone up little in the past few years. He said he put his prices up $5 over last year.

He charges $35 a cord for applewood and birch and $30 a cord for maple, oak, beach and elm. Wood is cut in 12,15 or 20 inch lengths. Delivery is included.

"Applewood seems to be the best seller this year. It's the nicest fireplace wood. It has a nice blue-pink flame."

Mr. Labow said part of the reason for the increased demand for fireplace wood is probably that more new homes have fireplaces. In Belleville area, however, contents cost stoke the fire at a reasonable price.

He said he has a friend near New York City who also sells wood. He sells applewood at $125 a cord.

The Leeman family on Redoubt Road is selling applewood this year for $35 a cord. They're clearing a six acre orchard.

"It's the best for fireplaces. It has a sweet odor," said Eileen Leeman.

She said it's the highest price wood and near Toronto sells for $55 a cord.

They don't have their own fireplaces and just began selling the wood although they sold applewood about five years ago for $30 a cord.

Carman Tracey of RR 1 Roslin sells slabs of hardwood.

"It's good and dry and easy to light, good for fireplaces," said Mr. Tracey who has sold wood for about the past ten years.

He buys the wood from a mill in Shannonville. He buys what's left over when logs are straightened. Thickness of the pieces, he said, ranges from three to eight inches. He heats it home and cuts it for fireplace lengths.

"It's been pretty busy around Christmas. There were a lot of calls the day before Christmas," said Mr. Tracey.

Delivered, he sells wood at $30 for two single cords. He said he sells most of the wood in Belleville.

Types of wood are all mixed together including white ash, red oak, hickory, elm and hard maple.

"They burn equally well," said Mr. Tracey.

He said the price of wood has gone up slightly in the past years mainly due to increased costs of fuel and manual labor.

"The cost of hauling it has gone up a lot," he said.

He said it doesn't make a big profit "rough his wood sales because he has to buy the wood. He said he'd make "a day's pay" during the work of it was his own wood.

Council Meets Jan. 5

Belleville city council will hold its first 1976 meeting Jan. 5.

Because of Christmas holidays council last week decided to dispense with the last meeting of the year. It would have been held Dec. 29.

Canvass Raises $159.

DENBIGH — Evelyn Petzold, convener of the canvass for The Canadian National Institute for the Blind in Denbigh and district, reports that proceeds amounted to $159.00.

Woman Injured

A 55-year-old Peterborough woman is in Belleville General Hospital intensive care unit in serious condition with internal injuries following a collision Thursday about 1 p.m. on Highway 7 about a mile east of Highway 37.

Monica Karkowski was passenger in a car driven by her husband, Alexander, 51, also of Peterborough.

Police said the Karkowski car went out of control after being in collision with a parked car owned by Ronald Scott of Ottawa. Damage to the Karkowski vehicle is estimated at $2,500 and $400 to the Scott vehicle.

Scott had stopped to assist an Orillia woman whose car had come to a stop in the ditch after she swerved to avoid a head on collision with another driver who left the scene.

Gifts Only One Aspect of Christmas Say Residents

What did you get for Christmas?

A survey of persons downtown on Boxing Day by The Intelligencer would seem to indicate irrespective of gifts people were given they enjoyed Christmas Day.

Most persons said they got some or all of the gifts they wanted but said giving gifts was just as important if not more important.

Despite inflation most still got as many gifts as in previous years. They did find, however, that it cost them more to buy in a fashion they are accustomed to.

More important to most people than gift giving and receiving was being relatives, some of which they haven't seen since last Christmas.

COLLEEN DONLY

It was a good Christmas, said Colleen Donly, 18, of Ann St. The family was together and it was happy times again, said the Bayside College student. She got clothes and paints for Christmas. She said she bought gifts for eight persons and had relatives visit from Ottawa and Hamilton. As with most persons, she said she spent more than she should have, but enjoys giving gifts.

ELLEN MAWSON

I like Christmas, says Ellen Mawson, 13, of Bridge St. She was given games, paints and skates. "I haven't tried the skates yet. I haven't had a chance." She said she likes Christmas because she gets to visit her relatives and she likes giving gifts. "I didn't give as many as last year," said the student of Queen Elizabeth School.

CAROLE THIFFAULT

I got everything I wanted, says Carole Thiffault, 18, a shoe salesperson at Maher Shoes. She received a boye chest and leather gloves and clothes. "I'd rather give than receive." She said the gave gifts to nine persons. "It's not too bad, most give to more people than that." She said she is happy to get clothes as gifts at Christmas.

TIMMY DALPE

You name it, I got it, says Timmy Dalpe 11, of Church St. A Grade 6 student at St. Michael's Academy. One of his favorite gifts was a blue suit given to him by his godfather. "I like getting clothes for Christmas." He said he gave out about 13 gifts at Christmas and enjoys giving as much as receiving. Although he's enjoying his holidays he said he's looking forward to going back to school.

SEAN GOODWIN

"I got a helicopter for my G.I. Joe and clothes," said Sean Goodwin, 7, of Church St. He said he got everything he wanted for Christmas. He also got a race car set and a new wristwatch. He said he gave about 14 gifts. He gave his mother a pair of slippers and his grandmother a housecoat. He said he's not looking forward to going back to school at St. Michael's Academy where he is in Grade 2.

VINCENT DALPE

Vincent Dalpe, 9, of Church St., got books for Christmas and said he likes getting books as gifts. He got a coat from his godfather. He also got a pair of slippers and a housecoat. He said he doesn't really like getting slippers for Christmas. "As soon as I wear them they're shot." He said he hasn't decided whether he is looking forward to going back to school at St. Michael's Academy where he is in Grade 4.

Some Snowmobile Users Damaging Trenton Parks

BY JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Uncontrolled snowmobile use in the parks have begun to create hazardous conditions for school children and caused thousands of dollars in damage, says Dens Gettas, director of Trenton's parks and recreation department.

Mr. Gettas said particularly in Hanna Park, young children going to and from school have been placed in serious danger by the uncontrolled use of the vehicles.

"The only way the situation could be handled was to ask council to place legislation on the use of the snowmobiles within park boundaries and this was why we approached the town," he said.

At the last council meeting a bylaw was passed governing the use of snowmobiles in Centennial Park, Hanna Park and Mount Pelion and prohibited the machines from all other lands in the park system.

Mr. Gettas said damage to the park land is another serious problem the town is facing because of the discriminate use of the machines.

"It is necessary for at least one inch of snow to be on the ground or else the vehicles will tear up the turf causing thousands of dollars damage and severe erosion problems," said the director.

Mr. Gettas said he is particularly worried about damage to Mount Pelion which he said is a delicate gravel butte formation.

"Once erosion begins, especially at a place like Mount Pelion, the slippage is almost impossible to stop without major erosion surgery," said Mr. Gettas. "Not only is this costly, but proper care and use of the park would prevent this," he said.

Mr. Gettas said the problem is not just restricted to the winter season and snowmobile operators and that land abuse is becoming more prevelant throughout the year.

"Motor bikes and people driving cars right into the park onto turfed areas has also resulted in thousands of dollars in damage to the land," said Mr. Gettas. "Not only that there are instances of people driving vehicles, snow machines and other kinds, through hedges in the parks and once this happens they have to be replaced," he said.

Most city officials have acknowledged that there are only a small number of undisciplined users of the snowmobiles giving the rest a bad reputation but they say the problem is the difficulty in apprehending the offenders.

Crosbie Says Police Get Few Complaints

City work crews and motorists are cursing and digging Belleville out from under approximately 20 cm. (eight inches) of snow.

But unlike the majority, some city residents aren't cursing. Instead, they're "digging it."

They're snowmobilers, astride roaring machines using public roadways in Belleville.

And how they use those roadways is the concern of local police departments.

In the city, Chief Douglas Crosbie warned Friday snowmobilers, like motorists, must obey all traffic laws, with some exceptions.

Snowmobiles, unlike automobiles which can't anyway, must stay off city sidewalks. They must also stay clear of Belleville's smaller parks — like Corby Park on William St. and Memorial Park at Cannifton Rd. and Station St.

MORE

"As long as they obey all the laws, they can drive on city streets," said Chief Crosbie.

City parks in which snowmobiles aren't allowed are marked by signs, he said.

Constable Don Kozyk of the Belleville OPP also warns snowmobilers to be careful out in the country, however. He says the laws change.

Snowmobiles must stay clear of highways — they cannot travel on the paved or shoulder portions of the roadway, except in crossing.

Crossing, said Constable Kozyk, the detachment's community services officer, must be done carefully and at a 90 degree angle to the roadway.

The machines, like bicycles, are "completely banned" from Highway 401.

Neither the OPP nor city police say they have encountered serious problems with the machines or their riders to date because, says Constable Kozyk, there's been so little snow.

MORE

Both men say drivers must be 16 years or older and must be licensed to drive a motor vehicle, in order to use a snowmobile.

In the city, Chief Crosbie said no serious accidents have occurred this year, and he couldn't remember one had in previous years.

City police have not had to deal with many snowmobile-related problems yet, said the chief, noting that most complaints stem from the racket the machines raise and their intrusion on private property.

In explaining regulations governing snowmobile use in the city, Chief Crosbie again issued a warning to the machine drivers, as well as pedestrians and skaters, to stay off Bay of Quinte and Moira River ice.

Damage Checked

Glanmore House curator Marten Lewis flips through an atlas which has been stained red from water drops from the ceiling when a hot-water radiator burst Friday. Books, paintings, walls, drapes and a highly-valued fresco ceiling were damaged in what Mr. Lewis called "a disaster."

Trenton Bureau

Service Clubs Deserve Thanks

BY JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

Thanks should be passed out to Trenton's many service clubs who have worked all year to spread the holiday spirit and make the season last longer than two weeks.

With increasing social care being offered, much of the work the clubs did in the past now is being undertaken by the government but this has not swayed the organization's efforts to serve the local city.

Through investment of time and money the clubs have worked to serve Trenton's citizens and help make the town a better place in which to live.

The Kinsmen, most recently, conducted a town-wide toy collection drive to provide for those people who might receive no presents during the holiday. The group was also active in supplying funds to have another room in Trenton Memorial Hospital refurnished and modernized.

The Lions Club is another organization active throughout the year. It has begun to produce monthly bingo games for senior citizens in nursing homes throughout the town. Additionally, the club finances the blind bowlers league in town.

The Rotary Club is responsible for sending many area young people to the organization's camp for crippled children in Marysville near Smiths Falls. The group is active in fund-raising for Trenton's minor sports projects has recently donated $40,000 to the Rain Park redevelopment.

The Kiwanis Club just had a Christmas party for mentally handicapped people and continues their year-round work with Trenton's ARC Industries. The club is also a sponsor for the Salvation Army's summer camp at Bobbie Lake.

There are many other people in Trenton and the area who have worked throughout the year and will probably continue to work, who do not always receive adequate compensation from the public, but they does not really sway them when they are helping others.

Those Trentonians work hard for their town throughout the year, realizing satisfaction in knowing they are helping people, and themselves, to enjoy a happier more fuller life.

Ricketts Rounds Out Cats' Amazing Comeback in Final Minutes

It was a long hard road to recovery from the Belleville Bobcats' fought tooth and claw by overcoming a 6-2 deficit and scrape through the 60 minutes of play to a 7-6 Metro Junior B win over the Bramalea Blues. Andy Ricketts' goal at 17:44 of the third period clinched the win for the locals.

It was the second meeting of the season between Belleville and the Central Division leaders and the second consecutive win for the Cats.

Until midway through the third period, things looked extremely bad for the Cats and it appeared the visitors were about to end Belleville's unbeaten streak of five games.

Both clubs came out hitting hard and peppering shots in a period that saw game control lost to referee Keith MacDonald. Belleville was assessed 22 minutes in fighting majors while the visitors sat out 20 minutes, also with two fighting majors.

At one point in the opening frame Mike Crawford and Bill Mason were involved in a generous five swinging match and when it looked as though Crawford was about to get the worst of it, Paul Johnston stepped in.

Johnston grabbed Mason in an attempt to give Crawford some breathing room but he was grabbed by a Bramalea player and wrestled down. From there three fistic fights broke out involving every player on the ice except the goalies.

The resulting penalties that arose after things settled down were taken as a sign by both clubs that such antics were not going to be tolerated. For their parts in the battle Crawford and his partner were given double minors and Rick Langstaff was also assessed a minor.

The Cats were intimidated by the blues hit and shot game from the opening faceoff and trailed 4-2 at the end of the frame.

Belleville was unable to gain composure even in the second period where they picked up another two fighting majors while trading a goal with the Blues.

The Cats were behind 5-3 heading into the final period of action when Dave Lewis caught fire and started playing their own game. As a result they outscored Bramalea 4-1. Both clubs had excellent chances in the last half of the frame but Ricketts had the shot was the deciding factor.

Bob Moore played the entire game for Belleville and faced a total of 37 shots. His counterpart, Mark Fisher, faced 40 shots from Belleville shooters. If not for Fisher's great saves Bramalea might have ended much further back on the scoreboard.

Tony Meagher and Grant Goegan opened the scoring in the first period for Belleville, while Keith Currie, Bob Attwell, with a pair, and Dean Pepiel tallied for the Blues. Dave Lewis was the only Bobcat to beat Fisher in the middle frame while Dan McKeragha replied for Bramalea.

Playing one of his best games of the season, Bobby Thompson started the ball rolling in the third period which also saw goals from Paul Tilley and Bob Thompson along with Ricketts game winner.

John Downs fired the only goal of the third period for the losers.

The Cats will go up against the Toronto Young Nationals in Toronto this Sunday.

ANDY RICKETTS

It was frustration plus for Belleville Bobcat Paul Tilley in the opening game of Friday's Metro Junior B encounter at the Memorial Arena. The Cats' centre was marked in front of Bramalea goalie, Mark Fisher, and all set to pounce on this rebound, when an anonymous stick was slapped across his, jarring it from his hand and then held it blade to blade to the ice. All Tilley could do was watch as the puck scooted away. Nevertheless Tilley and his teammates edged the Blues 7-6.

Jack Calnan pocketed $150.00 Friday night for doing what he does best — bowling. The money came as a result of winning the 12th annual "Holiday Classic" Invitational Tournament, at the Belleville Bowl-O-Drome.

The win was Calnan's third; his other two victories came in 1971 and 1974.

Competition was strong as Calnan had to go through four other bowlers to get top prize. He was the only undefeated bowler of the tournament, which meant that he received a bye into the final.

In the final round Doug Trotter put on a good show for those remaining to view the "Classic", but Calnan was especially hot and took the big stack of gelt.

"Jack Calnan always bowls his best when it really counts," said director of the tournament bill Bateman.

The winning purse ($150.00) was less than was planned, based on the number of entries in the tournament. That was because of the poor weather conditions, as many out of towners who had planned to enter could not make it in to Belleville because of the weather.

Second place Trotter received $75.00 for his night's work.

Third place went to Leo St. Louis of Belleville, who was defeated in a close semi-final match with Trotter.

Jim Nicola of Belleville took fourth spot, with Ray Darling of Omemee finishing fifth. Sixth, seventh and eighth positions were tied by Jack Canning of Belleville and Barry Payne and his father, Everett both o Peterborough.

There were 36 bowlers out for high games, with first high game going to Bob Greenwood of Brockville, who recorded a strong 229 game. Second went to Ron Saylor, Belleville with a 225 game. Third high game went to Doug Trotter, from Cobourg.

fourth high game of the night turned out to be high game of the tournament as Jim Begley of Trenton registered a 271.

LaBelle Plays Role of Grinch for BYBF

If the Belleville Firefighters were looking for a premature Christmas gift when they met BYBF Atom Minor Selects in Atom Major House League play, a section of the Belleville Minor Hockey Association program, on the weekend, they were disappointed.

BYBF goalie Louis Lalleie was not in the mood for giving anything away, holiday season or not. His shutout sparked the Selects to a 3-0 win. Goals were supplied by Brian Clarey, Todd Woodward and Brooks.

In other league play, Quinte Home Builders, led by Todd Boulter's four-goal effort, smothered Hawkins Chips 8-2 and Ellis Printing got by Dairy Queen 5-2.

The Builders got two goals from Steven Beal and singles by Greg Laing, Barry McFarlane and John Nevell. Alan Maracle looked after both Hawkins' goals.

Leading the way for the Printers was Paul Telch with a pair of counters. Checking in with one each were Neil Graham, Glen Graham and Bob Knapp. Tom Kelly and Tim Sowden were the Dairy Queen markers.

PEEWEE MAJOR

Steven Shanose hit for four goals as Richard Ellis Printing stopped Trumpour and Son 8-4. James Calhcart clicked for two goals while Don Eros and Scott Granville had one each. Jeff Parsons had two in defeat. Al Maikawa and Mark Anglin also scored for Trumpour.

Belleville Conductors got two goals from Mark Shannon on the way to a 4-1 defeat of Motorland Chrysler. James Gray and Michael Ashley added singles to the cause. Ken Percival put Motorland on the scoreboard.

Kings' goals were scored by Alan Dodson, Terry Miller and Brian Beghie in a 3-2 squeaker over Reid's Plumbing. David Canning looked after both the losers' goals.

Bruce Harper found the mark for five goals to pace Circle TV past Elliott Motors 10-1. Gary Haggerty, with two, Gordon Irwin, Hugh Brennan and Steve Wasmuth notched the others. John Lendon was the Elliott scorer.

Eastern Business Equipment Peewee Minor Selects doubled the score on Colle's Jewellers 6-3 as David Cook fired a pair of goals and Mark Horwood, Patrick Sagriff, James Wilson and Steven Nelles, one each. Gordon Spurgeon had all three Colle's counters.

PEEWEE MINOR

David Shannon closed the door on Wray's Furniture as Cash and Carry Lumber skated to an 8-0 win. Wayne Peters led the charge with three goals. Dave Parker and John Scott had two each and Rick Bone rounded out the attack.

Bowes and Cocks Atom Major Selects whipped Police Association 7-3 on two goals by Allan Bunnett and singles from David Conlin, Dave Wright, Jim Thompson, Dave Graham and Steve Runham. Dave Phillips was a one-man gang for Police, potting all the team's goals.

Two goals by Kerry Rafferty supplied the edge for Dairy Queen in a 5-3 victory over Mobil Plastics. Other goals for the winners came from Paul Byrne, Rob Archer and Mark Allen. John McDade with two and Ken Buckley provided the Mobil firecrackers.

Y's Men's Club got two goals each from Mike Northey and Scott Edwards on the way to a 6-3 win at the expense of Duby's Painting. Jeff Miller and Rob Irwin rounded out the winners scoring. Randy Flynn had two for Duby's and David Karshak had one.

Kinsmen fell to Legion 6-3. The winners got two goals from Blair Hobbs and one each by Mike LaBarge, David Hedge, Warren Perry and John Fry. Don Reeve and Neil Maloney replied for Penguins.

BANTAM MINOR

Close score highlighted the action in this division as no winning team had more than a two-goal edge.

Juby Electric nosed past Bob Cleaners 4-3 on goals by Mark Crowe, Scott Porteous, Al Brooke and Gerard Cole. Don Phillips, Steve Cameron and Dave Paine clicked for the Cleaners team.

Dan Brennan led the way in Goldie's Shell's 7-5 win over Lou Williams, firing a pair of markers. Other goals Jerry Patts, Mike Calnan, Chris Hawkey and Pete Ervine had the others. Counting for the losers were Bill Carson, Rob Cathcart, Greg DeMille, Gord Whytje and Rick Bradshaw.

Powered by three Tim Soule goals, Red Shark turned back Sidney Inn 6-4. Don Pope, Paul Begley and Ben Burley also scored for the winners. Robert Bowes had two and Jim Heaney and Jim Williams added one each for Sidney.

The goals each for David Down and Don Wilson weren't enough to get the job done for Avis Rent-A-Car as the team fell 6-4 to Belleville Broadloom Bantam Minor Selects. Dave Stewart and John Dent each scored twice and singles were added by Doug Thicke and Jim Noble to account for the winners' production.

Silver Cup Keeps Three Different Ranks Active

Holiday break means tournament time for minor hockey teams. And the Bay of Quinte area is no exception to the rule.

event, the Silver Cup Tournament, will be in full swing at Trenton Community Gardens.

Five Belleville teams are part of the action at Trenton.

In the Atom section, Belleville McDonald's Minors and the Towers Majors are entered while in Peewee, Belleville Dixie Lee Minors and the Rollins Majors will be shooting for the crowns. Belleville Stop-Mainse Minor Bantams also have a chance at a title in the tourney.

McDonald's and Trenton pry the lid off in Atom action, Saturday at 8 a.m. Then the Belleville team meets Kingston Township at 12:40 p.m. and winds up its first round schedule at 6:30 p.m. against Napanee.

Towers also draws a Trenton opponent in its first start at 11:30 a.m. then follows up with games against Kingston Township at 3 p.m. and Wellington at 7:00 p.m.

Turning to Peewee games set for Sunday, Rollins Majors meet Trenton at 6:50 a.m. Then it's contests with Oshawa, at 12:40 p.m. and Wellington at 6:50 p.m.

In the Minor section, Dixie Lee plays Napanee at 10:20 a.m.; Trenton at 4:30 p.m. and Pickering at 8 p.m.

With Belleville Kinsmen Bantam Majors at Burlington for tournament commitments, the city is represented only in the Minor Division at Trenton. McDonald's Minors meets Trenton, Monday, at 8 a.m.; Kingston Township at 12:40 p.m. and Napanee at 3:20 p.m.

Championship games in all three divisions are scheduled for Tuesday, beginning at 3 p.m. when the Minor Atoms get the showdowns going. The Major Atom final goes at 4:10 p.m. Minor Peewees, 5:20 p.m.; Major Peewees, 6:30 p.m.; Minor Bantams, 7:40 p.m. and Major Bantams, 8:50 p.m.

Jets Like It Nice and Tight

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Winnipeg, Jets trimmed Calgary Stampeders to widen their lead in the Canadian Football League Western Conference Saturday night when they dropped a 34-6 decision the Calgary Cowboys.

PAUL HENDERSON

We could have put more daylight in them," said coach Bobby Kromm said after the Jets' defeat. I guess that just can't stand prosperity."

The loss left the club with a three-point lead over second-place Quebec Nordiques and a 10-point margin over Calgary, which has three games to hand.

In other games Friday, Houston drew beat Denver Seven 8-8, New England Whalers edged Cleveland Barons 5-4, Toronto Toros downed Edmonton Oilers 8-4 and San Diego Mariners beat Phoenix Roadrunners 4-2.

The Jets started with a bang when Bobby Hull scored at 12:17 of the first period, the first of two goals he collected in the game. But the effort didn't last.

"In the first period we looked tremendous, just like we did early in the season," Kromm said. "But in the second, we started running around."

Peter Driscoll scored the game-winning goal at 2:36 of the third period on a shot from centre ice that skipped under the leg of Winnipeg goaltender Joe Daley.

Larry Robinson, Danny Lawson, Butch Deadmarsh and George Ferguson scored for other goals for the Cowboys.

Perry Miller and Ulf Nilsson got the Houston Winds rolling.

At Houston, the Western Division leaders in area was their 12th victory in 15 home games, with Gordie Howe and Dave Lewis each scoring two goals.

Ralph Backstrom scored goal No. 4 for Denver with a minute gone in the third period, then Houston struck back with goals by Gordie Lakatos, Andre Hinse, Larway and Howe.

Mark Howe, Mike Hughes and Glen Tryan got the other Houston goals. The Spars held a brief 1-0 lead on Barry Legge's goal at the 6-minute mark of the first period, and teammates Bob Liddington and Rick Morris scored in the third.

At Toronto, Paul Henderson scored three goals and his teammate Richard Farda added a pair to lead the Toros to an 8-4 win over Edmonton Oil Kings. Jeff Jacques, Terry Atkinson and Gavin Kirk also scored for the Toros.

Rusty Patenaude beat Toronto goalie Dave Tataryn twice, while Mike Rogers, Bob Stewart and Dave Jutras and Ken Baird rounded out the Edmonton scoring.

In Cleveland, a four-goal first-period scoring outburst by the Whalers proved too much for the home game, giving Whalers coach Don Blackburn a successor ful debut. Blackburn retired as a Whaler player but took the coaching job vacated by Tommy Ivan after Jack Kelley resigned in 1974 to a similar post at college in Waterville, Me.

TOM WEBSTER

Larry Hean and Rick Ley started the Whalers off with goals in the first minute of the game, and Tom Webster added a pair before the period was over.

Pierre Guite had two goals for the Stingers and Ron Plumb closed the scoring with a goal at 19:44 of the third period.

Guelle Christer Abrahamsson picked up an assist on Climie's goal.

At San Diego, Andre Lacroix had a goal and two assists as the Mariners won their third in a row. All four Mariners goals were on power plays.

First-period goals by John French, Ray Addisons and Alex Tidey gave the Mariners a 3-0 lead. Tom Conner replied for Phoenix at 13:37 of the period. The other Roadrunner goal was scored in the third period by Dave Gorman.

Voyageurs Guns Really Pop Bears

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

A pair of goals by Glenn Goldup and a Bobby Hull assist on Friday night helped Nova Scotia Voyageurs regain some of lost ground of top spot in the American Hockey League's Northern Division standings.

Goldup scored the Voyageurs first two goals in a 5-2 win over Hershey Bears.

The newcomers closed the airport at Boston, preventing Providence Reds from getting to Rochester to play the Americans, who had been tied with Nova Scotia for the Northern Division lead.

In Friday's other games, Baltimore Clippers stopped Richmond Robins 5-2 and Springfield Indians tied New Haven Nighthawks 3-3.

A shutdown for top spot in the division and overall standings began Sunday night when the Americans visit the Voyageurs for the first of two games in three days.

A Hallion crowd of 2,533 saw the Voyageurs outshoot the "bear 29-8 as they built a 4-0 lead in the first period.

Ron Ansell, Pierre Mondou and Rick Chartraw were the other Nova Scotia scorers. Mario Tanabe helped set up both Hershey goals, scored by Steve Cardwell and Yves Bergeron.

Murray Kuntz scored with nine seconds left in regulation time and Springfield goalie Terry Richardson off the ice for a sixth attacker to give the Indians a tie with the Nighthawks.

New Haven had taken a 3-1 lead when Don Lever scored a shorthanded goal. New Haven's Lindsay Thornton and Springfield's Hugh Harvey scored the other goals in the game.

Baltimore scored four times in seven minutes in the third period to beat Richmond and end a five-game losing streak.

A goal by Bob Craig tied the score 3-3 at 9:17 and Jerry Rudisk's second goal of the game put the Clippers ahead at 11:26. Dick Sarrasin and Mike Lampman added later goals for Baltimore, which last won on December 8.

The Robins, who have dropped out of the Southern Division lead while winning only half of their last six games, took a 2-1 lead in the second period on goals by Bobby Hull and Larry Pullan.

Winger Jack Egers of the Clippers, a 36-year-old veteran of National Hockey League play who has had back trouble for the past two seasons, played the first period after being told he was retiring because of the problem, but reported later.

Tonight, the Reds visit Hershey, the Clippers are at Richmond and New Haven is at Springfield.

Besides the Rochester-Nova Scotia game, Sunday's schedule has Baltimore at New Haven and Richmond at Providence.

ARGENTINA LEADS

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Argentina leads by a 10-9 lead over Brazil in Davis Cup tennis preliminary rounds Friday when Ricardo Cano and Elio Alvarez scored singles triumphs. Cano defeated Jaime Fillol, 6-3, 6-4, 7-5, and Alvarez beat Carlos Kirmayr, 6-4, 6-1, 6-1. The doubles matches in the best-of-five series will be played today.

BREAKS JERK RECORD

CAMAGUEY, Cuba (Reuter) — Cuban weightlifter Roberto Urrutia broke the world jerk record Thursday in the Cuba weight category by lifting 377 pounds in a national competition. The record was set last year by Richard Dargacher of Troit Union with 276 pounds.

Sabres Story Needs Rewrite

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

The Buffalo Sabres in the National Hockey League between Boston Bruins and Buffalo Sabres is becoming a distressingly familiar one for Buffalo supporters.

Friday night, for the second time in two days, the Sabres took a 3-1 lead against the Bruins and then collapsed in the Boston skate away with an impressive 4-3 victory.

In winning, the Bruins scored five unanswered goals in the last two period, including 16 fans at Buffalo.

Only last Saturday, the Bruins overcame an identical deficit in Buffalo for a 5-3 win move into a tie for the Adams Division lead with Buffalo.

The Sabres have Montreal Canadiens, Washington Capitals twice, Atlanta Flames and Philadelphia Flyers also was snowed out.

Buffalo coach Floyd Smith was fuming over his team's defeat.

"We got out of the game exactly what we put into it," he said. "Our passing was terrible again.

"And our defence? Whew, I never saw so many people open in front of our net. It was a joke."

Greg Sheppard scored two goals and Jean Ratelle, Wayne Cashman, Don Marcotte and Dave Forbes one each for the Bruins. Rick Martin, Craig Ramsay and Don Luce scored for Buffalo.

The Capitals might as well have sent goalie Bernie Wolfe out for a milkshake in the third period of their game at Landover, Md. Wolfe allow a shot in the final 20 minutes as the Stars tied an NHL record for offensive futility.

Defenseman Jean Pronovost had 13 shots in the first two periods but one of those, by Brian Herbert in the first period, stuck. Wolfe and cost the Capitals management money.

The Capitals had attracted a bigger-than-usual crowd of 11,281 fans with the promise they would be admitted free if the home team failed to win.

A third-period goal by Nelson Pyatt saved Washington from defeat. The Capitals have only three ties to show for their 15 in 12 games going back to Nov. 26.

"Yes they stunned me," Pyatt said.

Curt Bennett scored his 18th and 19th goals and assisted on a goal by Pierre Guite to lead Atlanta to a 4-1 lead and the presumption of victory for the visitors.

Pierre Larouche scored his 38th and 39th goals of the season and assisted on a goal by Rick Kehoe to move into a tie with the Islanders Bryan Trottier for ninth place in the NHL scoring race.

The Kings got first-period goals from Jim Fox, Terry Ruskowski and Mike Corrigan to beat the Sagis.

Tonight's NHL schedule has Atlanta at Pittsburgh, Los Angeles at Montreal Canadiens, Kansas City Scouts at Los Angeles, Vancouver at St. Louis Blues and Chicago Black Hawks at Toronto Maple Leafs.

On Sunday, Boston is at Philadelphia Vancouver at Detroit, Buffalo at Chicago and Kansas City at California.

Both Soviet Squads in Excellent Form For Game Clash with NHL Clubs

NEW YORK (CP) — Two high-powered Russian teams, now in form established with stars, are going to put eight National Hockey League clubs to the test starting this weekend.

The Central Army hockey team, champions of the Soviet Union 19 times, open the series Sunday night against New York Rangers, a rebuilt team trying desperately to make the playoffs in their division.

The Wings of the Soviets, bolstered by four stars from Moscow Dynamo including Alexander Yakushev, begin their half of the NHL series against Pittsburgh Penguins on Monday night.

Despite all the platitudes by NHL officials about what the series could mean for the future of hockey, the Russians are refraining from pinning themselves down to anything more than what will happen in the next two weeks.

Vladimir Svortsov, hockey commentator for Tass, the official Soviet news agency, made it clear that what he considers "an outstanding event in world hockey" will be the clash between Central Army and Philadelphia Flyers, the Stanley Cup champions, in the series finale Jan. 11 in Philadelphia.

"For this point, in effect, will determine the hockey future in the world," Svortsov said.

"What we are going to see in Moscow, Tampere, Helsinki most disciplined and talented hockey players in the centre Bobby Clarke of the Flyers.

Clarke, who therefore arrived in Montreal on Wednesday, they arrived in Moscow on Christmas Day tour of the Laurentians to illustrate at three-hour practice sessions at the Forum.

Svortsov says that the three Soviet teams — Central Army will play against the Rangers, Montreal Canadiens and Toronto Bruins — also are ambitious much interest both in the USSR and North America."

He says Wings of the Soviets are rightly called Boris Kulagin's team because he has been coaching the Moscow club for five years. Kulagin is the coach of the Russian national team in 1974.

In an interview with the Russian newspaper Trud, Kulagin said:

"We are aware of the tremendous stir around the forthcoming matches in the United States and Canada. Since the days of professional hockey in Canada, the prestige of the game promised very impressive bonuses to their players.

Actually, the NHL is paying all the Soviet team expenses for their trip and stay in North America, plus $25,000 for each game. The NHL also will pick up the tab of other country Soviet teams that might cut into their per-game flat fee.

The remaining revenue go to Soviet sports and the NHL Players' Association pension fund.

Kulagin said the Russians had reached an understanding with NHL president Clarence Campbell "that he will issue firm instructions to his men not to repeat the 'anti-hockey' they have shown in a number of Moscow encounters. On our part we guarantee correct play."

The games will be played under NHL rules except for sticks, and there will be two period of 20 overs. Vitkor Dombrowski and Yevi Karandin, who are considered Russia's best, and four NHL referees. The Russians will alternate as referees and linesmen.

Centre Phil Esposito of the Rangers, who played against Russia in 1972, predicts that there will be a lot of hard-checking Sunday night and he hopes both sides will bury their past "dirty tactics."

Esposito and Red Gilbert are the only Rangers who have played against the Russians. Esposito says the last thing the Rangers want is to lose to Central Army.

"We don't want to be the ones who've people will say, 'Hey the Rangers lost the first game to the Russian, the Army team.'"

Coach Ron Stewart said he will try to keep his active and his main problems by starting Jean Ratelle at centre Esposito and Steve Vickers against the Russian best trio of Boris Mikhailov, Vladimir Petrov and Valery Kharlamov, who scored 52 goals last season.

"I still maintain that in our corp we have to play them on a one-to-one situation," Stewart said.

In his report on the Wings of the Soviets, Tass writer Svortsov says the club, without the large Spartak reinforcements has "no stars of the first magnitude."

"The team won the national championship in 1974 and placed second last season mostly owing to good average standard of its players, their excellent form and the skill of coach Boris Kulgasin."

The Wings play Sunday against Chicago Black Hawks and New York Islanders in addition to Pittsburgh.

Flyers' Bite Worse Than Terriers Bark

BARRIE, Ont. (CP) — Doug Ross scored four goals to lead Barrie Flyers to their highest offensive output of the season — 19 6 win over Orillia Terriers — in Ontario Hockey Association action Senior A game Friday.

Pavel Bure scored four.

Jim MacPherson scored two goals.

Hornets Tie Khimiks

CAMBRIDGE, Ont. (CP) — Moncton Khimiks and Cambridge Hornets tied 4-4 in Maritime Hockey Association Senior A action Friday. The tie was the first in the opening game of the Soviet team's eight-game tour.

A crowd of more than 2,000 saw Vladimir Astafiev give the Khimiks a 1-0 first period lead. But Mike Doersam tied it for the Hornets 36 seconds into the second period.

Moncton made it 3-1 when Vladimir Golikov intercepted a Hornet pass and scored from the blue line. Doersam Don Vipond reversed the score before the period ended. The third period was a scoreless.

Moncton goaltenders Bob Dupuis and Gerry Gray faced a total of 27 blocker shots, while the Hornets tired 2 at Moncton netminder Alexander Pashkov. The Hornets took seven of 8 minor penalties.

The Khimiks of the Soviet first division, resume their tour Sunday in whitby against the Warriors, another Senior A team.

Boris Kulagin, Interpretor Blackburn's Quest Over

HARTFORD (AP) — Don Blackburn, a neophyte left wing who played for 13 teams in a professional hockey career, finally has found a home.

Kelley, 48, said he found his job "very taxing" and had no personal life or time at home. He said he resigned to return to Colby College in Waterville, his next season as hockey coach, a job he held from 1965 to 1967.

In its 18-year pro career spent mostly in minor leagues, Blackburn never played for the same team more than three years in a row.

"I got what I wanted," Blackburn said. "I wanted to finish my career as a player with the Whalers and even before this came up I had decided I wanted to live in Connecticut."

New England's managing general partner Howard Baldwin, who announced the coaching change, said Blackburn was given a contract for the rest of the season and next season.

After scoring in goals and 22 assists in 50 games for the Whalers last year, the veteran was not invited to return to training camp this season.

The Whalers added him to the team shortly after the season began, but he saw little action. His retirement as an active player will announced Friday.

He played only two full seasons in the National Hockey League and parts of four others. In 185 games with Boston Bruins, New York Rangers, Philadelphia Flyers, New York Islanders and Minnesota North Stars he had 23 goals and 41 assists.

He joined the Whalers in 1974 and played in 12 games that season.

The Whalers won the East Division crown in each of the WHA's first three seasons and in the first league title in 1973-72. Kelley said he had been playing up to those standards this season, despite their first-place position.

Kelley who recruited and signed the Whalers' first team and is still general manager, said he coach is very difficult. "I've followed the ladder," Kelley said at a news conference in Waterville. "You take your successes and your setbacks and finally I had done it all."

Kelley was the Whalers first coach and returned to the job during last season after Ryan collapsed during a road trip.

Rangers goal is to lose to Central Army.

"We don't want to be the ones who've people will say, 'Hey the Rangers lost the first game to the Russian, the Army team.'"

Coach Ron Stewart said he will try to keep his active and his main problems by starting Jean Ratelle at centre Esposito and Steve Vickers against the Russian best trio of Boris Mikhailov, Vladimir Petrov and Valery Kharlamov, who scored 52 goals last season.

"I still maintain that in our corp we have to play them on a one-to-one situation," Stewart said.

"The team won the national championship in 1974 and placed second last season mostly owing to good average standard of its players, their excellent form and the skill of coach Boris Kulgasin."

The Wings play Sunday against Chicago Black Hawks and New York Islanders in addition to Pittsburgh.

Wolves Pack Net in Second

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sudbury Wolves went on a scoring spree of seven unanswered goals in the second period and handed Kitchener Rangers a 9-4 loss in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action.

In other contests, Ottawa 67s edged Peterborough 7-6 in first and London Knights downed Kingston Canadians 7-3.

Play resumes tonight with Toronto Marlboros playing host to Windsor Spitfires. On Sunday, Kingston is in Kitchener, Hamilton Fincups travel to St. Catharines Black Hawks, Ottawa 67s meet Windsor Greyhounds in Sault Ste. Marie and London plays in Sudbury.

Sudbury's seven goals in Kitchener scrubbed the teams 3-3 tie in the first four minutes.

Captain Ron Duguay scored three second-period goals to lead the Wolves. Rod Schutt, Randy Carlyle, Brian Ahern, Wes Jarvis, Mike Foligno, Don McCarthy and Ken Walker added one each.

Peter Lachesi scored twice for Kitchener with Rod Lawrence and Barry Duench getting the other goals.

The Wolves outshot Kitchener 38-32 and took six of 11 minor penalties.

Peter Lee scored his fourth goal of the season on an empty net in the last minute of play to lead Ottawa in the home-ice win.

Jim Roberts and Bruce Baker scored the other Ottawa goals. The 67s led 3-0 until Peterborough scored its first goal at 14:25 of the second period.

Brad Pirie, with two, Mike Fryia and Steve Shand replied for the Petes, who outshot the 67s 38-25.

Kingston 7 Canadians 3

Playing before 3,047 spectators, the London Knights handed Kingston Canadians a 7-3 win.

Larry Murphy and Ken Linseman scored two goals to pace the Knights to a come-from-behind win.

Bob Gainey and Ken Linseman 3-0 lead in the first four minutes of the game. However, London scored three consecutive goals before the period ended to go ahead.

Other London goals went to Verne Stenlund, Rick Doyle, Rick Green, Rob Ramage and Dan Lastman.

Bob Parent scored the other goal for Kingston.

The Knights held a 41-36 margin in shots.

Bengals Aerial Attack Much Feared by Raiders

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Oakland cornerback Willie Brown sees the Raiders' game against Cincinnati Bengals as a simple one.

"Once we can stop the pass, everything will fall in place for us," he said, looking forward to Sunday's playoff game between the American Football Conference teams. "They may have the best of wide receivers in football."

The Bengals, who grabbed the AFC's wild-card berth with an 11-3 record, will be the game that gets the Raiders the Wild Card position title—are led by Ken Anderson, best passer in the National Football League for the second successive season.

Anderson's primary receivers are Isaac Curtis and running back Bobbie Clark.

Not that the Raiders are exactly slouches in the passing department. Ken Stabler directs the Oakland offense and has top-notch targets in Cliff Branch and Fred Biletnikoff.

Stabler takes a basic viewpoint into the game.

"We've got to get some long drives going and keep the ball away from Anderson and his bunch," he says.

The game is the list of four first-round games of the weekend. Earlier Sunday, Dallas Cowboys, the National Conference wild-card, visit Minnesota Vikings, champions of the Central Division.

Today, Baltimore Colts are at Pittsburgh Steelers in an AFC doubleheader. Cincinnati has made it into the playoffs only with a forfeit, losing out in the first round in both 1970 and 1973, the Raiders have been the best record in pro football since 1963, 136-45-11, and no Super Bowl championships to show for it.

But with a number of new players and Roger Staubach's shotgun quarterbacking, they bounced back into them for the ninth time in 10 seasons.

The Vikings are in the playoffs for the seventh time in eight years.

Minnesota's Frank Tarkenton set-performed Staubach as the top quarterback in the conference, shattering four of John Unitas' passing records along the way.

Chuck Foreman, who became Minnesota's first 1,000-yard rusher in single season, also caught 73 passes and 22 touchdowns to establish Viking records in those categories.

Robert Newhouse led Dallas rushers with 900 yards on 204 carries. Preston Pearson is the leading Cowboy receiver with 48 catches for 383 yards and eight touchdowns.

Both the Cowboys, who finished with a 10-4 record, and the Vikings, who were 12-2, were devoted off-season building programs.

Many experts predicted the Cowboys, hit hard by retirements and defections, to the new-defined World Football League, would miss the playoffs again as they did last season.

Stabler ranks in nine years with a 10-2 record in playoff games and an offence that was third statistically, the Bengals were second in the conference on and fourth in the conference on the ground.

CP News Roundup

Tugs Can't Budge Ship

TORONTO (CP) — Three tugs tried unsuccessfully Friday to move the 10,000-ton bulk freighter George M. Carl from the shallows of Lake Ontario just west of Toronto harbour.

The vessel ran aground Christmas night on its last run of the season, carrying soybeans to Toronto from Cleveland.

In the first attempt to move the 604-foot ship, a tow line became tangled in its propeller.

Scuba divers had to enter the freezing water to clear it.

A spokesman for Scott Misener Steamship Lines of St. Catharines, owner of the ship, said late Friday a larger tug was to be called in from Kingston, Ont.

He said there was no apparent damage to the ship, but gave no explanation for the accident. The ship's captain, Hector Cliff, only as M. Armstrong, refused to comment.

Card Firms Surviving

TORONTO (CP) — The Canadian Christmas card industry survived the recent 48-day postal strike, though some firms suffered financial setbacks, industry spokesmen say.

Rich Cairns, incoming president of Conti-Hallmark Cards, said in an interview Friday:

"For us, it's almost a normal year. We had to compress a six-week buying season into eight or 10 days, but it's fairly obvious people haven't lost the habit."

However, Regal Stationery Co., a Toronto company dealing mail-order business, said it had to lay off 150 persons from its staff of 400 because of a 30-percent decline in sales.

Physician Deported

SANTIAGO (AP)—British physician Sheila Cassidy, deported since Nov. 1, has been ordered to leave Chile by Dec. 29 the military government said Friday. Miss Cassidy, 31, was accused of treating a wounded leftist guerrilla leader and of sheltering other fugitive enemies of the military government.

Soviets Launch Super-jet

MOSCOW (Reuter)—The Soviet Union's TU-144 supersonic airliner, rival of the Anglo-French Concorde, lived up to its schedule Friday on what was billed as its first regular flight carrying freight and mail.

A spokesman at Moscow's Domodedovo Airport said the plane was in the air for less than four hours on its 5,000-mile flight from here to Alma-Ata in Soviet Central Asia and back.

The flight was postponed Thursday because of air traffic congestion, the state airline, Aeroflot, said. But the newspaper Trud said Friday that fog in Alma-Ata was the reason for the postponement.

Although the flights, due to take place twice a week, have been billed as the first commercial service by a supersonic jet, they are widely seen by Western aviation experts as a continuation of tests and sorties.

Soviet experts also are believed to be concerned about the question of noise levels, although at a news conference last week Deputy Aviation Minister Nikolai Bolkov suggested that it was only in the West that this problem was being raised.

Bolkov said the TU-144 will not be put into passenger service until the second half of 1976 at the earliest, and will then be used on internal routes. International routes are hoped for later.

Meanwhile, Concorde begins regular passenger service on Jan. 21 between Paris and Rio de Janeiro with Air France and between London and Bahrain with British Airways.

Bomb Found in Time

WILLOW SPRINGS, Ill. (AP) — A home-made bomb was found behind a travel agency Friday only minutes after more than 1,000 bargain hunters were evacuated from the crowded Willow Spring Shopping Centre in this Chicago suburb.

An anonymous telephone caller with a heavy accent warned a clerk at the store of the bomb.

Sgt. Robert Scruggs of the Cook County sheriff's office found the bomb hidden between the travel agency and a shoe. Scruggs drove to a pistol range, five-minute ride, with the bomb in his car then detonated it with a blasting cap. The result, said Willow Springs Police Chief Michael Corbitt, was "a hell of a blast."

"We were lucky," Corbitt added. "There were 30 stores, it was the day after Christmas and it was crowded."

PM: Free Enterprise Changes

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau agreed in a radio interview with CBC Friday that the anti-inflation program marks a change in the way the free-enterprise system operates in Canada.

The experience in Canada over the last 30 years with an economy "which seems never to be able to cure unemployment completely without causing inflationary spurts" make it obvious that something has to be changed, the prime minister said.

Asked if that meant changes in the way the free-enterprise system operates, Prime Minister Trudeau replied: "Undoubtedly it does . . ."

He said no one can point the way to a cure for unemployment without creating inflation has been unsuccessful and now "we see that, not only we haven't cured that difficulty but that each successive wave brings in a greater difficulty—higher unemployment with higher inflation. Obviously we have to change something, and that is what the government is doing."

He said a 30-year-old spoiled brat at a particular party was causing the high unemployment and high inflation.

"This is a phenomenon that all economists, all politicians and all sociologists interested in the development of the free world as we know it are concerned about," he said.

Mr. Trudeau's remarks were taped for the CBC program Sunday Magazine.

Coast Guard Says SOS Hoax

TRENTON, Ont. (CP) — The U.S. Coast Guard has officially called off a search for a vessel believed adrift on Lake Erie, calling the incident a hoax, a Coast Guard spokesman said Friday.

Capt. Tom Patterson of the rescue co-ordination centre here said a coast guard radio-direction fix determined that the distress signals, supposedly from a cabin cruiser in Canadian waters off Point Pelee in the western end of the lake, actually originated from a point near Zanesville, Ohio, about a hundred miles inland.

"The coast guard has evaluated it as a hoax," Capt. Patterson said. "The search has been called off."

He said Zanesville law officers were investigating the matter.

The distress signals began late Thursday afternoon. A 35-foot cabin cruiser with 10 persons aboard was alleged to be taking on water. Coast guard helicopters and a cutter were sent in high winds and blowing snow to search for the craft.

They found nothing, although the signals continued off and on through the night.

Charles Wendall, an Ottawa ham radio operator who monitored the signals Thursday night and Friday, said the vessel's captain identified himself to the coast guard as Carl Shaw.

Laundry Workers Upset

OTTAWA (CP) — The Canadian Union of Public Employees (CUPE) has asked Ontario Health Minister Frank Miller to confirm or deny "well-founded rumors" that Ottawa Civic Hospital's laundry will be closed in 1976, putting 70 people out of work.

A union spokesman said the Civic Hospital, which has recently let its laundry service, has been doing laundry service for Ottawa's west end hospitals and if it closes the laundry work will have to be contracted out.

He said this would give Ottawa Regional Hospital Linen Service a virtual monopoly on Ottawa hospital laundry work.

AS OF JANUARY 1, 1976 NEW CAR BUYERS

WILL BE OUT OF POCKET ANOTHER 7%

Under existing legislation Ontario new car buyers must complete their deal prior to January 1, 1976, to be eligible for the provincial government 5% Sales Tax rebate on most new models. At that time as well, the currently reduced provincial sales tax will revert to 7%.

You only have a short time left to save hundreds of dollars on the purchase of a new '76!

As they say, "All good things must come to an end", and the countdown has already started all across Ontario to end the Provincial Government's 5% sales tax Rebate on most new cars. As well, the current 5% sales tax is due to revert to 7%. The deadline is midnight, December 31.

After that, new cars are going to cost Ontario consumers everywhere a lot more, hundreds of dollars more.

There's still time for you to move up to a new model at a real saving. Now is the time for wise buyers to take action. Whether you're thinking domestic or import, full-size right through to subcompact, don't delay your buying decision, visit these reputable district dealers this week and compare. Every model in Town is competitively priced. Special deferred terms can be arranged and remember, your trade-in is probably worth much more than you think! Make this test drive week . . . do it now!

Births

BURLEY — Brian and Carolyn (nee Fraser) are proud to announce the arrival of their twin daughter Kimberly Dawn and Kelly Ann, born on Tuesday, December 23, 1975, weighing lbs., 10 ozs. First grandchild for Mr. and Mrs. Harold Fraser and Mr. and Mrs. Herb Burley.

In Memoriam

BURNS — In loving memory of a dear mother, who passed away on December 27, 1973.
Sweet Jesus, let her rest
Close beside you, safe and free
Where no sickness can molest her
Where no sorrow can come to me.
Loving thoughts shall ever wander
To the spot where I know she lies,
Heaven forgotten by mother and sister.

ALICANTE, Spain (Reuter) — Police in the Mediterranean town of Alicante are searching for a man with a broken leg in plaster who raced out of an emergency clinic without paying for his wheelchair.

While the hospital's cashier was preparing a $230 bill for medical attention and the purchase of the wheelchair, the man disappeared.

WASHINGTON (AP) — United States Agriculture Secretary Earl Butz has signed an official order which declares, among other things, that a previous order issued to declare a row of his memos obsolete is now obsolete itself.

The order, titled Secretary's Memorandum No. 1889, states that "a recent review of secretary's memoranda revealed that certain memoranda have become obsolete." Thus, the new memo said, "the following list of secretary's memoranda are declared obsolete."

Heading the list was memorandum no 1889 issued Aug. 28, 1975 which was the previous "obsolete secretary's memoranda." An agriculture department spokesman said that "presumably another memorandum will make the new obsolete memorandum obsolete" sometime in the future.

LONDON (Reuter) — A horse and rider lurched drunkenly through London's Hyde Park until the rider fell off and was arrested by being drunk while in charge of his animal.

Police Sergeant said he decided to take a ride on the horse after drinking too much at Christmas party.

He told a magistrates' court yesterday that the horse had also been given beer and whisky.

He was fined $10.

MUNICH, West Germany (Reuter) — When Grandma's baby fell sick she tried to get a new one by holding up the pet shop, a court was told Monday.

Police testified that the 62-year-old housewife had been withheld bought a Peking-ese in November for about $150. But she never grew really fond of it and when it became ill, she took it back to the pet shop.

The shop owner refused to exchange it or give her the money back. So grandma pulled a stone-firing pistol out of her handbag and ordered him to hand over the contents of the till.

RIO DE JANEIRO AP) — Mick Jagger, leader of the English rock group Rolling Stones, is here for a two-week vacation. Jagger was greeted on his arrival Monday by his wife, Bianca.

The Rolling Stones leader said he has "no plans" for the rest of his stay, but plans to perform in Brazil "in the near future."

Jagger is staying at the home of Brazilian actress Florinda Bucao two miles south of Rio.

NEW ORLEANS AP) — The robber who took $1,278 from a pizza stand here won't be hard to remember but he might be a little difficult to identify. He was wearing a gorilla mask as he jumped from behind a banana tree at the rear of the stand.

The bandit, dressed in black clothing and a trenchcoat, escorted at Michael Wadow, the 19-year-old cook, early Monday, saying something police quoted as "Arrrggghhhhh" and then "Hrrrrrrhhhhhh!"

Then the gunman slugged Wisdom with the shotgun, barricaded him in a walkin cooler with other employee in an attic and emptied the safe and cash register.

Police say they are sure they will get their gorilla.

"Don't worry about the gorilla," said officer Dyton Ruiz. "Tarzan is on the job."

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — Randolph Kantrowitz, star of the television series Emergency, had an emergency of his own Thursday when he inhaled carbon monoxide fumes from a faulty house heater and had to be rushed to hospital for treatment.

Manitowh, who plays the role of a paramedic—specially trained medical assistants—was himself brought in by a team of paramedics.

He was treated and then kept in the hospital for observation. His condition was listed as satisfactory.

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — Actress Sally Field, who portrayed Flying Nun on television, was sued Thursday for divorce by her husband, Steven Craig.

Craig, 39, a builder, gave "irreconcilable differences" as ground for the divorce and asked that Miss Field, 29, not be granted alimony.

He requested joint custody of their two children, Peter, 6, and Elijah, 2, and said he had already worked out a property settlement with his wife.

The two were married in Las Vegas in September, 1968, and separated last Nov. 6.—Her birthday.

Time at Premium In Eye Surgery

By G.C. Thosteene, MD

Dear Thosteene: I have been considering cataract surgery, but have been told there is plenty of time and no need to hurry. So I've been taking my time, considering the various methods of removal, and which would be best. I understand most of them, but can't find out much about a new one in which no surgery is needed and the cataract is dissolved by an enzyme, or something like that.

Do you know anything about this? J.E.V.

In the procedure you refer to the clouded material of the lens (the cataract) is liquefied and then drawn off. As I understand it, ultrasonic vibration is used.

You may learn that your eye doctor does not have this procedure in his surgical repertoire." It is relatively new, and apparently does not lend itself to use on all cataract patients. Its main advantage is a briefer recovery period. Let your doctor decide the appropriate method of removal in your case.

You are concerned about the time element. Cataract is one of the few medical problems that allows patient and physician the usual luxury of time.

Dear Dr. Thosteene: I have been moderately troubled by allergies most of my life. I seem to have allergic reactions to wheat, egg whites, milk products and chocolate.

I notice a definite reaction in my heart rate after eating these foods. Exercise doesn't seem to bother me, but the mental upset does. It causes my heartbeat rate to increase from 80 beats per minute to 90 per minute in the resting state. Also I notice skipped beats and some rapid beats during these periods.

Is there well-established medical experience with foods and allergies causing, or causing problems as erratic heart beats? — G.B.S.

There is hardly a part of the body that cannot react allergically, particularly to food allergens.

According to Claude A. Frazier in his book, Coping with Food Allergy, some specialists in the field believe that cardiac allergic reactions are quite common.

He adds that they are usually so mild as to be scarcely noticeable.

Also, there have been documented cases of rapid heart beats, as you describe, attributed to such allergic reaction. In other cases, angina pectoris seems to have been controlled by elimination of food allergy sources.

Dear Dr. Thosteene: My husband had prostate surgery seven years go. Since then one of his testicles has enlarged. He does not have any pain or discomfort, but it bothers him.

Is it unhappy about this since he has talked with other men who have had the same surgery and have had none of these problems. We would like to know if this is something that happens frequently after such surgery, and also what can be done about it. — Mrs. J.C.

The first thing he should do is have his doctor examine whether this is an enlargement in the testicle proper or an accumulation of fluid in the sac, called a "hydrocele." This can follow surgery of the prostate.

If it is fluid, this can be drained to give him some relief from the discomfort. One should not allow such symptoms as he reports to go unchecked at any time.

by Allen Spraggett

The Shrine of Glastonbury

Is there in England a shrine where the Christ child visited with Joseph of Arimathea?

The question arises from a visit I made to the ruined abbey at Glastonbury, England, where tradition says Jesus visited as a boy and where Joseph of Arimathea, the uncle of Jesus who provided the tomb for his body after the crucifixion, founded the first Christian church in Western Europe in 37 A.D.

This tradition is shrugged off by modern scholars as a pious fiction, a relic of the credulous Middle Ages. However, there are defenders of the Glastonbury tradition who argue that its claims are supported by evidence.

Well, is it possible that the young Jesus visited England, and that later his uncle, Joseph of Arimathea, planted there a church — and a thorn tree?

The "holy thorn," which was grown in the grounds of Glastonbury Abbey for as long as records have been kept, is a descendant of one said to have sprung up at that spot from Joseph of Arimathea's staff. It is of a type known as the "Levantine thorn," apparently common in the Middle East, and has the charming habit of flowering at Christmas.

The Glastonbury tradition says that when he was a boy, Jesus visited there with his Uncle Joseph who was a metal merchant and made frequent trips to the tin mines of Cornwall.

After Christ's death and resurrection, this same Joseph and a band of disciples travelled from the Holy Land to Glastonbury and there built a "wattle" church (one made of twigs and sticks) which was 60 feet long and 26 feet wide.

Following Joseph's death, this wattle church was encased in boards covered with lead to protect it. Later, in 566 A.D., a large stone church was built around it.

From this point, the tradition becomes firm history.

In 1184 a fire destroyed the ancient church at Glastonbury and it was rebuilt as a huge abbey housing many monks.

In 1539, Henry VIII, after his quarrel with the pope, closed the monasteries in England. It was the next century that the Puritans burned Glastonbury Abbey.

Today, all that remains are magnificent ruins, which have a stark, austere beauty of their own.

Further, the "evidence" for the Glastonbury tradition is indirect and seems merely to show that the claims are at least plausible. However, a late vicar of Glastonbury, the Rev. Lionel Lewis, had such faith in the tradition that he stated flatly: "The site of St. Mary's Church, Glastonbury, is the site of the earliest aboveground church in the world."

By comparison, he said, the first above-ground church in Rome, after the Christians gradated from the catacombs, wasn't built until around 100 A.D. — a full half century after the traditional founding of the Glastonbury church.

Historians generally hold that Christianity wasn't introduced into Britain until the ninth century. Not so counter defenders of the Glastonbury tradition. They cite the writings of such early church fathers as Tertullian and Origen, who lived in the second century and spoke of Britain as having already received the faith in their time.

Moreover, the tradition that the British church was founded by no less a personage than Joseph of Arimathea was no mere folk belief. It was allegedly upheld by such august church assemblies as the Councils of Pisa, Constance and Sienna, where precedence was accorded the English bishops on the grounds that Joseph of Arimathea carried the faith to Britain immediately after the Passion of Christ.

None of this proves anything, of course, except that the Glastonbury tradition is a venerable one, rooted in Britain's far past. But there are some further bits of evidence which make the tradition even more plausible.

Among Cornish tin miners it is accepted belief that Joseph of Arimathea was in the tin trade. That such a trade existed between England and the Middle East in the time of Jesus is well attested. Herodotus, as early as 445 B.C., knew of the British Isles as the Tin Islands.

Further, a British archeologist, Prof. Russel Forbes, had a piece of an ancient Roman drain-pipe dug up at Otlia, in Italy, analyzed, and the verdict was that the metal came from the mines of Cornwall.

Mr. Lewis, the Glastonbury vicar, claimed personal knowledge of a trading among the villagers near the Sea of Galilee that "as a youth Jesus came to England aboard a trading vessel of Tyre."

There is another, even more curious, chapter to the Glastonbury story — a psychic one.

In 1908, extensive digging was underway for still buried remnants of the abbey. The director of excavations, Frederick Bligh Bond, was frustrated by fruitless attempts to find the site of what was known as the Edgar Chapel, after the Saxon king in whose memory it was built. Then, Bond uncovered the site, in a remarkable way.

It was with a dead man's help. Or at least, so Bond said.

In a book about his uncanny experience, the archeologist told of meeting a British army officer, Capt. J. Allen Bartlett, who said he was receiving communications from someone claiming to be Johannes Bryant, a monk of Glastonbury who died in 1534.

It was a rap drawn by this amateur medium, said Frederick Bligh Bond, which led to the discovery of the lost chapel.

Saturday, Dec. 22

Aries (March 21-April 19) Your mood may vary well today in a situation where you share an interest, especially if it's a business arrangement.

Taurus (April 20-May 20) This is one of those days where it's better for you to learn up. You'll operate more effectively in doubtful ideas.

Gemini (May 21-June 20) Since you're a very good innovator today, try your hand at some of those do-it-yourself projects you've been eyeing.

Cancer (June 21-July 22) Go where the action is today. You'll be bolstered at being the centre of attention.

Leo (July 23-Aug. 22) Today you'll crave the company of others, especially in your own surroundings. Call a few friends. Ask them over for some chats and conversation.

Virgo (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) A good day to take care of paperwork you might be behind on. Write those letters you owe, or just bring your books up to date.

Libra (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) The Christmas season is not over! Don't be intimidated if someone pops up with an unexpected gift. They've been holding it until they were sure.

Scorpio (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Avoid sadding yourself with definite plans today. The things that come on the spur of the moment will be the most fun.

Sagittarius (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You're highly perceptive regarding business matters today. If you see an opportunity to make a profit, take advantage of it.

Capricorn (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Some information will be passed on to you by a friend today. It's something you're not familiar with, but it warrants a good, hard look.

Aquarius (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't be afraid of challenging situations today. You still have the edge on your opposition.

Pisces (Feb. 20-March 20) The good news from a distance you've been hoping for may come through today. Leave no word where you can be reached, or check in frequently.

Monday, Dec. 24

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Though your plans may take a little extra effort to implement today, put them into practice if you feel they're worthy and well thought out.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Be realistic in business dealings today. Insist upon having all pertinent information before making an agreement.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Stand behind promises you make today. Being a person of your word will help strengthen your image of reliability.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Before getting out the money for something that you now need, see what you can make do with what's at your disposal.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Situations under your personal management today will call for a firm hand. Face up to your responsibilities.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Let one who has been loyal to you in the past know that she can freely call upon you to help her with a problem.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) It won't put you in a bad light to ask advice or questions about something you feel you should know more about.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Be both prudent and practical in matters relating to your finances today. Protect your interests so that what's due you is not overlooked.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You may run into a situation today similar to one you've mastered in the past. Your experience and wisdom do good for others.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) If you've called upon to help someone today, do so in a manner that does not look like you're doing it just for praise.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Pals who seek your opinions today expect you to tell it like it is. Be tactful, but also lay the facts out as you see them.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) The next few days, devote maximum time to major priorities. Don't be afraid of rolling your sleeves up and working hard.

The reverse of the trump promotion play may well be called the trump demotion play. The man perpetrating this crime against the defenders tries to get one of them to waste an apparently valueless low trump on an unnecessary ruff.

South wins the heart lead with his queen. The five spades is a cinch, but South wants to make one more trick. An overtrick means 30 points in rubber bridge; it may mean a top score in duplicate play.

At trick two, South crosses to dummy's ace of diamonds to lead the ace of hearts, discards a low club and continues with king of hearts.

East doesn't think his decree of trumps is worth anything so he uses it to ruff that king. South overruffs, leads a trump, bumps the ace and king together and makes six for a top score.

Ask the Jacobys

A Florida reader wants to know what North should respond after South opens one spade and West passes. North holds:

♠ 9 8 6 ♥ — ♦ A J 9 8 7 6 4 ♣ Q 8 4 3

We don't know if our reader is pulling our leg or not since this hand appeared in our column recently. We stated that we would raise to two spades but would not criticize a two-diamond response. Incidentally, the hand was a real trouble hand and anything was going to lead to trouble.

Textile Industry Makes Recovery from Slump

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Canada's textile industry appears to be climbing back from a disastrous slump, the worst since the Second World War.

During the slump, that began late last year, the industry laid off more than 15,000 workers.

Most observers believe that the recovery, probably started by a reduction of overstocked inventories, will be slow but firm.

"There is month-to-month improvement, solid but not spectacular," said a spokesman for Celanese Canada Ltd. of Montreal.

The length or effectiveness of any turnaround will be linked to increased inventory costs, taxation of inventory profits, and working capital now depleted by losses during the slump.

As in past slumps the textile industry's tailspin was blamed chiefly on the flood of imports from low-wage countries which further eroded the domestic market for Canadian manufacturers.

In 1968, Canadian textile plants served 79 per cent of the domestic market. Last year the figure has dropped to about 67 per cent.

In addition the Canadian industry pays the highest wages in the world for textile workers, averaging $4 an hour, and this affects its competitive position both here and abroad.

For example, United States textile workers earn an average $3.25 an hour and have paid holidays.

While most sectors of the industry are on the upswing again and workers are being called back to return to the mills, some areas are still hurting.

The acrylic yarn business as well as double-knit and stay-knit fabrics seem to be being adversely affected by imports.

Mills involved with worsted-fabric production are cutting back again at near-capacity, chiefly because of a shortage of wool, suddenly shot up in price.

George Dowbiggin, secretary-treasurer of Yarnico Holdings Ltd. of Montreal, said high import duties are hurting the acrylics.

He said the federal quota of 8.5-million pounds a year was ridiculous, adding that domestic plants were being hard hit by imports of bulk acrylic yarns from Korea, Taiwan and Hong Kong.

"If a garment comes in, it means we can't sell a pound of yarn," he said. "If yarn comes in there is no way we can sell our competitive yarns, their prices."

His company has laid off workers and has not run at capacity in its plants in Ste. Agathe, Que., and Grand'Mere, Que., for 18 months.

Malcolm Paul, president of Leach Textiles Ltd. of Montreal, said another major problem is lack of skilled workers.

Leach, which manufactures worsteds for men's suits and slacks, has been operating at less than capacity for lack of staff.

"We have 120 looms, but 30 are not operating because we can't get weavers, so we have to run overtime on 90 looms."

Another problem, he said, is the difficulty of coping with what he described as "erratic Asian pricing."

He said if Japanese and Korean producers want to sell in a market, "they simply decide what price will get it for them, and sell it."

"They don't seem to have any pricing policy related to costs."

Industry officials claim federal tariffs are only superficial the situation by leaving them vulnerable to imports.

Ottawa has promised to review the Textile and Clothing Board Act to determine if it needs to be improved.

Meanwhile, Ottawa is accused of taking too long to act on complaints of dumping, and of being too soft when they do take action.

Industry leaders like Ronald Parsons, president of Dominion Textile Ltd., are always eager to express their views on the sensitivity of the Canadian industry to foreign imports.

He said recently that when producers in low-wage countries need sales, they move quickly into the relatively open Canadian market.

"So we try completely at the mercy of those other countries to ship any amount," he said.

"In certain textile fabrics, there is no quota. When quotas are set, they are often so high as to prove little restraint. The polyester cotton cloth, with a yarn, for example, is far, far in excess of what Japan has ever shipped to Canada."

Critics also complain that Ottawa seldom uses measures available to it under the General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade (GATT), which seeks to free international trade by building in quotas that increase by at least six per cent a year.

They say that instead of applying an embargo or action in GATT provinces, Ottawa invariably chooses to negotiate restraints with an offending nation.

"Regulation of highly volatile markets requires something more solid than we have now," Mr. Perrone said.

Many measures have been suggested to stabilize the industry but the key one may be the campaign to have the government negotiate long-term quotas.

Quotas currently are in force for only one year, but the industry would like to have them for five-year agreements.

"Canada is almost the only industrialized country that does not make use of long-term agreements in textile trade with low-cost supplying countries," said William Perry, director of economic services for the Canadian Textiles Institute.

"More and more, as other major textile producers have observed into long-term agreements, the low-cost exporters will find themselves wanting to move short-term surpluses here.

"Canada is used as a surge tank."

A spokesman for the federal department of industry, trade and commerce said the government is opposed to making so-comprehensive agreements covering all textile imports because under GATT, only demonstrated injury is a specific line justifies putting in protection.

But industry spokesmen say the government trades off its textile interests for concessions in exp.rt of wheat, coal or nuclear reactors.

"Canada also puts an undue emphasis on selling its wheat overseas of the world," said Mr. Perry.

The department spokesman said however, that the government must look at the country's economic and international trade as a whole, not from the view of one part of it.

"It would not say we're blind," the spokesman said. "I would just say we're not reckless."

Soviets Move to Grant Mathematician Freedom

MOSCOW (Reuter) — Soviet authorities have asked the wife of a dissident mathematician held in a prison psychiatric hospital to hand in an application for an exit visa on her husband's behalf, it was learned Friday.

Nobel Peace laureate Andrei Sakharov told Western reporters here that visa authorities in Kiev, the Ukrainian capital, the communication Thursday to the wife of Leonid Plyushch, 35.

"We saw this as good news and believe it is a result of the international campaign on his behalf," Sakharov said.

Plyushch, a Ukrainian, was arrested in 1972 on charges of anti-Soviet agitation. He was committed to a special psychiatric hospital the following year. The case aroused wide spread publicity in the West.

Sakharov said Tatyana Plyushch told him by telephone that the authorities gave her no definite indication whether her husband will be permitted to leave the country once she has filed the application.

Occupied Federation Proposed

PARIS (Reuter) — Israeli Defence Minister Shimon Peres has proposed a form of federal government for Israel's occupied territories as a solution to the Palestinian problem.

In an article written by him for the evening newspaper France-Soir, Peres says Israel should start talks with Palestinian leaders on the west bank of the Jordan and the Gaza Strip but not with the Palestine Liberation Organization (PLO).

"We cannot enter into relations with the representatives of an organization whose aim is still the liquidation of the Jewish state," Peres says in the article.

However Israel should offer "constructive solutions" by starting talks with local Palestinian leaders in the occupied territories and giving the territories increased local autonomy, he says.

"Then a new era could begin: the establishment of what might be called a 'European formula,' with a common market, open frontiers and the formation of a regime on three levels—municipal, regional and governmental," he says.

The minister said that under this system, local authorities would deal with purely local matters and regional authorities would deal with everything else except defence and foreign affairs.

"Representatives would be elected to a parliament, in which all the inhabitants of the districts and regions would take part. There would be a government, responsible to a parliament elected by all those who accepted Israeli citizenship."

U.S. Spy Assassination Hurts Greek Relations

ATHENS (AP) — The assassination of Richard Welch, said to be the senior Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) operative in Greece, has jolted Athens, working to improve deteriorated U.S.-Greek relations of the last 18 months.

Officials in both countries, however, for the time being regard Welch's murder as a isolated incident not likely to upset mending relations. But they caution, senior diplomats in the U.S. embassy now receiving special police protection.

A Greek government official said Wednesday, gunned down by three masked men as he returned from a Christmas party night, appeared to have been "a very special target . . . It is hitters apparently him, were aware of his movements."

Welch, officially described as a U.S. embassy official, has been identified by Greek news media and by sources in Washington as the Athens station chief of the CIA.

Supanov was suspected of being an operative for the KGB, the Soviet secret police.

Advanced cellular genetics information such as that discussed at the symposium is considered crucial to developing more potent germ warfare weapons, to breed new mutant strains of bacteria and viruses against which people have no physiological defences.

Anderson said Supanov conceded "that he had spoken to U.S. scientists and that the information he sought could be used for both positive and negative purposes. But he insisted his interest was purely "positive."

Under a UN convention, both the United States and the Soviet Union have pledged to destroy their stocks of biological weapons.

Congressional investigators disclosed in September that the U.S. Central Intelligence Agency (CIA) was still retaining lethal toxins. But Anderson said the CIA now has complied with a presidential order to destroy the toxins.

Soviets Making Germs In Treaty Violation ?

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Soviet Union has stepped up efforts to produce lethal germ weapons, violation of a United Nations agreement against biological warfare, columnist Jack Anderson reports.

Citing top intelligence sources, Anderson said a Washington-based Soviet diplomat specializing in medical matters has contacted U.S. officials in prvious information" in the past about three U.S. government scientists.

The Anderson account said Dr. Vyacheslav Supanov, medical counselor at the Soviet embassy, learned of an American symposium on so-called genetic engineering and later "began courting some of the U.S. scientists who had attended."

Anderson said: "His efforts to elicit information that could help the Soviets advance their germ warfare research were obvious. Some of the Americans, therefore, spoke to the security office of the National Institutes of Health. The FBI was notified."

The columnist quoted intelligence sources as saying

Threatened Rockefeller, Woman to Stand Trial

LOS ANGELES (AP) — A woman charged with carrying a concealed dagger near Vice-President Nelson Rockefeller as he waited in his car Dec. 5 was ordered Friday to stand trial in Superior Court next month.

Christine Nicholson, 43, was arrested after she called herself Lynette Fromme, police said, and made accusations about President Gerald Ford and Rockefeller.

Officers said they found the 5½-inch dagger after noticing its handle sticking out of her purse.

Rockefeller, participating in a White House public forum on domestic policy, had just left the Transamerica building downtown and stopped into a limousine to the incident occurred, police said. The vice president was unaware of the incident at the time.

Municipal Court Commissioner Richard Marquis on Jan. 9 for a hearing to set a date for trial.

Mrs. Nicholson is being held in lieu of $2,500 bail.

Korean Dissidents Get Stiff Jail Terms

SEOUL (AP) — A court convicted 27 students and three other persons of actions against the authoritarian government of South Korea President Chung Hee Park and sentenced them to terms of up to four years in prison.

It brought to 91 the number of persons, most of them students, convicted of violating Park's decree last spring outlawing virtually all kinds of anti-government activity.

Most of those sentenced today had demonstrated with several hundred other persons at Seoul National University on May 27 on behalf of a fellow student who committed suicide to protest Park's policies.

Four of the students were convicted of writing articles in a school paper that "criticized and defamed the constitution for the purpose of instigating anti-government sentiment among fellow students."

Lee Pu-young, 33, a reporter with South Korea's largest newspaper, Dong-A Ilbo, was sentenced to one year in prison for disseminating a church bulletin and newspaper clippings critical of the government.

Lee is a leader of about 100 newspaper men who have been on strike at his newspaper since March demanding freedom of the press.

Magazine Finds Nazi In Argentine Resort

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — The weekly magazine Gente says it has located Walter Kutschmann, a former Nazi German officer accused of executing a Polish Jews in 1941.

The magazine says the other wanted man is living with his American-born wife in the resort town of Miramar, 300 miles south of Buenos Aires and has admitted he is Kutschmann. His wife was not named.

Last June, Argentine police briefly detained a man suspected of being Kutschmann. He was using the name Pedro Ricardo Olmo and was the sales manager for Osram—an Argentine subsidiary of a West German electrical manufacturing company.

The 61-year-old Olmo was a German who had been living in Argentina since 1947 and had taken Argentine citizenship.

He was released after being questioned by police and subsequently was dismissed by Osram.

A Gente reporter Alfredo Serra, wrote that he talked to the man who said he was Kutschmann. He says the man told him he feared for his life because "in Argentina there are 60,000 armed men willing to kill me."

Judge Wants Ouellet to Explain Remarks about Sugar Case

MONTREAL (CP) — Federal Consumer and Corporate Affairs Minister Andre Ouellet was ordered on order Sunday to appear before Mr. Justice Kenneth Mackay Jan. 8, to explain remarks he made about the judge, said lawyer Richard Holden.

The remarks made by Mr. Ouellet followed the acquittal by Mr. Justice Mackay in Court of Queen's Bench of three Eastern Canadian sugar refiners charged under the Combines Act.

Mr. Holden, who said he has been appointed ad hoc prosecutor in the "unique" case, said Mr Ouellet told him earlier Sunday he had not read the order, but passed it on to his lawyers.

When Mr. Justice Mackay handed down the acquittal Dec. 19, the minister called it "a complete disgrace" and "completely unacceptable".

Mr. Holden said the citation read in part.

"Whereas these false, abusive, intemperate and reprehensible statements, all of which were given the widest publicity throughout Canada and the United States and elsewhere, be made, were calculated to bring the court and the judge of the court into contempt and lower its authority; to bring disrespect on the administration of justice and undermine the confidence of the general public in the manner in which justice is being administered in Canada."

Mr. Holden said journalists who reporter Mr. Ouellet's comments regarding the judge would be called as witnesses.

The judge had acquitted Redpath Industries Ltd., Atlantic Sugar Refineries Co. Ltd. and St. Lawrence Sugar Ltd. of conspiracy to fix prices and discuss competition in the sugar industry in six properties between 1969 and 1971.

After a 16-month trial, including testimony from more than 60 witnesses in Europe, India, South Africa and the U.S., as well as in Canada, Mr. Justice Mackay ruled the prosecution had not proved beyond a reasonable doubt that the companies were guilty of the offences.

Mr. Ouellet then said he would ask the justice minister to appeal the decision.

372 Feared Dead

Coal Mine Rescue May Take 10 Days

NEW DELHI (AP) — Officials say it may take 10 days to drain the flooded coal mine in northeastern India where at least 372 trapped miners are feared dead.

Prime Minister Indira Gandhi said "everything humanly possible is being and will be done to rescue the workers" trapped Saturday by an explosion and subsequent flooding in the Chasnala colliery 160 miles northwest of Calcutta.

Mines Minister Chandrajit Yadav said it will take 500 rescue workers and five pumps 10 days to remove the 110 million gallons of water he estimated were in the flooded shaft.

Officials said Mrs. Gandhi has asked several other countries to send rescue and pumping equipment. But they acknowledged it would be a miracle if any of the men survived.

High-powered pumps sucked water from the mine Sunday while the grieving wives of the trapped men remained at home, certain their husbands were dead.

The attendance register at the government-run mine indicated that 177 miners were in the shaft at the time of the explosion. But officials of the mine workers' union said men from the previous shift may still have been below, and that as many as 700 workers might be missing.

Officials said the 1,250-foot-deep shaft was filled with water to within 150 feet of the surface, and most of the miners would have been working in the lower levels. But Yadav said some might have been saved by air pockets.

Unofficial reports said the explosion was due to accumulated gas and that it caused the miner's walls to buckle, opening a passage for water from an abandoned shaft to flow into the No. 3 shaft 90 feet away.

Yadav said the old shaft had not been worked for 30 years and served as the water supply for the surrounding area. As the pumps removed water from the shaft, trucks brought drinking water for the town of 4,000.

The worst previous mine disaster in India occurred 33 years ago when 225 miners died in a cave-in.

The government's Indian Iron and Steel Co., which operated the mine, said it will pay the family of each victim two months' pay, the equivalent of about $120.

The government took over the Chasnala mine three years ago following charges of mismanagement and bad mod-

Carrying Place Road

Dumped Apple Pulp May Be Spoiling Nearby Water Wells

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — The FBI operation on the Carrying Place Road may be making water in surrounding private wells undrinkable but the plant has received no pollution control inspections since it opened three year ago, said a spokesman for the ministry of environment (MOE), Friday.

The apple juice plant, has been dumping mounds of apple pulp in pastures behind the building and letting liquid waste settle in a large pit and this may be causing the well pollution said Gord Thom, Industrial abatement officer, Kingston.

"The plant should have been inspected more than the one time immediately after construction was completed, perhaps three or four times a year during its operating season, but we have had a tremendous workload," said the spokesman. "Other inspections were rated a higher priority," he said.

MOE inspectors have ordered the company to eliminate the pit for the liquid drainage and to rectify the apple pulp problem but said them have to wait until an executive from the Montreal head office comes to Trenton to deal with the problem, said the ministry spokesman.

MOE became aware of the problem when homeowners on the Murray Township side of Carrying Place Road complained that their wells, some in use for as long as 50 years, had become spoiled.

All of the homeowners involved have had to carry drinking water to their homes in bottles. One of the homeowners has had to install more than $3,000 worth of filtering equipment but this has still not improved the situation enough to allow him to drink the water.

Peter Carsley, a former official for the plant, owned by Montreal based Fisher Brothers, said there was nothing illegal about the pulp because the waste has been buried and used as fertilizer.

The spokesman for the MOE said this was not the situation at the plant where the apple waste has been piled high with no apparently attempt to plow the pulp under.

"The land for the plant was originally owned by Murray Township but was annexed to Trenton specifically for the FBI operation. The homeowners have complained that they were never forewarned of the impending annexation so they could not voice objections to the exchange. Under municipal code only landowners involved in an annexation need be notified of such an occurrance.

The spokesman for the MOE said the plant has the proper controls to prevent air pollution but the homeowners claim this has also been a problem during the warmer months.

"I can't open my windows when they are operating," said Nick Fraser, one of the homeowners. "I have complained to the plant manager, three years ago, the mayor of Trenton, and the MOE and still the smell continues.", he said.

Undrinkable Water

Babe James, a homeowner on the Carrying Place Road near the FBI Food plant, Trenton, displays a bottle of water taken from his well. Mr. James said the well has been in use for more than 20 years until the water became undrinkable. Water in drilled wells surrounding the FBI plant has all become spoiled.

Trenton Services

Homeowners Face High Water Costs

TRENTON — Homeowners along the Carry Place Road whose wells have become fouled asked for services from Trenton but were told the cost may be very high, said Babe James, one of landowners.

Mr. James approached the Trenton Public Utilities Company and said he was told he would have to bear the cost of installation of pipes to his house from the Trenton water main across the road, a $300 hookup fee and would probably be charged three times the Trenton service rate.

The services were extended to accommodate the FBI plant when the land was annexed from Murray Township.

Currently, the homeowner with fouled wells have been transporting drinking water home in bottles and plastic containers.

News Briefs

No Impaired Drivers

TORONTO (CP) — A Metropolitan Toronto police program of spot checks for drinking drivers stopped 3,000 motorists between Dec. 24 and Dec. 26, without turning up any impaired drivers, police said Sunday. A department spokesman said the spot checks apparently have made people travelling long distances realize they should not drink and drive. However, he said, persons going short distances are still driving, but on back streets.

India Delays Election

NEW DELHI (Reuter) — India's governing Congress party decided today that general elections, due by next March, will be delayed for at least one year. The party's national conference, which opened today in a tiny village near the Punjab capital of Chandigarh, said it will extend the life of the Lok Sabha, or lower house, for a year.

Major Offensive Expected

JOHANNESBURG (Reuter) Soviet - backed forces in Angola are expected to launch a major offensive against their Western-supported rivals early in the New Year, Western diplomatic sources said today. The aim will be to win as much ground as possible before the Organization of African Unity (OAU) holds its special meeting on the Angola civil war in Addis Ababa on Jan. 10. The meeting might call for withdrawal of all foreign forces from Angola.

Israel, Egypt Negotiate

TEL AVIV (AP) — Israeli and Egyptian army officers met in a United Nations tent today to negotiate terms for a new Egyptian surveillance station in the Sinai desert. A dispute over the station near Gidi Pass has delayed a final stage of a Sept. 1 truce worked out by U.S. State Secretary Henry Kissinger. Preliminary work on the station was to have started Sunday, but the dispute prevented the Egyptins from moving into the zone, now held by Israeli forces who are to withdraw by Feb. 22.

Beirut Looters Took Poison Food

BEIRUT (AP) — The Lebanese government warned looters today that they carried off poisoned food and deadly gas from a government warehouse they pillaged.

The gas, an insecticide spray, was in metal containers that were stolen during the looting of the warehouse Saturday, the government said.

"Just opening them can raise the direct danger of death," said the warning from the information ministry published in newspapers.

The announcement also warned that beans, lentils, rice, flour, sugar and cocoa hauled off by the looters had been sprayed with "toxic products" to protect them from rodents and insects.

"The effect of these toxic products remains for at least 10 days," it said.

A ministry official said the gas "would not kill anyone but would cause sickness. There have been no reports of victims," he said.

Armed looters smashed a wall of the warehouse and carried off food worth $3 million. The looters opened up with machine guns and rocket grenades to drive off security forces who tried to intervene.

Suspect Remanded To Jan. 6

DARTMOUTH, N.S. (CP) — Allan Craig MacDonald, 22, a burly Elmsdale, N.S., construction worker, was remanded in custody until Jan. 6 and ordered to undergo a medical examination when he appeared in court today on a charge of murder.

MacDonald, charged earlier with murder punishable by hanging in the shooting last week of Dartmouth detective Eric Spicer, looked pale and nervous as he was led into the crowded courtroom.

The bearded MacDonald, accompanied by two officers, was remanded to the Halifax County Correctional Centre by Provincial Judge Kenneth Crowell. No plea was entered.

A defence lawyer suggested that the court had the authority to ban reporting of the formal arraignment under a section of the Criminal Code which prohibits publication of evidence at a preliminary hearing. But Judge Crowell rejected the suggestion although he said he would certain such a motion when the case reaches the preliminary hearing stage.

Windows Smashed

The holiday spirit was lost on vandals during the weekend as they chose windows as targets in two Belleville accommodation establishments and wrought an estimated $400 total damage.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today someone using a type of firearm smashed three windows at the Sun Valley Motor Inn at 497 North Front St.

Chief Crosbie said the incident, which resulted in an estimated $350 damage, occurred sometime late Friday or early Saturday.

An unknown person with a heavy foot kicked out a door window at the Quinte Hotel at the corner of Bridge and Pinnacle Sts. at 1:44 a.m. Sunday, he said.

He said a waitress witnessed someone commit the offence and then escape on foot. Damage was estimated at $150.

Snow Parking

At least one motorist stayed too long at Quinte Mall. He's still to feel the brunt of weekend snow that fell on the Quinte area when he goes to retrieve his car from under the pile left by snowplows clearing the mall parking lot.

Bartenders Have Several Suggestions To Ease New Year's Day Hangover

BY CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

The best cure for pains of the day after is to avoid drinking the night before.

For those who cannot avoid over indulgence during the holiday season The Intelligencer did a survey of local bartenders to find out what they suggest to get rid of a hangover.

"The man who invents a cure to the hangover will be a millionaire," says Carol Knight, bartender at Sun Valley Motor Inn, North Front St.

But, until a real cure is discovered, she suggests tippleers try taking two aspirin with a glass of milk before they start an evening of indulgence.

For those who lack the fortitude to practice abstinence or don't partake of preventative concoctions she suggests a Sazerac Cocktail for the day of the hangover.

Its made of 1½ ounces of Pernod, half an ounce of Cointreau, a dash of soda, a dash of bitters and one ice cube.

"Its supposed to kill the pain. I've tried it. It works. It'll kill just about anything."

Cathy Wilcox, bartender at the Terrace Lounge at Four Seasons Hotel, suggest drinkers have a good meal before bed and a couple of aspirins.

"If you have something to eat before you go to bed it won't hurn up the alcohol," said Mr. Wilcox.

"Don't drink," says Lou Wells, bartender at Mediterranean Dining Lounge on North Front St.

If you are going to drink, he said never start off with an empty stomach. He suggest starting the evening with a drink of something with a cream base.

Before you go to bed, he says, try toast and honey with vitamin C tablets and coffee or milk. Drink lots of liquids before bed, said Mr. Wells and tomato juice is best for the day after.

George Haggis, bartender at Crystal Hotel, 310 Front St., says he's heard drinkers suggest flat beer for the morning after "I have no idea what its supposed to do."

He said the best thing to do in the morning is have a good meal and lay off the drinking for a day.

"Eat well, drink cautiously and you'll have a good evening there's no prize in the bottom of the bottle," said Mr. Haggis.

He said he's also heard customers suggest olive oil before one starts drinking.

Vincent Hancock, bartender at the Belevedere Hotel, 300 Front St., says drinkers should have a glass of milk before they begin and the next morning have a good breakfast and tomato juice because it cleans out the digestive system. Rye bread, or any heavy bread, he said is good for the next day as it soaks up the alcohol.

Don Hitchard, bartender at Dorfer's Hotel, 227 Station St., said he' heard drinkers suggest milk or cream or ice cream before drinking to prevent a hangover the next day.

"I've never tried it," said Mr. Hatchard.

Annual Toy Drive Aids 431 Families This Year

Mittens, 960 pair.
Hockey sticks, 500 Pucks, 270.
Panty hose, 20 dozen.
Games for young teen-agers, six dozen.
And candy, 500 pounds.

And that's what the Association purchased before stuffing out boxes of toys to 431 families before Christmas this year.

That's over 1,300 children ranging from age one to about 18 who did not go without toys this Christmas.

As far as toys are concerned, says Stanley Uens, co-ordinator for the 1975 firefighter's toy drive, we're one of the biggest Santa's in the city.

For weeks prior to Christmas, men at both fire halls collected toys, mostly used from employee groups, various organizations and individuals.

It was no small task. The student's association at Loyalist College, for example, supplied 2,700 pounds of toys, all collected during a three-day drive.

"They're the only ones that have a real big one," said Mr. Uens Saturday. The remaining toys are dropped off (at fire halls) by individuals, or are collected by the firemen from small groups, like boy scouts or girl guides, or at schools.

The used toys are then repaired by firemen, or groups, such as a class at Tyne dalls, and packaged and given to the city's needier families.

If we had to purchase everything, said Mr. Uens, it would likely cost a minimum of $15 per family.

As' it is, the firefighters spend between $2,000 and $4,000 to buy toys that cannot be obtained used.

Premium for repair, storage and packaging of toys were donated by local merchants.

This Christmas, more toys were delivered in Belleville than in 1974 when about 380 families and about 1,250 children received gifts.

Why the increase? Mr. Uens couldn't give a reason, speculating however that as Belleville grows so does the need.

Some people, just married and with a child, may just not be able to afford Christmas toys, he said. Others, may just be faced with a continuing chronic need, he said.

Park Staff Active During Winter Months

By TERRY SPRAGUE
Staff Correspondent

OUTLET — Sandbanks and Outlet Provincial Parks are under a blanket of snow these days and the campers who filled the 480 camp sites here last summer now have their tents folded up for the winter and their trailers winterized. But both parks are far from being in hibernation this winter.

This weekend, both parks enjoyed visitation from a wide variety of winter enthusiasts. Perhaps most conspicous were the snowmobilers. Although snowmobiling is prohibited on Sandbanks Park, it is permitted in Outlet Park, on the main roads only, stressed park superintendent, Robert Davidson.

Elsewhere, outdoor lovers were enjoying cross country skiing, sleight riding, bird-watching, photography or just walking, as they basked in the fresh snow, bright sunshine and crisp air.

At least one hardy soul decided to challenge the rigors of winter and is spending part of his vacation in his trailer in the park's camping area. Thomas Seens of Ambersteview, a painter by trade, spends his winter holidays "park-hopping" and usually leaves Outlet by Jan. 1 every year to enjoy the remainder of his vacation in other Ontario parks, says assistant park superintendent, James Ives.

For the park's staff, work goes on even during the winter. Time to lose hundred cords of wood have just been cut to provide the camp site wood supply. Over one miles of snow fence has been erected along the beach to prevent excessive drifting.

Also on the winter's agenda, said Mr. Davidson, is going over the budget. Some staff members he said, have also take a course this winter at Dorset involving park management.

As part of the summer's interpretive program, the Cedar Sands Nature Trail, the park's only established walking trail, is being improved and extended to one mile.

Enjoying the View

Wayne and Fay Boivin of Belleville, avid cross country skiers, enjoy fresh snow fall this weekend at Outlet Park. Park officials say they have been busy readying the grounds for next summer.

Youth Charged

A 17-year-old, RR 1 Plainfield youth has been charged by the Tweed police with failing to report an accident following a hit-and-run accident, Saturday at 11:45 p.m. in front of Wilf and Mary's Restaurant.

Police said damage to an unattended vehicle owned by Brian McConnachie is estimated at $200.

Kevin Winter of RR 1 Plainfield has been charged with failing to report an accident.

Car, Cow Collide

DESERONTO — A 25-year-old Toronto man, Guy Beaulieu, escaped injury Friday night when the vehicle he was driving was in collision with a cow owned by Barry Hinesman of RR 2, Picton.

Picton OPP said the mishap which occurred 1½ miles west of the Quinte Skyway Bridge resulted in $400 damage to the car.

Demand for Christmas Food Hampers Almost Unchanged from Last Year

Over 200 needy families in Belleville shared approximately $10,000 in food this Christmas, courtesy of the Christmas Sharing Program.

Program chairman Betty Maloney, said this weekend "we expected a few more than that (210), but we were very, very selective."

Program staff did not accept names for Christmas food hampers without some investigation, she said, adding, however, that "no one that I know of went without dinner."

But she still is worried that some people who really need those less bold in asking for help—were missed.

The staff had anticipated providing about 500 hampers, up from the 503 in 1974, but the demand did not materialize.

Over 270 hampers were made up and delivered in 1975 when the program ran under the auspices of the Central Volunteer Bureau.

Hampers this year were provided by schools, individuals and various social and religious groups. Names of the needy were supplied by churches, the County Social Services Department and the Children's Aid Society.

Mrs. Watson said schools, mainly students and staff, delivered 146 hampers. The Christmas Sharing Program itself, through donations, assembled about another 100.

Hampers were valued from $18 for two people, to $25 for a five person family. Mrs. Watson said $2 worth of food was added for each family member above the five.

This Collector Takes New Hobby Seriously

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

Boots MacAllister may not take the shirt from your back but he'll certainly offer to buy your buttons, badges and medals.

A year ago he and his wife, Gladys, began collecting military items.

"It started as a hobby and got too big," said the curriculum at Quinte secondary school. He operates a store, The Gem Shoppe, dealing in military collectables out of his home at Oak Hill Lake, RR 4 Stirling

"I've traded from coast to coast," said Mr. MacAllister. On Sunday he was at Pembroke Flea Market with a portion of his collection.

He said he got started in the hobby because of his brother and sister. His brother has gathered military items for more than 30 years and his sister specializes in military items in a Vancouver antique store

"Its like any hobby. Once you're bit you stay bit I guess," he said.

Mrs. MacAllister collects collar badges because she wanted to get interested in her husband's hobby. "It's interesting. You've got to do a lot of reading to find out what the badges are. You've got to do a lot of research."

Mr. MacAllister started out in the hobby just assume by spending more than a week reading his brother's books on military collectables. He says he now has more than $1,000 worth of books which he also trades.

He specializes in collecting British regiment badges and has all but eight out of 135. He also specializes in Queen's Own Rifles and Stormont Dundas and Glengary Highlanders badges.

"It's an expensive hobby," said Mr. MacAllister.

Individual badges cost between $2 and $135. A cluster of military buttons can cost more than $300. If a collector can find a Victoria Cross offered for sale it would cost him about $10,000 he said.

He's also interested in uniforms. He has ten. He also has about 50 tunics.

"I'm interested in anything. You have to be," said Mr. MacAllister.

"Its so late in life to get started collecting so I have to move as fast as possible. I've done amazingly well in a year."

And he's learned to be on the watch for reproductions said as authentic medals: "You have to be very careful."

Fakes, he said, lack the weight of real silver and bronze medals. They have sharp corners because they are often made in a die.

He said copies are made out of alloys mixed to match the color of the original medal as closely as possible.

He's a member of the Canadian Military Collectors Club of Canada. The club holds annual conventions for collectors where they trade, auction and sell.

He said there are three members of the club in the Belleville area but, "there are quite a few people that are private collectors."

Union Official Puts Case for Solidarity and Disciplining of Dissenters

The Editor:
The Intelligencer:

Reference your article titled Kangaroo Court in Tuesday night's paper, you stated the people who crossed the picket lines in our recent postal strike were being published by their locals in such a way that it was a mockery of individual rights in a democratic society.

I disagree with you completely, for the following reasons. First that whenever unions who are representing so-called essential or public services exercise their individual rights given to them not by the public but by the law in our democratic society, the public outcry is tremendous. You hear and read such statements as shame!!! Greed and other such words. Local and non-local businesses raise the cry "The strike is ruining my business and of course not profits"- but not one of them gives a damn why or what the principle is behind the union demands. People do not go on strike for fun or to disrupt public services just for the opportunity to show Mr. and Mrs. Public how strong they are; the monetary loss and personal hardships suffered by striking workers and their families are tremendous, and a necessary affecting sometimes to correct working conditions and benefits because, most employers realize time is e a s i l y on their side. However the people to whom you are attempting to gather public sympathy are usually called scabs by union workers to label them for what they are, and in my opinion they are not good union people. I give the following reasons:

(1) They pay their dues, act like and look like good union people until the picket lines reach then they fold under pressure and crawl away.

(2) These people when becoming union members agree in principle to accept majority rule voting as in democratic process, but when the vote is to strike turn their backs on fellow workers.

(3) They become scabs when they cross the picket line their fellow workers have put up to fight for their rights as a union.

(4) And last of all by my experience and I'm sure the experience of many local presidents, these people are the first to cry foul and demand grievance for any little thing when they have a problem, and you guessed it, who do they come crying to?

These people whom you 'sympathize with are quite willing after the strike is over and their workmates have suffered because of a lengthy strike to accept all benefits earned by the strikers through hardships and picketing without a whimper. Why should the public feel sorry for these people, they turned against their own fellow workers and didn't feel a thing during the strike. If you wish to cultivate a feeling of sympathy then cultivate it for the public because our democratic society is slowly disappearing down the drain with enforced wage restraints and excessive wage protests to our elected officials and the inability to control prices by the 'Royal French' government of Canada. At least in the unions we do have majority vote rules, this is more than was demonstrated recently by our present government and its wage controls.

Psychiatry's Role In Creating Better World

An effort to bring out the best in human nature, and thereby create a better world, could be the next big task of psychiatry. And under distinguished auspices.

The New York Times quotes two members of the famed Menninger family of psychiatrists as saying they want their branch of medicine to concentrate more on helping healthy people achieve greater personal growth and fulfillment.

It's an exciting prospect, for quite apart from those who break down under life's pressures, there are any number — perhaps even a majority — of walking wounded, as well as countless others who put up a brave front but who may be nursing many sorrows.

Who knows what tragedies might be averted in future through not only a happier atmosphere at home but a real effort by young people to relate in a friendlier way to each other in school, and in particular to those who give the appearance of being lonely.

The Menningers — Dr. Karl A. and Dr. Roy W., and the older Dr. Karl Menninger, 83-year-old patriarch of the family, were speaking at a convocation commemorating the 50th anniversary of the Topeka-based Menninger Foundation. They ranged from the vital supportive influence of parents and of a happy home to such debit elements as war and other forms of social destructiveness — from murder, suicide, alcoholism and drug abuse, to everyday slights and inconsiderate acts at the ordinary human level.

Maybe it is only a pipe dream, but if psychiatry can effect any significant improvement in human relationships it could be a big plus in a world that is showing so many signs of deterioration.

Retirement On $250 a Month 20 Years Ago

A little generous income-wise was our heading with Richard Jackson's column last Wednesday.

Jackson was talking about $250 a month as being a comfortable income for a retired couple 20 years ago — in a column concerning the ravages of inflation.

Our heading erroneously put the income at $250 a week.

Helping with Basics

There are students in the school system who are intelligent enough but have difficulty with the proverbial Three R's: reading, writing (including spelling) and arithmetic.

Nothing new in that; indeed it has been made abundantly clear of late. It's a phenomenon brought to light by, among others, the business community which is in as good a position as any to assess the competence of young people who supposedly have graduated from school but all too often have difficulty with the basics.

Basic writing and communication skills are particular.

Can something be done for these youngsters, if not in the classroom then in an auxiliary capacity by retired or other available people with the necessary ability? Lillie LeFort, chairman of the Citizenship and Legislative committee of UAW Local 1839 made this suggestion in a recent letter to The Intelligencer and it has a good deal of merit.

"We have many people in our society with good reading ability, not necessarily a teacher, who would be glad to work on a one-to-one basis with these students. The students would then get the appreciation that they have been denied in the classroom due to their misbehavior," says Mrs. LeFort.

The reference to "misbehavior" has to do with psychological problems — manifesting themselves all the way from apathy to aggressiveness — which stem from difficulty with reading and related disciplines.

Copies of the letter have been sent to government and opposition leaders in the legislature as well as to Hastings county board of education. This is appropriate, for it's a subject that might well be pursued further by the authorities. It might also improve the emotional development of young people in the category mentioned, as well as giving satisfaction to those who might volunteer to assist them.

60 Percent of Quebec Workers Belong to No Union

Trois-Rivieres Le Nouvelliste:

Quebec unionists now are considering numerous changes in political orientation.

In this respect, they have two options—create a workers party or advocate massive support of particular existing parties.

Many unionists have dreamed of the first option for years. The idea always comes up during orientation conventions of union leaders. Lionel Laberge of the Quebec Federation of Labor has the least of which is attitude of certain unionists. . . .

Ideally, a worker party is the appropriate vehicle for implementing labor demands. But we know that in politics, idealists rarely succeed.

Right-wing elements in North America are too very powerful and this would kill socialist parties . . .

Workers could also adhere to an existing political organization. Louis Laberge of the Quebec Federation of Labor has come out in favor of the Parti Quebecois.

But it should be remembered that mass worker support does not always mean victory for any political force—we have only to look at the case of the NDP.

Large worker support of the PQ would not really have a major impact because the Liberal party also attracts a large segment of the working class.

If the political involvement of unions is to gain any credibility, they must first become more representative and more cohesive in inter-union activities. They have failed to do this.

Not than 60 per cent of all Quebec workers do not belong to any union. These workers are to be found in the poorest segments of society, where employer resistance is best organized.

In a way, unions that have been unable to rectify this situation themselves contributing to a decline in worker solidarity. Better-paid workers are not inclined, naturally, to come to the aid of their less fortunate colleagues.

Inter-union rivalries are also a contributing factor to lessened worker solidarity. . . .

It is impossible to disagree—the recent construction union raiding period was carried out in such a partisan way as to remind us of an election campaign.

These factors have to be kept in mind in any discussion of political involvement by unions—but they cannot be used as an excuse for inaction.

Americans Eye Pay and Pensions

The Christian Science Monitor

With all the concern over New York's financial problems, especially the city's hefty payroll and expensive pension system, a similar and potentially greater problem should not be overlooked: the growing cost of federal pay and pensions.

Congress recently moved to President Ford's insistence that a raise for federal employees be kept to 5 per cent. Inflation, a federal budget deficit now nudging $80 billion for the coming year, and a national debt recently pegged at $599 billion will be adversely affected if even this relatively modest increase. . . .

Federal employees who in recent years have been pushing for pay levels equal to the private sector in fact now have achieved more than "comparability." Federal paychecks have been boosted 130 per cent over the past decade, or half again as much as those outside government. The federal government's 500,000 blue-collar workers, for instance, are paid about $1,500 a year more than their civilian counterparts.

The Advisory Commission on Inter-governmental Relations, established by Congress to monitor the American Federal system and recommend improvements, reports that federal employees now earn an average of 46 per cent more than workers in private industry. Striving for higher federal wages and benefits further feeds inflation by encouraging state and local public employees to push for fatter paychecks.

Of particular concern should be the growing military payroll. Base pay for officers and enlisted personnel has doubled over the past decade, to the point where military jobs now command considerably more money than comparable civilian posts in the federal government. When such benefits as housing allowances, free health care and retirement systems, and commissary privileges are added in, the military is doing quite well for the money. Better, in fact, than most civilians in or out of government.

Lawmakers also should be taking a hard look at the federal g o v e r n m e n t's burgeoning pension system. Federal pension payments have risen from $1.3 billion in 1964 to $5.8 billion in fiscal year 1975, and are now going up at the rate of about $400 million a year.

It might also be time for a hard look at the frequent automatic step raises in the federal system that have little relation to merit. Fewer raises of larger amounts more nearly in line with increased productivity might be a better idea.

TODAY IN HISTORY

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dec. 29, 1975

The last Indian battle was fought at Wounded Knee Creek, S.D., 85 years ago today in 1890. About 200 Indians and 30 U.S. soldiers fought in an attempt to disarm the Sioux who were leaderless since Chief Sitting Bull's death.

1778—Sarah Siddons made her debut on the London stage as Portia in The Merchant of Venice at Drury Lane.

1848—A gas light was installed in the White House.

1945—United States decreed a four-per-cent cut in used-car prices.

1965—Prime Minister Pearson announced an additional donation of $15 million worth of food relief aid to stricken districts in India.

1968—Nancy Greene, 25, was chosen as Canadian woman of the year by vote of 105 editors in the Canadian Press year-end poll.

Constitutional Rights Issue in Strikes

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

The result of a work on a majority vote by the Post Office Workers, has showed the Union, their preference to work rather than walk the streets, they have given a voice to their opinion on strikes. But it seems the executives have no intention of letting them work in peace on their chosen job.

Have we come to such a state in Canada, that our Constitutional rights as Canadian Citizens are going to be taken away from us by these unions?

Mr. Joe Davidson a Scotsman left his native country Scotland, to come to settle in Canada for one of, could be several reasons. I assume it was because Canada offered Mr. Joe Davidson, President of CUPW, an immigrant, better opportunities and a better way of living. Instead of appreciating these advantages given to him by this country, he joins Labor politics and kicks up a dust by causing disruption of our postal service to the detriment of his chosen country. He has no one to blame Canadians choke on it while he is held a big salary to do so by Union dues.

Mr. Yatman is as constructory in his statements it's hard to understand what he is trying to put across.

In one statement he said — i.e. we don't have the right to try them, but he did not expect the trial board to meet until the new year. Belleville and Brighton Local jurisdiction will try these men by a three-member union board.

Since when did an employee have to be tried by a union board as if he started a crime? All these men did, was to exercise their Constitutional rights to work in a place of their choice.

If Canadians allow unions to have tribunals to charge and sentence men because we choose to work for a living in our place by choice then we have our freedom for which so many died in two wars.

Balanced Viewpoint Needed

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

For a long time I have been concerned by the preoccupation within the Progressive Conservative party — and in the media with the leadership of the party as distinct from the many components of the total party.

With February's convention, interest in the leadership naturally will peak. I only hope that after the dust settles the party will begin to receive the balanced attention it has long been denied.

Overseas View of Strikes

Letters to The Globe and Mail

As a Canadian living in Japan I was utterly disgusted to read of the recent outrageous wage demands of the teachers and postal workers in Toronto. Canadians had better learn quickly, that their standard of living and material welfare cannot keep escalating! In a world respect live there can be no possible moral or economic justification for wage increases of 30 to 40 per cent, especially in one of the wealthiest countries in the world.

I suggest that rather than searching for ways to fatten their own personal incomes, Canadians ought to start radically reassessing their priorities and attitudes to the rest of most of the Asian and Third World countries have. Then they would realize how completely absurd a year's worth of their present complaints really are.

Those who think they are financially oppressed ought to feel ashamed again, in view of what most of the world's people have — genuinely ashamed of themselves. I know I do.

Brian Nimmrah

As the weeks have passed I have watched, with growing disgust, the behavior of these self-styled educators. They have given the lesson in unrelenting greed and callous indifference to their pupils. On Dec. 11 at Queen's Park they showed contempt of authority and unbridled arrogance. The black wreaths they carried did not symbolize the death of collective bargaining — they symbolized common or garden blackmail.

I am sick and tired of the tantrums of this minority group, and it is high time the Government put them down to size.

Married Homeowner of 19 'Mature Enough to Drink'

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

In response to the article of Dec. 30 in the second section entitled: Government voiced over drinking and driving ages.' I notice there was one thing you have not asked his opinion.

I am 19 years old, married and a new homeowner. As far as I am concerned I am mature enough to drink and mature enough to be consuming alcohol. If I am old enough to be married and own a home. I am old enough to drink.

As for the driving age, the "elders" are always screaming at kids to earn their own money as soon as they are 14! Well how can you get to work without a licence? How many parents do the time or "energy" to take a kid to work and often pick him up around 9 or 10 at night?

As for closing maturity by the number of years you have been around, I know people of 40 who are supposed to be mature responsible adults, who make the biggest "fools" of themselves when they drink. They are also willing to drive because of drinking.

Who sets the examples? We "children" have to learn from someone. So let's hear from the other side of the fence.

Metric and the Tradesman

Cambridge Reporter

As conversion to the metric system intensifies, government may find themselves under increasing pressure to provide some form of subsidy to assist thousands of tradesmen whose work requires that they own their own tools.

It may have been shortsightedness not to have considered this problem in the first place.

Ronald Lang, director of legislative affairs for the Canadian Labor Congress, said that about 1.7 million workers will be affected by the conversion, due to be completed by 1980.

Under present legislation, the workers cannot pass the expense of replacing their tools on to their employers or set it against their taxes.

The cost of conversion for many tradesmen, according to Mr. Lang, will run from $2,000 to $5,000. Tools in the $2,000 range would be auto mechanics, while tool and die makers may have to go as high as $3,000 for an imperial-to-metric conversion.

But the problem is even more complicated than that. Some parts of the machinery requiring imperial measurement tools will probably continue to be used as long as it remains in good working condition. Auto mechanics and tool and die makers will have to carry two sets of equipment.

A report submitted by the CLC to the parliamentary labor committee on finance, trade and economic affairs suggested the costs of metrification to workers will reach $1 billion by mid-1980. But it also noted that about workers in heavy trades will have to work to duplicate systems which will last long after 1980, the cost by the year 2000 could be in the order of $1 billion.

The Congress want replacement costs to be tax deductible exemptions. This seems reasonable.

Museum Rad Ruptures

Damage May Not Be as Bad as First Feared

Martin Lewis, curator of the Hastings County Museum says he is waiting to see just how extensive damage is from a ruptured radiator in the reception room.

One of 11 in the museum, it burst Friday, sending gallons of water into the room and damaging walls, a fresco ceiling, furniture and paintings.

Mr. Lewis said he now is waiting for the room to dry out and watch for the appearance of damage, originally estimated at $10,000.

"I can't really say that anything is an abnormal state," said Mr. Lewis Saturday. "Now that things are hopeful."

He said that a better idea of the damage will be available after the drying process is complete, and after insurance adjusters and tradesmen come in.

But Mr. Lewis says damage might not be as bad as first believed.

The curator said water drops that have now dried on the dining room ceiling, next to the reception room, have not left stains.

Wallpaper in the entrance hall also has not peeled.

A storage area underneath the first floor reception room has not been greatly damaged. "We were pretty lucky," said Mr. Lewis. "It seems to have run down the walls and didn't spread across the ceiling."

Dolls stored downstairs were not damaged because of the museum's storage practices. They were encased in plastic and then boxes.

Glanmore's artifacts now are spread throughout the museum drying. For this reason and the maintenance of a stable house temperature, the museum has been temporarily closed.

The curator said the drying process has "speeded up tremendously" with the removal of six to 10 gallons of water from the reception room carpet.

Friday, when the rupture radiator was discovered by custodian Tom Jordan, the carpet in the approximate 12 by 17 foot room was water logged.

The valves on the 11 radiators on the system have been replaced he added.

Mr. Lewis said an assessment of the damage as well as the heating system will be made today.

He placed blame on either a design fault in the system, a "fluke" accident, or inadequate maintenance instructions which led to improper upkeep.

Police Admit Seatbelt Law Hard to Enforce

It will be difficult to enforce Ontario's new seatbelt legislation because of the problem police have in seeing whether a driver has his or her seatbelt hooked up, says Constable Don Kunyk, community services officer with the Belleville OPP.

The legislation requiring drivers to use seatbelts is to come into effect Jan. 1, but a one-month grace period is expected.

Constable Kunyk said Saturday, "If we're going by a car, I would think we'd be able to see if the shoulder belts are being worn.

"But it's going to be difficult to see the lap belts."

Besides, he added, even if police stop a driver by the time an officer walked to the car, the driver would have latched his belt.

Belleville OPP have yet to receive a copy of the legislation, and do not know what provisions it contains, "the constable said.

The legislation, given royal accent Dec. 18, was introduced by the minority Conservative government in an effort to curb high traffic accident tolls and resulting medical costs.

It provides for a small fine, as well as excepting some individuals from wearing seatbelts—such as those with some forms of physical ailment, delivery men, and children under a specific age.

Buckling Up a Must

Next year, Cheryl Bruce, 13, will be required by law to buckle up when riding in an automobile on Ontario's roads after Jan. 1. Police say they expect a one-month period of grace to allow motorists to become used to the new regulation.

Driver Charged in Mishap

Shyne D. Post, 20, of RR 4, Campbellford is charged with impaired driving following a two-car collision late Saturday in front of Tim Horton Donuts at 189 North Front St. in Belleville.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie said today Post suffered cuts and bruises in the accident but he did not require hospital treatment.

Chief Crosbie said a 1968-model Chevrolet owned by Wayne Post of RR 4, Campbellford was southbound when it crossed the centre line and collided with a northbound 1974-model Pontiac station wagon driven by Lawrence H. Northey, 27, of 576 Sidney St. in Belleville.

He said $2,000 damage was estimated to the Northey car and $1,500 damage was estimated to the Post vehicle in the 7:55 p.m. mishap.

Charge Laid in Collision

MARMORA — Ontario provincial police have charged Donald Frigeden of Peterborough with careless driving following a rear-end collision on Highway 7 west of Marmora Saturday night.

Police said a car driven by Thomas Gillett of Marmora was stopped on the highway attempting to make a left turn when the collision occurred.

Both vehicles were westbound.

Damage to the Gillett vehicle was estimated by police at $200 and $700 to the Frigden vehicle.

Quinte Cuisine

Michaelle Ratcliffe says she has just started to find time to "really cook" since she moved to Belleville this summer with her husband, Tom, who works at Procter and Gamble. One of her recent successes is "Great Grandma's Fruit Bread", an excellent addition to plates of cookies, fruit cake and short breads during the holiday season and good all year long.

Great Gramma's Fruit Bread

½ cup butter
one cup brown sugar
½ tsp. cloves
one tsp. cinnamon
one tsp. salt
two cups flour
½ tsp. soda
one cup milk, chopped
one cup mixed dates, raisins
2 c. candied fruit (one cup each)
one cup applesauce
two "eggs" (use Add sugar and milk well. Mix spices, salt and add with flour. Add nuts and fruit to flour mixture. Add dry ingredients and applesauce alternately to creamed mixture. Stir well. Pour into greased loaf pans and bake for 55 minutes (or until a toothpick inserted in the cake comes out clean) in a 250 degree oven.

(One can substitute chopped fruit of any kind, and use currants instead of raisins in the cup of mixed fruit.)

Serve made into sandwiches with softened cream cheese between the slices.

Wrapped in foil, the bread keeps well, and also freezes well.

The Inspiration is Chinese for a slender-falling, soft, side-buttoned coatdress that's completely contemporary. A shaped chi-chi sash wraps and ties in front. There is no waist seam—stitched gathers adjust the fullness to fit perfectly always. The wide graceful sleeves are cut all in one with the front and back — no sleeves to set in. The Original of Printed Pattern A526 by Dalani is a supple knit accepted by contrast top stitching and Oriental, wooded, toggle-type buttons. For holiday parties, sew your version in a silky knit, brilliant crepe or brocade lame.

Printed Pattern A526 is available in Misses' Sizes 8, 10, 12, 14, 16, 18. Size 12 (bust 34) requires 3¾ yards 60-inch fabric.

Please send $1.25 for Printed Pattern A526 to The Intelligencer, Pattern Department, 60 Progress Avenue, Scarborough, Ontario, M1P 4P7. (Add 25c for each pattern for First Class Mail and Special handling.) Please Print plainly Your Name, Address with Zip, Style Number and Size.

Celsius body temperatures.

Taking Baby's Temperature - It's Different in Celsius

The difference between being a little overheated and perhaps seriously ill is less than three degrees if you're using a Celsius thermometer to record your body temperature.

Since November, Canada's metric commission says, pharmacies and retail outlets have been selling clinical thermometers which use the Celsius scale only.

Normal, in Celsius terms, is 37 degrees. It is easy for the Celsius to Fahrenheit formula. (Celsius times nine divided by five plus 32) you'll find it's a familiar 98.6.

But unlike the Fahrenheit system, which used decimals to define specific temperatures, by the Celsius scale, 37 is considered normal, 38 is low-grade fever and 40 a high fever probably requiring medical advice.

In actual calculating, this is the way it works:: 100 Fahrenheit is 37.7; 100.4 is 38; 101 is 38.3; 101.5 is 38.7; 102 is 38.9; 102.5 is 39.2; 103 is 39.4; 103.5 is 39.7; 104 is 40; 104.5 is 40.3 and 105 is 40.7.

Persons who have been in hospital or those children have been hospitalized are already familiar with the Celsius scale since it has been in use in Canadian hospitals for several years.

Geen's Pharmacy has only Celsius body thermometers available for home use while others still have some stock of Fahrenheit thermometers.

Kelly's Drug Store has oral and rectal thermometers in Fahrenheit and in Celsius while Shopper's Drug Mart only has baby or rectal thermometers in Fahrenheit with the remainder in Celsius only. Tamblyn's carries Celsius thermometers which they point out come with a conversion chart. Drug Mart carries both kinds of thermometers interchangeably.

The Metric Commission has consistently warned against thinking of the metric system as a translation of the old, more familiar system of measurement. But when you're discussing the level of fever in a child, even the Metric Commission couldn't argue that increased familiarity with the Celsius scale through its sale in stores is worth cooling down in favor of knowing just exactly how high a fever really is

People and Events

HOLIDAY PARTIES

Several out-of-town women's groups held their annual Christmas parties recently.

The Women's Institute of Tamworth held its Christmas meeting December 17 with carol singing and a gift exchange on the program.

United Church Women in Deseronto held a Christmas party December 17 with special guests from the Free Methodist Church, Vennacher, in attendance.

Annie Keller was hostess at the Lotharia Church Women's meeting of Deseronto which included carol singing, contests and games and a gift exchange. Mrs. Keller presented a Christmas topic.

AUXILIARY

The Belleville General Hospital Auxiliary reports that 95 persons joined the auxiliary in 1975, bringing the membership to 242.

At its last meeting, convenors of the Operation Gift and coffee shop presented cheques for $1,200, $2,500 and $1,200 to the auxiliary, proceeds from these operations.

MEETING REPORTS

The Intelligencer welcomes submissions for its People and Events section from community groups of all kinds.

As soon as possible after a meeting of your group, submit a report of its activities in writing to the Women's Department. Reports are not accepted by telephone.

Information which should be included is a description of the meeting's highlight, the full name of the group, the date and place of the meeting. All names used in the report should be full names, including first and last name, please.

If there are questions, telephone the Women's Department, 968-6171, Ext. 55, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m. any week day.

Women Barred from Voting In Swiss Local Parliament

APPENZELL, Switzerland (Reuter) — Switzerland's almost 500 parliaments are hailed as one of the last strongholds of local democracy yet women are prohibited from voting in them.

For the last 500 years, and despite International Women's Year, men in the five districts that maintain the parliaments, known as landsgemeinde, have barred women from voting.

It was not until 1971 that women won the right to vote in federal elections.

The men have recently confirmed that women may not take part in the colorful events which take place each year beneath the spreading lime tree in the main square of the quaint market town.

The annual parliaments are one of the country's oldest institutions, though they now are confined to only three of 22 cantons—semi-autonomous states.

Wearing medieval smocks and conical hats, and with the local band in full regalia, local dignitaries occupy the wooden stage in front of about 2,000 men who are asked to raise their hands in support or in opposition to various local government proposals.

Earlier this month, the government of the half-canton Appenzell Outer Rhodes rejected the latest plea for women's suffrage.

It was a decision which seemed to have the support of a majority of the cantons in Appenzell—a town best-known to the outside world for its fine cheeses and the skill of its yodlers.

For business, which is usually disposed of in a couple of hours, may include plans for a new school, swimming pool, or traffic by-laws.

The decision of Outer Rhodes to recommend rejection of a petition signed by 191 (young people—mainly women—for universal suffrage caused little controversy earlier this month.

"It seems that the local authorities would prefer to see the landsgemeinde in its grave rather than allow women to their sacred square," one disgruntled hotel waitress said. "But it's hard to whip up a protest among the women here."

The town clerk says outsiders "must appreciate the historical background to our position."

He adds: "There is a great tension in Swiss society that the main decisions are taken by the men and this does not die easily."

Lead 'Double Life' with Clothes Says Film Costume Designer

HOLLYWOOD (CP)—Award-winning film costume designer Edith Head believes in a double clothes life.

"Fantasy clothes are for after work hours," she said in an interview. "There is no reason you can't wear anything you want at home."

She said one should wear the type of clothes consistent with her type of trade or craft—"a type of uniform."

"The minute you're off duty, if you want to look like an odalisk of a Turkish harem, do it."

Miss Head obeys these rules herself. At Universal Studios in Hollywood she is currently working, she sticks to plain clothes in neutrals such as beige, brown, black and white.

But she wears bright colors and anything she fancies in the comfortable, sprawling, early California house she shares with her husband Wirrel Boren. He is an architect and also an Oscar-winning art director.

Miss Head said she laments that fashion per se is on the decline.

"The two important things for women today are pants and shoes," she said. "If you don't know food rules and recipes you can consult a cookbook, but there haven't been any rules for fashion for a long time."

Perhaps she was thinking of her first book, The Dress Doctor, published in 1959, in which, as well as discussing famous movie stars, she gave chapter and verse about what to wear.

She suggested dress for bridal showers, concerts, debuts and Nine Eights Gloves and hats were essential except for evening.

"I still design for what I call 'hat and glove' films," she said. She recently completed the movie Cable and London. This film was pure nostalgia for her because she had been a wardrobe trainee during the Carole Lombard heyday and watched many of her fittings.

In fact, Miss Head has recently finished other "hat and gloves" movies including W. C. Fields and Me, The Man Who Would Be King, Shoebird and Hitchcock's contemporary adventured Family Plot.

"I've never worked for at one time before," she said.

One of her biggest headaches was a film shot on location in Marrakesh, Morocco. There were 1,500 native extras to dress and Miss Head had to establish and oversee a factory to make them.

Miss Head said her favorite film was To Catch a Thief, with Grace Kelly and Cary Grant, directed by Alfred Hitchcock. In the past, stars were groomed to be public figures and were encouraged to be good dressers.

"Grace Kelly was one of the best," she said. Her interpretation of fashion was completely objective.

She said most stars have preconceived, often abnormal ideas of what they should wear and "it's my job to see that does not permit problems to arise.

"I revive the actress. I ask how the role is to be played, then I select the clothes for a choice. This way they feel they have a say in their costumes."

Her sketches are as detailed as a photographer. Consequently, there's no chance of misunderstanding.

"Actually, I'd rather design for movies than, because they're less complicated."

The sketch a film designer's job is a cross between camouflage and magic.

Social Information For Brides-to-Be

Engagement announcements should be brought to the main desk of The Intelligencer from 2.30 a.m. to 5 p.m. weekdays. These without photographs will cost $4.00, and those with photographs cost $8.00.

Wedding notices should be brought to the women's department at The Intelligencer between 2.30 a.m. and 5 p.m. weekdays, or 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. noon on Saturdays. Information about weddings should be set down on wedding forms available from either the main desk or the women's desk. There is no charge for the description of the wedding, but a charge of $4.00 is made for reproduction of a photograph.

Black and white glossy photographs are recommended as the best reproduction in the newspaper. If, however, brides only wish to use colour, bring the negatives so that it can be used to make a black and white print.

Unique Handbags Exhibited At Modern Craft Museum

NEW YORK (CP) — A unique exhibit of handbags through the ages is being held at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts here.

The show which features purses and bags, many on loan from other museums around the world, will continue until Jan. 4, 1976 then will tour the United States and possibly Canada.

Historically, the exhibit shows that in primitive times, handbags were basic to everyone's life to carry food, firewood, and magical fetishes.

And in the Medieval age, royalty was attended by servants carrying purses and noblemen wore handsome bags suspended from their belts. These were worn for status as only occasionally did the bars hold money.

Purses were symbols of the wearer's station in life. In the Victorian era women carried a reticule — a small bag of beaded silk — to hold a fan, handkerchief or vial of perfume.

The shoulder bag originated during the Second World War as part of women's military uniforms.

Some fantastic bags and canvasses were produced during the Art Nouveau and Art Deco periods. One such example is Andy Warhol's famous silk screen of a shopping bag imprinted with his famous image — the soup can.

There are handbags in metal, plastic, canvas. Some are woven, jewel-encrusted and posh shopping bags bearing the name of the store.

— This modern leather trapper is on display at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York.

— Octopus or fire bag was used in Alaska in 1890s and is made from stroud cloth with beadwork.

— Fold-over bag from 19th century Tibet in leather and embossed metal, on loan from the Metropolitan Museum of Art, is part of an exhibit of handbags at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York. The exhibit will tour the United States and possibly Canada in 1976.

Modern handbag in velveteen, satin, beads, lace and silk thread with porcelain head and hands in a "Portrait of a Lady" currently on exhibit at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York. The show which features purses and bags, many on loan from other museums around the world, will continue until Jan. 4.

— Sioux Indian saddle bag, used in the 1800s, is made from buffalo hide, metal, horsehair, porcupine quills and beadwork.

— A modern fantasy purse, with steel bands and the head of a fish, on display at the Museum of Contemporary Crafts in New York. Created by Michael R. Riegel in 1974, the purse has a leather pouch bag that fits in the mouth.

Ann Landers

Bully's Parents Furious at Advice

Dear Ann Landers: The problem I would like help with is a neighbor's child. This boy is a 12-year-old bully. He constantly picks fights with other children who are younger and smaller. He calls them names, slaps and pushes them from their bikes, throws stones at cars, pokes brooms in their faces and blocks the sidewalk so they can't walk by. I could go on forever.

Finally, a few neighbors (myself included) went to talk to the boy's parents. We were insulted by a hysterical, screaming mother and an irate father. They were furious because we had the nerve to suggest that their son be taken to a doctor. Now the boy has begun to walk directly in front of our cars, daring us to hit him.

What can we do to protect ourselves and help the child? Living in this atmosphere is dreadful and it's impossible for five families to sell their homes all at once. Will you please comment?—Upset Group

Dear Group: Call the juvenile authorities and ask that they send someone to observe this boy's bizarre behavior. If he is as shatterproof as you say, they will insist that the child be evaluated by a doctor.

I wonder why his teachers haven't insisted. Something about your letter does not ring true, but I'm printing it on the outside chance it's on the level.

Dear Ann: I was burned up by the person who said "a Boston accent is revolting—worse than the way people talk in Brooklyn."

Well, I'm from Brooklyn and I talk a heck of a lot better than the creeps in our office who come from the south. They sound as if they have a mouth full of mush.

And speaking of accents, I heard you on the Phil Donahue Show and your Midwestern twang sounds like a piece of chalk going the wrong way on a blackboard. Why don't you take some speech lessons? Or is it your teeth that don't fit? Sign me, start another Civil War?—I Love Brooklyn.

Dear Love: Lessons won't help. I'm from Iowa. My twang sounds like a piece of me as much a part of me as my own.

Two Years Needed

WHITEHORSE, Y.T. (CP) — Two years of research were needed before the Yukon Status of Women Council could complete a 200-page pamphlet entitled Yukon Women. The pamphlet, divided into five sections, contains biographies of 28 Yukon women, both native and white, coping with Northern living and isolation and is an effort to show other women what can be done under similar circumstances.

Jim's Keeps Yardmen Juvenile Title at Home

By TOM GAVEY
Sports Staff

Belleville Jim's Juvenile are terrible hosts, at many teams are beginning to learn. After visiting Peterborough to a 1-0 lead in the "A" final of the Belleville Yardmen Juvenile Tournament the locals roared back to score four unanswered goals. After that it was clear sailing as they coasted to a 10-4 victory over the Petes. In the "B" final Trenton Birts Muddy Sadd took Whitby by an 8-4 score despite desperate last attempts by the visitors.

The "A" win was Belleville's second in as many game at the 10 second mark, with David Armstrong scoring. It was the only time the Petes held the lead.

The local team was kept in the game by goalie Alan Portt in the early going, as he came up with a number of outstanding saves. Portt was named the tournament's Most Valuable Goaltender as a result of his fine play.

Marty Lowry was all over the ice during the championship contest, netting one goal and three assists. Lowry gave the Petes trouble from the beginning, firing Belleville's first goal of the game. He was named the tourney's Most Valuable Forward.

Paul Hayman had a fine game, coming up with three goals during the contest, his best output so far this year. Ray Shelly and Tony Benetti both proved to be offensive semists for the Petes, as they counted two goals each. Gord Male and Kelvin Pope also added markers in the win.

Forechecking was another Belleville strong point. Doug Ross MacLeod and Gary Thompson led a Belleville contingent in that department. The pair accepted all Petes penalties and kept the Petes in their own end much of the time.

For Peterborough Mike McGillis scored twice to lead the losing attack.

Belleville's toughest game of the tournament came against Stirling, which they edged 4-3 in the semi-final.

Tony Bennett and Lowry led the point's parade, as Bennett had two goals and one assist in the game. Lowry scored once and added three assists.

Though the final was decisively in the Belleville's favor, Peterborough never gave up. Even with one minute left and a 10-4 score the Petes were still pressing.

The game could not be said for Toronto North York Rangers in Semi-final against Whitby. The Toronto team showed unsportsmanlike play from the first whistle, receiving no less than 17 penalties before the game was finally called because of the violence. Whitby took the contest 5-3.

As for Belleville, things couldn't look better for their match on New Year's Day against the Swedes. There are no injuries on the local roster and several players appear to be rounding into excellent form.

Tournament director Don Gaevey was happy with the overall play of the tournament, and especially with Belleville.

"They showed a great deal of poise," stated Gaevey, director Don Gavey.

"It seemed they were more interested in playing someone than in playing hockey" he added.

The game was called with 6:40 remaining. Although Toronto complained, Gaevey would not bear down.

Whitby was charged with 11 minor penalties but it was obvious most were in self defence.

"I called things pretty stiff after I saw how they were going on, but it didn't deter them," added Howe.

What the Ontario Minor Hockey Association will do is a question mark. They may be forced into making a decision.

"I may get some trouble over this but I'd do it all again in the same situation" stated Gavey.

Violence Forces Forfeit of Game

Toronto North York Rangers put on quite a display for Belleville Jim's Bantam Yardmen Juvenile Tournament, Sunday.

Playing a game against Whitby, the Toronto squad seemed more interested in injuring opposing players than in scoring goals. Things got to where referees Herb Latchford and Brian Howe were almost entitled to danger pay.

Still, after two periods of play the score was 3-3 and Toronto seemed on the third period at least a little subdued.

"When they began the final period they were finally playing hockey, but after Whitby scored three quick goals, they went right back at it," Howe said referee Howe.

"I called the game as a precautionary measure against violence" said tournament director Don Gavey.

"It seemed they were more interested in injuring someone than in playing hockey" he added.

Silver Cup Tournament

Rollins Tears to Final

TRENTON — Roaring through first round play with a perfect 3-0 record, Belleville Rollins qualified for the championship final in the Pewee Major section of the Kaladar Silver Cup Golden Stick Tournament at the Community Gardens here, Sunday.

Supplying the opposition for the Belleville team in the final will be the host Trenton team which finished Sunday with a 2-2 mark. All finals in the Atom, Pewee-Bantam tournament are scheduled for Tuesday.

Rollins stopped Trenton 6-4 in its first start; scored by Glen Cherrell, Jeff Smith, Jamie Turner, Danny McDonald and Bruce Pearson, looked after the Trenton goals.

In the Pewee Minor section, Napanee and Frankford will play for the championship.

Belleville Dixie Lee lost all three of its starts, falling to Napanee 4-0; Trenton 3-2 and Frankford 5-0

The Minor Pewee final will be Sunday at 5:30 p.m. with the Majors following at 7:30.

Belleville Towers Atom Majors and McDonald's Motors finished out of the championship final in first round play, Saturday. Towers stretched the record of Trenton and Kingston Township as all three clubs wound up with 2-1 marks but an inferior goals average put the Belleville team on the sidelines.

Towers finished its three games with 13 goals for the 14 against while Township was 16-10 and Trenton, 13-9.

It will be Township and Trenton in the Minor section as well. Trenton skated to the final with a perfect 3-0 mark and Kingston was 2-1.

Belleville McDonald's 1-2 and Napanee 0-3.

The Atom Minor championship match goes Tuesday at 3 p.m. and the Bantam at 4:10 p.m.

While failing to a 2-1 reward, Belleville Towers Major Atoms scored a 6-5 overtime win over Trenton in their first start; beat Kingston Township and then blanked Wellington 8-0.

Don Dafoe fired the winner in overtime to save Towers past Trenton. It was his third goal of the game. Other marksmen for Belleville were Alan MacKenzie, Glen Ovelle, Rory Bergeron, Matthew Flower and Terry Bald.

Towers got two goals by Ovelle and one from Duvall and MacKenzie in the lopsided love to Township.

Becker closed the door on Wellington in the Belleville club's 2-0 victory. Doing the goals were Al Bennett, Kevin Joly and MacKenzie.

The Belleville representative in the Minor Atom division, McDonald's lost 5-0 to Trenton in its first start; dropped a 7-1 decision to Township and then stopped Napanee 4-2.

In the 1-0 loss, McDonald's ran into the shutout goaltending of Trenton's Craig Rutherd.

McDonald's only marker in the loss to Township came off the stick of Ed Biggers. And in its defeat of Napanee, Belleville goals came from Todd Cook who found the mark for three, and Barry Smith.

Minor and Major Bantam action takes place today.

Charlie DeMill Does Great at What He Says He Should Know Better Not To

Charlie DeMill is a relative newcomer to the sport of snowmobile racing. Though this is his fourth year, Sunday the Foxboro resident captured the Quinte Cup at Quinte Exhibition Raceway by a whopping 600 point margin over his nearest rival.

"It's great," said DeMill. "I've been after this since I started racing." The victory was the first by a local driver in the five year history of the Ontario Snowmobile Racing Federation B sanctioned event.

Last year DeMill placed second to Oshawa's Paul Howard. This time around he came better equipped and wasn't long establishing himself as a contender.

In super stock 250 cc he placed third giving him 38 points toward the Cup. This was his worst finish of the day. Two races later he earned 114 points by placing second in open modified, only 7 from there, he ran away with things.

"I was very confident," said DeMill, "my machines are in excellent shape and I felt quite sure of myself."

In mod stock 250, super stock 340, mod stock 340 and mod 250 the local driver guided his two Mercs to four co-i-n-c-i-d-e-n-t first place finishes. Those runs gave him 182,272,728 and 144 points, respectively, for a grand total of 974.

Egranville's Carl Beulow was second in the running for the coveted Cup with a 374 total.

DeMill topped the list of money winners with $1,465. Still he says the sport doesn't pay

Johnston's Hat Trick Sparks Bobcats Comeback Victory

BY MARK BRETT
Sports Staff

Toronto — The Belleville Bobcats who have been putting together last ditch victories lately, were true to form here Sunday night as they scored a 6-4 come from behind victory over the Toronto Young Nationals in Metro Junior B play.

The Belleville club was led by a three goal performance from Paul Johnston, his first of the season, which included the winning goal in the third period with only 1:52 seconds left to play in the game.

Belleville was not only late asserting themselves on the scoreboard but also in arriving as four problems delayed the start of the contest 45 minutes.

The Cats held their own in the first period although they were still obviously feeling the effects of the long bus ride up and a very short warm up.

The Nats, hot off a victory over the Pickering Panthers, leaders of the Eastern Division, are more than a match for any team when playing in their own environment, the Maple Arena.

Belleville coach Meehan Bonnar estimated the ice surface (as compared with the Memorial Arena) to be six feet shorter and four feet narrower. "No team should win in this area against these guys" added Bonnar.

The Cats, to be second period, played increasingly worse, the biggest reason for the Belleville problems came because of a defensive slump in front of Belleville netminder Jeff Merrill.

The local goalie was the sole reason the Cats came out of the game winners. He was left at the mercy of the Nats time and time again, but never gave up the fort.

The home team came out throwing their weight around Belleville offered some token physical retaliation but never really earned the respect that the Nats defence did.

Another note of bad news for the Belleville defence was that Jake Ayotte will be missing for at least a week. Ayotte suffered a badly bruised collar bone after crashing heavily into the post midway through the second period.

A goal by Grant Gorgan in the first period and Johnston's first goal in the second period accounted for the Belleville scoring heading into the third and final period.

The Cats outscored the home team by a 4-2 margin in the final 20 minutes.

Johnston's second goal with little more than a minute played in the third period put the Cats out in front but two quick goals by Wayne Gretzky and Dave Simpson put Toronto back in the game.

A shorthanded goal by Paul Taylor put the Cats back on even footing three quarters of the way through the period which set the stages for Johnston's winner and Andy Ricketts, insurance marker 27 seconds later. Both goals came while the Nats were a man short.

Neil McKay and George Kotopoulos scored for the losers in the first and second periods, respectively.

Thompson Standout In Ottawa

OTTAWA (Special) — In spite of the goaltending heroics of Terry Thompson, Belleville Lions were moved into the B championship final of a Midget hockey tournament here on the weekend.

Thompson earned second star rating in the Belleville club's opening game, a 2-0 loss to Toronto Marlboro Grove and followed that up with a limited and the game's first star as Lions blanked Don Valley 1-0 on Bob Buston's goal.

Thompson was a standout again as Lions bowed 2-1 to Gloucester Rangers in the tourney for B honors.

Lions scored the tying goal with 15 seconds left, assisting to the goal judge, but the referee ruled the puck had not crossed the goal line.

The one Belleville marker that did count was supplied by Doug Shaw.

Belleville Bobcat Bruce Leedham watches as his break away attempt is foiled by the outstanding goaltending of Toronto Young Nationals' John Sidey. The Cats, through the efforts of Paul Johnston who picked up his first hat trick of the season, were able to score another come from behind victory over the Nats by a 6-4 score in Toronto.

Welcome Mat Is Out in NHL

By GLENN COLE
The Canadian Press

The so-called home-ice advantage did not mean much in the four National Hockey League games played Sunday night as visiting teams took seven out of a possible eight points.

The only home team to gain a point was Chicago Black Hawks as they battled from behind to tie Buffalo Sabres 5-5. In other games, Boston Bruins surprised Philadelphia Flyers 4-2, Vancouver Canucks topped Detroit Red Wings 3-2 and Kansas City Scouts downed California Golden Seals 3-1.

Saturday night, Los Angeles Kings crushed the Scouts 9-4, Chicago defeated Toronto Maple Leafs 4-1, St. Louis Blues defeated the Canucks 4-2, Montreal Canadiens edged Minnesota North Stars 3-1 and Pittsburgh Penguins nipped Atlanta Flames 3-1.

In Chicago, team captain Stan Mikita beat Buffalo goaltender Gerry Desjardins with a 35-foot shot at 18:19 of the third period to give the Black Hawks the tie with the Sabres.

It was the fourth goal of the year for Mikita, who was out of the game the second week of the season until Saturday night, when he scored a goal and one assist against the Leafs.

Rick Martin shot the Sabres into a 1-0 lead with his 27th goal of the year in the first period but John Marks tied the game on a Chicago power-play.

Danny Gare's power-play goal late in the second period put the Sabres in front 5-3 and they held the lead until Mikita scored with the goalie remaining in Craig Ramsay's third penalty of the night.

In Philadelphia, the Bruins handed the Flyers their second home-ice defeat of the season against 16 wins and two ties.

Gregg Sheppard scored the game-winning goal with 1:08 to play as he wrested a faceoff from Philadelphia captain Bobby Clarke and hit the net just inside the right post. The puck quickly came out but reeves Wally Harris signalled the goal was good.

Bobby Schmautz scored two goals for Boston, his second and third in the game, with 47 seconds remaining after Wayne Cashman had put the Bruins ahead 2-1.

Brad Park scored for the Bruins at 6:44 in the first period after Tom Bladon gave the Flyers a 1-0 lead at 2:18 and before Gary Dornhoefer restored Philadelphia's one-goal lead at 8:18.

Gary Monahan, Don Lever and Bobby Lalonde scored for the Canucks in the second period after a scoreless opening session. Nick Libett and Dan Maloney were the Detroit marksmen.

The Canucks, who joined the league in 1970-71, now have three wins, 10 losses and a tie in games against the Red Wings in Detroit.

Kansas City goaltender Dennis Herrun turned back 42 California shots as the Scouts topped the Golden Seals.

Stephenson had been lifted for an extra attacker.

Demoted Toros Are Suspended

TORONTO (CP) — Three members of Toronto Toros who have refused to accept demotion to a farm team were to be formally suspended today by the World Hockey Association team.

Manager Gilles Leger said defenceman Mike Amodeo and forwards Bob D'Alvise and Tony Featherstone have been suspended for refusing to join Buffalo Norsemen of the North American Hockey League.

Leger said defenceman Rick Cunningham, who was assigned to the Norsemen with the others on Boxing Day, will have until Tuesday to report to the Norsemen.

Cunningham is recovering from tonsilitis.

Leger said goalie Marie Vien, a fifth player dropped Dec. 26, is not affected by the suspensions because he will be placed with an American Hockey League team.

The Toros made their announcement after general manager Willie Marshall of the Norsemen threatened to have all his team's working agreement with the Toros unless the four demoted players report.

The four players were assigned to the NAHL club when the Toros called up forwards Steve Atkinson and Paul Gowley and defencemen Greg Neidl and Dave Syvret for five-day trials.

TONY FEATHERSTONE

Comets Defeated by Lancers

NAPANEE, Ont. (CP) — George Cornell scored a goal in an empty net in the final minute of play Sunday to give Lindsay Lancers a 6-4 victory over Napanee Comets in the senior intertie Hockey Association Senior A game during the weekend.

Don Nicholson, Tom Lee, Jeff Stuart, Rick Purdy and Wayne Monachan were the other Lindsay scorers.

Napanee, winless in its last seven games, had trimmed Lindsay's lead to 5-4 when Rick Gerow got a goal at 13:44 of the third period.

Gerow earlier had scored a hat trick and assisted on another. Bob Ferguson and Terry Angel got the other Comet goals.

Lindsay outshot Napanee 36-32.

Napanee play resumes Friday with the Comets at Orillia.

Rangers Get a Lesson From Swift Army Team

VALERI KHARLAMOV BORIS MIKHAILOV VLADIMIR PETROV

NEW YORK (CP) — Veteran Red Gilbert and Phil Esposito of New York Rangers say their team didn't take seriously enough Sunday night's game with the Central Army Sports Club of the Soviet Union.

Gilbert and Esposito, the only Rangers who played, with the National Hockey League team against the "Russians in the Team Canada series of 1972, said their team treated Sunday's game, won 7-3 by the eighth-place Russians, too lightly.

Esposito, the star of the 1972 series, said he tried to get the younger players up for the game without much luck.

"They just couldn't understand what the Russians can really do," he said. "Then during the game, some of the players would come up to me and say, 'Those Russians, they are really shook.'"

Either said penalties hurt the Rangers—but we played poorly."

The 7-3 win by the Russians was so easy it even embarrassed Soviet coach Tarasov Loktev.

"I think you must be Russian to win," Loktev said good-naturedly when he was asked about the main ingredients Soviet teams will need to win an unprecedented club series with two top-notch Russian teams.

Esposito, who scored, of course, was the superb line centre Vladimir Petrov and winger Valeri Kharmalov and right winger Boris Mikhailov.

That threesome produced four goals and seven assists for the Army team. Petrov set up two key goals that broke open the game in the first period while New York defenceman Ron Greschner was serving two of his three consecutive minor penalties.

Central Army plays three more games against NHL clubs while the other Russian team in the series, the Wings of the Soviet Army, begins its four-game swing tonight against Pittsburgh Penguins.

Esposito, who figured in all of their Ranger goals, vowed to beat all the Russian teams in front of the National Forum if the Russians wind up sweeping the series.

NHL president Clarence Campbell said he is sorry that that won't happen. Central Army plays Montreal Canadiens on Wednesday night, Boston Bruins on Jan. 8 and Philadelphia Flyers on Jan. 11.

Campbell said the Russians win over the Rangers was no surprising because the New York team is about the seventh or eighth-best in the league anyway.

PHIL ESPOSITO

The Russians played a brand of hockey rarely seen in the NHL, these days-lightning thrusts from the enemy zone and players passing all the time when on the fly, not whacking the puck off the board or wasting passes around the pads.

The Rangers opened the scoring when Esposito set up Steve Vickers to give New York a 1-0 lead after only 21 seconds of play. The first power-play goal by Boris Alekxandrov tied the score and Vladimir Vikulov and Kharmalov gave the Army team a 3-1 lead by the end of the period.

Petrov scored the first of his two goals and Vikulov and Mikhailov followed to give the Russians a 6-1 lead in the second period. Petrov completed the Russian scoring with a power-play goal in the third period set up by Mikhailov and Kharmalov.

By then, disgusted fans in a reflout crowd of 17,200 at Madison Square Garden were trying to pot the Rangers with rotten tomatoes and they stopped while attendants cleaned up.

Red Gilbert and Esposito scored goals for the third Ranger goals in the last five minutes of play.

The Rangers, obviously frustrated by some of the subtle Russian scoring tactics, exploded in the last couple of minutes and Carol Vadnais drew a major for butt-ending and Greg Polis another major for unsportsmanlike conduct.

The only clear superiority shown by the Rangers was in shots on goal, where they had a 41-30 edge, and in faceoffs, where they had a 56-17 advantage.

MOVE2 TO FINAL

BUENOS AIRES (AP) — Elio Alvarez and Enrique Cay-gills of Argentina defeated Ecuador and Argentina a 5-0 sweep of Brazil in Davis Cup tennis competition. Argentina will play Chile in the Americas zone final in February. Alvarez beat Brazilian Luiz Tavarazo 6-3, 6-4 and gills defeated Ecuador's Jose Enck 6-4, 6-4, 6-4.

OTTAWA SPLITS

HELSINKI (Reuter) — Ottawa East won a pair of games in an international bandy hockey tournament Sunday, beating the host Finland team 2-0 then defeating Sweden 13-1. Finland defeated Switzerland 5-2 in another game.

EGYPT TO MONTREAL

ALEXANDRIA, Egypt (Reuter) — Egypt won the eighth African basketball championship Sunday, defeating Senegal 76-61 to advance to the Montreal Olympics next year.

Nordiques' Barga in Buys Are Paying Big Dividends

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

When hockey men sit down to talk about top-aided trades, the name that usually stars Terry Ledyard and Christian Bordeleau to Quebec Nordiques last season must come up early in the conversation.

The Nordiques gave up nothing but fringe players to get the two year's top scorers in the World Hockey Association.

Terrill scored his 33rd and 34th goals of the season and Bordeleau picked up his 20th Sunday night to lead Quebec Nordiques to an easy 6-1 win over Toronto Toros before 4,172 Toronto fans.

The win lifted the Nordiques into first place in the Canadian Division and overall standings one point ahead of Winnipeg Jets, who lost 6-4 to Calgary Cowboys.

Three Nordiques gave up fringe players to acquire Terrill and Steve Sutherland from the Winnipeg Jets and Michigan Stags in 1974, just before the league ran out of money.

Bordeleau became available when the Stags folded and Terrill was picked up in the dispersal draft.

Bordeleau became available from the Jets after a series of tiffs with Winnipeg management. To get him, Nordiques had to give up Alain Beaule, a winger who has since left the league.

Terrill's goals and an assist gave him 71 points and a 12 point lead over Bordeleau, who had a goal and an assist against the floundering Toros.

In other WHA games, San Diego Mariners edged Minnesota Fighting Saints 3-1, Phoenix Roadrunners tied Denver Spurs 3-3, Cincinnati Stingers dropped Indianapolis 4-1 and New England Whalers blanked Cleveland Crusaders 4-0.

On Saturday, Houston Aeros stopped Minnesota 5-0, Indianapolis edged Cincinnati 1-0, Cleveland Crusaders beat Quebec dropped Edmonton 6-3 and Phoenix Roadrunners tied Toronto 10-10.

Toronto goalie Dave Talarico, who faced 34 shots in the first game and allowed was one of his team's few bright spots, was pulloutnoticed about the lack of support he got from his teammates.

"Did you hear our strategy?" he asked. "We were trying to keep them in our end for two periods and wear them out."

Serge Bernier, Rich Jordan and Real Cloutier, who picked up three assists, were the other Quebec scorers. Toronto's Jim Sinclair spoiled a shutout bid by Quebec goalie Richard Brodeur, scoring with less than seven minutes to play.

A standing-room crowd of 7,500 in Calgary saw the Cowboys beat the Jets for the second time in three nights.

Gerry Lawson and Ron Chipperfield had two goals each for Calgary, which climbed within eight points of the Jets. Rick Nordquist had two assists in games, the Jets, 28 and the Cowboys, 20 points.

Sunday's win by the Mariners put the Fighting Saints back in a tie with the Saints for second place in the Western Division standings.

First-year WHA team had a busy night in goal for San Diego, stopping 37 shots. Second-period goals by Gary Bredin and Bob Ashley gave them the win.

Det Saints scored a pair of goals on plays started by Robbie Plorek to give the Roadrunners their win against the Spurs.

Gerlitz and Ron Plumb scored goals a minute apart late than three minutes into the game Sunday night and Indianapolis needed against Indianapolis to end a three-game losing streak.

Tom Webster scored his sixth game-winning goal of the season and assisted on two others as Phoenix Roadrunners drew a Christer Abrahamsson blocked 17 saves to blank the Crusaders before a Hartford crowd of 9,822.

WINS OPENING MATCH

WINNIPEG (CP) — Acadia Axemen defeated Calgary Dinosaurs 9-6 Sunday in the opening match of the Golden Boy basketball tournament's university division. The Wolfville, N.S., squad, overcoming a 45-37 half-time deficit, was led by Willick Sheese with 25 points and Alvin Jessamy with 22. For Calgary, Ken Rucker had 16 points and Pat Lee contributed 15.

Cowboys Ride Miracle Finish To NFC Showdown with Rams

BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Pittsburgh's defence put the Steelers on the road to their second successive Super Bowl, but Roger Staubach hit crafted Minnesota Vikings hopes for a third consecutive trip to the National Football League championship game.

The Steelers, who muffled Minnesota 16-6 to win the championship a year ago, did a similar job on Baltimore Saturday, roughing up the Colts 28-10 to finish the season for the league's turn-around team of the year.

That win, built on Mel Blount's crucial interception and Andy Russell's 89-yard touchdown ring with a fumble, lowered the Steelers into the AFC Western Conference championship game.

In a rematch of last year's AFC title game, the Steelers will face Oakland Raiders, who roughed up Ken Stabler's three touchdown passes to a big lead over Cincinnati Sunday, then had on hang on for a 31-28 victory.

Minnesota appeared all set to charge into the third National Conference championship in a row, for Chicago had Dallas 14-10 and had the Cowboys buried on their own 29-yard line with fourth down, 18 yards to go and less than a minute to play.

Clearly a miracle was needed and that's exactly what the Cowboys got.

First Staubach hit Drew Pearson on a 35-yard pass-and-line pass to put the ball at mid-field. Two plays later, with 24 seconds to go, he unloaded a long pass that Pearson caught at the Minnesota five and carried into the end zone for the touchdown that gave Dallas a shocking 17-14 upset.

Now the Cowboys face Los Angeles Rams in the NFC showdown. Los Angeles, with Lawrence McCutcheon rushing for a record 202 yards, reserve quarterback Ron Jaworski rushing for one touchdown and throwing for another, and defenders Jack Youngblood and Bill Simpson intercepting passes for touchdowns, beat St. Louis Cardinals 35-23.

The Steelers and Rams are rated six-point favorites to make it into the Super Bowl.

"We hang in, we don't fold," linebacker Jack Ham said after Pittsburgh yielded just 154 total yards to the Colts, who had barely 100 yards in a big lead over Miami after the Steelers' corner-back grabbed a Bert Jones pass and returned it 39 yards to the Baltimore seven. On the next play, Lucky Mack scored to put Pittsburgh ahead 14-10.

Russell pulling with a Bert Jones fumble was "the worst run I ever saw," laughed Ham, who had jolted the ball loose from the Colt quarterback's hand on the Pittsburgh downstep.

Running back Franco Harris, combined two of Pittsburgh's three fumbles, but also rushed for 153 yards and scored a touchdown.

Oakland tight end Bob Moore caught an eight-yard touchdown toss. Mike Siani nabbed a seven-yard Dave Chapman pass, grabbed a two-yard flip. Ken Anderson's fourth quarter touchdown passes—25 yards to Charlie Joiner and 14 yards to Isaac Curtis—made it close.

Staubach's touchdown pass to Pearson wiped out a Minnesota lead built on Brent McCanham's one-yard touchdown run with 5:11 to play. "It was the most important touchdown of my career," said Pearson.

Sylvia Burka

Canadians Sharp

INZELL, West Germany (Herder-CP) — Sylvia Burka and Cathy Priestner demonstrated Canada's superiority in the women's 500 metres by finishing 1-2 and Miss Burka added another gold in the 1,500 metres at an international speedskating tournament Sunday.

Miss Burka of Winnipeg won the 500 metres in 43.78 seconds to 43.92 seconds posted by Miss Priestner of Calgary.

Miss Burka, the set a Canadian national record by winning the women's 1,500 metres here Friday in four minutes 49.91 seconds, took Sunday's 1,500 metres in 2:15.11. Runner-up was Christa Jaarsma of the Netherlands in 2:20.54.

The new International Skating Union's ruling that competitors cannot move until the starting gun has sounded caused a series of false starts. Previously, many skaters were swinging into their initial stride at the gun and organizers estimated the new rule added two tenths of a second to times.

Miss Priestner also picked up two gold medals at the meet, winning the women's 500 and 1,500 metres Friday.

Tom O'Leerd of Abbotsford, B.C., who had a third-place medal in the men's 500 metres Friday, won the men's 1,500 metres with a time of 1:24.22 and placed 10th in the 500 in 40.98.

Horst Freese of West Germany was the 500 metres in 40.11 and the 1,500 metres in 1:22.09. The men's 1,500 metres was won by Hans van Helden of the Netherlands in 2:02.72.

DREW PEARSON

Steelers And Rams Favorites

LAS VEGAS, Nev. (AP) — Los Angeles Rams and Pittsburgh Steelers were each established by oddsmakers Sunday night as six-point favorites for the National Football League.

Los Angeles will play host to Dallas Cowboys for the National Conference crown and Pittsburgh will be at home against Oakland Raiders in the American Conference title game. Both games are scheduled for next Sunday.

The winners will meet Jan. 1 in the Super Bowl game in Miami.

Lochead New Haven Leader

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Bill Lochead scored three goals Sunday night as New Haven Nighthawks whipped Baltimore 9-1 Sunday night to the Clippers for third place in the Southern Division of the American Hockey League.

New Haven has played two more games than the Clippers. Lochead opened the scoring at 4:06 of the first period and finished it with two consecutive goals in the final five minutes of the game.

In Sunday's other games, Nova Scotia Voyageurs died Rochester Americans 3-2 in overtime and Richmond Robins beat Hershey Bears 4-3 in overtime in the Mondt Division.

Saturday's results were: Hershey Bears 6, Rochester 1; Baltimore 6, Richmond 3; and Springfield Indians 6, New Haven 3.

Brian Waits also scored for New Haven in the first period Sunday before Fred Speck got a power-play goal at 4:48 of the middle period for Baltimore to narrow the score to 3-1.

Norm Gration scored less than two minutes later to give the Nighthawks a 3-1 lead after the two periods.

New Haven scored four goals in the third period. Don Martineau and Rick Chinnick preceded Lochead's pair.

A third-period goal by defencemen Rick Chartres gave Nova Scotia its fifth and preserved the Voyageurs' two-point advantage over Rochester in the Northern Division.

Right winger Ken Houston got the other Nova Scotia goal.

Steve Langdon and Dave Rousseau scored for the Americans in the second period.

The game played before 2,183 fans, one of the largest Voyageur home crowds of the season, warmed up after a scoreless and cautious opening period.

Rochester goaltender Ken Broadrick emerged as the game's outstanding figure despite handling only 20 shots. He stopped three breakaways and the majority of his saves were harder than those by Dave Eleshans in the Verdyne net. Eleshans was tested 36 times.

All-Toronto Final

TORONTO (CP) — Don Valley Toros and Toronto Nationals, both Toronto teams, will meet today in the final game of the Ontario Hockey Association midget tournament.

The Nationals gained a berth in the final against the Toros after defeating Oshawa Parkways of the Ontario Minor Hockey Association 10-7 in overtime in the semi-final game Sunday.

Tom McCarthy led the Nationals with three goals, two of them in the 10-minute overtime period. Brian McGeveny gave them with one second remaining in regulation time lifted the Nationals to a 7-7 tie and forced the overtime.

Peter Caine and Scott McGeown each got two goals for the Nationals while Brian Carroll and Craig Wilson each scored once. McGeown scored the other overtime goal.

Jim Jackson, Steve Baker and Mike Freese each replied twice for Oshawa with Peter Jackson getting the other goal. Jackson's second goal of the game came in regulation time.

Oshawa took period leads of 2-0 and 3-1.

The final game between Don Valley and the Nationals is the first time in the tournament's three-year history that a Metropolitan Toronto Hockey League team (MTHL) will represent the OMHA in the national Wrigley finals to be held in Calgary from Jan. 26 to Feb. 1.

Earlier Sunday, the Nationals dumped Oshawa 7-4. Don Valley gained a place into today's final by flashing on top of the standings after defeating Sudbury I.S.E.W. of the Northern Ontario Hockey Association 6-5 in overtime.

Mike Walker's goal at 7:05 in the overtime gave the Toros the win. Other Toros scorers were Blonck Treadway, with two, Bob Lukewich, John Olds and Brad McKinnon.

Dave Shellwell, with two goals, Brent Blanchard, Moris Biro and Kerry Smith replied for Sudbury.

Don Valley completed the round-robin section with two wins and a tie. The Nationals were second with two wins and a loss and Oshawa had a 1-1-1 record. Sudbury lost all three games.

In action Saturday, Don Valley dumped the Nationals 9-8 and Oshawa Parkways downed Sudbury 6-2.

Wolves Shell Knights

BY THE CANADIAN PRESS

Dave Hunter scored on two of the 46 shots fired by Sudbury Wolves in lead them to a 5-4 win over London Knights in an Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A game Sunday.

In other action, Kingston Canadians defeated Kitchener Rangers 7-3, St. Catharines Black Hawks edged Hamilton Fincups 2-1 and Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds battled to a 3-2 tie with Peterborough Petes.

On Saturday, Toronto Marlboros downed Windsor Spitfires 5-1.

At Sudbury on Sunday, Rod Schutt scored his 40th goal of the year for the Wolves, in first place in the Leyden Division. Mike Fuligno, Wes Jarvis and Alex McKendry each got a goal before 3,568 spectators.

Sudbury goaltender Jim Bedard lost a bid for his first OHA shutout when defenceman Rick Green scored for the Knights late in the game. Bedard faced 25 shots.

After a scoreless first period, Sudbury led 2-0 on goals by McKendry and Jarvis later in the second period.

League g mes Tuesday are with Kingston at Hamilton, London at Sault Ste. Marie, Kitchener at Ottawa and Peterborough at Sudbury.

Canadiens 7 Rangers 3

The Canadiens scored four unanswered goals in the first period on their way to victory.

Brad Rhiness scored two goals for Kingston before a crowd of 1,369, smallest of the year at Kitchener. Ron Davidson, Mike Crombeen, Darryl Benjamin, Greg Hotham and Mike Gillis were the other Kingston scorers.

Paul Reinhart, Don Maloney and Rod Laurence got goals for Kitchener, which outshot Kingston 35-24.

Hawks 2 Fincups 1

At St. Catharines, Kevin Kessler, 10th goal of the season on a pass from Bill Hamilton put the Hawks ahead midway in the third period.

The game had been tied 1-1 when Rob Street of Hamilton and Bill Stewart of St. Catharines scored in the second period.

The Hawks victory ended an eight-game winning streak by the Fincups, leaders in the Emms Division.

Rick Szabo, the St. Catharines goalie formerly of Hamilton, faced 28 shots. Al Jensen of Hamilton stopped 29 shots.

Greyhounds 3 Petes 2

John Tavella scored in the second and third periods to help Sault Ste. Marie gain the lead with visiting Peterborough.

The Petes took a 2-1 lead in the first period on goals by Glenn Wagner, Tony Cassandra and Mark Kirton.

Norman Carlucci scored the other goal for Sault Ste. Marie.

Peterborough 44-31 before 2,506 spectators.

Marlboros 5 Spitfires 1

Playing at home, Toronto scored three unanswered goals in the third period to clinch the win.

Bruce O'Grady scored twice for the Marlboros. John Anderson, John Scurke, Mark Murphy and Lynn Jorgenson got the other Toronto goals.

Tom Friesen replied for Windsor before a crowd of 2,991.

Toronto outshot the Spitfires 46-28.

Swedes Roar

TURKU, Finland (CP) — Sweden spotted Canada an early goal Sunday before roaring back for a 17-1 victory in a junior international hockey tournament.

Daniel Cheonine gave the visiting Sherbrooke Beavers their short-lived lead at 5:15 of the first period. The Swedes tied it up at the 7:46 mark 1-1 after the first period and blasted home nine goals in the second period.

As they had in their opening game of the tournament, the Quebec Major Junior Hockey League team attempted to intimidate its opponents with an aggressive style of play.

But, unlike the Finns, who folded under a 4-1 rap, the Swedes took full advantage of the Beavers' misdemeanors to set up a tournament showdown today against the defending champion Soviet Union.

Elsewhere Sunday, Czechoslovakia, which lost to Soviet Union 3-2 Friday, was hard-pressed at Turgovo to defeat Finland 3-0. The results left Sweden and the Soviet Union with 1-0 records; Canada and Czechoslovakia at 1-1 and Fin-

Leeds United Gains Ground

LONDON (Reuter) — Leeds United emerged from the weekend as the only team among the top seven in English League soccer's First Division to win both of its Christmas games.

Only 24 hours after ending Manchester City's 15-game unbeaten streak, Leeds United shattered Leicester City 6-0 Saturday to move into third place in the standings.

Leeds still trails Liverpool and Manchester United, which have 33 points each, but the top teams have also played one more game each.

Scorers for Leeds were Duncan McKenzie with two goals, Allan Clarke and Peter Lorimer. Three three-players have collected 24 goals among them this season.

Peter Cormack scored his first goal of the season to give Liverpool a 1-0 win over Manchester City, which lost both of its weekend games.

Liverpool leads the league on goal average over Manchester United, which drew 10,726 fans, the biggest crowd of the league season, for a 21 win over Burnley.

Ray Hankin scored in the 38th minute to save Burnley a 1-0 lead but Sammy McIlroy tied the score for United six minutes after the interval and Lou Macari scored the winning goals from the end.

It was estimated that 10,000 Aston Villa supporters were in a capacity crowd of 37,230 at Derby County's ground, but their trip proved disappointing.

Derby, which was without McFarland, Bruce Rioch, David Nish and Francis Lee, won 2-0 on goals from Steve Powell just after the interval and a penalty taken by Charlie George in the minutes from the end of the game.

It was a miserable Christmas for West Ham United, thrashed 4-1 by Aston Villa on Friday and beaten 3-1 at home Saturday by Ipswich Town.

West Ham had Keith Robson sent off as improving Ipswich extended its unbeaten streak to eight games and matched Leeds feat of winning both weekend games.

Alfred Arrieta, putting on its best display of the season, defeated Queen's Park Rangers 3-0 with skipper Alan Ball collaborating his replacement as England captain, Gerry Francis. Ball and Brian Kidd scored for Arsenal.

Among the teams struggling near the bottom of the standings, only Burnley was beaten Saturday.

Norman Bell scored his first goal for Wolverhampton Wanderers to give them a 1-1 tie at Norwich.

Sheffield United drew 1-1 at Newcastle, even though Malcolm MacDonald got his first league goal in 11 matches for Newcastle. Alan Woodward was the Sheffield scorer.

A crowd of 42,000 turned out at Bolton to watch first-place Sunderland lose a 2-1 decision to second-place Bolton Wanderers. Bolton now trails Sunderland only on goal average.

Tony Dunne scored on his own goal to give Sunderland the early lead but Sam Allardyce and John Byrom scored in the second half for the Wanderers.

Ronnie Moore scored four goals for Tranmere Rovers in a 5-0 win over Stockport County in a Fourth Division match. Moore now has 21 goals for the season.

Four players were sent off in Saturday's English League games — Robson, Shane Walker of Hereford United, Roger Cross of Brentford and Gordon Cumming of Reading.

Celtic opened up a three-point lead in the Scottish League's Premier Division standings with a 3-1 win over Ayr.

Motherwell moved into a second-place tie with Hibernian and Rangers by defeating Dundee 3-2. Hibernian was held to a 2-2 tie by Aberdeen and Rangers played a scoreless draw with Dundee United.

European Title Out If Coopman Meets Ali

ROME (AP) — The secretary-general of the European Boxing Union says if Jean Pierre Coopman fights heavyweight champion Muhammad Ali, the Belgian will be disqualified from seeking the vacant European title.

Piero Rizzi said in a statement Sunday that Coopman, a 28-year-old unknown who is to be Ali's next opponent, is scheduled to face Briton Richard Dunn in London Jan. 20 for the European crown vacated by Joe Bugner.

Rizzi said if Coopman fights Ali he "can never again fight for the European title. German Bernd Aumuller is ready to substitute for him."

The EBU and Belgian boxing authorities have directed Coopman not to go through with the Ali fight, but Coopman's manager, Karel de Jaegher, said Sunday his fighter "is training intensively" and will meet Ali.

During the weekend, the World Boxing Association said it would accredit the fight.

De Jaegher said the fight would take place in Puerto Rico or somewhere in the United States. Coopman will fly to New York on Jan. 4 to take part with Ali in a news conference Jan. 6 or 7, the manager said.

"Jean Pierre is convinced he can pull off a knock of wishing," de Jaegher said. "People don't realize his generosity, he Jean Pierre has tremendous strength and endurance. He can last 15 rounds."

Some Belgian and European newspapers have called the fight an "assassination," and have said Coopman does not belong in the same ring with Ali.

Twins Tie Finns

THUNDER BAY (CP) — Defenceman John Coburn's first goal of the season with 55 seconds remaining in the game gave the Allan Cup champion Thunder Bay Twins a 5-5 tie with the touring Finnish Olympic team before about 4,000 fans Saturday night.

The Twins had six attackers on the ice on a delayed penalty call to Finland when Coburn beat goalie Antti Leppunen from 15 feet in front.

Thunder Bay had led 3-2 after one period and the teams were tied 4-4 after two.

Other Thunder Bay scorers were Gerry Lindquist, Ken Campbell, Brian Vesce and playing-coach Brian DePiero. Scoring for Finland was Pertti Valkeapaa with two goals, Esa Peltonen, Henry Leppa and Tuomo Martin.

The Twins, defending Canadian amateur champions, had a decided edge in play during the first two periods but Finland came on strong in the final period.

Leppunen played a strong game in goal for Finland, stopping 35 shots. Ken Turko stopped 21 for the Twins. Finland took seven of its nine penalties while Thunder Bay scoring two power-play goals and Finland one.

Trudeau Says Restraints More Than Just a Ploy

OTTAWA (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau said Canadian values, habits and institutions will be transformed by his government's anti-inflation program.

"Many people, I think, still see those controls as, 'Oh, well, it's a bit of strong medicine we'll have to take in order to get inflation down,' but it's really more than that," Mr. Trudeau said during CTV's annual year-end interview with the prime minister, taped for broadcast for Sunday.

"It's a massive intervention into the decision-making process of the economic groups and it's telling Canadians we haven't been able to make it work, the free market system."

He said there is no way that the free market system can be made to work now or when the anti-inflation program ends.

"We can't destroy the big unions and we can't destroy the multinationals." Instead, the government must take a larger role in running them both, "as we're doing now with our anti-inflation controls now and presumably after the controls are ended."

He said he will not state that wage and price controls will be permanent because he is optimistic that Canadians will learn an attitude of economic restraint and self-discipline.

However, if there is evidence that after three years "the planned sector of society, as opposed to the market sector, is going to go back to its old ways, then I'll say we'll have to keep the controls in one way or another."

If wage and price controls are lifted, the government has other tools of control at its disposal, he said. He mentioned public interest boards, the labor relations board, stronger anti-combines legislation, the Canadian transport commission, and the Canadian Radio-Television Commission.

"It won't necessarily be the same kind of control but don't kid yourself. We have a lot of controls now."

Mr. Trudeau said increased government intervention in the economy did not contradict his liberal principles.

Controls on large unions and government-in-dicate an advance in liberalism, he added. If they permit the growth of education, arts, small enterprise and other areas of society.

Armed Forces Image Improved Says Officer

OTTAWA (CP) — The chief of defence staff says the image of the armed forces has improved in the eyes of Prime Minister Trudeau's Liberal government.

"We have regained our credibility in the eyes of our (political) masters," Gen. J. A. Dextraze said in an interview.

He said the image improved during the last 18 months as the armed forces displayed increased flexibility in thinking and as cabinet ministers received detailed explanations of defence needs.

The general, who 78,000-person armed forces escaped government spending restraints announced before Christmas, said a recent government decision to modernize the forces was the result of acceptance of need, not pressure from allies.

Gone is the government feeling that the forces seek only an international military responsibility.

The forces have convinced government leaders that they feel defence has important, but not always military, internal responsibilities as well, Gen. Dextraze said.

He said he and Defence Minister James Richardson think alike on defence policy matters.

His comments came only a couple of weeks after the government announced force modernization proposals that will cost billions over a period of years and at the same time provide for a steady growth in capital spending over five years.

They are in stark contrast to views expressed in the past by friends of the military who felt that Prime Minister Trudeau and his government had little use for the armed forces and that allowed continued and serious erosion.

The general said his forces will go no lower than 75,000 and that he may have to ask for more personnel if he cannot find them in restructuring studies now under way.

Super Tug Frees Boat

TORONTO (CP) — The lake freighter George M. Carl, which ran aground Christmas night just west of Toronto harbor, was pulled free by tugs Saturday.

A harbor police spokesman said larger tugs, brought in Friday from Kingston, were able to pull the vessel into deeper water after three small tugs failed to move the 19,000-ton ship.

The freighter was on its last run of the season, carrying soybeans to Toronto from Toledo, Ohio, when it ran aground in about 11 feet of water with thick sludge over the bottom area.

A spokesman for Scott Misener Steamship Lines of St. Catharines—owner of the ship—said the vessel was heading for the Victory Soya Mills Ltd. dock, about four miles from where it went aground.

The spokesman said the accident has not changed the company's plans for the vessel and it will dock in the harbor for the winter. He said there was no apparent damage to the ship, but refused to give an explanation for why it ran aground.

A spokesman for the federal ministry of transport said Sunday a ship surveyor from the ministry will investigate the incident today.

The surveyor will report his findings to the ministry's regional manager for ship safety, who will decide whether an inquiry is necessary, the spokesman said.

Kingston Man Wins Sweepstakes

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

The closest Irish Sweep of Kingston, Ont., came to a race track was driving past one in his car.

But he won $42,000 Saturday and was one of six Canadian ticket-holders in the Irish Sweepstakes run at Leopardstown, near Dublin.

Sweepstake officials said Canadians who held tickets on the first three horses—Night Nurse, Brendan's Road and Comedy of Errors—shared about $204,000.

Edith Stewart of Toronto was listed as holding a ticket worth about $127,000 on Night Nurse.

Holders of second-place tickets worth about $42,000 each were listed as Franz Kaizer of Glen Morris, Ont., near Cambridge, and Mr. Stone.

Third-money tickets worth about $21,000 were reported to be held by D. Johnsch, Moose Jaw, Sask.; M. D. Bourne, Mississauga, Ont.; and Ellen Ramsey, Sanbelton, B.C.

Mr. Stone, 61, said in an interview he has been buying sweepstake tickets for three years.

"The only time I've ever seen horse racing in a when I've driven past the race track," he said. "I have never been a fan and I don't think I ever will."

Controls Hurt Company

OTTAWA (CP) — There are no Hundle With Care signs in a large suburban warehouse near Ottawa where thousands of Eskimo sculptures worth millions of dollars are displayed for art dealers on pedestals, shelves and the carpeted floor.

In fact, during a recent interview Julien Belliveau, president of Canadian Arctic Producers, scuffed a few flakes of whalebone from the edge of a carving to show that the older the bone, the flakier its texture and the darker its color.

"Dealers usually spend a full day in here, walking up and down," he said, "and when they come in, they want the pieces yesterday."

Mr. Belliveau was referring to the large selection and to customs regulations that have cost the Eskimo-controlled company both money and the headaches of bureaucracy. And some dealers were prepared to spend thousands.

Carvings from whalebone, soapstone and caribou antlers are produced by Eskimos in 32 craft co-operatives, all affiliates of Canadian Arctic Producers. They are flown south to the clearing house in Ottawa, a huge cement building protected by an electronic alarm system and private security guards.

Mr. Belliveau, once an assistant to former finance minister John Turner, is one of six non-Eskimo members of the company's board of directors and has been president for 34 years.

Recalling a recent Canadian Press story that erroneously referred to him as an Eskimo and a sculptor, Mr. Belliveau laughed and said some of his friends phoned and jokingly asked to see his latest carvings.

While running the administrative and financial side of the company with zeal, Mr. Belliveau is also sensitive to the artistic needs of sculptors in such northern settlements as Spence Bay, Arctic Bay, Pangnirtung, Clyde River and Ojoa Haven, whose art is flown to the warehouse, carefully packaged in boxes between layers of fleece.

Trudeaus Vacation In B.C.

VANCOUVER (CP) — Prime Minister Trudeau and his family arrived here Saturday night for a week-long holiday.

A press secretary said the family will spend time with Mrs. Trudeau's family in West Vancouver and will ski on Whistler Mountain.

"It's purely a holiday," the secretary said. "There will be no government business."

The family arrived in Vancouver on an Air Canada flight.

party dips

If you're having a New Year's Eve party, start it off by providing dips and dockers that will fill the pre-and-midnight food is served. Dips can be made early in the day (must need at least one hour of refrigeration to blend flavours and hardies), and to bring them to room temperature they should be taken out of the fridge in the morning. While many dips are based of cheese, they can also consist of blended meat, fish, fruit and even beans. As for dockers, crisps, pretzels and crackers are good favorites, but you can also use celery, cucumber, cauliflower, carrots, green pepper, mushrooms, cherry tomatoes, beef or pork sticks; mushrooms; cocktail chunks of cheese; pepper, brownie and cauliflowerette; luncheon meat cubes; small sausages and crusty bread cubes. Most prepared vegetable dockers can be kept crisp until serving by placing in ice water. Others can be kept in an airtight container.

For an easy cheddar dip, mix 1 c. cup sour cream, 1 cup shredded Cheddar cheese, ¼ c. cup finely chopped onion, 3 tbsp. minced green pepper, ½ tsp. salt, ¼ tsp. Tabasco and 1 tbsp. milk. Add additional tabasco, milk and sour cream to taste for a good dipping consistency. Cover and refrigerate at least one hour before serving.

For a quick and easy dip, try Dairy New Year's Dip.

In Memoriam

BUSHLOW — In memory of our mother, Mrs. Alice Bushlow who died on 3 years ago, December 28, 1972.
Surrounded by flowers, her memories, in the midst of age years I am blest. Not a day goes by I don't miss you a heart-ache.
Longing, dear mother, for you.
Always sorely missed and remembered by Jean and family, son Don, husband Ernie.

EASTON — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather who passed away December 29, 1971.
Sweet memories are treasures of the heart, Other Bernie Easton who departed this life 4 years ago.
Through hard times we watched her suffer.
We saw her fade away,
Our hearts were almost broken,
We could not see her pain,
But when we saw her departure,
So peacefully true from pain,
We could not wish her back,
To suffer so again.
We miss her smile, we miss her kiss,
Its sorely hard at times,
For what it meant to lose her,
We miss her ever more.
She suffered so much, her pleasures few,
She never survived what she went through,
Her mind a test, she stood it well,
Just when she suffered no one can tell.
Life is full of quietly, our thoughts are lonely,
We pile full of a memory we are proud to own,
—Lovingly missed by husband and family.

ARMSTRONG — In loving memory of a dear father and grandfather Harold Armstrong who passed away 26 years ago, December 29, 1949.
That silently forms in my book of memories.
—Sadly missed by daughter Bernice and family.

DALEY — In loving memory of a dear father Fred Daley, Senior Daley who passed away December 29, 1971.
Daddy, with the memories we have of a loved one gone to rest.
And home to God, we know it is best.
Are those who loved him best.
The hardest hit are those left grieve.
Not a day goes by we don't miss you,
But the love for him is as beneath, as it was the day he died.
—Ever remembered by daughters Rosemary and Mary and family.

Coats Are Out

LONDON (CP) — The expensive heavy wool overcoat seems to have gone out of style this winter and a big knitted jacket worn with more mini-undernesth has taken over as clothing firm has decided to please the men and ladies versions of the knitted jackets. A spokesman for the firm says the jackets would look good on men as well.

Diet Is Working

LONDON (CP) — The daughter of Mrs. B. C. Stevens in the Professional ball team has helped her mother stay on a strict diet. The girl left school one day last winter her claiming that her mother was expecting a child rather than telling them her mother couldn't stick to a diet. Mrs. Stevens now is staying on her diet closely.

U.S. TV Exporters Discover Animal Shows Most Popular

LOS ANGELES (AP) — Kojak takes a lick of his lollipop and hawks out a suspect in fluent German. . . Dr. Welby examines a patient and delivers his diagnosis in Spanish. . . Matt Dillon lumbers into the Longbranch Saloon and speaks "bonjour" to Kitty. . .

Such sights and sounds have become familiar to tourists locked in overseas hotel rooms on rainy nights. Almost every where in the world now, today, he can find American television, usually in unfamiliar languages. The spread of the U.S. product abroad has helped "bring prosperity to American TV companies—and also a growing number of problems.

The problems include nationalism, which limits the number of foreign programs; local censorship, particularly of scenes depicting violence, and foreign competition.

Gone are the days when a film salesman could travel from country to country unloading a ship's worth. As the backlog of American TV grows larger and programming of other major countries becomes more sophisticated, foreign buyers have a sometimes bewildering selection to choose from.

All the TV sellers agree that the major markets are making their buys with greater care—and taking fewer.

"It's rare that you can sell a season's product in Europe anymore," says Norman Horowitz of Columbia Pictures Television. "France or Germany might pick up three or four series, show them and then sell—no repeats."

Censorship also plays a role, especially censorship of violence.

Brazil, for example, limits violence in shows aired before after 10 p.m. Britain understandably wants no shows about bombings. Mexico bans plots about dope, heroin, assassinations and prison breaks.

Arab countries have taboos against blatant drinking, adultery and anything noticeably Jewish. Anti-Jewish attitudes can be extreme: the Nakia series was refused by one Arab country because the lawman wore a six-pointed badge, resembling the Star of David.

Which American series sell best overseas?

"Animals and outdoor pictures are the most salable," says Richard Harper of 20th Century-Fox. "Audiences everywhere can relate to animals; there's no language barrier."

Columbia's Horowitz agrees: "Burt Ives, in my view, will be the most successful show abroad in the history of American television. We expect to sell it in virtually every TV market in the world. This despite the fact that NBC canceled the show after 13 episodes. I wish we had 100."

The Disney hour may hold long-run honors abroad. It regularly appears in 55 to 60 countries and has played Canada for 21 years, Mexico and Australia for 18. The venerable I Love Lucy still plays all over the world, and remains a favorite in Latin America, partly because of co-star Desi Arnaz.

Which American shows are hard to sell to foreign buyers?

"Comedy shows are the most difficult as a general rule," said Charles McGregor of Warner Brothers. "Some of the American humor just doesn't translate to foreign audiences".

Uncomplicated family shows from TV's earlier days like Father Knows Best and The Donna Reed Show have done well abroad. So have gimmick shows like Bewitched and I Dream of Jeannie. But the new breed of sitcoms—All in the Family, The Mary Tyler Moore Show, The Bob Newhart Show, Barney Miller—has limited appeal internationally.

"A show like M-A-S-H will be sophisticated and will not really translatable," said Fox's Harper. "Yet, it will last for three years until moving into Latin America, finally finding a good writer who could translate the series into Spanish while retaining its natural flavor."

Eastern European countries buy American TV series, but in small quantities. Their viewing hours, mostly limited to nighttime, are dominated by informational, cultural and propaganda programs.

Russian TV is so far untested by the American product. The Russians want to barter with their own programs, rather than pay fees; no deal, say the Americans.

Showbiz Shorts

ROME (AP) — Movie director Federico Fellini has accused producer Alberto Grimaldi of making "slanderous, untruthful and offensive" accusations in publicly scrapping the multi-million-dollar film Casanova and firing its cast of 170.

In an interview, Fellini rejected Grimaldi's earlier charges that he had missed a Dec. 23 deadline and exceeded the $6.5-million budget.

He disclaimed any responsibility for the picture's finances and said that because of illness and strikes, he needed two more months of shooting time.

Grimaldi's assertions about the financial side are especially "disloyal," said Fellini. "Budgets and financing are decided by the producer without any interference by or obligation on the director."

Fellini told columnist Lietta Tornabuoni of the newspaper Corriere della Sera he is confident the film on the life of the 18th century Venetian adventurer would be brought to a successful conclusion "in one way or another."

Filming of the movie, which stars Donald Sutherland as Casanova, began last July. It was interrupted in August when thieves stole from the vault the film shot during the first three weeks. Industry officials at the time expected insurance demands but none was made and the film was not recovered.

SALEM, Ore. (AP) — Jimmy Carter can't give away peanuts in Oregon when he campaigns for the May 25 presidential primary, Secretary of State Clay Myers said Monday.

A state law says candidates may not give away something of value in the campaign, Myers said.

Bumper stickers and buttons may be given away, but not pens, pencils, bottle corks, matchbooks—or peanuts.

Carter, a Democrat and former Georgia governor, is a peanut farmer and nuclear physicist. His campaign workers have been handing out bags of peanuts with "Jimmy Carter for President" on them.

Myers' office once stopped Lyndon Johnson's campaign workers from handing out matchbooks.

NEW YORK (AP) — There is a possibility that actor Richard Burton will soon be working again on Broadway at the end of year absence from New York theatres.

"Nothing is set, nothing is definite, but it is a good possibility," said John Bernstein, spokesman for Burton and his wife, Elizabeth Taylor and press agent for the play Equus.

The work in question is a play will take over Anthony Perkins' role as the psychiatrist in the play, beginning a 10-week performance Feb. 23, the Daily News reported.

Burton last appeared on Broadway as Hamlet during the 1964-65 season.

NEW YORK (AP) — "I'm better than ever now; I'm busy, I'm constantly busy," says comedian Henny Youngman, master of the rapid-fire one-liner ("Take my wife—please.").

He is 69, but he cannot slow down. Retire? "Where to?"

"Showbiz to retire to. Ya go outta business, ya get sick mentally. I don't believe in that."

His method is to keep the line fast and get it over with. Wait for the laugh to die and rush out another one.

"Automatic, things come to me," he says. "I'm just blessed. I discard one thing and pick up somewhere else . . . I get through with the thought and that's it.

"I solved the parking problem. Bought a ticked car.

"Fast, that's it."

ROME (Reuter) — Week on Federico Fellini's Casanova, starring Donald Sutherland, was stopped because it is costing too much money.

Producer Alberto Grimaldi said Thursday he had been given a sum of $1.4 million to complete shooting.

"Work on Casanova will resume when Fellini accepts our proposal to complete it within reasonable cost limits," Grimaldi said.

He said the film, starring Donald Sutherland, was originally budgeted for $3.4 million. It now is only 60-per-cent complete and $4.4 million already has been spent.

HOLLYWOOD (Reuter) — With the year-end rush of new films to qualify for the Academy Award reaching its climax, Jack Nicholson and Al Pacino appear to be in head-on conflict for the best-actor Oscar for the third year running.

Movies must be given at least a week's commercial showing to qualify for the awards, which will be presented on March 29.

Los Angeles film critics regard Nicholson as a certain nominee for his role in One Flew Over the Cuckoo's Nest and Pacino for his Dog Day Afternoon.

FELLOWS, Calif. (AP) — David Carradine, with stubbled face and time-worn clothes, was singing a ceiled ballad and playing a tired old upright piano in a roadside tavern.

Set workers were busily lining up a scene in the film Bound for Glory, in which Carradine portrays the late balladeer Woody Guthrie.

Carradine, 38, was asked in an interview whether he had been a fan of Guthrie's.

"Nooo, I couldn't have told you who he was or what songs he wrote. The only thing I knew was that he wrote Goodnight, Irene but it turned out he didn't."

Then why did he seek the role so earnestly?

"Because I read a script about six years ago when Harold Hecht was trying to produce it. I figured I was the one to play it. Nothing came of it until this year when I ran into an old girlfriend of mine at a party. She told me they were going to do the Woody Guthrie story and I should play it."

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol
Tuesday, Dec. 30

ARIES (March 21-April 19) You're capable of handling a broad range of interests today. Don't limit yourself to little things. Be up and doing.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Others are more likely to treat you in a favorable manner today if they see you're also concerned about giving them a fair share.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) Although you may be tempted to act impulsively today, weigh patiently both sides of important issues before taking step 1.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be extra-alert today where your work or career is concerned. Something advantageous might develop suddenly.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) You're likely to feel in a rather expansive mood today. Why not get together with fun-loving friends who feel likewise?

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) You should be quite adept today at stretching the family budget and juggling resources. Put your common sense to work.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Your strong suit today is in creative or mental areas. Use your bright ideas down even if you can't use them today, they can be tried later.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Most of your attention today will be centred upon your material interests. Gains are likely if you use your best judgment.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You'll be happiest today being around people who share similar interests. Mix with those you can learn from and have laughs with.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) Your best results will be achieved today by following strictly behind the scenes. Shun the spotlight.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) This should be a very pleasant day for you if you do things in accordance with your highest standards.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be patient regarding rewards that are due to you. You'll not be overlooked in situations where you've put forth your best.

Anxiety Causes Bad Breath

By G.C. THORSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thorstesen: My teenage daughter has a problem with very offensive bad breath at times. She is a high-strung girl and this seems to be related in some way to her bad breath problem.

Her breath can be fine. Then she will come home and say she has a date on Saturday. By Saturday her breath is very bad. It seems that whenever she gets uptight about anything it affects her breath.

Her doctor says it could be related to a stomach problem, a tightening of the muscles that disturbs digestion, so she doesn't breathes through her mouth, which seems to make things worse for her. Any suggestions you can offer would be appreciated.—Mrs. W.L.

Yes, emotions such as anxiety can cause bad breath. We are not sure just how this occurs, but it can be quite a problem, especially for a young person waiting anxiously for a job interview, then having to face a prospective employer. I know of no answer for this problem except breath mints.

But it may not be wise in one's use the emotions theory at the expense of investigating other possible causes. Mouth breathing, especially at night, can cause this. Large tonsils and adenoids as well as defects in the nose can cause mouth breathing. So can sinus infection, bronchiectasis and other lung ailments.

Certain foods have been linked to bad breath in some persons. The use of garlic, for example, can upset the bacterial balance in the stomach and alter the digestive process to such an extent that mouth odor can result.

In another part of your letter you intimed you ask me whether you should speak to your daughter about possible emotional factors. It could be comforting for her to know that there are no physical causes—if that is the case. On the other hand, brooding over emotional causes could have a rebound effect, making the situation worse.

She has to be left to your judgment. Meanwhile, I'd begin investigating some of the non-emotional possibilities mentioned above.

In some cases of bad breath, finding and treating a serious, underlying ailment may be of greater long range importance than ending the symptomatic social problem.

Dear Dr. Thorstesen: For many years I've been told I have a chronic bladder infection, and I have taken antibiotics for this often. I went to an allergy specialist and she told me the same thing—a chronic infection. Sometimes the doctor has it under control, but it reappears. I feel part of it is a food allergy.

Can you give me an explanation?—B.B.

Your suspicion of an allergy as a partial cause of your bladder problem could be correct, and you should continue your search, particularly for an offending food. It has been shown that allergy can be a factor in bedwetting in children, for example.

You could also have a coexisting chronic infection, for which the antibiotic would be effective. And if antibiotic therapy ends your bladder symptoms, you would have to interpret it as an infection rather than an allergy. An antibiotic would have no effect on an allergy.

In search for the site of infection should be initiated.

To Mrs. R.D.—The blood sugar readings you mention are not in the five hours of fasting. Your husband started with a fasting sugar reading of 70, which went up to 180 in one hour, then tapered down again to fasting level.

Group Tries to Save Marine Resources

HALIFAX (CP) — The odds are against the little fellow who takes on a bureaucrat. Adam R D. Currie He has been working with a tiny group in an effort to convince the bigger one of a huge army in the fight to save marine resources.

Yet one powerful establishment in Canada is actively engaged in replenishing depleted sea resources, said Mr. Currie, one-time head of the resource development office for the Indian affairs branch.

He is largely responsible for the founding of a fish-spawning program in the Bras d'Or Lakes region of Cape Breton but says Canada has used its scientific knowledge for harvesting rather than conserving the sea's resources.

Rather than engaging in fish farming and other management techniques, Canada was catching fish at an irreparable pace. The only difference between fishing methods now and 300 years ago, he said, is that we are getting rounder out of things to harvest.

In the Bras d'Or Lakes, marine farming is being conducted on a long-range scale and there are a few other such "action" centres in the Maritimes, Mr. Currie said.

Bad news projects are run by a handful of men who carry out life-planning projects when compared with the huge factories and thousands of men and ships involved in harvesting.

Outside of small marine farming enterprises, scientists say, fish eggs are rarely gotten their heads and hands together," said Mr. Currie.

"There are worlds apart; they are strangers."

There is little help in the natural world for an oversupply. Small fish eggs are under incredible attack from their environment by changes in the sea and infiltration by predators. Only a few survive to reach maturity.

Man then enters the killing ground with ships and machinery that can track down and destroy entire schools of fish in a day.

"It would take the ocean a hundred years to repair the damage we have done," said Mr. Currie. Without help, fish populations cannot be replenished.

He said many ships, scientists and students should be involved in such work. Twenty times the current expenditure and effort on fishery management would be justified because only through such an effort could there be a new era of managed production of fish stocks.

"By increasing the value of our ocean, we can create a rich source of food, jobs and income for Maritimers now employed in the clothing industry," Mr. Currie said. Canadians must set to work immediately and raise fish from egg stage to edible size in controlled areas of coastal waters.

Jim: "Four spades looks like one of those automatic contracts. The defence starts with three rounds of hearts. South ruffs the third and goes after trumps. Maybe he finesses, maybe he tries to draw them. He loses a trick to the king and makes his contract."

Oswald: "When I watched Dr. Richard Greene of New Orleans play the hand in a regional tournament four spades also made, but there was quite a lot to the play by both sides. East took his ace of hearts at trick one and shifted to his singleton diamond. Now Dick was threatened with a diamond ruff in addition to his other three losers."

Jim: "I see how he avoided that. He made sure he cashed his ace and king of clubs, entered dummy with the ace of trumps, led the jack of clubs and discarded his remaining heart on East's queen."

Oswald: "Of course. Then there was no way for East to put his partner in. The diamond ruff was avoided and Dick made the contract for an average score."

Ask the Jacobys

A Kentucky reader wants to know if you should respond one spade to your leader's heart opening with:

♠ 8 ♥ 9 ♦ 7 ♣ A K Q 8 7 6 5 4 3 2.

The books say not to, but lots of players just hate to pass with six spades and an ace. The hand only counts five points, as you should not take any credit for a singleton in partner's bid suit although you do count one for the doubleton diamond.

CP News Roundup

Quebec PCs Need Major Gains to Win

OTTAWA (CP) — The Progressive Conservative party must make major gains in Quebec if it is to win the next federal election, says PC leadership candidate Brian Mulroney.

The 36-year-old Montreal lawyer said this in an interview aired on the CTV television network program Question Period.

"The next leader of the party can only form a government if he can do two things," Mr. Mulroney said.

"He or she must maintain and improve upon our support in English-speaking Canada and, secondly, make a breakthrough in the province of Quebec".

Mr. Mulroney said the Conservatives have a historical problem of never having had a federal bilingual leader or developing a provincial party in Quebec.

Warships Sighted

ISTANBUL (AP) — A Soviet guided-missile submarine and a destroyer passed through the Dardanelles and the Bosporus to join the Russian fleet in the Mediterranean on Sunday. Port records indicate it was the first submarine to cross from the Black Sea to the Mediterranean in more than three years.

Population Goes Up

PARIS (Reuter) — The French population has increased by nearly three million people over the last five years and now totals 53,698,253, official figures published Sunday showed.

Discloses Figures

BOGOTA, Colombia (Reuter) — Sixty-eight persons were kidnapped for ransom in Colombia during 1975, with 54 released alive, 11 killed and three still held, police chief Henry Garcia acknowledged Saturday. He added that security forces have killed 27 kidnappers and arrested 42 others.

Airmen Released

PEKING Reuter) — Three Soviet airmen, detained in China for 21 months after their helicopter strayed into Chinese territory, left for home today.

In an emotional airport farewell, the three men—fighting back tears—hugged and embraced Soviet diplomats and shook hands with Chinese officials before boarding a flight for Moscow

Smiling Chinese and Soviet officials stood waving side by side on the airport tarmac in bone-freezing temperatures as the Ilyushin Aeroflot jetliner taxiied for takeoff.

Applies for Increase

SUDBURY, Ont. (CP) — The Sudbury Hydro Commission has made an application to have its retail rates increased by an average of 19.5 per cent, effective Jan. 1.

In announcing its application to Ontario Hydro, the commission said the increase is necessary to meet a 22-per-cent increase in the wholesale cost of power and anticipated increases in other costs during 1976.

The commission described as misleading a report by the provincial government's select committee on hydro rates, which states that the average municipal utility should be able to hold its increase to 14 per cent despite increased wholesale costs.

Ends Rationing

MIAMI, Fla (AP) — The Cuban government has announced the end of a voluntary program of sugar rationing which was begun last year after sugar prices increased dramatically, Radio Havana said Saturday. The program ends end Jan. 1.

Three Killed

BRAMPTON, Ont. (CP) — Three teen-agers were killed here here early Sunday in the collision of two cars, one of which carried 10 persons.

Anthony Pacheco, 18, and Garrett Arruda, 18, both of Brampton, were in the car carrying 10. Seven other members of the Pacheco family and one member of the Arruda family were injured.

James Corcoran Jr., 18, of East Caledon, alone in the second car, also was killed.

Some Signs

WASHINGTON (AP — A Smithsonian Institution zoologist said Saturday that films shot underwater at Scotland's Loch Ness show "flipper-like appendages of aquatic animals" as well as an object appearing to be the head of some unknown animal.

Dr. George Zug, curator of reptiles and amphibians at the National Museum of Natural History, was among scientists who viewed the movies earlier this month while attending a London conference on the fabled Loch Ness monster.

Dissident Freed

PARIS (Reuter) — Dissident Soviet mathematician Leonid Plyush-h, detained in a psychiatric hospital for more than two years, will receive emigration visas for himself and his family today, a friend said here Sunday.

Michel Broze, secretary of an international committee of support for the 43-year-old Ukrainian, said Plyushch's wife Tatyana had informed him of the development by telephone.

He said Mrs. Plyushch visited the visa office in Kiev Saturday with visa applications for herself, her husband and their two children.

U.S. Diplomat Seeks Angolan Truce

WASHINGTON (AP) — A high-ranking United States diplomat is in Africa seeking support for a truce in the newly independent country of Angola, a state department official says.

William Schaufele, assistant state secretary for African affairs, is to visit five countries in his trip to Africa, the department spokesman said Sunday.

He said Schaufele was sent to Africa on Christmas Day by State Secretary Henry Kissinger in an effort to achieve a negotiated settlement of the civil war in Angola, newly freed by Portugal

The spokesman said Schaufele is to visit government leaders in Senegal, Gabon, Ivory Coast, Cameroon and Zaire, hoping to drum up support for Kissinger's plan for removing all outside forces from Angola. All five countries are friendly to the United States.

The mission by Kissinger's new African affairs assistant coincides with the coming Jan. 10 meeting of the Organization of African Unity where there probably will be an effort to make recognition of the Soviet-backed Popular Movement for the Liberation of Angola, which controls much of the country.

Schaufele's trip to Africa followed by two days Kissinger's statement at a news conference that "we are going to make a major effort, both diplomatically and on the ground, to make do with what we have." despite a Senate vote to cut off funds for covert military aid to anti-Soviet factions at war in Angola.

A high state department official said following the news conference that Kissinger's remarks signalled the continuation of covert arms shipments to the anti-Soviet factions in Angola. Despite the Senate vote, the administration still had about $32 million in funds for that purpose.

The administration already has spent about $25 million in Angola, supplying arms to the anti-Soviet National Front for the Liberation of Angola and the National Union for the Total Independence of Angola.

Schaufele had been at his state department post for only a week before beginning his African mission. He replaced Nathaniel Davis, who resigned in a dispute with Kissinger over the secret arms shipments to Angola. The state department spokesman said Schaufele is scheduled to return to Washington on Jan. 25.

U.S. Army Claims History Unfair

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States Army has concluded it is "unfair and inaccurate" to describe as a massacre the killing of nearly 300 Indians at Wounded Knee, S.D., 85 years ago today.

The army, after a new study, denied that cavalrymen engaged in "deliberate, intentional shooting of helpless persons" in an episode that modern-day spokesmen of Indian rights have cited as a brutal example of mistreatment.

Contrary to the popular conception of the Wounded Knee episode, the civilian authorities and the army showed great restraint and compassion in the events leading up to the encounter," the Army said in a report to the Senate Judiciary committee. "Restraint and precautions were even observed during the battle.

"It is undisputed that an Indian fired the first shot. It is clear also that a number of Indians opened fire with concealed weapons.

"There is not an iota of evidence that any orders were issued, nor can it be implied that there was any indiscriminate killing," it said. "In fact, numerous orders were issued to control the firing."

The report, based on study by army historians of official records and private publications, was sent to the committee in opposition to a bill that would pay $5,000 to heirs of 148 Sioux men, women and children killed and at least 33 injured at Wounded Knee on Dec. 29, 1890.

The army is concerned that award of blanket indemnities to descendants of the Wounded Knee victims would set a precedent for claims based on other alleged massacres of Indians by army troops during the Indian wars.

The committee is scheduled to hold a hearing Jan. 29 on the Wounded Knee bill introduced by Senator James Abourezk (Dem. S.D.).

Ram Ship

REYKJAVIK, Iceland (AP) — The captain of an Icelandic gunboat reported Sunday that his ship was rammed and damaged by a British naval frigate, ending an unofficial Christmas truce in the fishing-rights dispute between the two countries.

In London, the British defence ministry said there was an accidental collision but no intentional ramming.

"Frigates are built for speed and we thin-skinned," the spokesman said. "The idea of a frigate ramming a gunboat which is built like a tank, is ridiculous."

New York Airport Blast Kills 11, Injures 50

NEW YORK (AP) — A thunderous explosion from a bomb placed in a locker sent a shrapnel shower of glass and metal through a crowded baggage area at La Guardia Airport. At least 11 persons were killed and more than 50 others injured.

The blast, which officials said had the force of up to 25 sticks of dynamite and was meant to "maim and kill," reduced the baggage area to rubble Monday evening and sent dozens of persons fleeing in panic.

The airport was emptied and closed in all traffic shortly after the 6:35 p.m. explosion, forcing the cancellation or diversion of at least 45 flights and fouling the plans of about 5,000 travelers. The airport will be closed until at least 10 p.m. today.

In Toronto, American Airlines cancelled flights between New York City and Canadian points because of the explosion.

Air Canada also flies to New York, but uses Kennedy airport. And Allegheny Airlines flights land at Newark, N.J.

As workers searched the debris, there were reports of as many as 14 deaths, but police at the airport said they could not confirm more than 11.

The disaster also led to bogus bomb threats at airports in other major cities. Three, including Washington's National Airport, were emptied.

"It was the most heart-sickening thing I ever saw in my life," said Richard Sinclair, who was about to see his daughter's family off to Tulsa, Okla. "Bodies were all over, puddles of blood on the island between the building and the parking lot. It seemed like everyone was in shock."

"The explosion set off a smokey fire in the baggage area shared by Trans World and Delta airlines, but officials said that flying glass and metal accounted for most of the deaths and injuries. Metal doors were ripped away and glass in 10-foot-high windows was found the equivalent of several city blocks from the blast.

Sharman Barker of Brooklyn, who was waiting for her sister to arrive from Kansas, was still sobbing as she recalled "the big noise and glass shattering."

"Women and children were screaming," she said. "And then a woman next to me was just dead, bleeding all over."

Eight of the injured were seriously hurt and rushed to operating rooms in hospitals. In addition to the 52 persons reported hurt, another score of persons was treated at the scene or area hospitals but not reported in official figures.

The dead and injured were not immediately identified, except for Jeff McMahon, 30, an FBI agent, who was reported in serious condition after emergency surgery.

No call or advance warning preceded the blast, but in the hours that followed, police and news organizations received a number of calls from persons claiming different groups were responsible. These ranged from the Palestine Liberation Organization to Puerto Rican terrorists and a Mafia gang.

Police officials said they began looking for two men in their late teens or early 20s after witnesses said two men fitting that description had run from the building minutes before the blast.

Hoax bomb threats at airport terminals in Washington, Cleveland and St. Louis forced the evacuation of passengers while police with explosive-sniffing dogs combed the buildings. Other calls were received at airports in Detroit, Denver, Los Angeles, Chicago, Indianapolis and New Haven, Conn.

Teachers, Paper Workers

Davis May Order Strikers to Work

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario government will legislate striking pulp and paper workers and Toronto teachers back to work in early January if contract disputes are not settled, The Canadian Press has learned.

Cabinet sources said the legislature likely will be recalled if the teachers turn down the latest contract offer from the Metropolitan Toronto board of education in a Jan. 7 vote.

The 8,800 teachers have been on strike since Nov. 12, leaving 140,000 high school students without classes.

About 11,000 pulp and paper workers most of them in Northern Ontario, have been on since July.

One cabinet source said the government was ready to introduce legislation ending the pulp and paper strike on the day the legislature prorogued, Thursday, Dec. 18.

Put it was decided to hold off when Labor Minister Bette Stephenson expected an offer from one of the companies to the Canadian Paperworkers Union (CPU).

Ontario Paper Co. Ltd. of Thorold offered a 24-per-cent increase in a three-year contract last week, but the offer was rejected.

The workers have been asking for 54 an hour, a 25-per-cent increase in one year.

There were the terms negotiated with Irving Pulp and Paper Ltd. in New Brunswick, but rolled back to 14 per cent by the federal anti-inflation board.

Teachers in Toronto have demanded a 43.9-per-cent increase over two years, plus a $750 lump-sum payment.

The original offer from the school board was 29.2 per cent over the same period, but the anti-inflation board has already said that sum is excessive.

The latest offer from the board has not been revealed. Officials of the Ontario Secondary School Teachers Federation have already recommended it be rejected.

In the case of the pulp and paper workers, the cabinet is concerned about the economic effects the prolonged strike is having in Northern Ontario communities such as Espanola, Iroquois Falls and Kapuskasing.

A cabinet source said there is impatience on the part of some cabinet ministers with some companies' apparent reluctance to bargain with the fledgling CPU.

The source said there is increasing pressure, especially on Toronto cabinet ministers, to legislate an end to the teachers' dispute. The source added there also is pressure on Premier William Davis from within party ranks to rescind the section of Bill 100 which gives teachers the right to strike.

One source from the New Democratic Party said it is unlikely the NDP will support legislation ending the pulp and paper strike, although the party might support legislation ending the teachers strike.

The minority Progressive Conservative government likely will depend on the Liberals for support if legislation to end the strike is necessary.

The regular session of the legislature is expected to convene in late February or early March.

Official Rules Out Coal Mine Survivors

NEW DELHI (AP) — A top mining official has ruled out any chance of survival by even a few of the 372 miners trapped by millions of gallons of water in a coal mine in northeast India.

Srinivasa Charl, secretary of coal in the energy ministry, said today the high-capacity pumps and technicians being rushed from the United States will be used only to remove the water and enable workers to remove the bodies.

"There's no point in talking about survivors," Charl told a news conference after his return from the disaster site at Chasnala, in India's coal country 180 miles northwest of Calcutta.

Since an explosion ripped through the mine Saturday and set off flooding from an abandoned shaft 90 feet away, the government had held out hope that a few miners might be clinging to life in airpockets in the 1,200-foot-deep pit.

"There are no such pockets," Charl said.

The Soviet Union, France and Poland joined the U.S. in offering pumps and technicians to help drain the mine of an estimated 110 million gallons of water.

9 Escape After Explosion

SLAVE LAKE, Alta. (CP) — Nine passengers escaped death when a twin-engine aircraft exploded and burned after crashing Monday night on its final approach to the airport in this community, 155 miles northwest of Edmonton.

An RCMP spokesman said today the pilot and co-pilot of the Beechcraft are missing and presumed dead.

The spokesman said the nine passengers were taken to hospital. Most were believed to have suffered relatively minor injuries.

First reports had indicated there were 12 persons aboard the aircraft, operated by Bayview Air Services of Edmonton. Ken Lubrie, a volunteer fire chief, said only about three feet of the aircraft's tail section was recognizable after it exploded and burned.

City Man Locks Up 50-year Career Here

By HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

Oscar Mangold turns the key or a new year by closing the door on a work life spent in the lock industry.

It's that work record that makes the move novel — a work record of being on the job in the same plant for a half-century.

It came about by what Oscar briefly terms "circumstances."

In his youth, he 16 years was the minimum age to acquire a work permit.

But, relates Oscar, now reading to end his long association with the industry, when his father died he figured it best to get out of school and become the family wage-earner.

He was 15 — but lied about his age to start an apprenticeship in what was then the Springer Lock Co. on Coleman St.

The company has gone through some corporate changes since — now go up today as International Hardware. Oscar has seen, and adapted to, all the changes in company structure and production — to wind up as a foreman.

Inevitably among the biggest changes in working conditions. He recalls starting work at 13 cents an hour, working 10 hours a day, six days a week. In summertime, the workload was cut back to 9 hours. But there was a holiday, the plant worked extra time to make up for it.

Such conditions with today's starting minimum would prompt "a revolution," says the veteran employee. But the contrast has to be viewed in the perspective of different social conditions.

"It was a pretty good wage for the city of Belleville, which was then a pretty low-wage area," says Oscar. "And times were tough. If you had a job you had to hang on to it."

In 50 years, there have been few deterents to him reporting for the job. He even remembers arriving at the plant in a boat during the big Belleville flood back in 1937.

Yet, he now faces the prospect of unlimited leisure without a job.

Now, the only thing he intends working hard at is "trying to relax — doing things when I want to do them, not when others want me to."

Nonetheless, companies always feel the loss of experience represented by a worker with such a record, says personnel manager Don Sinclair.

There are several other long-time employees scheduled to retire soon from International, he says. Among them: Windsor Bushell, who was a foreman and started elsewhere in the industry in 1911; engineer George Brown, whose record dates from 1940, Clive Ryan, advertising manager who started in 1934.

Over a half-century is what Mr. Oscar keeps pace with a company's record. Indicates the personnel manager, he knows only up on current production. When lines long discontinued with are returned for maintenance, such experience is valuable.

"With 50 years of service," says Mr. Sinclair, "you just don't replace that kind of knowledge overnight."

Reporters End Strike

LONDON (AP) — More than 700 journalists of the BBC ended their 24-hour strike today with a warning they are planning similar one-day stoppages every week until their pay demands are met. The strike at the BBC blacked out news coverage on the publicly-owned corporation's two television and four main domestic radio channels as well as BBC's world radio services. Brief bulletins, prepared by non-striking or executive personnel, were read at intervals.

Blast Delays Flights

NEW YORK (AP) — The bomb explosion at La Guardia Airport will delay thousands of travellers and increase air traffic loads at already holiday-taxed Kennedy and Newark airports. La Guardia, which normally handles about 1,100 flights daily, will be closed until at least 10:30 p.m. EST today, said Port Authority Chairman William Ronan. The airport was evacuated and shut down shortly after the blast Monday night.

Mayor Wants Tax Exemption To Be Continued

OSHAWA, Ont. (CP) — Mayor Jim Potticary says he has asked the provincial government to extend its sales-tax exemption for the purchase of new automobiles, at least for 1976.

Speaking for the city, as well as 13 other Ontario communities involved in various aspects of the automobile industry, Mayor Potticary made the request in a telegram Monday to Premier William Davis.

As chairman of the committee of mayors of Ontario automotive municipalities centres, Mayor Potticary urged the government to continue its exemption of the seven per cent sales tax for new cars next year.

In the telegram, he said reintroduction of the tax would only add to the inflation problem the province is experiencing.

"It is essential that our people remain employed in the auto industry throughout Ontario," the telegram said.

Mayor Potticary said today in an interview that the government's decision July 7 to allow the sales tax on automobiles through to the end of 1975 was "probably the determining factor leading to the best year the Canadian automotive industry has experienced."

Hercules Back on Duty After Major Repairs

BY JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

CFB TRENTON — An emergency repair program, designed to prevent the wings from falling off the C-130 Hercules E-model aircraft, grounded the entire 32-aircraft Canadian Forces fleet from August 2 until the final plane took flying duty on 108 days, November 19. The inspection, which discovered cracks in the wings of some of the Canadian Forces aircraft, was ordered after a Saturn Airlines Hercules crashed during landing in the United States. One of the wings of the commercial aircraft cracked and fell off, killing everyone on board the plane.

All operations of the Hercules fleet, including northern resupply missions, and search and rescue patrols were cut back, with essential work such as supplying remote bases being done by five newer Canadian Forces E-model Hercules.

Spokesmen for the department of national defence said only one or two summer exercises had to be cancelled or postponed because of the aircraft grounding.

In addition to the emergency repair program, all the Hercules took part in an $8.2 million centre wing improvement program completed last year. An additional outer-wing improvement program had been scheduled but was postponed to allow the emergency repairs to be completed. The outer wing program will take 1.5 years to complete at a cost of $7.7 million.

Major R. H. Ranson, head of service repair section for aircraft at CFB Trenton said the programs are normal preventative plane maintenance. The aircraft were only ordered grounded for the emergency repair program conducted this year.

The Hercules were only 19 years old, coming into service between 1963-67. The original price of the aircraft was $2.8 million and they were purchased from the Lockheed Aircraft Corp. in the United States.

All of the wing repair programs were done by Northwest Industries, and Edmonton based firm.

The Hercules aircraft goes in for periodic inspections every 2500 flying hours or 100 days, which ever come first. It was during one of these inspections that the wing cracks for the $8.2 million program were discovered.

During the emergency grounding the planes were only able to ferry them to the repair base in Edmonton. The Hercules aircraft are based in Trenton and Edmonton.

Cypriot Freighter Lost at Sea

MIAMI (AP) — A Cyprio-registered freighter and its 22 crew members have been listed too late and too overdue to arrive at Port Cartier, Que., six days after sending a distress signal off Cape Fear, N.C., the U.S. Coast Guard said today.

"The search officially is suspended, pending further developments," said coast guard spokesman Steve Frazier in Miami.

Asked if that meant the men were presumed dead, he said: "They're considered lost at sea. We haven't received any confirmation that the vessel arrived at any port."

The 318-foot Imbros radioed a distress signal the morning of Dec. 16, but has not been heard from since.

A dry-cargo ship, with a crew consisting of Greeks, Nigerians, Jordanians and Pakistanis, had given its position at about 32 to 140 miles southeast of Cape Fear.

At the time of the distress signal, it was battling seas six to eight feet with winds about 30 miles an hour, officials said.

A coast guard search turned up no sign of the vessel, which was due at Port Cartier, near the mouth of the St. Lawrence River, with a load of railway ties Dec. 24.

The Imbros carried a 30-man lifeboat and a 20-man life raft, officials said.

Politicians Find Prince Edward County Attractive in 1975

BY MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — A glance at Picton and Prince Edward County in 1975 reveals major strides in the community, among them the opening of a new arena in Wellington, a new county home for the aged and a new registry office.

On Jan. 4, 1975 the Wellington District Community Centre was officially opened just one year and 17 days after the arena site was destroyed by fire.

Two days later, on Jan. 6, newly elected Picton mayor Donald King gave his inaugural address to town council.

Mayor King listed improvements to the sanitary sewer plant, preparation of secondary plans for the Picton-Hallowell urban area and organization of a street construction program for the town among 1975's priorities.

He referred to a significant inflationary trend and added, "It is perhaps more necessary than in any time in the past that we obtain estimated costs of the improvements we would like to make and to set priorities for those things most necessary."

On Jan. 7, 1975 South Marysburg reeve Clifford Walker was installed as warden of Prince Edward County.

"We must push ahead to make Prince Edward County a better place to live. We must entice compatible industry and development," he said during his inaugural speech.

The new McFarland Memorial Home, built at a cost of $1.7 million, was opened to the public in February and more than 2,000 visitors toured the new facility, citizens' residence. On Aug. 30 the home was officially opened by Member of Community and Social Services Rene Brunelle.

An official moving day for residents of the old county home was held Feb. 9 and has been referred to by warden Clifford Walker as a major highlight of 1975 in Prince Edward.

Minister of Transport John Rhodes visited Picton in mid-February and was guest speaker for the annual meeting of the Prince Edward Chamber of Commerce. His topic was a bridge he proposed to replace the existing bay bridge at Belleville.

In March, The County as a Classroom, a community education program sponsored through the Prince Edward County Board of Education was introduced.

On April 15, Ontario premier William Davis visited Picton to open the new registry office here. He was accompanied by Minister of Public Services James Snow and Hugh Handleman, minister of consumer and commercial relations.

Prince Edward County council passed a 1975 budget approving a 58-per centincrease in revenue to be raised by the county last May.

In June, former Canadian prime minister John Diefenbaker visited Picton to dedicate the chancel area of the Prince Edward County museum in memory of Picton's late mayor H.J. McFarland.

With the announcement of a provincial election in August, three candidates stepped forward in the Prince Edward — Lennox riding.

Incumbent Progressive Conservative MPP for the riding James Taylor defeated Liberal standard-bearer Keith MacDonald of Hallowell and New Democratic Party candidate Jan Nicol in the September election.

Mr. Taylor was named minister of community and social services in October.

The Labor Day weekend in Prince Edward was highlighted by the 1975 running of the Gold Cup Races and Beverley Brough of Athol was crowned Miss Gold Cup in a pageant held at the Elk's Hall.

In October, details of Ontario Hydro's plan for a new 230 KV transmission line that will supply power to Prince Edward County were outlined during a press conference.

Prince Edward County's traffic fatalities total for 1975 sky rocketed Nov. 7 when five Picton Township residents were killed in a two-car collision on Highway 14.

Shortly afterward Picton mayor Donald King announced the organization of a traffic safety committee.

In December, during the last regular session of county council warden Clifford Walker described the successful move of residents of the old county home for the aged to the new H.J. McFarland Memorial Home as the highlight of his year in office.

He also told council although there has been much controversy concerning the county's welfare department the county has "the best county road system in the province."

A deficit of approximately $27,000 was reported in the 1975 roads budget.

Mayor King Says Lock-up Major Priority in New Year

PICTON — In 1975 Picton town council made several major decisions including the approval of improvements to the sewage plant at a total cost of approximately $1 million says major Donald King.

Mayor King recently noted that the improvements to the plant now are in progress and should be completed in November, 1976 according to the terms of the decision week contract.

The construction of storm and sanitary sewers on Hill Street also is underway at an approximate cost of $123,000. This work is part of phase two of the reconstruction of Hill Street.

The major said a free-parking lot was constructed on Mary Street at a cost of $1,000 to accommodate Picton shoppers.

Mayor King noted the work was done on the recommendation of town council's traffic and parking committee.

He said that a matter of prime concern for council in 1976 will be an investigation of lock-up facilities here. A committee of council has been named to study the issue.

Building permits in Picton in 1975 totalled almost $2 million and mayor King said he feels a further increase in assessment should be reflected in 1976. This will assist the town in meeting additional costs of long-term debt charges.

Mayor King observed that, hopefully, the tax rate can be maintained in 1976 within the guidelines now proposed by the federal and provincial governments.

He said that all town departments have made every effort to stay within their budget during 1975 and he added that possibly a small surplus will be realized if there are no unforeseen circumstances.

Mayor King now is completing his first term in office. He was elected in December, 1974, and defeated former mayor James Bird who was running for re-election.

District at a Glance

Garbage Schedule Altered

TWEED — Garbage collection here will revert to a once-a-week service effective Jan. 5, 1976. This is in keeping with a practice started last year, when for the winter months only it was decided that a door-to-door garbage pick up was not necessary.

Motel Changes Hands

TWEED — Mr. and Mrs. George Vizino of Pontypool, Ont. have purchased the Bay Place Motel in Tweed from Mr. and Mrs. Sanford Wilson, who have operated the motel for over 12 years.

Mr. and Mrs. Wilson said they plan on spending some time in Florida this winter, and will be building a home in Tweed in the spring.

Tenders Sought

ERINSVILLE — Transportation and Communication Minister James Snow recently announced that tenders have been called for grading, drainage, granular base, paving and hot mix patching on Highway 41 from ½ mile south of Erinsville northerly for 9.9 miles.

Tenders will be opened for this project at ministry headquarters in Toronto next month.

Parties Popular

PICTON — Parties to toast the new year this week are being planned in Picton and Prince Edward County, with crowds already reported for several.

A limited number of tickets remains available for the New Year's Ball at Rickerton Castle where music will be provided by Mr. Glen and group. Tickets are $10 per couple and include dancing, novelties and a light buffet.

A sell-out is reported for the annual New Year's Eve dance at Prince Edward Yacht Club. Tickets for this popular event sold at $15 per couple.

The County whirlers Square Dance Club this year anticipates its largest New Year's Eve hoe down to date with 22 squares already booked for the party at Picton Edward Collegiate Institute.

In Wellington, Auld Lang Syne will be sung during a New Year's Eve dance at the Wellington District Community Centre. Tickets are $20 per couple and include a buffet.

Picton's Globe Hotel will celebrate the arrival of 1976 with a party this year, a spokesman said Monday that the charge per couple has not yet been decided.

A Key Issue

With New Year's Eve just a day away it's time for jotting down a few New Year's resolutions and this Picton — owned cat seems intent on getting his pledges on paper. He appears to be having problems, however, in striking all the right keys not to mention his difficulties in locating the margin release.

Madoc Hotel, Bartender Avait Liquor Verdict

MADOC — Madoc Hotel Ltd. and Carl Spatola, 25, of Madoc, a hotel bartender, will appear in provincial court here Jan. 27 at which time the verdict will be delivered on Ontario Liquor Licensing Act (OLLA) charges laid against them.

A Crown attorney's office spokesman of Belleville said Monday trials on the charges were held here Dec. 29 before Judge R.C. Jackson who reserved judgement.

The hotel company is charged with permitting persons under 18 years of age on licensed premises and Spatola is charged with knowingly serving liquor to persons under 18 years of age.

The charges followed a raid Nov. 21 at Madoc Hotel at 23 North Durham St. by Ontario Provincial Police at Madoc and liquor law enforcement officers.

OLLA charges against five Madoc youths in connection with the same raid have already been disposed of.

Minaric Found Guilty Of Dousing OPP Officer

Michael Minaric, 27, of RR 1, Deseronto will appear in Hastings County Court here Jan. 19 at 11 a.m. for sentencing on a charge of dousing a police officer with an explosive substance with intent to do bodily harm.

A Crown attorney's office spokesman said Monday Minaric was found guilty by Judge Russell C. Honey following a one-day trial at the Hastings County Courthouse here Dec. 19.

Minaric was charged by Deseronto police that on or about Dec. 31, 1974 on the Tyendinaga Reserve he threw an explosive substance upon Constable Lynn Acres of Ontario Provincial Police at Deseronto with intent to do bodily harm.

Court was told the incident arose after a Deseronto police officer arrested a man for impaired driving on a road which borders Deseronto and the reserve and several men took the driver into a nearby house.

Testimony revealed disturbances occurred both inside and outside the house after three provincial police officers — two from Belleville and one from Napanee — and a reserve policeman responded to the Deseronto officer's call for assistance.

Damage Extensive

ATHOL — A Prince Edward County motorist escaped injury early today when his vehicle left Point Petre Road in Athol Township.

Police Sgt. Norman Jewell, 31, RR 1 Cherry Valley, swerved to miss a deer at it ran in front of his car.

Damage to the vehicle was estimated at $1,[illegible].

collision which occurred at 7 a.m.

During an outside struggle, a petroleum product was issued in the direction of Constable Acres and set afire, officer was told.

Although some petroleum splashed onto Constable Acres' pants, he moved away before the fire could spread to him, witnesses testified.

Various charges laid against other men involved in the incident were disposed of earlier this year.

Pet of the Week

This eight week-old pup is one of a litter of five available now for adoption at the Quinte branch of the Ontario Humane Society. The female pup is part collie and German shepherd. The shelter is located north on Avondough Rd.-

Free Shots For Pets

A move to control the number of dogs and cats in Northumberland County becoming infected with rabies has resulted in the organization of free rabie shot clinics.

A spokesman for the health of animals division of the department of agriculture said this week the clinics were organized on the requests from various county councils about the number of animals recently bitten.

Clinics will be held Jan. 5, at Henry's Station in Campbellford from 2:30 a.m. until noon; on Jan. 6 at Castleton Town Hall from 9:30 a.m. until noon and 2 p.m. until 4:30 p.m. at Brighton Youth Centre on Jan. 6.

Monday, a clinic was held in Trenton.

Past and Future In Belleville

Belleville can look back on a year of considerable growth and with more to come in 1976.

In addition to the major Century Place project well on the way to completion and occupancy, a number of other new commercial enterprises have come into being. Much of it, embracing office and business blocks, is concentrated in North Front Street, but there is a new bank too on Dundas Street; it is staffed entirely by women.

Expansion of the Quinte Mall is in the offing and this will generate an estimated $250,000 or more in city taxes. A mini-mall is also scheduled at the corner of Coleman and Moira streets.

Inflation of course has bitten hard into the financing plotting. A number of projected city work programs are among those affected. Sewage costs are up too. Hillcrest ratepayers have been hit hard in this context and Mayor Corbin has been seeking provincial assistance for them.

Lack of space for new housing is a problem and there seems no immediate prospect of the Quinte Exhibition moving elsewhere to ease this situation. Nor is it considered desirable by many. One suggestion is that the Fairgrounds act as a buffer zone. Certainly it is a link between town and country which in the present location has a certain merit and charm.

Another issue is the perennial one relating to possible relocation of the CP south end rail tracks. Again, if this were to materialize Belleville would have more development space, but in this instance too there are obstacles. Neither Sidney nor Thurlow townships is willing at this point to entertain any thought of accommodating Belleville by absorbing the track in its jurisdiction.

Belleville's capacity for growth, though has been proven of late. There is the prospect of further development on the waterfront; an apartment complex is scheduled there. At time passes solutions to space problems likely will present themselves. Difficult economic times notwithstanding, the city will grow.

Prospects for 1976

Next year . . . what will it bring? For Canada and for the world?

It could be wishful thinking to suppose that things will improve greatly. In the context, that is, of the peace and goodwill that are invoked but not necessarily achieved during the Christmas season. And looking at the world as a whole. Relations between east and west are still dictated by the mutual strength of the United States and the Soviet Union. On the one hand, however, we are told that the Soviets are drawing ahead in nuclear capability, that the future of the arms limitation talks are uncertain, that detente — the ideal of live-and-let-live — may not work out. It is said also that the Soviet leadership at some time in the future, should it determine the time is ripe and the knowledge its nuclear strike power could ensure a devastating initial assault, might well launch a nuclear attack on North America.

Is this in the realm of fantasy? There are observers who think not, even if it may be something for the future.

On the other hand, we are told that the Soviet military food reserves are inadequate to feed its huge population, and that it continues to rely heavily on grain imports from Canada and the United States. Would such a country, militarily strong as it is but short on domestic food reserves, and behind the western world in other respects as well, risk such a desperate gamble?

Only, surely, if the U.S. and its allies drop their guard to such an extent that it would seem feasible.

What about the brush-fire wars and the growing curse of guerrilla and terrorist action?

Northern Ireland . . . the Middle East, . . . Argentina. What about political assassination and kidnapping? Can we really expect any lessening of these and other tragic manifestations of activism and intransigence in 1976?

What about our own situation here in Canada? Next year Montreal is host to the Olympic Games. There is an event that comes closer than most human endeavor in the elusive task of finding common ground, providing competition and at the same time a base for sublimating men's passions and distrust of one another. A majestic and colorful event dating back to ancient Greece. Yet four years ago, in Munich, it too became an arena for terror and political ends.

A massive security plan is in the making, involving police and military. But given the ingenuity and cold-blooded propensities of the terrorist mind we shall only know when the Games are over whether every eventuality will have been foreseen, let alone prevented. And even then — and this is important — it should be borne in mind that international terrorists might simply bypass Montreal and strike elsewhere. Perhaps even in other parts of Canada.

Another year then . . . 1976. We may hope for peace and brotherhood, but unless there are some miracles in the offing, and unless mankind radically changes its ways, the pattern of events may be otherwise.

UN Turns a Blind Eye to Religious Intolerance

The Trentonian

A Russian "prisoner" release feels of a Baptist minister who was sentenced to several years in prison, as a disturber of the peaceful state and various other things. He was because the man had attempted to start a series of churches, with much success, in which he separated from the major legalized Russian Baptist organization. He preached what the Bern called "brethren" principles, which was held to be a crime under Russian law.

In Malawi, Africa, the Jehovah's Witnesses continue to be the hell of persecution because they will not sign cards declaring (through members of Malawi's ruling party).

In principle, the incidents are related. Religious freedom, in the mouths of states such as Russia, Malawi, and many others, means being allowed as much religion as will not interfere with the ruling political philosophy, and in no sense means the freedom to worship God as one pleases, and to do what the apostles said a man must do: "We ought to obey God rather than men."

Religious freedom involves a number of things which one would certainly not expect the nonsectarian UN to include. It which has caused religion out of its sanctuary, to be undermined or defeated.

These things seem simple, but they are produced in the difference between a free society and authoritarian rules of any kind.

One is the absolute separation of church and state. This means the one does not interfere with the other. The state allows diversity in religion, with no favors to any group, and no penalties for differencing a belief and practice.

Another is freedom of conscience. This includes the right to say No to some things, including political or other philosophies, without being penalized.

Another is the right both to practice one's religion and to propagate it, without interference from secular authorities.

When the state reverts to terror tactics to make people do what is against their conscience, or seeks to allow only such religion as it sees fit, notably that which will knuckle under to any demand the state makes, it is on wrong ground.

"Then shall two be in the field; the one shall be taken, and the other left. Two women shall be grinding at the mill; the one shall be taken, and the other left. Watch therefore: for ye know not what hour your Lord doth come." Matthew 24: 40-42

The day the true church leaves here, there will be confusion beyond compare. The way to be among that number is to simply invite Jesus into your life for a complete take over. Here is a prayer that will make the provision. God, I acknowledge that I am a sinner and need to be saved. I plead the blood of Jesus over my sins and receive Him as my Savior. God be merciful to me a sinner in Jesus' name. Amen.

argument advanced to defend it, is that we have merely exercised the political conflict, leading to brutal retaliation and expression of civil liberties.

Surely all citizens of the world have a stake in being free from terrorism and violence. Yet the sad fact is that there has been resistance to taking community action against terrorism. Our last August Secretary of State Kissinger urged the United Nations to consider an American proposal to combat such international terrorist methods as kidnapping, murder and "other brutal acts," but it met with disappointing response.

The problem is that many nations and groups are quite willing to condemn terrorist acts for political ends. Acts of terrorism may be observed in general, but violence in another man's terrorism, Many Arabs, for instance, feel that violence is the only effective weapon available to them in their struggle to regain lands occupied by Israel. Many African nations are concerned that international controls would be directed against their "just" struggles for liberation.

Thus, in some cases states are reluctant to move against terrorism because of sympathies with the latter's political aspirations. Hence the dilemma remains of finding a definition of terrorism that does not irritate political sensitivities.

The events of last week promise to reach international agreement that would which victimize innocent persons or that report terrorism in countries not involved in the conflicts — in this case, Austria — should be considered. This at least would be a beginning.

Grigory Rasputin, evil genius of the Russian court, was murdered 59 years ano today—in 1916—after Russian noblemen decoyed him to an all-night party. A self-proclaimed holy man, Rasputin had been brought to the court about 10 years before and became the empress's confessor owing to his apparent power over the health of her son, who suffered from a wasting disease. After Rasputin's murder, she recovered. His body from the river and buried it at the imperial summer palace.

1835—United States bought 43,333 square miles of Mexico for $15 million in Gadsden Purchase.

1865—British author and poet Rudyard Kipling was born.

1935—Adolf Hitler's will and marriage contract were published.

1956 — A statement by the Motor Vehicle Manufacturers' Association said one in every four cars built in Canada since 1953 had to be recalled because of possible defects.

1975—Thirty-nine miners were feared dead after an explosion in a coal mine in mountainous southeast Kentucky.

Third World Collective Bargainers

Montreal Gazette

The poor nations, which greatly outnumber the rich, are coming together for the same reason that poor factory workers come together earlier: the century, because there is unity in strength; collective bargaining can win more than isolated diskering. The Third World has, in effect, formed a union, and it is using the General Assembly as its medium of expression, its newspaper.

Controls Issue of Credibility

Ottawa Le Droit: Inside Credibility in the controls and in the federal cabinet hinged on the outcome of the postal conflict.

And the government did not even have to pass back-to-work legislation, a move which could have been justified, in view of the approaching holiday season.

Such a law would only have strengthened solidarity against a return to work, when there is a large segment of the population prepared to approve of such legislation.

'No Freeze' on MP's Pay

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

If anyone has been wondering why labor has been screaming foul over the wage controls they should re-read the Dec. 19 and 20 newspapers. The increase Mr. Trudeau gave himself and his cohorts is a prime example. $700 doesn't sound like much but remember it is tax free and would be equivalent to almost twice that amount if it were a taxable pay increase. They also impressed everyone with their need for an expense account. Always flying home for free at the taxpayer's expense.

There is therefore no freeze on MP's salaries or on the salaries of judges because they were not given any raise in pay during that period anyway. Mr. Trudeau's aide has even cast doubts on saving money on staff cuts as he is cutting low paid staff and bringing in high paid staff. Again it is the low-paid workers who suffer.

The surtax imposed on those who have an income of $20,000 or more is a hoax. The surtax is on taxable income and all these people have ways and means of reducing that taxable income such as owning a small business or firm which operates at a loss. Even if all don't have some way of reducing their taxable income there are only 2 per cent of the taxpayers who earn more than $25,000.

This is the situation under the guidelines. A man making $25,000 a year is allowed a raise of 8.8 per cent but the taxpayers can find a loop-hole must forfeit 8.8 per cent. A man who makes $7,000 a year is high percentage of taxpayers) can look forward to a increase of 8.8 per cent this time, $420 next year and $320 in the year after. The guidelines are a maximum of 8 per cent and 6 per cent. The 6 per cent not 10 per cent or 12 per cent as many newspapers report. It takes him three years to get as many newspapers report. It takes him three years to get half of what the other person which the cent is acceptible would almost surely break out. And after Vietnam, Cambodia anyone care to argue that the U.S. should get involved in another guerilla war?

The U.S. has interests to protect in the canal. The way to protect them is not by force but by statesmanship which recognizes Panama's just claims.

Olympics Drugs and The Athlete

Kingston Whig-Standard

Horse racing has some reason, always has been some what of a shady business and it is now taken for granted that winning horses shall be given blood tests to see how much is in the system. Bomber crews and commanders who took them during war time to keep them up during long missions often swore by them. It is found that the human frame has only so much energy and that stimulants, placebos, or pharmacologically inactive substitutes, seem to be just as effective as the real thing. Granted that one athlete is not privy to the other's drugs. Many experts now believe faith is the only important factor.

Canadian girl competitor in the Pan-Am games who showed up positive in a test. It turns out she had taken an anti-congestant and taken it before the event.

Just how effective drugs are in such cases is very much in dispute. Bomber crews and commanders who took them during war time to keep up long missions often swore by them. It is found that the human frame has only so much energy and that stimulants, placebos, or pharmacologically inactive substitutes, seem to be just as effective as the real thing. Granted that one athlete is not privy to the other's drugs. Many experts now believe faith is the only important factor.

40 YEARS AGO

Belleville's Men's Chorus, under the direction of Rene Hunter, presented a Christmas concert for the city relief fund at the Capitol Theatre on Sunday evening.

Do users of the post office now have a right to believe that the events of last week mean the end of 10 years of labor difficulties? Certainly not.

Despite its victory, the government cannot guarantee that "industrial peace" will reign in the post office. When one person in two returns to work against his will, this only means that there is a chance in two of further labor trouble.

The strike was painful for many Canadians, but there will undoubtedly be more strife in the post office.

EAST NEW YEAR'S ENTERTAINING

There's still time to plan a last-minute New Year's Eve get-together. Or perhaps you'll extend the season with a Twelfth Night Party, where guests help to take down decorations and burn evergreen boughs in the fireplace.

For festive-though-easy food, build your menu around cheese, crackers, and the holiday cakes and cookies you have on hand.

Cheese trays for the average party call for at least 5 or 6 types - from creamy to hard, mild to sharp. Allow a minimum of 3 or 4 ounces (total) per person. Buy larger amount of such popular types as cheddar, Swiss and Blue - smaller amounts of less familiar kinds. And remember the color and flavor freshness provided by an accompanying bowl of fruits.

Amateur Television Broadcasts Grow from Ham Radio Hobby

Ron Mason has his own test pattern.

BY SHARON AIRHART

A few months ago, Ron Mason decided he had gone about as far as he could with his hobby of 20 years duration, amateur or ham radio.

So, naturally, he took the next logical step. Amateur Television.

Broadcasting on ultra high frequency, Mr. Mason sends picture signals to fellow hobbyist Howard Fralick who lives across the city.

Mr. Fralick, who has been a ham radio operator since 1950, was at the same stage of his avocation: he wanted to build something new.

Together they built transmitters and receivers, using as Mr. Mason puts it, "a home brew of equipment."

"This isn't closed circuit television," he explains, "like you'd see in a school, but actual broadcast television. We operate exactly like a commercial television station."

Mr. Mason, a music teacher at Moira Secondary School, has his equipment in the basement of his Elmwood Drive home. An old television set, its insides rebuilt by Mr. Mason, is the receiver. A purchased television camera together with a home-built transmitter completes the equipment along with a 15 foot antenna.

"It should be a 50-foot antenna," Mr. Mason adds, "but it works."

The power, usually three to four watts, gives them a range of about 20 miles.

With their amateur television set-up, Mr. Mason and Mr. Fralick are among as elite few in Canada, two of about a dozen such hobbyists in the country.

But Mr. Mason believes that within 10 years, half of all amateur radio operators will be televising their own image and receiving the image of other hams.

"This is a real breakthrough," Mr. Mason stresses.

"For all of these years, people have only been able to listen to each other. Now we'll be able to see each other, too."

Obviously, Mr. Mason didn't build the television equipment just so that he could see Mr. Fralick, who lives seven miles across the city on Palmer Road. The object of the exercise was to see if they could do it.

"The first pictures were very poor and you could barely make them out," Mr. Mason says, "but when we began getting a good image, it was a thrilling moment."

The equipment does not transmit simultaneous pictures of each other but each receiver, or television set, shows the same picture, depending on who is broadcasting. Currently, the men transmit sound on the two-meter band of their radio equipment rather than with the television picture, although they do have the capability to do so.

Howard Fralick, who retired this year after 35 years with Northern Electric, operates a small scale television fix-it business.

"There's no danger of picking our signals up on ordinary television," Mr. Mason explains, since its on a lower frequency than television sets can receive.

They have, however, assisted a number of Belleville hams in modifying their own televisions to receive the Mason-Fralick signals.

It took the men only a month to construct the equipment, drawing on years of reading and experience. The parts for the set up cost less than $200.

"That's scrounging parts from surplus equipment," Mr. Mason says, adding that he expects that commercial electronics companies will cash in and manufacture equipment in the same way ham equipment, once all home-made, is available for purchase.

Mr. Mason, who is also an instructor at the airport and who has constructed airplanes and sailing boats, says that with little extra effort, the pair can convert to color broadcasting.

They continue to operate under their ordinary ham broadcasting licenses which are the only permits necessary for televising images. They are, of course, restricted from advertising.

Besides using the equipment for looking at each other, Mr. Mason has videotaped family scenes complete with sound-like gift opening on Christmas morning - and replayed them on his television receiver. He also broadcast the tape for the viewing pleasure of the Fralick family.

For the future, Mr. Mason hopes to construct a solid state system to allow him to be completely mobile, transmitting and receiving as he drives. He is also looking forward to a time when many hams will have television capabilities so that they can hold "round tables", popular among hams, complete with pictures.

"You reach a stage in every hobby where there's no place left to go", Mr. Mason says, "and that's when you've got to start something new."

Hadley — Kerr

St. Margaret's-on-the-hill was the scene of the December 5 wedding of Janet Marie Kerr and Brian Peter Hadley.

The bride is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Ronald Kerr; the groom is the son of Mr. and Mrs. Edward Hadley.

Rev. Virgil F. Earle officiated.

Given in marriage by her mother and father, the bride wore a sleeveless polyester dress with matching hooded cape trimmed with merlin and a flowing train. She carried a nosegay of silk flowers made up of pink roses and white carnations.

Jackie Weaver, Toronto, was the bride's attendant in a pink polyester gown with burgundy cape. She carried nosegay of silk pink silk white flowers. Cheryle Hadley, sister of the groom, was junior bridesmaid in a long pink crepe dress with white flowered bodice. She carried silk pink and white flowers.

David Hadley, the groom's brother was best man assisted by Preston Kerr, the bride's brother.

After a dinner and dance at the Elk's Lodge Hall, the couple left on a wedding trip to points east.

They reside in Kingston.

Eighteen member and three guests were in attendance.

It was decided to give a donation to the Thurlow Rescue squad to help pay for their new equipment.

All joined in the singing or Christmas Carols. Several readings were given by Dorothy Fargey.

Pictures were taken of the group and also pictures were taken of the former presidents and secretaries for the Tweedsmuir History Book.

There was an exchange of Christmas gifts by the members.

No More Barriers

TORONTO (CP) — Co-educational sports will come into effect at University of Toronto next year. The athletic directorate has decided to provide intramural sports for completely open competition in all sports including football. Two girls had recently complained about being prevented from playing in the university's soccer house league.

Social Information For Brides-to-Be

Engagement announcements should be brought to the women's desk of The Intelligencer from 8.30 a.m. to 4 p.m. weekdays. Those without photographs cost $4.50, and those with photographs cost $8.00.

Wedding notices should be brought to the women's desk upstairs at The Intelligencer, between 8.30 a.m. and 3 p.m. weekdays, or from 9 a.m. to noon on Saturdays. Information about weddings should be set down on wedding forms available from either the main desk or the women's desk. Here is no charge for the insertion of the wedding, but a charge of $4.00 is made for reproduction of a photograph.

Black and white glossy photographs are recommended for the best reproduction in the newspaper. If, however, you have only color photos, bring the negative so that it can be used to make a black and white print.

Women's Christian Temperance Union

'We're Going to Pray in the Taverns Again'

EVANSTON, Ill. (AP) — The Women's Christian Temperance Union still is in business, trying to rekindle prohibition, and branching out into other fields.

Fifty-five years ago, the WCTU ushered in the 18th Amendment to the United States constitution and the country went nearly 14 years without a legal glass of booze.

Bootleg whisky and the gin-swizzling days of the Roaring '20s undermined the WCTU's efforts, and the 21st Amendment in 1933 ended the organization's reign over the country's drinking habits.

Since then, the WCTU has been trying, without success, to reduce liquor, beer and wine consumption. Even Evanston, where the WCTU has its international headquarters, decided to open the taps in 1972, after more than a century without liquor.

Nevertheless, temperance advocates are hopeful. Eventually, they say, America has to admit it has a drinking problem. Government statistics show the five billion gallons of liquor, wine and beer sold annually for more than $23 billion have created 9 million alcoholics and nine million problem drinkers.

The WCTU also has opposed cigarette use for years and is pleased that scientific studies have borne out its contentions about tobacco's evils.

"There's a greater interest in temperance movements now because there's a great concern over the alcohol problem in the United States," said Edith Stanley, the WCTU's president. "Alcohol involves many facets of society today—crime, violence, home problems and child abuse. There is pressure for a person to drink.

The WCTU is also engaging in other fields. For five years it has fought drug addiction and venereal disease. Its efforts have included seminars, public school programs, and lobbying for laws against the sale of pipes, cigarette paper and the like.

Mrs. Stanley said today's problems are similar to those in 1873 when women entered saloons praying and singing hymns in an effort to curtail the use of alcohol. Twenty-three states closed thousands of liquor establishments as a result of that crusade, a year later, the WCTU was formed.

However, after the repeal of prohibition in 1933, the number of dry states sharply declined. None were dry until 1966 although the ban remains in some cities.

Events have not dampened the spirits of the WCTU.

After declining for decades, the membership has remained constant at about 250,000 in the United States, the majority over 30 years of age. About 25,000 youngsters belong to the Loyal Temperance Legion for children between 6 and 12 and there are 18,000 members of the Youth Temperance Council for those between 13 and 20.

Throughout the years, the WCTU has challenged federal officials. It chided the late President Lyndon Johnson for his frequent use of liquor. Recently, it criticized Betty Ford for her public comments about premarital sex and marijuana use.

Mrs. Stanley, who is in her 60s, indicated that little change of a ban on the sale of liquor and tobacco. "They have powerful lobbies," she said. "The majority were dry then, but still we elect legislators who are concerned about the problem."

Some historians contend that the WCTU's impact has been significant in laying the foundation of the current women's liberation movement. But the organization shies from today's women's rights advocates, except on the issue of equal pay for equal work.

"Women, shouldn't act like men," Mrs. Stanley said. "A woman has a sacred job in keeping the home and caring for children. They're not in bondage as mothers; it's one of the highest privileges given to mankind."

The WCTU, operating with a national staff of 35, pumps out literature, pamphlets and film strips on an annual budget of $200,000. State groups raise three times that amount through membership dues of $2.65 a year.

Mrs. Stanley, who became president last year after 15 years as vice president, perhaps resembles in many ways the WCTU crusaders of the past. She is simply religious. A member of the United Methodist Church, her mother belonged to the WCTU in its early days.

As a youngster, Mrs. Stanley joined the Royal Temperance Legion and, at 13, the national organization. But her temperance activities were put aside when she decided to become a missionary in Africa. In pursuit of this goal, she earned a master's degree at University of Cincinnati, but her sister died and Mrs. Stanley returned to Indiana, where she and her husband raised the sister's two children.

In 1940, Mrs. Stanley was hired as director of education for the Indiana WCTU and she was president of the group from 1948 to 1959. Then she became national promotions secretary.

She has backed movements to raise the legal drinking age to 21 and argues that stricter enforcement of existing laws would help curb liquor and drug abuses.

Mrs. Stanley said the WCTU must bring younger people into leadership roles. "Every organization needs new blood. I'm tired of the WCTU being called a group of old women with nothing better to do."

One such young leader is Rosalita Leonard, the 30-year-old president of the Evanston chapter of the WCTU and national director of the Youth Temperance Council.

Like many of her peers she left her career as a teacher to initiate change within the system, however, Miss Leonard chose temperance.

Although many of her notions are fresh approaches toward temperance education she said a dash of the old WCTU tactics might help.

"It takes extremes to get the public's attention," she said. "Like the most movements, the temperance movement has settled down. A resistance might be necessary. One of these years we're going to pray in taverns again."

Alberta Film Promotes Block Parent Program

EDMONTON (CP) — A 17-minute film called Where Can You Run? has been produced in Edmonton by Tissel and Sham Productions Ltd. to teach children where they can get help when they have a problem.

The film is about Edmonton's mushrooming block-parent program, a co-operative project of the city police department, school boards and citizen volunteers.

Financed by the Active 20-30 Club, the film will be available on request for education and promotion purposes throughout the country, said Staff Sgt. Howard Carter of the police crime prevention unit.

Police Chief Robert Lunney described the film as part of promoting "a preventive policing style, the premise being that the security of a city is dependent on the people themselves."

The block-parent program centres on adult volunteers screened by the police, who display a sign in a window denoting the residence is a block-parent home and a sanctuary for youngsters in trouble.

The bright red sign also serves as a deterrent to anyone who might harass a child.

Chief Lunney said the block-parent program, which began in 1968 as a pilot project in an area involving one school and about 70 parents, has spread throughout the city, with 3,316 block parents covering 162 school areas.

Where Can You Run? is packed with sequences of children at play, with the theme reiterated: "Little children be careful. When there's no one with you, where can you run?

Where can you go?"

It outlines the dangers parents should teach their children about, from strangers, strange animals and old relatives. It emphasizes that the block parent is the safest person to whom a child can run home.

Peter Townsend 'Still British' Although He Lives in France

LONDON (AP)—Lean and boyish, his brown hair flecked with grey, Group Capt. Peter Townsend is back in London despite his vow, taken 20 years ago, when Princess Margaret declared she would not marry him, never to return to England.

The former Royal Air Force flyer, now a writer, says the reason that had to married a Belgian woman, lives in France and speaks French with his family is "simply and very decidedly things British."

"Absolutely not," he said firmly. "I'm totally British by sentiment, but French by reflex."

Townsend, who will be 61 this month, said in an interview he has rarely asked about his romance with the Queen's sister. He said he fell in love with a French cuisine and the French way of life in the 1950s and, after his marriage in 1959 to Marie Luce, daughter of a Belgian manufacturer, it seemed "a natural thing to live in France."

Townsend has three children from his current marriage and two from a previous one.

That first marriage ended divorce in 1952 and he and the British establishment said he had marriage into the Royal Family.

In 1960 Margaret married photographer Antony-Armstrong-Jones, for whom the queen created the earldom of Snowdon. They have two children.

The Snowdons live in Kensington Palace, at the other end of London's royal parks from the Queen's Buckingham Palace. The Townsends live in a converted 13th-century French farmhouse near Rambouillet, about 30 miles from Paris.

On his business trips to London, Townsend usually stays in a hotel in St. James's, a short walk from Clarence House, where Princess Margaret lived before her marriage. It is the residence of the Queen Mother. Townsend said he has had several jobs, the longest as a representative of a British wine companies. "My major activity now is writing," he said.

After his romance with the princess ended, Townsend went on a 57,000-mile, round-the-world journey. He wrote a book about it called Earth Is My Home and a travel film was based on it.

Neither book nor film were successful, but through them he met Marie Luce, who was in the film crew.

Townsend's second book, published in 1970, was a big success. Dust of Eagles was a history of the Battle of Britain, fought in the skies of southeast England in the summer of 1940.

Townsend was there. He shot down 11 German planes in his Hurricane and was given three decorations for gallantry.

He is in London now to discuss publishing arrangements for his third book. "I've called it The Last Emperor," he said. "It's really about the evolution which took place in the British Empire between Queen Victoria's time and the first emperor, and King George VI, who was the last. It's not really a history. It's a fairly fast-moving narrative."

Ann Landers

Baby's Namesake Causes Gossip

Dear Ann: I thought your column was so cool, not to write to, but now I've got a doozie!

I named our baby after my boss. I've been working for him for 12 years and think the world of the man. But honestly, Ann, there was never anything but friendship and respect between us.

My problem is two-fold: (1) People around the office kid him about the baby. Typical: "Well, how is your new son-in-law?" (2) I've been told that my wife doesn't appreciate my naming the baby for him. She calls it 10 and she is 51.!

I'd hate to give up my job over this but I can't continue working here if I don't find a solution. Can you help?—Ken

Dear K.: To quit would look like an admission of guilt. Stay put.

It's too late to change the baby's name, so laugh it off. Before long the jokes will wind down and things will be back to normal again.

Dear Ann Landers: You've probably told your readers a thousand times, but once more won't hurt. Please tell them again: "If you drink, don't drive. If you drive, don't drink."

A young man of 24 was killed two days ago. He was a wonderful guy, but on occasion he drank a little too much. He was parently fell asleep at the wheel of his car, transmitted into a light post and was killed instantly. His passenger was critically injured.

This man had seven children. The youngest was three years old. His wife was so despondent she tried to commit suicide. She is in the hospital now, hovering between life and death.

A cherished one of the deceased's friends say, "I was with her that night. In fact, I was going to drive him home because he had too much to drink. O.K. I didn't want him to get killed or hurt.

How that man wishes he had risked his friend's wrath and taken his car keys away. Had he done so, seven children would not be mourning the death of their father—and seven their mother as well.—Sad in Illinois.

Dear Sad: Yes, I have said it time and time again, but it's worth repeating, especially since tomorrow night is New Year's Eve. "If you drink, don't drive. If you drive, don't drink." A hung-up driver behind the wheel of a car is a potential suicide and-or a murderer.

Dear Ann Landers: The reader who informed you that there is no bull in Boston was right. The animal is rightly called a Boston Terrier. I will also go so far as to tell you there is no Toy, no Screwtail and no Bulldog either.

The Boston Terrier is known as the "American Gentleman." If you don't want to take my word for it, check with the Boston Terrier Club of America in Mendon, Maine, or the American Kennel Club in New York. These noble animals deserve to be properly identified. Thank you.—G.T.M., Jr., Pres., Boston Terrier Club of Louisiana.

Dear President: If you think a dog is man's best friend, you should have seen some of his friends these dogs have. At least the people wrote in behalf of their mistaketo pets. Thank you—one and all.

HUMIDITY AND COMFORT

Mr. McGowan
Nearly 150
J. R. McGowan

During the hot summer months, humidity forces you to take refuge in the drier atmosphere of air conditioning. In the winter, you wonder why the air is so dry that your lips are parched and static electricity pops all over.

Why does humidity seem so much more summer in winter? Because relative humidity is a function of both moisture and temperature. The warmer the air, the more moisture it can hold.

If too much humidity is your problem you may be able to deal with it at the source by installing ducted fans that vent vapors outdoors from the kitchen, laundry and bath. In the summer, if you don't have air conditioning, you may want to invest in a mechanical dehumidifier.

The problem of too little moisture may occur during cold snaps. If you need more moisture, you have many simple types of automatic humidifiers to choose from. One kind is built into the heating system and spreads moisture through the heating ducts. The other requires no ducts and functions much in the manner of a window air-conditioner.

Licence Bureau Busy as More Vehicles Require Permit

BY HARRY MULHALL
Staff Reporter

A post-Christmas buying splurge hit the automotive licence bureau in Belleville Monday.

One reason for the steady demand for registrations throughout the day likely was the fact the office has been closed over the long Christmas holiday.

But, adding to the pressure said George Olsen, licence issuer, were purchasers of new cars anxious to take advantage of a provincial sales tax rebate that runs out Dec. 31 and owners of snowmobiles who must register their machines for the first time under new legislation.

The sales tax rebate has seen car licence applications "up considerably"—even before the new registration issues went on sale in Belleville Dec. 1, said Mr. Olsen.

"For the past couple of months we've been averaging about 100 new registrations a week," he said.

Meanwhile, a sales representative at one of the city's major car dealers said the rebate announced last July on most North America-made automobiles—had stimulated sales "for quite some time."

For the first time, all snowmobiles must be registered in 1976. The small plates which have been standard issue in recent years for machines used off private property, have been discontinued.

Instead, all machines will now be assigned a permanent number—similar to pleasure boat registrations.

Owners of snowmobiles using their machines on public roads must also secure a yearly validation sticker—similar to that for annual automobile registration — costing $10.

The permanent registration of the machines, notably increased the bureau's customers Monday, Mr. Olsen estimated 195 machines had been registered during the day.

For 1976, there's yet another vehicle for which registration is mandatory for the first time—mopeds, the motorized bicycle, said Mr. Olsen. The fee is $5.

Stickers once again will be issued in 1976 for licence renewals.

A new plate issue is not due until 1978

For 1976, there's also fees for motorcycles: $25 for two-cylinder vehicles; $25 for six cylinders and $40 for eight-cylinder models.

One fee, however, shows a jump for 1976. Payment to the unsatisfied judgment fund—for those without necessary covering insurance—is up to $60 from $40.

Builder Urges Associates To Use Smoke Detectors

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Smoke detectors should be installed in all homes — particularly older homes where the threat of fire is usually greater, says Bob Marcotte, president of the Quinte Home Builders Association.

Mr. Marcotte he said this is a personal opinion, he said he intends bringing the matter to the attention of his association executive in the first weeks of January.

"I am going to urge builder members of the association to seriously consider making smoke and fire detectors a standard feature of all new home," he said Monday.

"The devices are a good feature and necessary for adequate protection but we as an association can't force our members into using them across the board," he said.

"In Canada we run a higher risk of fires, not only because of weather but through improper maintenance of furnaces and chimneys," he said. "When the weather turns cool, we jack up the furnace before we check the system — adding to the risk of malfunction and fire," he said

"Any fire protection steps a homeowner takes are good steps," said Mr. Marcotte.

Already, one builder has taken steps to lead the way in builder-installed fire protection devices.

Maurice Rollins Construction Co. Ltd. installs smoke detectors in every home.

Mr. Rollins, president of the company, said during an interview, "I believe builders should take the initiative in the field at least to a limited extent."

"I don't think we should be putting detectors in every room of the house ... as has been suggested," he said. "After all, the coal eventually is passed along to the buyer."

"In new homes, these detectors are not that important but as the house gets older and wiring is modified, the importance grows."

City fire chief Leo Culhane says battery operated detectors "provide great dollars." The fire department suggested smoke detectors as a Christmas gift. Prices range from $20 to $100.

"You can't be too cautious," said the chief.

Asked if he intends approaching city council for a fire bylaw to enforce installation of detectors, he said "It would be pretty rough to get it approved. It's pretty well up to the builder to take the initiative."

Fred Holfelder, marketing manager at International Hardware in Belleville, says the smoke detector market is increasing rapidly as more people become aware of the need.

The Belleville plant has been manufacturing the device for the past 18 months.

Two western provinces have already taken legislative steps to ensure installation of detectors in townhousing and government housing — an indication of the growing acceptance of the device, he said.

Smoke Detector Checked

Eva Whitmore and International Hardware manufacturing foreman Louis Middleton put a new smoke detector through its paces to ensure the device is in working order before it is shipped. Looking on (centre) is plant manager Jim Gill. The Belleville firm has been manufacturing the device since March and reports an active sales market.

Thieves Foiled

Ontario Provincial Police at Belleville investigated two weekend incidents during which more damage was done in an unsuccessful break-in attempt than was wrought at the actual break-in where nothing was stolen.

Police said Monday damage was estimated at $25 to a door at Batawa Ski Club which would-be break-and-enter artists failed to enter sometime between 5-8 p.m. Sunday.

But in the northern end of Tyendinaga Township, damage was estimated at $20 when unknown trespassers smashed a window to gain entrance to a cottage owned by Alexander Campbell of Toronto, to police said.

Nothing was stolen and no further damage resulted in the cottage incident which occurred sometime between Nov. 30 and Dec. 27, police added.

Suspect Remanded

William Arthur Hayes, 18, of 43 St. James St. in Stirling was remanded by Judge J. L. Clendenning in provincial court here Monday to Jan. 5 when a date will be set for trial on charges of theft over $200 and two counts of willful damage under $50.

Hayes appeared Monday for the first time. He is in custody in the Quinte Regional Detention Centre at Napanee.

Also facing the same charges is David Stanley Haile, 20, of 2362 Pine St. in Belleville who will make his first appearance here in provincial court Jan. 5 also.

Ontario Provincial Police allege Belleville are the charges are in connection with the theft of a tow truck from Woodbeck Auto Parts (Stirling) Ltd. at 39 Wellington St. in Stirling and broken windows at both Woodbeck and Wells Ford Mercury Sales Ltd. at 48 Belleville Rd. in Stirling Dec. 23.

Retiring Medical Director Still Supports Self Care

By ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

There is a touch of irony in Wednesday's retirement of Dr. Reginald Anderson as medical director of Belleville General Hospital (BGH).

Quinte area health buffs may recall it was then provincial minister of health, Dr. Richard Potter, who enticed Dr. Anderson away from his job as assistant professor of community health at Queen's University in Kingston in 1967 to set up the Queen's Self-care Unit here and become BGH medical director.

It was just a few short months ago that the BGH Board of Governors upheld its mandatory retirement age policy of 65 years, forcing the severance of Dr. Anderson's attachment with BGH.

And only a few weeks ago, both the board and Dr. Anderson learned a new Ontario government financial restraint policy for 1976 will mean the demise of the self-care unit at the end of next year when the lease runs out for the former Queen's Motel on East Dundas St.

Dr. Anderson has always been a proponent of self-care. He said in an interview Monday, "over the last four years, by a process of exploration, we have discovered many ways a self-care unit can be used profitably and to the benefit of people involved."

However, he noted an essential problem with the current unit from the beginning — it is too big. "It can never employ 70 beds to advantage," he commented.

Dr. Anderson said even if alternate self-care is approved for BGH's Edith Cavell Block, a section of which is proposed for rehabilitation with 20-40 beds, impossible government ceilings on the number of active treatment beds a hospital will be allowed to have, plus the closure of the current unit, will cause a considerable increase in pressure on bed use at BGH.

"The self-care unit has acted as a safety valve," he remarked. "Self-care answers the need of people who require institutional treatment but who don't need to be in a hospital."

Mortgages Follow Rate Of Inflation

The cost of mortgage money in the new year will depend largely on the on the public's reaction to the federal anti-inflation program, says Cecil Brown, manager of Victoria and Grey Trust Co. Ltd.

"When inflation rates go down, mortgage rates will likely follow ... this has been my experience," said Mr. Brown. "While interest rates are not direct reflections of inflation, the two are somehow connected."

Victoria and Grey is the Quinte area's largest mortgage lender and this year has signed out some $17 million in development money. This marks a 17 per cent increase over the previous year, said Mr. Brown.

"It's been a tremendous year generally," said Mr. Brown. "This business for us is a direct reflection on the way Belleville is growing.

He said for his company, the Belleville branch is outpacing V and G counterparts in Kingston and Peterborough — communities that are twice the size of Belleville.

It's difficult to predict what the mortgage market will be the next year, he said, not because of the uncertainty of public reaction to the government price and wage guidelines.

Looking back over the year, interest rates peaked at their current 12½ per cent compared with an August high in 1974 of 12¾ per cent.

"It's been a little different year in that money was available longer during the year and the spell where no money was available at the latter part of July was shorter than usual," said Mr. Brown.

He also said that the winter "slump" in mortgage rates is happening earlier this year.

"Generally builders are looking for housing money from April to November. Traditionally, following the law of supply and demand, rates go up in January and February."

A market survey undertaken by A. E. LePage earlier this month shows mortgage money available in most categories is limited to excellent usage.

In pre-sold and resale home, money is limited to excellent and available from 11¾ to 12 per cent, down slightly from the previous month's high of 12¼ per cent.

Builders loans are currently selling for 11¾ per cent.

Liberal Hopefuls Here in January

The new year will usher in quickened activity for Quinte district Liberal supporters.

Already visits from two contenders for the Ontario Liberal leadership are scheduled for Belleville during the second week of January.

More are expected as candidates for the party's top post bid for local political support before the leadership convention Jan. 23-25.

Hugh O'Neil, MPP Quinte, said Monday tentative times and dates have been set for the visits of Stuart Smith and David Peterson.

Both are newcomers to the legislature, winners in the Sept. 18 election which cost the Liberal party its title of Official Opposition and brought on Robert Nixon's announced retirement as leader.

Mr. Smith, 37, MPP Hamilton West, will be the first to meet with area delegates to the convention.

He will be in Belleville Jan. 8.

Mr. Smith, a Burlington psychiatrist, was first to declare his candidacy for the leadership.

Mr. Peterson, 32, MPP London Centre, a lawyer and businessman, will meet delegates Jan. 9.

Since his election, he has been the party's energy critic in the legislature.

Mr. O'Neil says meetings with both contenders have been set for the Hastings and Prince Edward Regional officers' mess at the city armory.

Delegates from Quinte district constituency associations so far have not one leadership candidate. Mark McGuigan, MP Windsor-Walkerville, spoke to them Dec. 15 in Belleville.

Township Combines Two Bodies Dealing with Parks and Recreation

WALLBRIDGE — A joint Sidney township parks and recreation committee sprang into being Monday with the dissolution of the municipality's parks board and recreation committee.

In creating the joint committee councillors also appointed 11 members—nine township residents and two men from council — to serve for an unspecified length of time.

The new committee will be responsible for development of parkland and recreation programs in the township.

Parks and recreation had acted as separate bodies previously and both were less than a year old.

Sidney reeve Gordon Wilman said Monday, in reading the formative bylaw, that he hopes that anyone joins the new committee can deal equally with both parks and recreational concerns.

The bylaw provides that no less than five and no more than 12 members sit on the committee.

Residents appointed were: Donald William, Wayne Brooks, George Bedard, Fred Moens, Marjorie Prentice, Betty McGrath, Phil Meeks, Jack Bush and Fred Hoskin.

Councillor Reg McCurdy and deputy reeve Glen Meyers will also be members. Reeve Wilman will act as ex-officio member.

Flaying Capitals Throw Blame in Coach's Lap

By NEIL CAMPBELL
The Canadian Press

When the team you're operating can't win, you can't fire the players, so you fire the coach.

That's exactly what Washington Capitals of the National Hockey League did Monday night after being shut out 6-0 by Montreal Canadiens in a National Hockey League game.

Officially, Schmidt resigned as coach and general manager of the Capitals, but team president Peter O'Malley made it clear that he didn't jump. He was pushed.

"We set certain goals, and as long as we proceeded toward these goals we remained patient," O'Malley said. "But

STEVE SHUTT

MH and I realized we weren't reaching these goals."

O'Malley said Schmidt will be replaced by two men, probably before the Capitals visit Detroit Red Wings on Wednesday night.

In Monday's other NHL games, Toronto Maple Leafs dropped Atlanta Flames 6-2 and Minnesota North Stars crushed Los Angeles Kings 3-1. There were no games scheduled in the World Hockey Association.

Schmidt has been general manager of the club since it was organized to join the NHL last year, but his successor as coach will be the fourth man to join the club in its brief history.

Minor league veteran Jimmy Anderson was coach last season behind the bench but the Capitals dropped him early in the season in favor of Red Sullivan, who in turn was replaced by Schmidt last March.

The two replacements for Schmidt face a monumental building job. This year's Capitals have won only three of 32 games and don't appear much better than they were last year when they had the worst without record in NHL history.

Schmidt's contract with Washington extends through the 1976-77 season, and he may stay with the club in some other capacity.

Schmidt had never worked for any NHL team but Boston Bruins when he joined the Capitals. He spent 37 years with the Bruins as a player, coach and front office official.

He scored 229 goals in 16 seasons with the Bruins and was named to the Hockey Hall of Fame in 1962. He coached the Bruins for 12 years and the team won two Stanley Cups while he was general manager.

The Canadiens scored four times in the second period to break a scoreless tie. Steve Shutt scored twice for Montreal and goaltender Ken Dryden stopped 27 shots to record his fifth shutout of the year.

Right winger Lanny McDonald, much abused by fans at Maple Leaf Gardens, won the cheers of the Toronto fans against the Flames, scoring two goals and two assists for the Leafs.

McDonald had been used sparingly at home this season and had scored only two of his 11 goals there before Monday's game, when he took a regular shift on a line with Errol Thompson and Stan Weir.

Toronto coach Red Kelly said after the game McDonald is an "example of a young guy you have to have a little bit of patience with and he'll come along."

LANNY McDONALD

Goaltender Wayne Thomas turned in another outstanding performance for the Leafs, making 41 stops, including 19 in the first two periods.

The Stars also got a strong performance from their goaltender. The veteran Cesare Maniago stopped 27 shots as Minnesota was outshot in every period.

Tim Young's goal for Minnesota late in the second period broke a 1-1 tie. Pierre Jarry had given the Stars a first-period lead, but Gene Carr tied for Los Angeles in the second period before Young's goal.

Tonight's schedule has Philadelphia Flyers at New York Islanders, Kansas City Scouts at Vancouver Canucks and California Seals at Chicago Black Hawks.

Four Goal Pats Puts Penguins in Red

PITTSBURGH (CP) — Pittsburgh Penguins can take heart in their 7-4 loss to the Russian Soviet Wings on Monday night.

They learn quick," said Bryan Kulagin, the stoic coach of the Wings who also directs the Soviet Union's national hockey team. They also must have had some instructions from their coach after the first period."

The Wings almost blew the National Hockey League Penguins out on to nearly Centre Avenue in the first period, tying with their opposition and skating casually to a 4-0 lead.

It was an entirely different Penguin club that came out for the last two periods, skating with the Russians, giving them bumps for bumps and taking the play into the Wings' zone.

"I'd give anything to play them again tomorrow night," said Marc Boileau, the Penguins' interim coach, while explaining his team's game plan.

"I don't know what happened to our guys in the first period," he said. "They were just out there skating around."

YURI LIAPKIN

He play and they were coming at us three-on-two and two-on-one," said Boileau.

Yuri Liapkin, the outstanding Russian national defenceman, was easily the best player on the ice at the Civic Centre before a less-than-capacity crowd of 12,218.

He scored two goals and drew two assists while controlling the tempo.

Viacheslav Anisin, Victor Schalimov, Aleksandr Ivanov, Vladimir Shadrin and Vladimir Repnyev were the other Russian marksmen.

Pierre Larouche led the Penguins on the scoreboard in the second period after the Russians had opened a 3-0 lead. Ron Schock, Barry Wilkins and Lew Morrison were the other Pittsburgh scorers.

Kulagin was hard-pressed to explain the sudden turn of events that enabled Pittsburgh to outscore his Wings over the last 40 minutes and actually take most of the play into the Russian zone.

"We weren't tired," he replied to suggestions that the Wings had expended themselves in the first period. "I think my players were simply satisfied with the first period."

Boileau didn't think so.

"After we adjusted (between the first and second periods), we just took the play away from them," he said. "But I don't care what team you are playing against, when you get four goals down after the first period, it's tough to come back."

Yakushev, one of the greatest stars in Russian hockey, felt the Wings had suffered a psychological hope.

One of four additions to the Wings for their North American tour during which they will play four NHL teams, the rangy winger said "Our players thought the game was already won."

Russian referee Victor Domborovsky fined with a kid glove in the first two periods with penalties from both sides taking runs at one another along the boards.

The Russians, not known for their aggressiveness from earlier visits to North America, indicated they were ready to give as well as take in this area of the game.

With Domborovsky showing unexpected leniency, the Penguin players displayed frustration at times. The usually mild Larouche was tagged with a minor-bench penalty in the second period for arguing too long that a Russian player hit him in the mouth with a stick.

Vikes Claim Winning TD Pass Illegal

By HAL BOCK
The Associated Press

If you ask Drew Pearson, who caught the ball, Minnesota Vikings were absolutely right.

There should have been an interference penalty called on his 50-yard touchdown pass from Roger Staubach that gave Dallas Cowboys a last-second 17-14 victory over the Vikings in their National Football League playoff game.

The question is, then, who interfered with whom?

"There was interference on the play," said Pearson. "I didn't know if the official would big it."

There are two kinds of interference—offensive, which the Vikings thought Pearson had committed, and the more commonly called defensive.

"After a pass is thrown, the ball is up for grabs," said Art McNally, the NFL's supervisor of officials. "Both players (the intended receiver and the defender) may move for it.

"Whether there is interference on the play depends on whether either player runs through the other to get to the ball or there is deliberate extension of an arm to push an opponent out."

What about contact between receiver and defender?

"If both men are making a play for the ball, you're going to get contact," McNally said. "Incidental or strong contact—doesn't mean a thing."

Pearson and the defender, Nate Wright, both agree that there was contact.

"I thought I had an interception," said Wright. "I had position. I felt myself pushed.

"I slipped forward and I tried to hold my balance. All of a sudden, I was lying on the ground."

Pearson said he and Wright went up together for the pass.

"After the collision, I had the ball in my hands, but Wright knocked it loose as he was falling," the Dallas wide receiver explained. "The ball slipped out of my hands but did go to my right hip and I was able to grab it and hold it there."

By then, Wright was down.

"I never saw him catch the ball," the Viking defensive back said. "The officials were behind their arms up in the air, signaling touchdown. I couldn't believe it."

Neither could Pearson and for a split second, he wasn't sure his catch would survive the scrutiny of the officials.

"I saw something fly through the air," Pearson said. "I thought it was a yellow flag. I thought, 'Oh, no, he's calling the interference.'"

But Pearson's fear was unfounded. What flew past him was an orange tossed by a fan. The touchdown was legal and the Cowboys were winners.

But Grant, coach of the Vikings couldn't believe that the officials had allowed the play to stand

"It was definitely interference," snapped the taciturn Minnesota boss.

Dallas coach Tom Landry watched the game films Monday and decided that the play had been called properly.

"The ball was thrown to me," he said. "It looked to me that the ball was in the air when thrown and that both Wright and Drew were coming back for it.

"It looked like Wright stumbled and came into Drew while he was falling down. Drew went for the ball, caught it and that was that. You had two officials within 10 yards of the play from different angles."

The officials were head linesman Jerry Bergman and field judge Armen Terzian.

It was Bergman, whose controversial no-fumble call on a fourth quarter tackle by Miami's Mercury Morris and subsequent unsportsmanlike conduct penalty against Buffalo three weeks ago led to bad criticism by Bills' owner Ralph Wilson.

The outburst cost Wilson $5,000 fine by NFL commissioner Pete Rozelle, who tagged Los Angeles owner Carroll Rosenbloom with a similar fine when the Rams beat Detroit with Wilson.

It was Terzian who ruled Minnesota's recovery of a punt on the Dallas four-yard line legal even though the Vikings Antwy Beamon ran into Cliff Harris, who had already signalled for a fair catch. The Vikings moved from the four to the game's first touchdown.

Later, following Pearson's controversial catch, Terzian was beaned by a whisky bottle hurled from the stands. He suffered a scalp wound and left the field with his head bandaged.

Terzian Incident Prompts Increase In Security

NEW YORK (AP) — The National Football League plans to increase its security force for the championship playoffs and Super Bowl following Sunday's incident in Bloomington, Minn., in which an official was injured by a thrown bottle.

"The NFL doesn't thrive on violence—it thrives on action," Don Weiss, an assistant to commissioner Pete Rozelle, said Monday. "Whatever violence we have in the game is confined violence.

"We plan to take every possible measure to see that the players and officials are protected from overly-zealous spectators."

Weiss said the security force will be doubled—from the usual 110 for regular season games to 220—for next Sunday's title games and the Super Bowl game in Miami on Jan. 18.

In the final moments of the game Sunday in Minnesota between Dallas Cowboys and Minnesota Vikings 17-14, Armen Terzian, a field judge from San Francisco, was hit on the head by a bottle hurled from the nearby bleachers.

He was able to trot off the field after a gash was bandaged. The Vikings posted a $5,000 fine and the conviction of the person responsible.

Knicks Nip Bulls

CHICAGO (AP) — Earl Monroe scored a season-high 27 points and Walt Frazier grabbed 14 rebounds Monday night as New York Knicks edged the Chicago Bulls 94-93 in a National Basketball Association game.

The Knicks picked up their fifth successive win in Monday's only NBA game, while the Bulls dropped their 22nd game against just eight wins.

The Knicks failed to score in the final three minutes and 20 seconds and held off a desperation charge by the Bulls on the clutch defense of Monroe and Frazier, who stole the ball eight times—Monroe's steal of an errant Bulls pass saved the margin of victory.

Monroe's only American Basketball Association game, Kentucky Colonels downed New York Nets 110-102.

Bruins Flying Since Trade

Big Deal Has Turned Out to Be a Big Deal

MONTREAL (CP) — Boston and Buffalo just may have salvaged the season with their blockbuster trade with New York Rangers that shook the National Hockey League on Nov. 7.

The five-player deal—Boston acquiring centre Don Marcotte and defencemen Brad Park and Joe Zanussi for defencemen Carol Vadnais and centre Phil Esposito—can be seen as the jolting of a boost in the Bruins record.

When they made the trade, the Bruins had a 5-5-2 record for 12 points, and behind first-place Buffalo Sabres in the Adams Division. The Bruins have come on a 14-4-6 tear, the third best in the NHL since the deal going into action Monday night, and trail Buffalo by a single point.

Marcotte is the top Bruins scorer with 26 points on 11 goals and 28 assists. Park had six points in 13 games with the Rangers but has seven goals and 25 assists for 30 points in 30 games with Boston.

But the Bruins have had other outstanding performances in their 30 games. Defenceman Gregg Sheppard has 16 goals in the span, while Bobby Schmautz has 15.

Veteran Johnny Bucyk picked up 28 of his 30 points in the 30 games and ranks third on the all-time NHL list, just 19 points behind Gordie Howe. Defenceman Dennis Hull, former Detroit Red Wings star, who has 30 points in his 29-year career.

The trade had had a positive effect on the Rangers. They were 5-5-1 when the deal was made and have played at a 10-15-3 pace since. Esposito has 21 goals and 18 assists with the Rangers, while Vadnais has 15 points in 29 New York outings.

With Esposito below his pace of recent years and Boston superstar Bobby Orr having missed most of the season with injuries, the scoring race is wide open. Guy Lafleur of Montreal Canadiens, who has 40 points, and Philadelphia Flyers have shown the most interest in Russian hockey, felt the Wings had suffered a psychological hope.

One of four additions to the Wings for their North American tour during which they will play four NHL teams, the rangy winger said "Our players thought the game was already won."

Russian referee Victor Domborovsky fined with a kid glove in the first two periods with penalties from both sides taking runs at one another along the boards.

TORONTO (CP) — Sharpshooters from the Canadian Hockey League continue to dominate the World Hockey Association's list of scoring leaders as the league nears the half way mark in its schedule.

Marc Tardif of Quebec Nordiques leads the league in both goals scored and total points. He has 34 goals, 38 assists and 72 points.

Quebec team-mate Chris Bordeleau is 15 points behind with 20 goals and 40 assists while Bobby Hull of Winnipeg Jets ranks third with 24 goals and 33 assists for 57 points.

The league's top rookies are Claude Larose of Cincinnati Stingers and Mark Napier of Toronto Toros, both with 36 points. Larose has 20 goals and Napier 16.

The Dafoe of Winnipeg Jets remains the top goaltender with 2.90 goals-against average in 28 games and four shutouts.

Jaworski Does Job, Knox Gives Harris Nod

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Nobody figured Terry Bradshaw could do the job he did — but he did it. And he says he'll do it again. Nobody figured Dan Jaworski could do the job he did — and now even Jaworski knows if he'll get the chance to do it again.

Bradshaw the Pittsburgh quarterback, took a vicious shot on his right knee in the waning minutes of the second quarter last Saturday in the Steelers' 32-10 National Football League victory over Baltimore. He virtually had to be carried to the locker room, but when the second half started, there he was. And he was still in there when the game ended.

He says he'll be in there, too, at the start of next Sunday's American Conference championship game against Oakland Raiders, when the Cincinnati Bengals 31-28 in last Sunday's other first round playoff game.

"I won't be able to run — there's no secret about that — but I think I can drop back and set up all right," he said.

Bradshaw will start head-over-heels by Lloyd Mumphord's tackle.

Coach Chuck Noll also says Bradshaw will be in there Sunday, and has no fears about the knee problem slowing down the Steelers.

"I don't think his injury will have any effect on our offense," the coach said. "This extra day (of rest) will help. But injuries aren't going to change anything."

The injury to quarterback James Harris shoulder chopped things for Los Angeles — but not for the worse. Rookie Jaworski stepped into the breach and directed the Rams to a 23-23 victory over St. Louis Cardinals. He ran for one touchdown and heaved a 60-yard bomb to Harold Jackson for another.

Still, he may be back on the sidelines when Dallas Cowboys, 10-14 victors over Minnesota Vikings show up for Sunday's National Conference title game.

"Harris has earned the right to start," said coach Chuck Knox of the Rams. "I would have been in there last week if he would have played. He will start this week if he's ready."

Seitz Decision May Have Awesome Repercussions

Kuhn Preaches End Is at Hand

NEW YORK (AP) — Major league baseball could become chaotic and loses its position as a major sport if stripped of the reserve system, commissioner Bowie Kuhn says.

"The economic consequences to the clubs could be enormous," he said in an interview. "The minor leagues — the clubs which provided entertainment for 12 million people last season — if not erased completely, could be seriously curtailed.

"I think you could expect bankruptcies, sharp retrenchment of franchises and great dissatisfaction among the players themselves as the money gravitates in the top — to the super stars — at the expense of the majority of players."

The interview marked the first time Kuhn had addressed himself fully to the decision by arbitrator Peter Seitz last week, rendering pitchers Andy Messersmith and Dave McNally free agents because they had played this year without contracts.

"Our basic players agreement specifies that the reserve clause should not enter into any arbitration of grievances," Kuhn said. "Seitz had no right to rule on an issue of such broad impact on the foundation of the game."

It is on this point — a flaw in the reserve clause — that baseball is basing its appeal before a federal court in Kansas City. The only other grounds on which an arbitration ruling may be vacated is proven bias on the part of the arbitrator.

Baseball fired Seitz immediately after his ruling. The arbitrator insisted that he did not rule on the reserve clause but merely on the issue of a man's right to freedom when no longer bound by contract.

Baseball people argue that a compromise between players and owners could be worked out in the new players' labor contract which is now in the process of renegotiation.

A three-year contract between the players and owners ends at midnight Wednesday. A new pact must be reached before spring training of next year or a strike is probable.

BOWIE KUHN

"I think the Seitz ruling will make it very difficult for me or us to reach an agreement," Kuhn said. "The negotiating machinery suddenly has become embarrassed.

"In effect, there is no longer a reserve clause to negotiate. The balance of negotiating power has shifted to the players. I fear problems."

The reserve clause has long been a point of controversy in the game, with some players contending it represents less of a form of slavery. It has been challenged in the courts and was twice upheld by the United States Supreme Court — first in 1922 and again 50 years later in the Curt Flood case.

"If baseball must give up the reserve clause — or at least the point of it — the clubs will find themselves in a severe economic bind," he said.

"We already have seen one team (Seattle) go bankrupt. Two others last year were insolvent and had to be bailed out. A large number operated in the red."

Jones Ripping Over Government's Idle Promises

SASKATOON (CP) — Diane Jones of Saskatoon, one of Canada's leading prospects for a gold medal at the 1976 Olympics in Montreal, is so annoyed at the federal government that she is prepared to wear Saskatchewan's provincial colors rather than the national uniform at the Olympics in July.

"I hope I can't do it that way," the statuesque blonde winner of the pentathlon gold medal in the Pan-American Games in Mexico City, said on Monday. "But I'd like to."

She said Sport Canada and the Canadian Track and Field Association, both supported by the federal government, have not fulfilled commitments to provide financial assistance in her preparations for the Olympics.

"We are talking about less than $4,000 for four months and that covers travel and everything else," said Jones. She leaves Jan. 7 for four months of intensive training in California — but only because the provincial government filled the void left when the national organizations did not come through.

Jones, 24, who stands 5 ft. 10 in., has represented Canada in international competition for eight years. She holds the world indoor pentathlon standard of 4,540 points, compared with the 4,673 she posted in winning athletics at Mexico City. She is ranked fourth in the world in her specialty, which included 100-metre hurdles, shot put, high jump, long jump and 200-metre styling.

"That makes me a medal contender in Montreal," she said. "The federal government will hitch if we don't win medals in the Olympics, but it will partly their fault if we don't get the help we need."

Canadians Adopt Daredevil Tactics

PARIS (Reuter) — The traditional supremacy of Austria, France and Switzerland on the world Alpine skiing circuit is under serious attack.

At a time when talent appears to be spread more evenly than ever before, traditionally weak nations like Canada, West Germany, Sweden and Norway are launching a major assault on this season's top events.

The levelling out is nowhere clearer than in the men's World Cup, where the first three events have produced seven different winners.

A year ago only three men — Italian Piero Gros, Austrian Franz Klammer and Ingemar Stenmark of Sweden — had victories after the first 11 events.

Of these three only Stenmark has lived up to his reputation and he leads the World Cup standings with 40 points — three more than at the same time a year ago.

Nowhere have times changed more than in the men's downhill, where daredevil Canadians have proved more than a handful for a sadly uniform Klammer, winner of eight out of last season's nine downhills.

The Canadians have developed a unique training technique. They strap their skis on top of a car, strap themselves on to their skis and then get someone to drive fast down a mountain road.

Their sense of balance at high speed was very clear in the last downhill of 1975 in Schladming, on a frighteningly fast run which ends in a near vertical wall.

Dave Irwin, like Ken Read winner in Val D'Isere, France, came through with an acrobatic style to win and rub home how dangerous the five-man Canadian team will be in February's Olympic downhill in Innsbruck.

They have a team of five good skiers who control their speed perfectly and are fired by the same verve and determination as the Austrians had three years ago.

"Every one of them is convinced he can win and will do everything he has into going just that little bit faster," Austrian trainer Toni Sailer said after the Schladming race.

The poor showing of Klammer, equaled only by the uneven progression of World Cup holder Gustavo Thoeni of Italy, does not mean he will not be a major contender when competition resumes Saturday in West Germany. Both appear to have held back their preparation with an eye on the Olympics.

Maryland Resumes Place of Prominence

JACKSONVILLE, Fla. (AP) — A no-name team has got the old familiar name of Maryland back in the college football spotlight.

From the time Jim Tatum collected his ninth consecutive winning season in 1953 until coach Jerry Claiborne arrived on the scene four years ago, Maryland managed only three winning campaigns, the last in 1963.

The 17th-ranked Terrapins completed their resurgence Monday night with an impressive, near-perfect 15-0 whipping of favored Florida in the rainy Gator Bowl.

They had just enough silence, had seemingly they did it with a swarming, relentless defense.

Maryland linebacker Kevin Benson's first-quarter interception at the Florida 44-yard line set up Larry Dick's 19-yard touchdown pass to Kim Hoover.

Mike Sachko accounted for the other points with a conversion and field goals of 39 yards in the second period and 37 yards in the fourth quarter.

Their first victory over a Southeastern team in 11 tries since 1955 enabled the Terrapins to conclude their best season in two decades with a 9-3-1 mark.

Trotters Poisoned

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Three trotting horses were poisoned — two of them fatally — at Bay Meadows racetrack last weekend, authorities say.

Track veterinarian Bob Wuerth said Monday the horses all were owned by Angelo Rasmussi of Syracuse, N.Y., and had arrived from Hollywood Park on Dec. 20. The Bay Meadows harness trotting season opened last Friday.

Wuerth said a groom was awakened early Sunday by the sound of horses thrashing and kicking and found the three animals ill.

Jefferson Rambler, a $14,000 trotter, died a few hours later; J. C.'s Thorpe, worth $7,500, died early Monday, and Lady Rosey, valued at $25,000, was taken for treatment to the University of California at Davis' Veterinary College.

Cats Round Out 1975 in Style

The Belleville Bobcats completed the 1975 portion of their '75-76 campaign Sunday night in Toronto. Recognizing the state of the first 22 games, the Cats appear to be back in the form that sent them to the Junior Finals in three years in a row from 1971-72 to 1973-74. With 12 relevant season games left, the local squad has a fine opportunity to improve their loss from division peasant.

They have the most potent offense in the league with 137 goals — a 6.24 average per game. Their defensive record through the prowess of goalies Jeff Merrill and Bob Moore, stands at 94 goals against — a 4.27 average per game and the fourth best in the league.

In the standings the Cats are presently out with Oshawa and Pickering for first place in the Eastern Division. Belleville took 33 of a possible 44 points during 1975, from last year's four games and tied 3 while winning 15. That gives them a slim one point margin at the top.

This weekend will be a big one for Belleville. They are riding the crest of a seven game streak without a loss and have chalked up back to back contests Friday and Saturday.

Against teams from their Eastern Division the Bobcats clipped off a 16-4-2 record while against Central Division clubs the Cats have five wins and a tie in six starts.

In all, Belleville has hit double figures, goal-wise, in two games. Once against Whitby when they tallied 13 and once against North York when they scored 12. Their worst game, defensively was against Oshawa Midway Dec. 6 when they have been scored on more than six times in a single game.

What may have impeded the Cats progress is their problems with the penalty box. Besides being handed seven suspensions, the locals averaged about 20 minutes in penalty time per game. Paul Tilley and Neil Turner top the 'bad boy' list. Tilley has the mark for the most penalty minutes in a single game, 35 minutes, Turner has the most for the season so far (91). Tilley, a Peterborough native, has also been issued two suspensions this year. One for three games and one for four.

Chuckwagon's Don Donatelli tries to get the puck but the goal line on this play in Monday night's battle for first place with Bob's Sports. Bob's goalie, Vera Whalen was at Donatelon's mercy and Frank Wiles was unable to restrain him, but somehow the Chuckwagon forward did not score. His team managed a 3-1 victory in the contest and moved one point up on Bob's in the Gas House Hockey League.

Bob's Ousted From Top Spot

Snapping Bob's Sports' unbeaten record at eight games (seven wins and a tie) Chuckwagon Foods took over first place in the tight Gas House Hockey League race Monday night, scoring a 3-1 victory at Memorial Arena.

While Chuckwagon was putting an end to Bob's streak, the club kept its own alive. Monday's win was the fifth straight for the Chuckers and gives them 22 points in the standings, one more than Bob's and two up on third place Yardmen.

It was strictly a goaltenders' night. All three games produced a rash of frustrated shooters.

Bi-Temp Air Conditioning prevented Yardmen from grabbing a share of second place when they held the club to a 1-1 draw and in the other Crawford Sharp

Kinsmen Nipped In Title Game

BURLINGTON (Special) — Belleville Kinsmen Major Ramsms were squeezed out of the annual Burlington Hockey Tournament A final here on the weekend, dropping a 5-3 decision to Peterborough in the championship game.

To get to the showdown with the Petes, Ramsms defeated Oshawa in the semi-final. That game did not end until 1:30 a.m. the day of their crucial tilt with the Peterborough entry.

A highlight of the Belleville team's evening against Oshawa was the prolific scoring of Mark Crawford. He scored six goals, including three on one period, in the match with the Oshawa and added single counters in each of the club's other tourney starts. Two 4-3 defeat of Welland and the speaker with Peterborough.

Petes made goals by Larry Floyd, Steve Larmer and Steve Smith stand up for the win in the pitchers' duel. Shutouney shared Kinsmen's production with Crawford.

Belleville got the nod over Oshawa by scoring the first goal of the game. The teams had played through regulation time and a 10-minute overtime session without cocking thinch. Each team scored eight goals.

Crawford had his double hat trick for Kinsmen who got one each from Kevin Hughes and Clarence Brockema. As it turned out that proved to be Meagher war the one that decided it. He opened the scoring in the game with 3:30 over two minutes played.

Kinsmen were awarded a win over Detroit when that club could not keep tourney commitments. Then the Belleville team knocked off Welland 4-3 on goals by Crawford, Bill Rowe, Meagher and Barry Dafoe.

Host Burlington was the Bantam Division winner defeating Trenton, Michigan in the final.

Kingston Township Has Shot At Four Silver Cup Titles

TRENTON — Kingston Township placed two more teams in the finals of the Golden Hawk Silver Cup Hockey Tournament here, Monday when Bantam action first round games were completed at the Community Gardens.

When final games are played today beginning at 3 p.m., Township will be represented in Minor and Major Atom as well as Minor and Major Bantam.

Tournament organizers had to look at goals for and against to determine finalists in the Minor Bantam section, Monday. After each of the four teams had played three games, host Trenton, Belleville, Mcloney-Maines and Township had identical 3-1 records.

Trenton's goals for and against read 11-6; Township 14-10 and that left Belleville, with a mark of 10-9 out. The other entry, Napanee, was winless in three starts.

Township will be represented by Whitby in the Major division. The Whitby squad ruled through the three games with a perfect record. Township next do line with a mark of 2-1 while Trenton 1-2 and Cobourg, 0-3.

At the Minor Bantam level, Ted Soule's Belleville entry got started on the right track, seeing out Trenton 3-2 in its first start. After a 4-0 reversal at the hands of Township, the Mcloney-Maines team rebounded for a 7-3 win over Napanee.

In the opening game, Belleville's winning goal was fired by Steve Slaughter who connected with Bruce Lee one minute to play. Other scorers for the Mcloney-Maines were Tony Parks and John Ricketts.

Trenton countered with a pair of goals by Rick Cole.

Belleville ran home to the shutout goaltending of Township's Tony St. Hilaire in its second start. While St. Hilaire was keeping the door closed, his mates swamped it up, on a pair of goals by Marty Stover and one each from Don Steacy and Tracy Drinka.

Mcloney-Maines built a 5-0 first period lead on the way to the defeat of Napanee.

Danny Rose was a two-goal shooter for the winners. Adding the other counters were John Broder, Louise Crawford, Danny Hounsley, Greg Hounsley and Jamie Roberts.

Napanee was paced by a pair of goals from Peter Hinch.

Bouncing back from the loss to Belleville, Trenton got shutout goaltending from Alan Marchand to stop Napanee 3-0 on goals by Marks Turcotte and Mark Tice, and then tripped Township 5-1.

Markhamen in the win over the Kingston Bantam series Rick Cole and Turcotte with two each, Peter Theodoros, Doug Baird and Bob Alexander. Stover, Drinka and Lorne Dennett looked after the Township goals.

Whitby's march to the top of the standings in the Major Bantam section came at the expense of Township by a 5-1 score; Cobourg, 7-4, and Trenton, 7-2.

Township's 3-1 record, good for the other berth in the final, was built on victories over Trenton 5-1, and Cobourg, 6-1, after the loss to Whitby.

Today's finals opener at 3 p.m. when the Alom Minor showdown matching Township and Trenton is scheduled. The same two centres are represented in the Alom Major final at 4:10 p.m.

Belleville's Rollins Construction team coached by Lionel Doty takes on Trenton in the Pewee Major championship match at 6:30 p.m. That title match follows the Frankford-Napanee Pewee Minor final at 5:20 p.m.

The Bantam Minors take over at 7:40 p.m. with Township meeting Trenton and it's Township and Whitby in the Bantam Major final at 8:30 p.m.

Win and a Loss For Wellington

WELLINGTON — After a pair of Central Ontario Junior D Hockey League games on the weekend, Wellington Dukes found themselves in familiar surroundings as far as the standings are concerned.

Dukes went into the action two points back of first place Bancroft Jets and two up on third place Lakefield. They still trail Jets but have strengthened their hold on second place after a Friday loss in Bancroft and a Sunday win over Lakefield.

Dukes turned Lakefield 8-4 as Randy Ellis, Gary Parks and Garnet Brant each scored twice. Adding singles were Blaine Way and Alan Bessaw.

Tops for the visitors was Colin Donaldson who scored twice.

In Bancroft, Ken Bruce, Scott Samis and Don Hobock potted a pair of goals each to lead Jets to a 9-5 victory. Four goals for the visitors went to Bill Lowry, Lain Gunter and Jim Goodwin.

Team captain Harry MacDonald led Dukes with two goals. Larry McQuaid, Brant and Woodford had the other Wellington counters.

HARD WORK IN PRACTICES CARRIES OVER INTO GAMES

There should be no room on teams for players who don't work as hard in practices as they do in games. Practices are very important in the development of your overall game and you should take advantage of them.

It is very likely those who put a lot of effort into practices carry much of that work right into games. The point to be made here is not to overwork yourself but to make certain practices don't become a waste of time for you.

For example, skating, shooting and stickhandling are essential hockey skills and should receive extra attention in the picture. As younger and I are digging our skates into the ice to improve stopping.

Apart from these areas, another good idea is to warm up with some groin stretches and push ups before the practices begin. After all, being in excellent physical condition one will probably avoid nagging injuries like pulled groin muscles as the season goes along.

Coaches should realize isn't one area of his team which can't benefit from well-run practices. Goalies should definitely stress their skating, shooting and stickhandling as well as their defencemen as if they were under game conditions. The better teams always have a goalie who works closely — as knows — his defence.

Forwards should work on their skating and should take note of the styles of their defencemen. Various rushes, one-on-one, two-on-one and three-on-two, are superb ways for forwards, defencemen and goalies to learn more about each other. And by going all out, everyone will gain something.

Coaches and players shouldn't neglect work on special teams either. The power play and the penalty killing units are extremely important areas on every team. You'll find the teams who spend lengthy periods of time working on these specialty units usually have the better power plays and penalty killing units.

All this makes sense to me because making the most out of practices will pay off with several extra wins during the season.

Guthrie Odyssey Becomes Film

BAKERSFIELD, Calif. (AP)— Woody Guthrie's odyssey through the dust bowls and hobo jungles is being filmed here in the San Joaquin Valley, with backwater towns and abandoned farmhouses doubling for Depression America.

United Artists has contributed a few million dollars to the valley's economy during the past three months.

"We don't like to talk figures," says producer Robert Blumofe, adding that nearly all of it is for actual production expenses rather than high salaries for stars.

"When you start working with freight trains and old-time automobiles, it gets expensive," he says. "Also, when you're using 700 extras in migrant camps, it means you eat."

There is some tension on the production of Bound for Glory as the long locations reach an end and the company prepares to finish the film on Hollywood sets. Director Hal Ashby is in the George Stevens-William Wyler tradition of exposing large amounts of film from which to make his selection.

"That's okay," says Blumofe, pointing out that Ashby's last film, Shampoo, is the biggest moneymaker in the history of Columbia Pictures.

Today's conversation knows about Woody Guthrie through his classic folk tunes This Land Your Land, So Long, It's Been Good to Know You, This Train is Bound for Glory and through his son Arlo, who has continued the family's folk tradition.

To an older generation, Guthrie personified the radical driver of the 1930s, in love with America but appalled by its faults.

Guthrie made little impact on the mass audience during his lifetime (1912-1967) but his music and his thinking influenced others who followed.

His 1943 autobiography, Bound for Glory, attracted the interest of film makers as an expression of hope during a depressed period of American history.

"There had been five or six scripts written from Bound for Glory," says Blumofe, "but none had succeeded. United Artists still owned the property when I took it over and tried another script. I figured the others had failed because they tried to cover too much of Guthrie's life."

Blumofe ordered another version with a shortened time span, again, failure. United Artists, with a large bundle invested, gave up hope. Blumofe had to find his own financing for a new script, choosing a young screen writer, Robert Getchell (Alice Doesn't Live Here Anymore). This time it worked.

United Artists agreed to finance. The cast includes David Carradine (Kung Fu) as Guthrie; Broadway actress Melinda Dillon as his wife, Mary, and Ronny Cox (Apple's Way) as Buddy Ozark Duke.

TOKYO (AP) — The North Vietnamese claims they intended of bombing their country "back to the Stone Age." United States warplanes started a "Dorahamix Age" in Vietnam.

A Hanoi broadcast said one Vietnamese man had used the dorahamix parts from wrecked U.S. warplanes to make four large cauldrons, 13 pails, 20 saucepans, 189 pairs of chopsticks, 180 bowls, two pitchers, 100 mandolin and 100 combs.

Dorahamix is an alloy made mostly of aluminum. It is comparable in strength and hardness to soft steel.

JUNO BEACH, Fla. (AP) — Remember the night they closed Minsky's? Well, the girl who was said to have bumped Minsky's burlesque house out of business with her exotic striptease says the famous raid never happened.

"I was never a stripteaser," says Mary Dawson, 85, who back in the glory days of burlesque appeared at Minsky's theatre in New York as Mademoiselle Fifi, an exotic dancing Venus.

"I never did anything risque, although I admire those who do it, strippers," she says.

In debunking the story of the events of April 20, 1925, made famous in the book The Minsky Story and the movie The Night They Raided Minsky's, Mrs. Dawson said in an interview with the Miami Herald that the show biz legend was begun by a writer who "just pulll all that in the book to make it better."

The story goes that Fifi's father, a policeman, was so enraged by her bumping and grinding in public that he marched onstage, stopped the show and closed down the theatre.

But Mrs. Dawson says her father never set foot in Minsky's and on April 20, Fifi was not performing there.

Mrs. Dawson's father, a Quaker, did force his daughter on several occasions to temporarily give up her stage career, but finally gave up when he realized his efforts were hopeless.

Fifty years later, Mrs. Dawson still gives private shows on occasion: And she is teaching her 15-year-old granddaughter Dawn some of her old routines.

"I can still move every part of my body," the former Mademoiselle Fifi boasts as she twirls a green snake around her shoulders.

BETHEL, Conn. (AP) — Edith Gallagher, director of the gothic library here, estimates she had saved the town $15,000 in the last three years, by re-binding library books with fishing line.

With fishing line, glue and a little spare time, Gallagher says he can bind a book for 22 cents instead of the $3 charged by a binding firm.

Gallagher said he gave up on conventional thread because it is not tough enough. So far, he has patched up about 4,000 books for the residents of this town of 12,500.

MIAMI (AP) — Thousands of vacationing northerners who drove south in campers to find a place in south Florida's warm sun are still driving. They can't find a place to stop.

"It's impossible to find a spot to rent here," said Jacques Lablin, an Ontario resident. "We've been looking for three days."

Trailer parks and campsites are full from Key West to Palm Beach. Operators say they expect to be turning away for at least a week those who did not reserve space in advance.

Lablin, who with his three teen-aged children find sub-zero temperatures Christmas Eve and drove straight through to south Florida, was temporarily parked Saturday in the driveway of a jammed trailer park near Fort Lauderdale, trying to figure out his next move.

"The manager here says there are no spaces and no vacancies expected until Jan. 2," he said. "Still you go back to checking the phone book and stopping in parking lots to sleep."

Karen Kool, manager of a trailer park near Fort Lauderdale, said her 100-camp sites have been full since four days before Christmas. She had turned away about 200 campers since then.

"When I open the office early in the morning, a dozen or so trailers already are lined up in front," she said. "They wait around until checking-out time to see if a space opens up.

"I can't imagine people driving 2,000 miles without knowing if they have a place to stay."

Dorsit Lansley, manager of a third Fort Lauderdale campground, echoed her feeling.

"They came to the wrong place at the wrong time. You wouldn't expect to get a hotel room at the height of the season without a reservation, so how can these people expect to find campsites?"

GREENVILLE, S.C. (AP) — Cued by citizens-band radio, nine truck drivers rolled out and drove by the burial service of one of their fellow truckers Sunday to pay their final respects.

The huge orange tractor-trailers of Pilot Freight Carriers Inc., where C. K. Christy worked, passed by at 15 miles per hour. To symbolize the dead trucker, the second cab pulled no trailer.

Christy died Friday when his rig jackknifed on a side street near Swainsboro, Ga. His family requested the tribute.

"We never had this before," said Thomas McAlister, who directed the funeral. "I've never heard of it before. It was very impressive."

Christy was 56 and would have been eligible for retirement next year.

Truck dispatcher Charles Clyborne noted that military per-

Your Horoscope

By Bernice Bede Osol

Wednesday, Dec. 31

ARIES (March 21-April 20) As the day wears on, you tend to become a bit more serious. Let yourself go if you can, so you could spoil the good times of those around you.

TAURUS (April 20 - May 20) Conclude your business before early afternoon. By then you'll be in a more festive mood and you'll be worried about tying up loose ends.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) If you're going out this evening and plan to share expenses, have a clear advance understanding as to who pays for what.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Don't be too optimistic this evening. Be prepared to make concessions, especially to your mate.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) The wee a situation works out today may stick you with some last-minute chores. Plan ahead. You can handle things and still have fun.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Go where the bright lights shine tonight, but avoid crowds. You'll be better off with a small group of friends.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) You'll have a better time with pals at home tonight. If you must go out, make it an early night and then bring the gang home.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) If there's someone older you'd like to visit to wish "Happy New Year," make sure you do it before you get caught up in the swirl of activities.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) You feel that a high price tag guarantees you'll excel in the pursuit of pleasure tonight. You'll just flatten the wallet.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 20) You tend to get peppier as the day wears on. You'll alter or cancel tonight's plans just before the early part of the day has a few lumps in it.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21-Feb. 19) The novelty of the funny hats, the confetti and the noisemakers will soon wear off tonight. Celebrate quietly with the one you love.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) By late afternoon you'll want to take a brief respite and let your hair down. No reason why you shouldn't.

Other areas can be affected, but only transiently. An other name for it is Marie-Strumpell spondylitis. It affects men chiefly (approximately 90 percent of cases).

Typically, it begins in the lower back at the sacroiliac joints, then gradually ascends to involve the entire spine, with the chief symptoms being pain and stiffness.

As it progresses upward it causes a forward curvature so that the pelvis stands tucked. The term "ankylosing" means a fusing with resulting immobility. "Spondylitis" means an inflammation of vertebrae. Side and forward bending of the spine is impaired.

Treatment is essentially the same as for rheumatoid arthritis. Early treatment is essential and efforts to control the disease by stopping it important, either through exercise or special braces.

In long-neglected cases, surgery may compensate for some of the spinal distortion.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My husband, who is 46, had a check-up recently, and his blood pressure readings were 145-140-138 (supine) at three different readings. But his diastolic reading was about 90.

I am concerned. All my life I thought the diastolic (last figure in a blood pressure reading) was okay. If it was 90.—Mrs. A.B.

Readings can vary quite widely. Your husband's systolic (first figure) is good for his age. Pressure tends to rise with age. Some 140 is normal for us.

The first number in the reading refers to the pressure exerted in the blood vessels at the instant the heart pumps. The second is the pressure at the instant the heart resting stage twixt beats.

There are some misconceptions about blood pressure—for example that the normal pressure should be 100-plus at age 100-plus. This is not always true, although in some cases it can work out that way.

To Your Good Health

Outdoor Sports Can Hurt Skin

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: For a few years I have suffered from intermittent attacks of trigeminal neuralgia. My doctor can offer no hope except deadening of the facial nerve, which I would rather not do.

I am wondering whether riding a motorcycle or snowmobile in the wind would have an effect on this condition. I am a farmer and must do a lot of outside work. I would be interested in your suggestions, especially as to any new drugs available to alleviate these sharp jabs of pain. Could the condition be caused by ill-fitting teeth?—D.W.

In this, the pain is triggered by irritation of the trigeminal nerve, which is one of a series of cranial nerves serving the head area. Usually, one side of the face is involved, most often the lips and nose, and sometimes the tongue and gums.

The cause is unknown. Medical treatment is limited to reducing the pain. The pain can be brought on by various events—washing the face, spasms in the cord, for examples. It is quite likely that vibration from the motorcycle as well as the wind factor involved in riding can trigger the pain. So can ill-fitting dentures.

None of these factors make the actual problem (also called "tic douloureux") worse. They merely focus on the symptoms.

There are several drugs used to lessen pain, and they include carbamazepine and diphenylhydantoin sodium. There are many "new" drugs. I'm not aware of any new drugs developed for this problem.

You may have to resort to nerve-blocking other surgery, which can provide relatively longer periods of relief. See your doctor, though, the effect, even of surgery, may wear off with time.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: Would you please write something on ankylosing spondylitis? I can't at all related to Huntington's chorea?—E.S.

This is a form of arthritis that affects the spine. It is not related at all to Huntington's chorea, which is a disease of the nervous system.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

In the ordinary good bridge game South would have no trouble making his diamond slam. West would start for the defense by leading two two high hearts. South would run off a few trumps, entire dummy with the ace or ciubs, lead and ruff a third heart and play out the rest of the clubs and trumps. One the last lead West would be squeezed and forced to unguard his king of spades: to protect dummy's eight of hearts. South would chuck that eight of hearts and make his last two tricks with dummy's ace and his queen of spades.

Now let's see what happens in the extraordinary very good bridge game.

West cashes one heart and stops to think. It is obvious that South started with just one heart. It is also obvious that his opening will be solid so West shifts to a trump. South still uses his ace of clubs to get to dummy to lead a second heart and runs off all his club and diamond winners but the squeeze fails to operate. East hangs on to his jack of hearts and West to his king-jack of spades.

Ask the Jacobys

A reader from Pompano Beach wants to know how to play the three-spade overcall of an opening bid of one in a lower suit.

We play it just the same as an opening three-spade bid. Not much in high cards, but seven tricks if vulnerable and six if not vulnerable. Then, we would overcall three spades with seven in the king-queen-jack, if not vulnerable. However, you don't have to play it that weak if you don't want to.

British Experts Extend Tire Life

ALTON, England (CP) — British tire experts have a vision that the rubber may eventual the vehicle it's mounted on. A Hampshire firm claims the ability to extend the life of tires by 100 per cent and in terms of distance this might be more than 90,000 miles.

If this performance were available to the average motorist, his car might be scrapped before his first set of tires had worn down to the minimum legal tread.

Retreading Equipment specialists in tire retreading. It claims that its new retreading process arose from the accidental discovery that if the tread of a tire is compressed during manufacture its characteristics change dramatically.

Tires with the compressed tread not only last much longer but are much tougher and more difficult to puncture.

Confining themselves initially to heavy-duty commercial vehicle tires, the company produced 2,000 for test purposes.

The compressed retreads, known as Kenpreat tires, lasted more than twice as long as ordinary tires.

Tests were also carried out at Britain's transport and road research laboratory under conditions normally destructive to new tires, including running for 1,000 miles at speeds of 50 mph steel-ridged drum to simulate operation in the roughest conditions.

The Kenpreat tire, says the company, lasted well over this distance and was found fit to run a great deal farther. It is claimed that an unusually low running temperature, between 70 and 80 degrees C. as opposed to 100 degrees C. of the conventional tire, contributes to the extended life.

Raises Fund To Aid Family

OTTAWA (CP) — A special fund for the family of a 10-year-old girl who was blinded and murdered three months ago has raised $10,000 to pay her a say organizers.

A lawyer administering the fund predicted it might reach $15,000 after all receipts are tabulated.

Company Fined

ST. THOMAS, Ont. (CP) — An A and P store was fined $200 after pleading guilty to a charge of violating the Lord's Day Act. The store was fined $50 and $50 with carrying on business on a Sunday.

Record Use

TORONTO (CP) — Ontario Hydro says electrical consumption in Ontario rose to a record 15.8 billion kilowatts Dec. 18—about 650,000 kilowatts more than last winter's peak figure.

Jim Harris, a Hydro system-operating engineer, said in a news release Monday that Hydro plans to operate at peak capacity in meeting this winter's electrical demands.

Must Give Notice

WASHINGTON (CP) — Major oil companies must give 30 days notice before before raising prices for petroleum or petroleum products, the president of the anti-inflation board said Monday.

Board vice-chairman Beryl Plumptre said in a statement that prices would be reviewed jointly by her board and the government's energy supplies allocation board.

Hasn't Fled

DAMASCUS (AP) — Syrian Communist party leader Khaled Bakdash was seen entering his office Monday, despite Egyptian reports that he had fled the country to avoid an anti-Communist crackdown. Syria has denied claims in two semi-official Cairo newspapers that 200 Syrian Communists were arrested over party opposition to President Hafez Assad.

Prisoners Return

UMEAA, Sweden (Reuter) — The prison chief in this northern city was sacked after his job was abolished and depressing, he let his prisoners out for Christmas. All 71 returned before their three-day passes expired.

Fire Deaths Up

BOSTON (AP) — Fire claimed about 11,000 lives in the United States in 1975, said a preliminary report released Monday by the National Fire Protection Association. The figure marked an increase of about 200 over 1974 fatalities.

Stays Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — A federal appeals court stayed a lower court ruling on postal rates Monday, allowing the U. S. Postal Service to put into effect new rates increasing the cost of mailing a first class letter to 13 cents from 10 cents. The postal service announced that the higher rates will take effect across the U.S. at 12:01 a.m. local time Wednesday.

Needs Cops

TORONTO (CP) — The Metropolitan Toronto police department needs an increase of 400 men to bring its ranks to full strength, a member of the board of police commissioners told Monday.

Brian Harrison said the extra officers are needed to bring the crime prevention, youth and community services bureaus up to standard.

Poor Health Care

TIMMINS, Ont. (CP) — A large part of Ontario's French-speaking population receives inferior health care because of language difficulties, says the interim report of a study group on French-language health services in the province.

"In certain areas of the province, there is a serious lack of French-speaking doctors," says the report, released Monday by Health Minister Frank Miller and made public by Rodrigue Gagnon a Timmins member of the group.

Ends Use

OTTAWA (CP) — The agriculture department announced Monday proposals to end the use of two pesticides by Jan. 1, 1977.

A spokesman said the pesticides—heptachlor and chlordane—are to be restricted for "environmental" reasons.

Heptachlor will no longer be registered by the department for use as a soil feed-treatment effective Jan. 1, 1976.

The two pesticides are used widely on lawns and gardens, in turf and for household pest control and heptachlor-chlorine compounds can be found in many products.

Senator Resigns

OTTAWA (CP) — Liberal Senator Louis-Philippe Gelinas of Montreal has resigned from the Senate because of ill health, the office of Government Leader Ray Perrault announced Monday.

Senator Gelinas, 73, was summoned to the Upper House in June, 1963.

There now are 12 vacancies in the 104-seat Senate. Liberals hold 71 of the seats and the Conservatives 27.

There also are two independents, one independent Liberal and one Social Credit member.

No Insurance

TORONTO (CP) — Mr. Justice Richard Holland of the Ontario Supreme Court said in a recently-published court decision that an owner of a Toronto house rented to a motorcycle gang was not "forced to collect insurance money for a fire at his house because it was used as a clubhouse and not a dwelling.

No Plans Yet

LONDON (CP) — The dates of Prince Charles' and the Queen's visit to Canada in July still is in the planning stage, a Buckingham Palace spokesman said Monday and no dates will not be announced for at least a month.

The Queen is to open the Montreal Olympics July 17 and Charles is to arrive prior to that visiting New Brunswick and Quebec for the Olympics mini-sail. Details of her visits to other Canadian places have not yet been announced.

Files Libel Suit

CHICAGO (AP) — The Church of Scientology filed a $4.5-million libel suit against the American Medical Association and its publication, Medical World, on an article in the association's publication contained false information aimed at discrediting the cult.

The article, Scientology—Menace to Mental Health, was written by Ralph Ginzburg and appeared in the December, 1975, issue of the Journal Today's Health.

Vote to Decertify

TORONOT (CP) — Workers at Artistic Woodwork Co. Ltd. have voted 62-38 to decertify the Canadian Textile and Chemical Union as their bargaining agent, a spokesman, for the Ontario Labor Relations Board said Monday. The board conducted the vote in September after receiving a petition for decertification signed by about 60 on the picture-frame plant's 115 employees.

Recall Workers

HAMILTON (CP) — The 525 workers laid off for the Christmas and New Year holidays at the Parkdale plant of Canada Works of the Steel Co. of Canada will be recalled Jan. 5, a company spokesman said Monday. About 135 workers will remain laid off at Hilton works because of economic conditions and lack of orders, he said.

Bermuda Gets New PM

HAMILTON, Bermuda (Reuter) — Finance Minister Jack Sharpe was sworn in Monday as prime minister following the resignation earlier in the day of Sir Edward Richards, the British colony's first black premier.

Sharpe, 54, a leading white merchant, was chosen by the governing United Bermuda Party (UBP) to lead it into a general election anticipated early in the summer. The UBP's mandate does not officially expire until June, 1977.

Sir Edward, who was born in Georgia 67 years ago and came to Bermuda in the 1930s, announced he was resigning for health reasons from the post he had held for four years.

There was no immediate indication of how the choice of Sharpe, who served Sir Edward as finance minister for those four years, would affect the fortunes of the racially-mixed UBP, which has 36 of the 40 seats in the house of assembly.

Railway Is Rebuilt

TORONTO (CP)—The story of the building of the Canadian Pacific Railway will begin early January on CBC-television network. The series of eight full-hour documentary dramas is based on the National Dream and the Last Spike written by Pierre Berton. Mr. Berton appears as host-narrator and William Hutt plays the role of Sir John A. Macdonald.

Population Increased

VANCOUVER (CP)—The Strathcona acres of downtown Vancouver is 75 per cent Chinese. In 1971 the figure was 55 per cent. The 1971 census said that the Chinese population of Canada was 30,640 with 11,675 in other parts of British Columbia.

OUR BOARDING HOUSE with Major Hoople

U.S. Taxpayers Pay Dearly for Air Force

WASHINGTON (AP) — The world's most-exclusive airline is operated by the U.S. Air Force and U.S. taxpayers keep it running to the tune of $6 million a year, says Senator William Proxmire (Dem. Wis.).

Proxmire said the air force keeps a fleet of 23 posh jets, which cost $66.7 million, on its hour call to transport government officials wherever they want to go. He said the fleet of planes is known as the 89th Military Airlift Wing and is stationed at Andrews Air Force Base outside Washington.

It will fly top government officials any place in the world, said Proxmire in a statement today.

"All they need do is call up and request a flight," he said.

Proxmire, who has been making monthly "golden fleece" awards for government waste, ridiculed the air force's executive airline for "the fleece of the year."

But he said that "in fairness to the air force, this fleece of the year should also be shared by all the government bigwigs who insist on such special treatment at the expense of the taxpayers."

Proxmire said that in the first 10 months of 1975, the 89th made 975 flights carrying government officials as passengers at a cost of over $6 million.

U.S., Russia, France Aid in Mine Disaster

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Soviet Union and France joined the United States today in offering high-capacity pumps and technicians to help pump out a coal mine in northeastern India in which at least 372 miners are feared dead.

The Indian government is waiting to see how fast it can mobilize equipment from the United States before accepting other offers, a spokesman for the ministry of mines said.

Robert Barrett, head of the U.S. mining enforcement and safety administration, said in Washington that 10 pumps, each with a capacity of 3,500 gallons a minute, are being flown to India from Midland, Tex. He said three experts from his agency and a fourth from a mine rescue firm will accompany the equipment.

The miners at the Chasnala colliery have been missing since Saturday when an explosion, believed due to an accumulation of gas, ripped through the mine. The 1,200-foot shaft in which they were working was flooded with an estimated 110 million gallons of water from an abandoned shaft 80 feet away.

Six Montreal Children Die In Portable Heater Fire

MONTREAL (CP) — Bernard Paul-Hus and his wife left their house for an hour Monday to do some shopping. When they returned, they found the house on fire and six of their children dead.

A police spokesman said a portable heater may have been the source of the fire in the three-story brick building in the southeast Point St. Charles district.

"The mother told us the heater was on when she left with her husband to do some groceries," the spokesman said. The dead children are: Jacqueline, 14, Jacques, 11, Linda, 9, Jean, 7, Pierre, 5, and Elizabeth, 2.

The sole survivor was their elder sister, Christiane, 16, who was baby-sitting at the time. She and her mother, Julienne, 35, were taken to hospital.

Police said Christiane tried to phone for help, but was unable to complete the call because of intense smoke and flames.

She then tried to run back upstairs to rescue the children, but was blocked by flames. She escaped with her hair on fire by smashing a window and jumping to a gallery.

The six children were found huddled together, all asphyxiated.

Their grief-stricken mother said at the Montreal General Hospital that Christiane blamed herself.

"She is really taking it badly. She feels if she had tried to rescue the children instead of calling the firemen they would still be alive. But she did everything she could."

Mr. Paul-Hus, 38, who was laid off at the Quebec Liquor Corporation last summer, said, "We went to buy some meat and weren't away for more than an hour. When we got back I saw the firemen and my wife jumped out of the car before it even stopped.

"I was half-way up the stairs when the firemen stopped me from seeing if my children were alright," said Mrs. Paul-Hus.

"I don't know if . . . six of my children . . ," she sobbed.

The family left with only clothes on our back, a daughter and the $80 worth of meat in the car," said Mr. Paul-Hus.

Christians was reported in satisfactory condition in the Montreal General Hospital where she is under observation.

It was the second greatest toll in fires in the Montreal Urban Community in 1971. In January, the Gargantua night club fire claimed 13 lives.

UN Will Condemn South Africa's Action

WASHINGTON (AP) — The United States officially opposed the 49-nation African summit in condemning South Africa's military intervention in Angola but it stop short of granting recognition to the Soviet - supported faction that controls Luanda.

In fact, these officials said prospects are good that the Organization of African Unity (OAU) will urge the Marxist Popular Movement for Liberation of Angola (MPLA) to form a coalition government with two U.S.-backed factions once there is a ceasefire.

This is the course favored by the United States and urged by William Schaufele, assistant state secretary for African affairs, on his current tour of Zaire, Gabon, Cameroon, Ivory Coast and Senegal.

Although officials here expect two or three countries to join with the 17 that already have recognized the Popular Movement, they see a consensus developing 12 days in advance of the summit meeting in Addis Ababa, Ethiopia, to oppose intervention by all outside forces, including the Soviet Union and Cuba.

The state department estimates there are more than 5,000 Cuban fighting alongside the Popular Movement and that about 200 Russian technicians are advising the Marxist faction.

South Africa is certain to comply with a resolution calling for withdrawal of its forces, said one top official intimately involved in Angolan diplomacy.

This official said South Africa may offer to remove its troops as a goodwill gesture even before the OAU meets.

Top officials say Zaire that it is ready to recognize the Popular Movement, but appears to be backing off. Reports that Uganda's President Idi Amin is about to recognize the Marxists are dismissed here.

President Idi Amin of Uganda, chairman of the OAU, has been newly receptive to Soviet blandishments after a brief falling out with Moscow, possibly in the expectation of a new wave of Russian arms. But U.S. officials think he will remain neutral until the OAU meets.

Ethiopia, as the host, also is expected to withhold recognition of the Popular Movement.

Meanwhile, the United States formally appealed to Congress to deny refueling rights to Cuba troop transport aircraft carrying military supplies to Angola

Crosbie Wants Police Exempted from Seat Belt Legislation

BY ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Belleville Police Chief Douglas Crosbie says police officers should be exempt from new Ontario seatbelt legislation, to go into effect Thursday, and adds he agrees taxi drivers should also be exempt for in-city driving.

The legislation makes the wearing of seatbelts — where they are available — mandatory for everyone except children under two years of age, people with medical problems and those whose jobs require them to get in and out of vehicles often.

Belleville drivers will have almost a month to develop the habit of wearing their seatbelts and having their passengers do the same without charges being laid, Chief Crosbie indicated.

He said there will be a month long period of grace before police begin charging motorists for not buckling up.

Various police forces and associations, including Ontario Provincial Police, are seeking exemption from the new legislation at least in cases where a policeman is transporting a prisoner.

"Their main concern is prisoners using the belt as a weapon," a spokesman for the provincial ministry of transportation and communications said this week.

The spokesman said policemen and taxi drivers, who fear attacks from the back seats of their cars, may be given special consideration when the legislation's detailed regulations are published within the next few weeks.

Chief Crosbie explained Tuesday the greatest danger to an officer transporting a prisoner is the shoulder harness or cross strap.

"A prisoner could probably choke a policeman with the shoulder harness," he commented.

He noted even wearing a lap belt could be detrimental because when an officer responds to a call for assistance, he must be able to disembark from his vehicle with haste.

Chief Crosbie said he agrees with Toronto lawyer Charles Scott, representing most of the Metropolitan Toronto taxi drivers who has asked in a letter to the ministry that taxi drivers have become frequent victims of assault and robbery.

"In such circumstances, it is absolutely imperative that a taxicab driver have as great a degree of freedom as possible so as to be able to flee or defend himself," Mr. Scott said.

He remarked that seatbelts would not permit such freedom.

"In addition, if a taxicab driver were to attempt to remove his seatbelt in such a situation, in preparation for either flight or defence, his element of surprise would be totally lost and his intentions clearly shown to his attacker," he said.

Taxes, Cars, Gas
Celebrate Tonight, 1976 Bills Higher

TORONTO (CP)—New Year's 1976 will cost Ontario residents more than the price of champagne.

Consumers will be paying more for taxable goods, for instance.

The retail sales tax, reduced to five from seven per cent earlier this year, goes back to seven per cent Jan. 1.

Today is the last day for a tax rebate on the purchase of a new automobile, another move the government initiated earlier this year to stimulate the auto industry. The saving to new car buyers averaged about $250 a car.

The Retail Business Holiday Act also comes into force Thursday.

It requires most retail businesses to close on certain holidays.

The days of closing are New Year's Day, Good Friday, Victoria Day, Dominion Day, Labor Day, Thanksgiving, Christmas, Boxing Day and every Sunday.

The penalty for breaking the new closing law, which exempts small neighborhood stores, is a fine of up to $10,000.

Establishments exempted from the legislation include small stores whose principal line is food stuffs, newspapers, periodicals, tobacco, and antiques or handicrafts.

These stores may open or holidays if not more than three persons are engaged in customer service and the premises used are not greater than 2,400 square feet.

Accredited pharmacies may open if prescription service is available and not more than four persons serve the public.

In addition, Environment Minister George Kerr has announced that, starting Thursday, there will be a ban on the use of plastic containers, aluminum cans and non-refillable gas containers larger than 1.5 litres, the regulation under the Environmental Protection Act also imposes some limits on the use of steel or aluminum pop cans, allowing only the present 16-ounce size or the new 300-millilitre metric size to be introduced by the industry later in 1976.

There will be other significant changes early in the new year.

On Feb. 1, lower speed limits will take effect on most provincial highways.

The limit will be reduced to 80 from 90 miles an hour on major roadways and to 50 from 60 on most other highways.

And March 15, Ontario's general minimum wage goes to $2.65 an hour from $2.40.

At the stroke of New Year's, new home buyers' grants from the provincial government will be abolished.

Since last April, first time home buyers in Ontario could qualify for a $1,500 grant intended to offset the cost of a downpayment. To qualify, the owner must be purchasing his or her first home.

The federal government, with a new housing program aimed at "moderately priced" homes, continues in the place of the provincial grant, providing subsidized mortgage interest rates and cash incentives to municipalities to offset the cost of servicing.

Trenton Firefighters Get 15.5 Per Cent Hike

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — Municipal firefighters have been awarded a 15.5 per cent increase in their 1975 contract by a three-man arbitration board which will raise the salary of a first — class fireman to $11,100.

Donald White, chairman of the arbitration board, said today the decision was made to allow the fire department to maintain its traditional parity with the town's police.

Currently there are four first — class firemen, making $12,300 four constables making $12,291 one second — class fireman making $11,802 and one probationary firefighter making $9,498.

For the fourth time in the last six years firefighters have received a favorable decision from an arbitration board.

The firefighters were notified of the decision by telegram today and will receive a formal copy of the award within two weeks. The award was not a majority decision, said Mr. White.

The two sides have been embroiled in a wage dispute, with the town claiming it could not meet the firemen's demands. The firefighters have said it has been impossible to negotiate with the municipality which has threatened to install a volunteer fire brigade system in Trenton.

The 1976 contract demands of the firefighters have been presented to the town and negotiations between the two parties over the request for a 39 per cent salary increase will continue soon, both sides have indicated.

Chrysler Workers Accept Agreement

LONDON (Reuter) — Faced with a government ultimatum to cut off rescue funds, workers at a Chrysler auto plant accepted a reorganization plan Tuesday that would reduce the company labor force by roughly a third.

The decision by the Stoke engine plant at Coventry, a major car-building town in the English midlands, resolved only part of the struggle to save the British subsidiary of Chrysler Corp. from collapse.

Two other key plants still have to declare their attitude toward the $284 million rescue plan mounted by the British government. The plan requires Chrysler's 25,000-man British workforce to be trimmed by 8,000 employees.

Trade unions have strongly resisted the idea of laying off 8,000 workers. As the struggle dragged on, the government warned Monday that unless some agreement is reached by Saturday there might be a cut-off in the state funds needed to keep Chrysler British in business.

The vote at Stoke was overwhelming. The men opted to accept the deal in principle but asked for union officials to see whether the problem could be solved by short-time working or voluntary redundancy.

At another Chrysler plant in Coventry, the Ryton factory, workers decided to hold out until the Saturday deadline before giving a decision.

They, too, urged union leaders to seek the best possible layoff terms. Still to be decided is the attitude of another Chrysler plant at Linwood, Scotland.

The Ryton workers were told by a union official: "Unless we can get an extension by Saturday they are going to close down operations in this country. The corporation made it clear that if we sit in and take over the plant we can have the damned thing. They don't want it. We would be living in cuckoo land if we thought we could run the Ryton plant. We can't."

Military Supplies Short in U.S.

WASHINGTON (AP) — About $2.5 billion in supplies were taken from U.S. military stocks for shipment to Israel and Vietnam in 1972-73 and the shipping has "adversely affected overall U.S. readiness," says a secret government report.

The report said that in some cases existing shortages of critical items were further accentuated. It added: "While actions to alleviate these shortages are under way, it will be a long time before certain items can be replaced."

Insurance Won't Cover Museum Water Damage

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Damage to the walls, and particularly the multi-colored, fresco ceiling in the reception room at Glanmore House, may not be covered by the county museum's insurance policies, curator Marten Lewis said Tuesday.

"We do not seem to be covered for this kind of water damage," said Mr. Lewis, referring to an estimated $10,000 loss caused by a ruptured radiator last week.

Paintings, drapes, walls, the ceiling and Victorian furniture were water-soaked when the radiator in the room burst sometime Sunday.

Room contents however, are covered by insurance. The estimate as to precise loss is immediately available.

Mr. Lewis said the building itself is not covered. "We're not short on insurance. It's not something that insurance companies will cover, except for high rates."

None of Glanmore's artifacts were damaged, but partial damage is considerable.

The curator said a better assessment of damage and its dollar value will be available next week when he will go over museum pieces with insurance adjusters and teachers.

"If pieces are evaluated and their historical and monetary value catalogued.

Asked how the museum would cover the repair of the premises, Mr. Lewis said several options are open to the museum.

If there was a fault in the hot-water heating system, the installing firm or manufacturer may be liable for damage.

And since the building is jointly owned by Belleville and Hastings County, with some involvement by the federal government these bodies might be approached for assistance.

Glanmore might also appeal to the public, Mr. Lewis said.

The Weather

Synopsis: Skies remained cloudy and temperatures remained near freezing in southern Ontario overnight. A little snow and a few areas of freezing drizzle were reported in eastern Ontario. Skies will remain mostly cloudy today and temperatures will be above freezing by mid-day. On New Year's Day skies will break up a little bringing sunny periods to most areas. Temperatures won't be as mild.

Press Can't Attend

TORONTO (CP) — The Education Relations Commission decided to exclude the news media and public from its meeting Tuesday because it was discussing quasi-judicial matters, chairman Owen Shime said. The decision of the commission — established last August by the Ontario government to administer legislation allowing teachers collective bargaining — is not a policy and members will have to decide at every meeting whether the public will be allowed, he said.

India Gives Up Hope

NEW DELHI (AP) — The Indian government has given up all hope of finding survivors in air-pockets in the flooded Chasnala coal mine where 372 miners are trapped. "We are no such pockets," said Sirnivasa Chari, the national coal secretary, who resigned Tuesday from the site in India's coal-rich northeast.

Party-goers Can Leave Parked Cars on Streets

BY ROBIN CHASE
Staff Reporter

Unless a heavy snowfall buries the gesture, New Year's Eve partygoers who indulge in too many holiday spirits tonight will be able to leave their vehicles on city streets overnight without fear of being ticketed by Belleville police.

Chief Douglas Crosbie announced the policy Tuesday to encourage tipsy drivers to find alternate means of getting home and eliminate potential traffic mishaps.

"We won't be tagging overnight cars that night," he commented. "If people want to leave their cars on the street and walk home, they can be our guests."

However, he pointed out if there is sufficient snowfall to render out the city's snow plow fleet, cars must be removed from the streets.

Chief Crosbie said he hopes New Year's will be an enforcement-free as last year. "It was quite a quiet year," he remarked. "If common sense prevails, we'll have another quiet one."

In fact, if police have as few problems tonight and Thursday as they did over the Christmas holiday, the police chief will be smiling Friday morning.

He also announced Tuesday that during the period from 6 p.m. Dec. 31 and 6 a.m. Monday, his department only had to arrest five common drunks and three impaired drivers with the latter group all involved in motor vehicle collisions.

Chief Crosbie said he has just one general piece of advice for everyone on New Year's — "use extreme caution."

But he added some specific advice for party hosts and hostesses: "If the host sees some persons are having too much alcohol, he should get them to switch to drinks without alcohol or coffee and see they don't drive if they're in no condition to do so."

Chief Crosbie said extra officers will be added to the regular shifts until the early hours of Thursday morning.

B. C. Extends Freeze On Food, Energy Prices

VICTORIA (CP) — British Columbia's Social Credit government decided Tuesday to extend the price freeze on drugs and energy to Feb. 1 and co-time the 10-per-cent rollback on rent increases.

Premier Bill Bennett made the announcement following a 6½-hour cabinet meeting during which the ministers discussed the price freeze, back-to-work legislation and the Insurance Corp. of B.C. (ICBC).

Mr. Bennett said the price freeze, which was to expire at midnight tonight, will not apply to fresh fruits and vegetables "due to the pressures of seasonal supply."

The freeze applies to foodstuffs, prescription drugs, production, production, logging, petroleum products such as home heating oil and motor gasoline as well as truck transport rates for foodstuffs and petroleum products.

Mr. Bennett said extension of the price freeze beyond Feb. 1 is not anticipated as the provincial government expects the federal anti-inflation program to be working after that date.

"The premier said commercial users are not included in the freeze and legislation does not exist for controls on such rents,

Cross-Country Skiing Growing in Popularity

One district resort owner, who operates a year-round recreation area, says he believes cross-country skiing may be displacing the snowmobile as the popular cold-weather pastime.

Jamie Campkin's summer tent-trailer facility sprouts winter ski loops in the QUIRT mode area near Moira Lake. He says there's been a noticeable decline in weekend snowmobile traffic.

While unreliable snow conditions may be responsible at times, there are other factors which make him suspect snow machines may be past their hey-day in the area.

These include roots-higher prices for machines, gas, parts—and increasing government regulations.

When he went into business three winters ago on the Quinte-Moira Road east of Highway 62, Mr. Campkin says up to 1,000 snowmobilers stopped at his lodge canteen on weekends. Week nights might bring 70-75. Last year, stopovers declined to 150 on weekends, and around 10 on week nights. As a result, this year he's only opening weekends for snowmobilers.

"Maybe I'm putting too much emphasis on these factors," he says. "Maybe I was just a lack of snow."

However, it also may be the day of "ardent" snowmobiling has peaked.

"If so, it's a great shame because it's a great sport," adds Mr. Campkin who describes himself as an enthusiastic snowmobiler.

Not that there'll by any lack of snowmobiling amenities. For one the QUIRT still includes a 350-mile snowmobiling network through nine central townships in the county.

Cross-country skiing is still gradually in popularity.

It may even be bumping snowmobiling off the winterest trail-users in the most common cold — weather recreation.

And this may be the winter when facilities are finally headed toward matching demand of the growing pastime in Hastings County.

A prime prompter of such thinking has been the Quinte Hastings Recreational Trail QUIRT Association.

QUIRT hopes to know by early January if its vanguard thinking on creating cross-country ski loops has been rewarded.

It already has a sheaf of proposals filed with natural resources ministry offices in the Belleville — Tweed area for maintenance funds to help create loops across Sidney and Thurlow townships; near Thomasburg and west of Foxboro.

Jim Staveley QUIRT president, says his volunteer association expects to hear from the ministry by Jan. 9 about funding for areas and trial grooming.

In Belleville, it also has looked at city greenbelt potential and met bylaws boys around West Riverbank Park and the Dayshers park area.

Angus Duffy a QUIRT director, says the city parks department is "agreeable" about such proposals.

A five-mile loop from west Belleville to Loyalist College, also, is a possibility, says Mr. Duffy.

Nver Bancroft, the QUIRT has temporarily shelved its drive for a long loop in the York River area. Instead, it is now supporting a proposal for local ministry officials to create a big trail facility southwest of Bancroft in Cardiff Township both centres.

The popularity of cross-country skiing — gathering momentum for the last few years — now is self-evident, says Mr. Staveley.

So far, this season, he says he's been "swamped with calls" about facilities.

Don Leslie of Leslie Shoes, the Belleville retailer which has long specialized as a ski outfitter, agrees skiing is "certainly growing."

Cumulated winter weather is unreliable in the Belleville area. Nonetheless purchases are up even over last year — and involve all age groups, he said.

"We're selling equipment all the way from retired people to little tots."

Puppets and Children

Puppets and children seem to go together as Jean Williams, the children's librarian at Corby Public Library, showed Tuesday. Miss Williams organized a special holiday puppet show for 50 children with the plays Snoopy Runs Away and the Jackal and the Alligator.

Belleville, S. A. Greets Belleville Businessmen

Belleville has its several counterparts in the United States — in Illinois, Michigan and New ersey. Less well-known, to Quinte-area citizens, is Bellville (with no middle 'e') in South Africa.

New the South African city will be better known here thanks to Belleville businessman Bob Michaud and an official message of greeting he carried from Mayor Corke to his counterpart and the citizens of the city of 80,000 a dozen miles from Cape Town.

Mr. Michaud and his wife were in Belleville in the course of a South African vacation. He said fellow Rotarians this week of the warm welcome he received in that city and the country at large and said a response from Belleville is anticipated.

The trip also proved a surprise for Dale Lumley, one of two South African exchange students who spent a year here in 1972. The Michauds contacted Mist Lumley in Durban where she attends university. There was a Christmas card from her at the meeting when Mr. Michaud described his experiences.

Plotting the Routes

Routes suitable for cross-country skiing in Belleville area were mapped Tuesday by Bruce Paton (left), parks and recreation officer at natural resources ministry's Napanee office and Angus Duffy, Quinte-Hastings Recreational Trail director. The trail organization has submitted several potential ski areas for financial help from ministry.

Former Downtown Merchant Dies

Funeral service for Ronald Keel, long - time downtown Belleville businessman, will be held Thursday.

Mr. Keel died suddenly at his RR 7 Belleville residence Monday night.

He retired two years ago after selling his Front St. jewelry business, ending 40 years in the city's commercial community.

He started in 1932 with the Angus McFee jewlery firm and, shortly after World War II service, entered business on his own. In 1947 he opened a store on Victoria Ave., moving five years later to Front St. He was a past president of the Downtown Merchants Association.

Born in Toronto, son of Mr. and Mrs. Frank Keel, he was active in the church, community lodge and club activities of Belleville.

A member of St. Thomas Anglican Church, he was a member of its vestry and was a past warden and lay synod delegate.

A Mason, he was a life member of Moira AF and AM Lodge 11.

During the war he served with the Stormont, Dundas and Glengarry Regiment.

He leaves his wife, the former Hilda Harriett Lord, two daughters — Mrs. Wayne T. (Barbara) Muirhead, and Mrs. Murray C. (Linda) Roland, of Scottsbluff, Nebraska — and seven grandchildren.

Also surviving are two sisters, Mrs. Frederick C. (Patrenee) Etherington, Willowdale; and Mrs. W. (Winnifred) Thackeray, North Miami, Fla.

Mr. Keel is resting at the Pinkston and Luscombe Funeral Chapel until the service at 11 am. Thursday, at St. Thomas parish hall, by Canon Peter M. Tett.

Burial will be in Belleville Cemetery.

Trenton Will Face Many of The Same Problems in New Year

By JERRY BROWN
Staff Reporter

TRENTON — 1975 was a year of improvement, studies and controversy for the municipality with many of the issues coming over into 1976.

The major problem facing Trenton in the future is a shortage of land for industrial expansion, and town officials, with a decision on whether to expand west or north the contentious issue. Two independents studies, both initiated by Northumberland County, have begun to affect the future and planning of the township.

The Northumberland Task Force, a project to decide the growth areas for the entire county up to the year 2001 recommended that a buffer zone be placed around the county border with Trenton, if the province accepts this plan, growth into Murray Township and the acquisition of land for industrial expansion, will be stopped.

The Northumberland Restructuring report, designed to offer new municipal boundaries for the county, recommended Trenton receive the 1,200 acres it wanted from Murray Township for industrial expansion but it also recommended Trenton give up its status as an independent municipality and join the county.

In another area municipal workers and town negotiators, have had a rough year with the unions demanding substantial increases and the town refusing to negotiate them down, sending some of the contracts to arbitration.

The Dundas Street swing bridge was in the public eye again. The structure's load limit was lowered upon recommendation of the town's consultant who felt the bridge was in bad shape. Testing by the province established the bridge was adequate and with about $75,000 could be refitted and used for several years.

The Public Utilities Commission has been involved in its share of problems in 1975. A group of local developers threatened to take the commission to court over an impost tax the builders claim is unfair and perhaps illegal.

The commission also had problems from an unexpected source as beavers, damming up the feeder system into the town reservoir at Tremor Lake, caused some problems this summer. A connecting pipe placed under the river this year will now allow draining water to be uniform in both the eastern and western parts of the town.

The Bain Park redevelopment program, co-funded by the town and province, with donations for the project by local service clubs, has been proceeding smoothly and should be completed according to planned schedules, once again displeasing the efficiency of local agencies.

In surrounding areas, Conservative Russel Rowe, Speaker of The House, was re-elected to Queen's Park with a convincing decision over his Northumberland riding opponents, backing the provincial NDP tide.

In Brighton, officials consider themselves lucky after they were ordered to close their old arena, which had been acknowledged as unsafe. When the roof on the structure was removed it was discovered the rot was worse than first believed and that a heavy snow could have brought the building down.

Plans to construct a new arena with Brighton Village, Brighton Township and Murray Township as equal partners have run into snags with Murray backing out at the last minute. The two Brightons, however, have decided to go ahead with the project without Murray. If Murray does not co-operate on the venture, its residents will likely be forced to pay a fee for use of the facility.

FBI Plant Changing Methods of Disposal

TRENTON — Demands by the ministry of environment that the FBI Foods plant on Carrying Place road clean up its operation are being met, said Hamilton Pragasam, manager of the facility.

The plant, completed three years ago had received no pollution control inspections since opening, and was not approached by the ministry until some private homeowners surrounding the plant complained of water contamination.

The apple juice plant has been dumping apple pulp in pastures behind the building and letting liquid waste settle in a large pit and this may be causing the well pollution, said ministry spokesman, Gord Thom, industrial abatement officer from Kingston.

Mr. Pragasam said the ditch was drained prior to the Christmas holiday with the waste being rerouted into Trenton's sanitary sewer system. Mr. Pragasam said the waste was not from juice making operation but from the initial cleaning of the apples when they arrive at the plant and said he feels that there is nothing in the liquid that would cause well pollution.

Mr. Pragasam said the pulp dumping would be discontinued because the company has found a fertilizer company willing to buy the residue for use on farms but added he does not think this is causing the problem either.

"When the pulp leaves the plant it is completely squeezed dry and is only cellulose," said the plant manager. "If this was not the case we would be losing a lot of money on all the juice we did not extract," he said.

Mr. Pragasam said some of the well pollution has not been determined, but that he did not think the plant is causing the problem.

"A meeting has been set up with the ministry and a company vice president, Dr. V. Moreno," said the manager. "Dr. Moreno is a biochemist and he and the ministry will be taking samples from the pipes, to see if they have caused the problem," said Mr. Pragasam.

Some of the homeowners have also complained of the strong odor from the plant in warmer weather.

"Maybe we are accustomed to the smell, and maybe it was caused by the ditch, but it is not really that bad," said Mr. Pragasam.

Two Hurt In Crash

BRIGHTON — A single-vehicle accident sent two people to hospital, caused $1,500 damage on Highway 2 Tuesday morning. Five miles west of Brighton.

Treated and released from Trenton hospital was Francis Gourley, 21, of Brighton, the driver, and Ivan Wilson, 31, also of Brighton.

Police said the Gourley vehicle was westbound on the highway when it went out of control on a curve. The vehicle entered a ditch, hit a mailbox, telephone pole, tree, and came to rest at a culvert.

Prisoner Missing

WARKWORTH — Brighton OPP reported a prisoner on day parole from Walkworth Medium Security Institution has been charged with being unlawfully at large after failing to report to his halfway house.

Charged is Richard Nelson Kelly, 21, who was serving a sentence for fraud.

Kleist had been in residence since Dec. 22 at St. Leonards Halfway House in Brampton. He was required to report to the home immediately following work and failed to do so.

Eighty five prisoners of a total inmate population of 389 were granted 72-hour Christmas passes last week. Officials said all of the prisoners returned on time.

Currently, there are five prisoners listed at large by the institute. Three are in custody in the United States and the whereabouts of the other two are unknown, a prison spokesman said.

One-tier Government Study To Be Presented to Public

BY MARG HAYLOCK
Staff Reporter

PICTON — Prince Edward County councillors this week agreed to bring a draft proposal for a one-tier government system before the public and it is likely that a county government committee of council again will be appointed for 1976.

Prince Edward County clerk Thomas Walker said Tuesday that during a meeting of the whole meeting held by councillors Monday night it was decided to provide the public with a closer look at county government proposals.

Under the one-tier system, Prince Edward's ten municipal councils would be streamlined to form a single council representing the entire county and a number of municipal services would be co-ordinated on a county basis.

Mr. Walker said that the new draft proposal for county government emphasizes local involvement and details a number of general statements made by province in 1974 when restructuring of Prince Edward's government system was first discussed here.

He observed that public meetings were held in all Prince Edward municipalities in 1974 to present the proposal for a one-tier system.

Several of these ratepayers meetings voted against a one-tier system until more information on it could be provided.

In May, 1974, Prince Edward County council passed a resolution requesting the government to delay any plans for a county government here until more details could be supplied to local residents.

Mr. Walker noted many persons who rejected the county government proposal in 1974 apparently did so because they did not feel they had been fully informed on all aspects of the proposed change.

He added that the future of Prince Edward's fire departments and its museums were among the concerns voiced by ratepayers when a one-tier system of government was initially discussed.

The draft proposal this year prepared by county council's county government committee will offer specific recommendations in these and many other areas.

Ukrainian-Canadian Women Protest

Soviet Ambassador Upset by Lack of Security at Embassy in Ottawa

By JOHN D. HARBRON

Foreign Affairs Analyst

Thomson News Service

Surely the most nervy foreign diplomat in Canada these days is Aleksandr N. Yakovlev, the Soviet Ambassador. He has charged the Canadian government with failure to give his gloomy pile of embassy building proper security protection.

The reason for this sullen outburst from the ambassador of the world's largest prison, the Soviet Union, was the pre-Christmas day-to-day vigil of Ukrainian-Canadian women outside protesting the imprisonment of six Ukrainian women.

They had been imprisoned for so-called crimes against the state, the blanket accusations which the Russians use on any pretext, chiefly individual opinions by anyone in the whole Soviet system.

In addition, now get this, the Soviet ambassador officially protested to the Department of External Affairs against anti-Soviet material in the Ukrainian, Polish and Russian programming of Radio Canadian International.

That's the overseas broadcasting division of the Canadian Broadcasting Corporation which operates from Montreal. Mr. Yakovlev said the Voice of America, the American equivalent to the CBC's international radio, is "more objective and more informative" than the CBC.

That had to be some kind of slap in the face from the ambassador of a country which maintains perhaps the most rigidness and repressive censorship in history that the Voice of America, being accused of anti-Soviet bias in its news and commentaries shows objectivity.

Normally the Russian diplomatic community in this country operates in nearly-total isolation. The large Soviet Embassy in suburban Ottawa built to Soviet architectural instructions when the original one mysteriously burned to the ground, is a prison-like pile kept from public scrutiny by the classic high iron fence.

Soviet Embassy personnel park their cars along the streets near the building during the day, with a very constant RCMP car in discreet view.

At night these streets are empty, the embassy is battened down. Guards and sentries prevail. A kind of Kremlin in central Ottawa.

Photos from the Kremlin however, emanate two press publications, a glossy magazine in Russian and French with the proverbial smiling and contented old rigger, ballet dancer, Siberian school teacher, you pick them, and an atrocious little sheet on news and "opinion" from the Press Attache of the Soviet Embassy.

Now goodness knows what he is in real life, since a few years ago all the press attaches designed to Ottawa were revealed as middle and senior rank officials of the KGB, Soviet military intelligence.

A recent issue of this so-called press news included an "interview" with exiled and banned author Aleksandr I. Solzhenitsyn.

My eyes blinked at the wonder of an official Soviet diplomat organ interviewing the despised Solzhenitsyn. Then I read on, incredibly so.

A Soviet journalist had "phoned the author's home and not finding him in or available went ahead and interviewed" him anyway without actually talking to him.

Have you ever heard of such travesty of journalism? In the first place what did this "journalist" mean by "phoned"? He could not be found when his home and movements were under constant KGB surveillance?

And in the second how stupid do the Russian KGB and Ottawa Kremlin think we are to be taken in by this kind of pseudo-journalistic nonsense?

Flights of Fancy

Things are never as bad as they seem. At least it is of some comfort, even in a mad world, to believe so.

Certainly they are not as bad at this point as the predictions made earlier this year by a Lebanese soothsayer — and this despite a claim of 95 per cent accuracy in the past. Of half-a-dozen world leaders, including President Ford and China's Mao Tse-tung, whose demise Abbul Hafiz Attar had forecast, only one has died: General Franco of Spain. Mr. Ford has had his moments, but is still very much alive.

Mecca has not been bombed by Israel, a move Attar saw in his crystal ball and which he said would touch of World War III.

He was close enough in predicting the price of oil would double. As for environmental or geological problems, it's true Turkey was hit by a severe earthquake but not Lebanon as Attar had predicted. Lebanon of course has had problems of another sort in the shape of civil war and heavy loss of life.

Australia is still there, despite Attar's far-out claim it would be wiped off the face of the earth. No reason for this startling notion had been advanced, but could he have been thinking of the cyclone that devastated Darwin at Christmas 1974?

In fact, Attar's predictions have proved to be mostly in the realm of fantasy. Still they are diverting, even if a trifle ominous, in a world in need of something to take our minds off such horrors as the explosion at La Guardia airport — only the latest event in what is now a worldwide plague of terrorism.

Rents, Seatbelts et al: Government Raises Profile Where Decisions Concerned

By DON O'HEARN

Thomson News Service

TORONTO — Before dismissing 1975 a final word about the fall session.

It is generally recognized that this eight week meeting of the house was exceptional.

Everyone has noted what great differences the minority government made.

There were the strong changes in the mechanics of the house itself: with opposition members chairing committees, dominating the proceedings and generally playing an unaccustomed significant part.

And on the government side there was an unaccustomed alertness. Cabinet ministers were in their seats, well-prepared for questions about their ministries and with a conspicuous absence of the arrogance some of them had displayed in previous houses.

Not so widely noted, however, was the deep and significant change that minority government has made in government itself.

What it comes down to is that in the past few months government in Ontario has gone further in interfering in the lives of its people than it ever has before.

The four main measures of the past session were rent control, compulsory seat belts, store closing and anti-inflation control.

Inflation control is a federal measure.

But look at the rest.

Where has government (at least provincial government) ever gone as far as it has in controlling rents?

The answer, of course, is nowhere.

It has put through compulsory measures such as health insurance. It has at times ordered selected groups back to work. It has through marketing boards, perhaps indirectly exercised some control over prices.

But with rent control it has stepped directly into the market place and curbed it. And this has never been done before.

Seat belts?

There are people who don't agree with seat belts. But their disagreement is for naught. The all-powerful say they are to be worn.

And store closing. The same deal. Freedom of the marketplace has come under control.

In total this represents a new order.

Government has taken a step ahead. It now has accepted a place in our personal lives that it didn't have before.

And this will be permanent. That is the way of precedent.

It may have been a minority that pushed it into this new position.

But once the precedent has been set it becomes a reality.

From now on we may expect government to be more and more a factor in our lives.

Swedish Team Visits

Belleville welcomes some interesting visitors tomorrow in the persons of the juvenile hockey team from Sweden.

Now we have never encountered any Quinte-area citizens of Swedish background but doubtless there are some and in that event they could well be represented at the Arena for the exhibition game with Jim's Pizzeria team.

Afterward it should be possible to say to one team — the winning side if any — that it is the one . . . "det vi skola prisa och ar." In English, "whom we should praise and honor," words borrowed, incidentally, from a delightful album, Christmas Singalong in Swedish, and referring to the Christ child.

Christmas in Sweden is a very special time, with religious celebrations extending beyond Christmas day and the crowning of the Queen of Light and other ceremonies.

For other youngsters from Sweden it has been a Christmas away from home, but with exciting new experiences to make up for this.

Canada and Sweden have much in common. They are northern lands with all that that means with regard to climate and lifestyle. In sport the countries are on common ground with hockey and there is traffic back and forth by players of both nations.

The youthful visitors should feel at home. It is up to Bellevillians to make sure of this by giving them a warm welcome.

Teachers' Strike Test for Davis

The Globe and Mail

The first session of the minority Ontario Government has ended. Commentators have been trying to assess its impact on Premier William Davis.

Robert Williamson of The Globe and Mail wrote, "Mr. Davis, more than ever before, is attempting to tap the mood of the party's grass roots through veteran party stalwarts, and receive a broader supply of young ideas." The party stalwart closest to the Davis car, he felt, was Edwin Goodman the long-time top Conservative who, as one Tory said, "is the opposite to a sycophant. He will tell it like it is."

A Cabinet minister said, "I sense he (Mr. Davis) is firmer in his decisions more confident." One of the Premier's aides said, "I get the feeling he's more sure of himself."

There may be a new Mr. Davis. He may have found Mr. Goldman or he may have found himself: but he has not found the people of Ontario. That is painfully evident in the non-decision to let the strike of Metro high school teachers ride into the new year with no end certain. The people of Ontario want the strike settled and classes resumed.

The Government may be under the impression that the matter is important only in Metro Toronto - though Metro Toronto will be crucial in the next election. But much more than Metro is involved.

The whole province sees this strike as a test of the Government, and of the Government's education system. They see other teachers groups either acting or poised to act on the results of the Metro dispute. They also see the contempt which the Government and the teachers have for what the schools offer.

The students have been without classes for more than five weeks. No vote will be taken on the boards' offer until January 7, three days after classes should resume, and the teachers' negotiators are advising against acceptance.

What does this say except that the Government and the teachers feel that nothing will be lost by students who are without classes for seven, eight or nine weeks? If they believe that, then how can the teachers ask or the boards offer such large salaries for what must be very minor services? If they don't believe it, then both Government and teachers are wholly irresponsible.

Parents and students do not believe it. Some teachers don't. One principal has said that if classes do not resume January 5, the whole year will be a masquerade of learning, pretence.

Mr Davis is pleased to allow the Legislature to play around with the size of store that may open Sundays and how many workers it may employ. But in avoiding the much larger issue he is evading government.

Who shall replace him?

Seatbelt Deadline

The moment of truth is approaching for the wearing of seatbelts and the limiting of highway speed to 80 m.p.h.

From the furore of sorts that the Ontario government's decision has caused, the new legislation and what it entails constitute a traumatic experience for some. Men are concerned about invasion of their rights and women are uptight about what bets may do to their curls.

The fact the wearing of the belts could save lives seems to be inconsequential to some.

As someone once said, appearances still count to an absurd degree.

However, if the experience of other countries's any guide drivers here will become accustomed to it. Ultimately too there should be a marked reduction in traffic deaths and in hospital and insurance costs.

Venturing onto the highway from this time henceforth should be less of a hazard than it has been all these freewheeling years.

Thomas Alva Edison demonstrated the incandescent electric lamp 96 years ago today—in 1879—when he was 22 years old. It was one of 1,000 inventions patented before his death in 1931. The inventions ranged from conceptions as simple as the megaphone to those as complex as the stock printer. Edison invented the phonograph and experimented with talking and silent movies. The Thomas Edison Institute, which radio would be impractical, was developed from a gift by Edison.

"But I don't want to go among mad people," Alice remarked.

"Oh, you can't help that," said the (Cheshire) Cat. "We're all mad here."

Alice: Why, what have they done?

Hatter: They've failed. The prime minister said so Sunday. Don't you see? There's high unemployment, and there's high inflation. And the [illegible] strikers are to blame.

Alice: Oh, dear, that's a pity. But I know a free-enterprise who can't find people to work for him any longer than eight weeks. Then they tell him they'd rather stay home and get unemployment benefits.

Hatter: Of course. Nobody wants to have to work. It can be dehumanizing. People need an alternative.

Alice: I see. And inflation—the free-enterprisers are to blame when the prices of eggs and gasoline and heating fuel and telephones go up.

Hatter: Now see here. It's perfectly clear that wage and price inflation are good for people. Other kinds are bad. It's up to the prime minister to decide.

Alice: But will the members of parliament agree?

Hatter: Agree? Their job is to ratify—not agree. They've been labeled by experience.

(The Mad Hatter was becoming agitated. Miss Alice thought.)

Hatter: And furthermore, you've been tainted by the press. If the prime minister says he's practising restraint, the press has no business peeping into details like the size of his office staff. Canadians love controls.

Alice: I say, this is a peculiar country, isn't it? Only a year ago, the prime minister said that controls were the very mind-filled. Bureaucracy, Black markets, Demands for exemptions.

Hatter: We must change with the times, child. Read the white paper. Read the regulations. It's all there.

Alice: But that's exactly what confuses me. I can't find anyone who understands them.

Hatter: Precisely. If people could understand them, they might know what to expect. The way to change society is by surprise. Everybody knows that.

Alice: How does the prime minister know that people want to change their society?

Hatter: Confound it, you don't expect him to take a election on every trifling little question, do you? He was elected by giving. So if he doesn't like multinationals and unions and institutions and people's values, surely he has the right to reform them. That's democracy.

Alice (seeing that the Mad Hatter's patience was coming to and end): Just one more question before I go. Will the controls end three years from now, as it says in the regulations?

Hatter: End? End controls! I may be mad, child, but I'm not crazy.

Threat to Freedom

Editor,
The Intelligencer:

As of January 1, we Canadians in Canada have again given up a little bit of what we are so proud of being Canadians for.

With the backing of some religious groups and some politicians, big business has succeeded in taking the endeavours to eliminate the independent in Canada.

Soon big business will control all business and then the government will be in a position to control them — presto Communism.

Our country was designed for independent people.

May God forgive us in the years to come. We had our chance to be a free country, free enterprise, most of all free individuals. We had the help of religion and our elected council we are throwing it away.

Hugh O'Neil: A Liberal Wins Quinte Riding.

Posties Picket During Longest Mail Strike.

1975: A Final Glimpse

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

1975:

It was the year that saw Belleville's official plan go to Toronto for Queen's Park approval and a Quinte Liberal defeat a Conservative in the September provincial election.

The Liberal win meant for the first time in 38 years, a Conservative would not be going to Toronto to represent Quinte riding.

Aside from the turmoil on the labor front, the provincial election was the major piece of excitement.

Quinte riding Tories lost Dr. H.T. Potter, a member who rose quickly through party ranks to hold cabinet portfolios in the ministry of health, and later correctional services.

His resignation sparked a convention contest where former Mayor Robin Jeffrey emerged as the new party standard-bearer.

The mayor was replaced at city hall by senior Alderman Ben corke.

Hugh O'Neil, one time public school teacher and new president of Fraser and O'Neil Real Estate, ran for the Liberals and won.

Construction — particularly residential and industrial — fared well in 1975 with approximately $20 million in new building value projected through the city's building inspection department.

Record-setting growth over the last 10 years gave added importance to the need for an official plan that will shape this new construction into "orderly growth."

The draft document of the official plan was submitted to the province in the fall and early reports from the ministry of housing indicate provincial approval is all but assured. Work on the zoning bylaw to accompany the official plan also began this year.

The year however, was not without catastrophe.

During the early morning hours of April 20, fire ravaged through St. Thomas Anglican church.

By dawn, only the limestone shell of the 120-year-old structure remained. Added tragedy came with the news that the fire had been set by an unknown arsonist.

Work now is well under way to restore the church, a job estimated to cost $750,000.

Consensus among local dignitaries came to describe Belleville during the past year included "growth centre," and "eastern Ontario industrial hub."

It was not without reason. During the year, six industries moved into the city.

Economic development commissioner Fred Bernis said "some 400 new jobs will be available in 1976 because of new companies coming to Belleville in 1975 to begin plant construction."

Construction of Century Place also began this year. The $5.5 million retail-office centre covers five floors and marks the largest, single building to be constructed in Belleville's downtown. Completion is anticipated for the spring. Several tenants, including Bell Canada, are expected to begin interior decoration at the beginning of the new year.

In other news, city council passed a bylaw in December approving a rezoning application that will allow expansion of the Quinte Mall.

If the bylaw — the 10,000th law to be passed since Belleville was incorporated meets with the approval of the Ontario Municipal Board, mall owners say the expansion project will cover 125,000 square feet.

The city's baptismal also received attention this year with the release of a bayfront study calling for broad recreational development.

In connection with the waterfront came the news of a $25 million, hotel and marina development by private investors.

Word of the multi-million dollar project first leaked out at a meeting of the Quinte Planning Board Nov. 6. Although Ald. Art Keegan made the initial comments about the scheme at the meeting, it was not until Mayor Corke made a more formal announcement the following morning that details of the plan, which will include recreational and housing facilities, were known.

Still linked with development is the controversial building standards bylaw — a document council committees wrestled with throughout the year.

Though the proposal of such a bylaw came during the 1974 election campaign, work on the document did not begin until this year. First drafts met with strong protest from a number of citizens' groups and council has yet to reconcile the problem.

With the exception of a lengthy strike at International Hardware and the national postal strike and its local implications, the Belleville labor scene was relatively tranquil.

International Hardware employees left their jobs June 12 demanding a 75 per cent pay increase. By June 30 the 200 employees were back at work with a new, two-year contract bringing the average plant wage from $3.70 to $4.60 an hour. Workers also won an unlimited cost of living clause during the life of the contract.

In other labor action, city commuters were without bus service for two weeks as bus drivers, members of the Canadian Brotherhood of Railway, Transport and General Workers, left their jobs demanding pay and fringe benefit increases. They returned to the buses April 17 with a 31-per-cent-pay increase over a one-year contract.

Transit workers are currently negotiating a new contract to begin Dec. 31.

On the postal scene, most area employees honored picket lines with the exception of a handful. Disciplinary action has been announced but firm action will not be taken until the new year.

City council held the increase in the tax rate to four mills meaning an increase to each homeowner of about $40 this year.

The board of education this year increased spending by 12.8 per cent for a total of approximately $31.87 million.

It was also the year that Larry Kells was appointed chairman of Belleville's centennial committee and Belleville organizations began thinking seriously of 1976 birthday celebrations.

In September, some grocery store chains here stole public attention by opening their doors to Sunday business. Strong public protest and court action has failed to close the supermarkets. Shortly before Christmas, provincial court here fined Dominion Stores Ltd., $40 for a breach of the Lord's Day Alliance Act.

A second charge against Dominion is still to be heard, as are two charges against A & P. The latter pleaded not in court Jan. 5.

Also in September, the Belleville Yardmen turned the sod, formally setting into motion the construction of an estimated $2 million sports centre on Cannifton Rd. Actual construction has not yet begun on the centre which will be funded from the sale of Yardmen draw tickets.

The bay bridge controversy continued this year with the Aug. 11 announcement by Dr. Potter that the bridge would be re-built at its present site. Several groups had lobbied for moving the bridge further west. Construction will begin when provincial funds are available.

Striking the most interest in the legal system in the Belleville area this year was the murder trial of Jeremiah James Arthur Meneely, 19, of RR 9, Peterborough, who, after a seven-day, Ontario Supreme Court trial in October, was found guilty by the jury on a reduced charge of manslaughter.

Meneely was sentenced by Mr. Justice Lawrence Pennel of Toronto on Nov. 13 to 13 months imprisonment.

Other events worth noting for 1975 include Belleville General Hospital's announcement of its intention of opening a special adjunct to Queen's University to deal with family medicine; establishment of a various vein treatment clinic and progress towards expanding hospital parking facilities.

The hospital, however, also received some bad news. The provincial government has notified the hospital it will not continue its subsidy of the Queen's Self Care Unit — a one-of-a-kind project in the province.

Loyalist College became one of few Ontario community colleges to institute a language laboratory for instruction of French, Spanish and German. Because of the lab, the college was also chosen to participate in a Venezuelan student exchange program.

Belleville Police department spokesmen say the trend of increasing numbers of cases of vandalism and burglary continued through 1975 but drug-related offences declined.

Police Chief Douglas Crosbie was honored this year by election to the office of second vice-president of the Ontario Association of Chiefs of Police.

Reflecting on the year, Mayor Corke said the city has had solid growth and is in "good shape."

The high points, he said, were: "$2 million in industrial building permits, creation of 427 industrial jobs, official opening of Quinte, progress on the city's road re-building program."

"We're still waiting for further word on the Hillcrest situation and what support if any is coming from Ontario funds to help the Yardmen Sports centre," he said.

"The city is moving in an orderly fashion and the community's financial affairs are in first rate order," he said.

Another major issue council was left to deal with this past year has been the water and sewer servicing of Hillcrest. Rather than applying the cost of the project to the general tax rate, Hillcrest homeowners have to pay the majority of the bill — a conflict which still is being discussed.

Mayor Ben Corke, in support of homeowners, has approached the province for added support.

Westinghouse Sells Nuclear French Plant

PITTSBURGH (AP) — Westinghouse Electric Corp. said Tuesday it has sold two-thirds of its interest in a French nuclear industry to the French government for $25 million.

The French government has asked Westinghouse to divest itself of 45-per-cent interest in Framatome, France's sole manufacturer of nuclear power plants and a Westinghouse licensee.

Westinghouse said it has turned 30 per cent of its interest over to the French government's Commissariat a l'Energiue Atomique (CEA) for $25 million and will divest itself of the remaining 15 per cent in 1982.

Because Framatome continues to build Westinghouse-type nuclear electric generating plants, Westinghouse will continue to receive royalties.

In a second agreement, Westinghouse also has the option to purchase three million pounds of uranium from the CEA between now and 1982. Other details of the uranium agreement were not disclosed.

Ratify Agreement

WALKERTON, Ont. (CP) — Town council ratified a 1976 salary agreement for the Walkerton's six police officers and one police secretary at a special meeting Tuesday. Under the agreement, effective Jan. 1, constables will earn between $12,000 and $14,000 a year. Police Chief Bob Innes will receive $17,800 and the secretary, $9,000. Walkerton is 45 miles southwest of Owen Sound.

Man Sentenced

GUELPH (Ont. (CP) — One of two men charged with the armed robbery of a Guelph cab driver Dec. 15 was sentenced to seve.. years in penitentiary when he appeared in provincial court Tuesday. Harry Potts, of no fixed address, pleaded guilty to the charge of taking $30 from driver Reginald Lacroix. Also charged in the incident is Charles Mitchell of Brantford, Ont., who will appear today.

Plan Appeal

TORONTO (CP) — The Ontario attorney-general's office will apply to the Supreme Court of Canada in an attempt to overturn a lower court ruling that municipal bylaws do not apply to federally-licensed airports, a spokesman for the attorney-general said Tuesday. Morris Manning, senior Crown counsel, said the office will apply Jan. 27 for leave to appeal a ruling by the Court of Appeal that the Town of Caledon cannot deny Orangeville Airport Ltd. building permits for hangars. The Court of Appeal decision Dec. 13 upheld an earlier ruling by divisional court.

Jailed for Wounding

WOODSTOCK, Ont. (CP) — Michael Harry Walker, 33, of Woodstock was sentenced to 18 months definite and six months indeterminate on a charge of wounding when he appeared in provincial court Tuesday. Walker pleaded guilty to the charge Dec. 16. He was charged following an incident Nov. 8 in which Walter Gordon Brown of Woodstock was shot in the abdomen

Service Grows

OTTAWA (CP) — The federal government had 474,351 employees on June 30, 1975, an increase of 11,467 or 2.42 per cent from a year earlier, Statistics Canada reported Tuesday. But the wages and salaries paid federal civil servants jumped 17.5 per cent or $253.6 million during the three months ended June 30 from a year earlier to a total of $1.48 billion.

Recover Paintings

MAASTRICHT, Netherlands (Reuter) — Police have recovered five stolen paintings worth $1.5 million by 17th century Flemish master Pieter Brueghel and his son, Pieter the younger. Police said Tuesday the paintings, stolen from an art fair here Dec. 6, were found undamaged Monday in a storage depot in Amsterdam.

Crack Ring

SEOUL (Reuter) — The South Korean government announced Tuesday the arrest of 234 people suspected of smuggling around the southeastern port city of Pusan. Goods estimated to be worth about $4.6 million had been smuggled. More than 70 public officials from the local police, customs and post offices were among those arrested.

Toronto Firm Plans Expansion to Europe

TORONTO (CP) — A Toronto-based firm with a flourishing subsidiary in Britain has plans to expand operations into continental Europe.

York Transport Equipment Ltd., with over-all sales of more than $50 million a year, has been dwarfed by the growth of its main subsidiary—York Trailer Ltd. of Britain.

York Transport holds 62-per-cent interest in York Trailer, which has projected 1975 sales of $42 million.

With that kind of a sales volume, F. W. Davies, York Transport chairman, believes the British subsidiary's growth potential has been achieved.

"Our growth will only occur by diversifying territorially," he said in a recent interview. "The main push will be into continental Europe. There isn't the opportunity for innovation that there was 10 years ago, but it's still very much a growth market in the field of the lightweight, frameless van, the mainstay of the truck trailer business here."

It was Mr Davies who took York Transport into the British market more than a decade ago. Since entering the container business in 1970, it now is among the largest British container producers.

It added capacity to its British facilities to turn out the containers, which are much like van trailers. The containers are built alongside the trailer assembly lines, thus reducing the risk of idle capacity.

But Mr. Davies expects the profit of the British plant to decline in 1976.

"This year wasn't be very good," he said. "In general, we're dealing with a depression, in addition we took our first strike, which has just concluded."

Mr. Davies, however, predicts that the company will start to recover about the middle of 1976.

York Trailer has a subsidiary, York Technical Services Ltd., which manufactures trailer axles, and supplies related suspension gear and couplers.

In Canada, the parent York Transport has three main Canadian subsidiaries, including Davies Truck Equipment of Toronto, which manufactures specialty van bodies.

Ford Orders Tighter Airport Controls

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Ford is ordering quick federal action to tighten airport security after the bomb explosion at a New York City airport that killed 11 persons and injured about 75 others.

Ford met with top transportation and justice department officials for more than an hour Tuesday night for a progress report on the investigation. The FBI has assigned more than 300 agents to investigate the bombing.

Monday's bombing.

White House spokesman Ron Nessen declined to say what security measures were recommended to Ford at the White House meeting, but Transportation Secretary William Coleman Jr. told reporters before the meeting that steps might be taken to increase security around coin-operated public lockers.

The bomb is believed to have been hidden in a locker near the Trans World Airlines baggage area of La Guardia Airport.

Coleman said measures that could be taken include increasing security patrols around the lockers, requiring all keys to the lockers to be kept in one central area and making random checks of baggage left inside the lockers.

Shell Finds Three Gas Wells in Alberta

TORONTO (CP) — Shell Canada Ltd. said Tuesday it has completed the drilling and production testing of three natural gas wells in the Wilson Creek, Limestone Mountain areas of Alberta and is "very encouraged" by the results.

The company said in a statement that additional drilling is being conducted to further evaluate and develop the indicated gas reserves.

The first well, completed in November, 1974, was drilled to a depth of 13,450 feet and flowed gas from two zones between 8,400 feet at rates of 6.4 million cubic feet a day, it said.

Shell said another well, located about two miles north of the first, was drilled to a depth of 14,323 feet and was completed in October, 1975. Two zones below 10,000 feet flowed gas at rates of 14 and 14.7 million cubic feet a day, it said.

The third well, located on a 10,560-acre drilling reservation bought by Shell Canada in January, 1975 for $3.8 million, was completed in November of this year. Shell said the well was drilled to a depth of 15,697 feet and tested at a rate of 15 million cubic feet a day.

Other companies with interests in the well include Chief Petroleum Co. Ltd., with a 20-per-cent interest, Ashland Canada Ltd. and Bloc Oil Canada Ltd., each with a 10-per-cent interest. Shell Canada holds the remaining 60-per-cent interest in the drilling reservation.

Olympic Builder Joins PC Leadership Race

OTTAWA (CP) — Olympic contractor Joseph Zappis, wearing a mink coat, Tuesday filed delegate-support papers expected to make him an official candidate for the Progressive Conservative party leadership.

Mr. Zappis, 56, said he doesn't expect that anyone, including himself, will be chosen as a result of police raids last month at the Olympic Village. He is president of Terrazzo Zarolega Inc., the consortium building the Olympic Village. The Zarolega offices were raided in connection with alleged fraud but no charges have been placed.

Mr. Zappis filed papers containing the signatures of 85 convention delegates, 15 more than a candidate must have, and includes more than 50 party members. John Lanchinger, national director of the party, said later that Mr. Zappis is about the eighth of 11 declared candidates to file such papers.

Mr. Zappis said he has been preparing his candidacy for 18 months. He would run as a self-styled businessman.

"I think I would make more money available to small businesses and lower interest rates," the French-born son of Italian immigrants replied when asked why he ran.

His delegate support comes from 10 provinces. Matched by names from Ottawa, Simoneti, Que., and Saint John, N.B., also were on the list.

Mr. Zappis said he didn't think the Olympic Village investigation would hurt his chances.

Airports To Control Oversized Luggage

OTTAWA (CP) — The transport ministry and the airlines plan to crack down on the size of hand baggage carried aboard aircraft.

A ministry spokesman said Tuesday that starting Jan. 15, a one-month pilot program will be started at the Montreal and Toronto airports, checking passengers to prevent oversized baggage from going into the cabin.

The program will be monitored to aid in planning an extension of the pilot project to measures in all Canadian airports.

Under the rules, the sum of the dimensions of carry-on baggage cannot exceed 45 inches. Anything larger must be checked and placed in the cargo hold.

Federal regulations state that carry-on baggage must fit under the seat in front of the passenger or in a closed over-head bin storage.

Otherwise, the baggage could become a safety hazard during turbulent flights. It also might hamper evacuation of an aircraft in emergencies.

The ministry said the bag sizes would be measured at the check-in counter and again when passengers go through security gates.

Airlines were considering use of open frames in the program. If a bag fit through the frame, it could be carried aboard.

Income Tax to Drop

OTTAWA (CP) — One welcome change which most taxpayers will see in their January paycheques is a smaller deduction for personal income taxes.

It results from indexing of personal income taxes—started three years ago—to offset inflation. Personal exemptions are being raised for 1976 by 11.3 per cent.

However, for anyone earning more than $200 a week the deduction for unemployment insurance is rising to a maximum $2.30 weekly from $1.80. And Canada Pension Plan deductions also will go up.

Indexing means higher exemptions for 1976. The basic exemption goes up $613 to $3,591 and the married exemption $198 to $1,230. The exemption for dependants under 16 rises $40 to $292 and for over-16 dependants $75 to $719.

The finance department says a married taxpayer earning $15,000 in 1976 and who has two dependants under 16 will pay about $225 less in federal and provincial income taxes. So his or her weekly contribution should drop by about $4.33 a week.

A single taxpayer at the same salary will pay about $170 less in taxes, for a weekly reduction in tax deductions of about $3.27.

For a pensioner over 65, receiving old age security plus guaranteed income supplement payments and Canada Pension Plan benefits for total annual income of about $5,900, income tax payments will drop by more than 60 per cent or $22 in 1976.

Receive Order

STOCKHOLM (CP) — Stansaab Elektronik AB, Swedish specialists in electronics systems, have received a $3,160,000 order for a radar simulator from the West German Luftwaffe. The system will be used as an aid in training future air traffic controllers and for further training of established controllers.

Try Filling Fare For Winter Meals

The birthplace of the potato was probably Peru. For years there, its cultivation spread rapidly to other parts of the world as nations discovered its versatility. The Swiss created rosti, delicious potato cakes. From Italy came gnocchi, light little potato dumplings. And potato salad originated in Germany, another example of how each nation made the potato its own.

And small wonder. Potatoes, healthful and delicious, are the excellent complements for the characteristic cuisines of many nations. They combine beautifully with other fresh seasonings to create a variety of international dishes.

Incidentally, the United Fresh Fruit and Vegetable Association has some tips on what to look for when you're shopping for potatoes. Select potatoes that are well-shaped, free of sprouts and signs of "greening" — potatoes take on that color during exposure to light, and it can affect their flavor. Once your potatoes are home, store them in a cool, dry dark place.

To maintain the good quality of potatoes, food specialists at the Ontario Food Council, Ministry of Agriculture and Food recommend storing them in a cool, dark, well-ventilated area. The ideal storage temperature is 45 to 50 degrees F (7 to 10 deg. C). Temperatures below 40 degrees F (5 deg. C) cause starch in potatoes to convert to sugar, resulting in an undesirable sweet flavor. Above 50 degrees F (10 deg. C) the potatoes begin to sprout and shrivel, thus shortening their storage life.

Good ventilation is necessary to maintain humidity and prevent molds from forming. It is also necessary to avoid darkening in the heart of the potato. Good air circulation keeps the potatoes cool and fresh in eliminating musty odors.

Dark storage areas help prevent greening and the bitter flavor which accompanies it.

For best flavor and texture, bring potatoes from their cool storage area and leave at room temperature for one to two days before cooking.

The cuisine of the Near East inspired Persian Potato Omelette, seasoned with the fragrant blend of cinnamon and lemon juice that adds distinction to many recipes from that part of the globe. The potatoes are combined with fresh tomatoes and fresh onion.

Hungary's affection for paprika and sour cream is shared by other Central European countries. In Austrian Paprika Potatoes, that combination lends extra rich flavor and texture to potatoes.

Try these recipes and our other seasonal recipes.

Persian Potato Omelette

¼ cup butter or margarine
2 medium potatoes, pared and thinly sliced (about ¼ inch thick)
salt and pepper to taste
1 medium sliced, fresh onion, chopped juice of one lemon
2 tomatoes, sliced, fresh tomatoes, sliced
6 eggs
¼ tsp. cinnamon

Heat butter or margarine in a large skillet. Add sliced potatoes, a few at a time, and cook until lightly browned on both sides and nearly tender. Remove from skillet and sprinkle with salt and pepper. Cook onion in same pan until golden. With a slotted spoon, remove onion from skillet, place in small bowl and sprinkle with lemon juice. Return browned potatoes to pan. Arrange tomatoes slices over potatoes; spread onion mixture over all. Cover skillet and cook over low heat 30 minutes or until potatoes are tender. Beat eggs, cinnamon and ¼ teaspoon salt. Pour egg mixture over potatoes and tomatoes in skillet, cover and cook over low heat until eggs are set. Cut in wedges to serve. Serves four.

Austrian Paprika Potatoes

4 medium potatoes (2 to 2½ lbs.)
¼ tsp. salt, divided
2 tbsp butter or margarine
2 tbsp. chopped fresh onion
1 medium sized fresh tomato, peeled and coarsely chopped
1 tsp paprika
2 tbsp flour
1 cup water
1 cup sour cream

Place whole unpared potatoes in large saucepan, add 1-inch water and 1 tsp. salt. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, cover and simmer 30 to 35 minutes, until fork-tender. Cool slightly. Remove peel and cut into 1-inch cubes. Melt butter or margarine in saucepan. Add onion and tomato; cook until onion is tender. Blend in paprika and flour; stir in water. Bring to a boil, reduce heat and simmer 5 minutes. Add sour cream and remaining ¼ tsp. salt; cook until heated, stirring constantly. Do not boil. Add potatoes and heat. Serves six.

Gratinmile Potatoes

4 baking potatoes
1 California avocado
2 tbsp. sour cream
dash salt and pepper
4 slices bacon, crispy cooked and crumbled

Scrub potatoes and rub skins with shortening. Prick skins with fork to allow steam to escape; bake in 375 degree oven for 1¼ to 1½ hours. Mash avocado with fork to chunky texture and mix in sour cream and seasonings. When potatoes are done, cut down the centre, spoon in avocado mixture and sprinkle on crumbled bacon.

Cartlidge Potato Buns

1 loaf (16 oz) frozen bread dough (or 18 frozen rolls)
1 small onion, finely chopped
2 tbsp butter
1 cup mashed potatoes, seasoned and prepared
2 tbsp chopped parsley
1 egg, beaten with 1 tsp water
one-third cup mulled butter
2 small garlic cloves, pressed grated parmesan cheese

Completely thaw bread dough as package directs. Saute onion in two tablespoons butter until tender but not browned. Combine onion, mashed potatoes and parsley. Set aside. Divide bread dough into 18 equal pieces. Shape into balls. Place on a lightly floured board. Cover lightly and let rest for 15 minutes. Roll each ball into a three inch-long rope. Place about one tablespoon of potato mixture in centre of circle. Fold in half and pinch edges closed. Place balls about two inches apart on lightly greased pans; keep covered.

Let buns rise in a warm place until almost doubled — about 1½ to two hours. Brush with beaten egg and bake at 400 degrees F until browned (15 to 20 minutes).

Combine one-third cup melted butter and garlic. Turn each hot bun in the butter mixture, well coated. Drain briefly. Sprinkle with Parmesan cheese or poppy or sesame seed, if desired.

Makes 18.

Persian Potato Omelette is a delicately seasoned dish fragrant with cinnamon, lemon, tomato and onion.

NEW YEAR'S DAY

Operating strictly on the premise that any publicity is better than no publicity, I'd say Interval House of Women's Year has been a success.

Like the movie stars and politicians who'd rather be misquoted than not quoted at all, women can at least be grateful they've had a little more than their usual notice.

Of course, many of the stories coming out of IWY have been pointless, irrelevant even silly. But we've all seen words like "women's liberation" so often that some impression must have been made on even the dullest minds.

Women Created Equal

LONDON (Reuter) — British women enter the age of equality today as laws banning discrimination on grounds of sex or marriage come into force.

The laws cover education, training, employment, housing and the provision of goods and services. Although they apply to both men and women, the country's nine million female workers are expected to be the main beneficiaries

The complex equal pay and sex discrimination acts will be monitored by an equal opportunities commission, whose role is to identify and eliminate areas of discrimination.

The commission can investigate any matter, from allegedly sexist school books to particular patterns of employment and training within a certain industry or region.

It can then issue a non-discrimination notice, a kind of restraining order against an offending employer, following a formal investigation. Subsequent failure to comply can result in an open ended and hardened cases, jail for contempt of court.

Britain's feminists, who have criticized the acts for not going far enough, are waiting to see whether a rash of test cases will result.

Under the laws, women can sue their employers, factory managers, unions or even male co-workers at one of a number of local industrial tribunals. County courts will also be dealing with some complaints.

ALL IN THE FAMILY

Any News Better Than No News

If you didn't know before that there are women truck drivers, women lawyers and women astronauts, you certainly have caught up on a lot of news this year.

(It got so bad I was ready for some newspaper to break the story "Woman Has Baby" as front page news!)

The facts about women — their capabilities, their needs, their strengths and weaknesses — have been laid before us all year long. There is no longer any excuse for bigots to plead ignorance in any kind of argument about the rights of women, no matter which side they're on.

But if IWY is to be judged in terms of what actually HAPPENED in 1975 to further women's well-being, then I think it was a failure.

An exercise in expensive tokenism. A meaningless gesture. An empty parcel wrapped in garish paper. A lot o. hot air filling the balloons of self-promotion.

Money, the world over, that could have been used for essential aid to women — day care, job opportunities, medical assistance — was diverted channelled into showpiece projects of more benefit to government and advertising agencies than to real, flesh-and-blood women.

What disturbs me even more is the worry that after a certain amount of negative backlash, women's rights will be delegated to the back pages, to the end of the agenda again.

It's too easy for the public to get bored by a cause that's been overblown by the media. It takes a certain determination to hang on to an issue when the winds of change are blowing us right into the next, the newest stormy controversy.

Women, and men, who are sincerely engaged in abolishing sexual inequality, have a massive task in the months ahead. IWY made the world focus on the position of women; the challenge now is to move from that point, to progress onward...

We've taken the first step, we know where we are. But we have a very long way to go.

Wherever you are, go into the new year with confidence. This is going to be the best one yet!

Twins' Mother Resents Comparisons

Dear Ann Landers: I read your column every day and rarely never even a problem like mine.

I had twin daughters three months ago. Whenever I take them out in the stroller I feel as if I'm putting on a side show.

Dozens of people stop and say, "Oh, they're identical! How can you tell them apart?" I say, "They are not identical. Each child has her own personality. There are definite differences in their features." Then the fools look for identifying characteristics and start to compare the two babies. ("That one's eyes are rounder. This one's mouth is smaller.")

It bores me up to have my children picked to pieces by strangers. What can I do about it?—Mother of Two Individuals.

Dear Mother: Plenty. And I hope you will start immediately for the sake of the children, as well as your own.

Tell the gawkers you don't permit anyone to make verbal comparisons in the presence of the children.

If you don't put a stop to it now it won't be long before the girls will be saying, "This one has prettier eyes and that one seems friendlier." When that sort of talk begins (and you can be sure it will you'll have double trouble on your hands.

Dear Ann Landers: You have printed letters from wife beaters, alcoholics and workaholics, but you have never printed a letter from the wife of a "quiet-aholic."

I'm talking about the man who truly cares for his family, provides a home for them, makes repairs around the house and replaces broken appliances. His only fault is his silence. His parents are aware of it and his children are aware of it. Some friends are aware of it. But most of all, I am aware of it. He is my husband.

I have resorted to begging, crying, screaming, even a trial separation. We went for counseling once, but according to him the counseling was useless. He refused to go back.

My stomach is upset and I get headaches. My oldest son now asks, "what is wrong with daddy? He never talks."

I'm tired of unanswered questions and silent evenings. I have two beautiful children for which I am very grateful. But is it wrong for me to want more out of this marriage?

Dear Wedded To "A Clam With A Broken Hinge" (Your Phrase)

Dear Wedded: Since you are the one with the upset stomach and the headaches, I suggest you seek counseling. Learn how (if you can) open this man up. If he is hermetically sealed, decide whether or not you'd be better off without him. (I doubt it.) And for heaven's sake, surround yourself with women and opportunities to socialize in the daytime, or you'll wig out.

Dear Ann Landers: My wife's first marriage she became pregnant by a man who was not her husband. Her husband may or may not have been aware of the affair. My wife was never sure. Legally, of course, the little girl was his.

As the child grew older she began to take on a striking resemblance to her real father. By that time my wife was divorced from her first husband so there was no scandal.

Seventeen years have passed. My wife hadn't heard one word from her daughter's daddy until today. He never so much as phoned to see how she was—even after he must have known of the divorce.

His phone call today shook us to pieces. The dirty rat announced that he is coming over to introduce himself as her real father, on her 18th birthday.

I love my cork. Why should this jerk, after not contributing an ounce of parental love or financial support for 18 years, take an ego trip at the expense of a severe emotional trauma to both my wife and stepdaughter?

My wife says, "Let the matter stop. He'll probably never show up." I want to confront him and tell him that if he does show up I will give him more grief than we can handle. I love my stepdaughter and don't want to see her hurt. Please advise.

Dear Hot. Your wife gave you good advice. Take it. If you threaten the man or do him bodily harm, the law will be on his side.

Legally, the girl's father is the man to whom her mother was married when she was born. Moreover, he may in actuality BE her father, in spite of the "stirring resemblance." Nature plays funny tricks. So cool it. Dad has stick to that story come hell or high water.

CONFIDENTIAL to What Do You Think Of My New-Found Sex-Mate? Perfect! Nothing unites people like bad taste. I'm sure you two will get along beautifully.

Full-time Parents Hold Jobs

TORONTO (CP) — Ted and Phyllis Vanderlaud both work at full-time jobs, but they scorn outside care for their three-year-old daughter Keri while they are on the job.

Ted works at a glazier on the tower of the Royal Bank's new building in downtown Toronto while Phyllis is a letter carrier in suburban Etobicoke.

Between them, they are so well organized and enterprising as to give round-the-clock parental attention to Keri. While doing so, they are striving to save enough money to make a down payment on a house of their own.

Phyllis starts work at 6:30 in the morning. Ted leaves for work at 4:30 in the afternoon, and finishes at midnight.

"Some people might think we have a strange life-style," said the 24-year-old pretty. "But when you are working towards a goal the extra effort seems well worthwhile.

"We have a family meal in mid-afternoon and both of us get to see a great deal of Keri a'n aya at which she is really fascinating."

Married at 18, Phyllis had hoped to become a homemaker, giving all her time to raising a family.

"But we soon found out that while you can live on one person's salary you can't save," she recalled. "So I went back to office work for a while and later, when Keri came along, I'd work three nights a week for Eaton's while Ted looked after the baby."

A year ago they faced a financial crisis when Ted was laid off for three months during the winter. Phyllis signed on as a Christmas helper at the post office to ease the drain on their savings.

"That's when I got the idea of becoming a letter carrier. My application was accepted and I started full-time in February."

Carrying a 15-pound bag of mail on her shoulder, wearing construction boots, thick socks and a heavy uniform jacket, Phyllis ranges over seven streets in the morning and two more in the afternoon.

And somehow she manages to squeeze in at least three visits to a health club weekly to keep her in peak condition for cross-country skiing in the winter and tennis in the summer.

City Transit Deadline Midnight for New Year's Party-goers

By AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

You can drink all you want New Year's Eve but don't expect the city buses to take you home after midnight.

The Belleville Transit Commission will not run after 12 o'clock tonight thereby following normal weekday procedures.

The Toronto and Ottawa transit systems are being privately sponsored tonight to give passengers free rides.

City commission chairman Marylou Burtt said Tuesday the BTC has considered running buses longer on the traditional evening of exuberant tippling but "I don't know whether it's warranted here."

"I really think it's a good idea," she said. "But I don't think Belleville is big enough."

Some municipalities do run buses late, Mrs. Burtt said, but their transit systems are sponsored by either commercial or industrial firms.

The city commission has not approached any local company for this purpose, she said.

In Toronto, McCormick Distillers pays the transit commission for rental of all buses, street cars, and subways from 8 p.m. tonight to 4 a.m. tomorrow. It is the third year the Toronto system has offered free rides to city residents, enabling them to leave cars at home.

In Ottawa, a city automobile dealer is paying an estimated $10,000 to give transit passengers free transportation from 9 p.m. to 3 a.m.

Part of the reason for lack of any such thing, said Mrs. Burtt is concern over the number of potential riders.

"We don't carry night riders at all and who's to say we're going to get them 'New Year's Eve'."

The commission has consistently complained about the lack of late evening passengers and at one point this year, decided to curtail night service. However, a public uproar forced the BTC to resume bus runs in the evening.

BTC buses will not run at all New Year's Day, in line with city hall's proclamation of the day as a public holiday.

City Planning Second Industrial Cul-de-Sac

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

Construction will begin early in the new year to open the city's second industrial cul-de-sac, south of Bell Blvd., eventually development committee Fred Bemis said Tuesday.

Mr. Bemis said he could not be specific as to a starting date but said he hopes the mini industrial park will be ready for purchase by firms in the early summer.

This development will make the second of its kind in the city following a successful initial venture.

The first cul-de-sac — located directly opposite the new development on the north side of Bell Blvd. — was officially opened in March and it was completely purchased by seven industries within 10 months.

"We had tremendous success with the pilot project and believe similar success will attend the second park," said Mr. Bemis.

"The cul-de-sac is a road two years and eight angles from Bell Blvd. with a turning circle at the end. On either side and around the turning circle, industrial lots are lined out.

"Basically, we are appealing to the smaller industry requiring approximately one to two acres of land," said Mr. Bemis.

Plans are already complete for the new park and the cost of capital works assessed on to the city will be completely recovered" through the sale of land to industry, said the commissioner. Approximately 15 acres will be opened by the project.

"We're not selling the land to make an immediate profit but for the long range benefits of new tax assessment and provision of jobs for the area's labor force," said Mr. Bemis.

When asked about the remarkable success of the first park and if the second park would meet with as speedy acceptance, Mr. Bemis said "it should be very popular."

"We have two, rather strong potential clients who are interested in locating in the cul-de-sac," said Mr. Bemis. He was not at liberty to name them.

Re-zoning for the year, Mr. Bemis said Belleville continues to attract "more than its share" of industry and the trend will hopefully continue through next year.

Play Cancelled

A second play in the Belleville Theatre Guild's season's schedule has been cancelled.

Doreen Kitchener, president of Belleville Theatre Guild, said Wednesday the production of The Gilbert and Sullivan operetta Trial By Jury was cancelled to make way for the musical production - Anne of Green Gables.

Trial by Jury was to be presented Jan. 17-21.

Anne of Green Gables, directed by David Farmer and produced by Vera Morton, will be presented instead March 11-15 at Belleville Collegiate Institute.

Mrs. Kitchener said the cancellation was due to a loss of time in planning for the production.

Arson Blamed In Blaze

COE HILL — Raymond Wasmund, 56, of 41 Seymore Ave in Toronto will appear in Bancroft provincial court for the first time Jan. 14 on a charge of arson.

Ontario Provincial Police at Tamworth said today Wasmund was arrested Tuesday at a Coe Hill residence and released in custody early today.

Police said Wasmund is charged with setting fire to a two-storey frame house owned by Walter Bailey of Main St here. The home, valued at $14,000, was destroyed in the blaze Dec. 27.

Wasmund is Bailey's son-in-law, police added.

Coe Hill Volunteer Fire Department responded to the 4:35 p.m. blaze but were unable to prevent destruction.

Homeless were Mr. and Mrs. Bailey and their three girls — two 18 and one 18 years of age — who were away on vacation at the time of the fire. They reportedly have accommodation at the home of a married daughter in Coe Hill

Theatre Reopens

Park Theatre will open it's doors for a special New Year's Eve show midnight tonight in the midst of some major renovations.

Belle-Star Investments Ltd., which purchased the 50-year-old theatre in February, closed down operations Nov. 29 for three weeks of renovations costing approximately $30,000.

Norman Stern, co-owner of Belle-Star Investments Ltd., said the renovations in the lobby and washrooms was a "lot more upscale" for theatre and make it more comfortable.

"Our policy is to change the name of the theatre," said Mr. Stern Tuesday. "When we took it over it was a theatre which strictly showed movies."

Mr. Stern said the theatre, owned previously by Famous Players, ran second-rate movies.

He said first-rate films now are booked.

Belle-Star Investments Ltd. also owns Napanee Drive-In, O'Brien Theatre and Drive-In in Renfrew and a theatre in Scott Ste Marie.

Even Officials Make New Year's Pledge

By COLIN BRUCE
Staff Reporter

As another year draws to a close people often reflect over the past 12 months, examining their actions, attitudes and accomplishments.

Thus, the New Year's resolutions.

The vow to quit smoking is always a popular resolution. But, many a strong man has buckled under within a week of New Year's and has trudged to the store muttering something about making the resolution stick next year.

Being more help around the house, a promise to be more courteous, efficient or neat, all fit into the average list of resolutions.

But some of the city's public personalities have a quaint slant on the annual confession and promise of better things to come.

Mayor Ben Corke last year resolved to be the meanest man in town.

"This year I'll be meaner than ever . . . particularly after Darcy McKeough's announcement that grants to municipalities will be reduced this year."

Belleville Fire Chief Leo Culhane agonizes the question of New Year's resolutions from an entirely different angle.

"What's the use of making resolutions," he asked Chief Culhane. "They're only good for a couple of hours."

For Police Chief Douglas Crumb, this day is the limit for resolutions.

"My department and I are making a resolution to work towards a crime free, accident free year."

Last year the chief resolved to do something about his waist. According to the chief, "I lost about 45 and put 10 back on. That's not bad."

For Hastings MP Jack Ellis, resolutions are a year-round thing. "I never make New Year's resolutions. I make corrections (to my habits and attitudes) as needed, rather than saving the correction for New Year's."

His counterpart in provincial government, Quinte MPP Hugh O'Neil says the only resolutions he will make this year is to work even harder for his constituents.

Industrial Seminar Planned

Plans are being made for a joint sponsored seminar on industrial development to be held in Belleville in February.

Economic development commissioner Fred Bemis said Tuesday Belleville's commission and the government of Ontario are co-sponsoring the seminar "to improve education in the field of industrial-economic development."

Mr. Bemis described the seminar as a "two-day intensive dustory course in municipal, economic development."

He said the seminar will be limited to 50 participants. While the bulk of registrants will come from the immediate area, delegates are also being invited from the area bounded by Brockville and Cobourg.

He said the seminar will deal with all aspects of the relationship between municipal councils and industry and will also consider the need for confidentiality while dealings are proceeding between both two groups.

Humane Society Says Facilities Almost Full

The Quinte branch of the Ontario Humane Society is up to its ears with cats and dogs.

After one of its' busiest seasons in locating homes — 35 animals were adopted before Christmas — most of the pens are full again.

The shelter can accommodate 100 animals.

Clare O'Sullivan, animal control officer, said Tuesday more than 85 animals were temporarily living at the shelter.

Mr. O'Sullivan said post-Christmas is always a busy time. "I can't really pin it down to an exact reason," he said. "A lot of people bring pets back from Christmas to put up for adoption."

Mr. O'Sullivan said dogs are usually kept for five days before they are put up for adoption. After that, depending on the type of animal and its' health, they live at the shelter for two to three weeks.

Long-haired cats cost $3 while other cats can be purchased for $2 and cats live at the shelter for one and one-half weeks.

Mr. O'Sullivan said pups — up to eight weeks old — cost $10. Full-grown male dogs cost $12 while females cost $15.

Five Hurt In Crash

Five people—including a Madoc man and his three daughters - remain in hospital today with injuries suffered when two cars collided on a slush-covered stretch of Highway 62 outside Belleville Tuesday.

Two of the girls were reported in serious condition, one of them under intensive care, in Belleville General Hospital.

Police say Ross Clarke, 46, was southbound when his car was in collision with an automobile driven by Clarence West, 46, of Stirling, a mile north of the city. The impact caused total property damage of $3,500 to both vehicles.

Mr. West suffered rib and spine fractures and was reported in fair condition today.

Angela Clarke, 21, sustained head injuries and a fractured spine and was placed in the hospital's intensive care unit. Peter, Kim, 18, was in serious condition with a head injury.

Mr. Clarke was in fair condition with chest, back and possible internal injuries. His 14-year-old daughter Kim was in satisfactory condition with a wrist fracture.

Three Local Winners in Draw

Over half of the $35,500 in prizes money in December in the Belleville Yardmen Benefit Fund went to area residents. The top $10,000 prize was won by Bernard Foley of Elt 4 Belleville.

In Tuesday's draw, L.G. Hines of Elt 5 Belleville won the $5,000 third prize and the fifth prize of $2,000 went to Erie Ross of Madoc.

Getting Day Off

For 24 years bus driver Gwilym Post has worked for the Belleville Transit Commission and for 24 years he has had New Year's Day off. This year will be no exception as city buses will not run. Tonight, all buses will have completed their last runs by 11:45 p.m.

Post Office Still Sorting UIC Cheques by Hand

By CLIFF KENYON
Staff Reporter

The Unemployment Insurance Commission's regional office here and Belleville post office plan to re-examine the method of mailing about 120,000 UIC cheques each week. The cheques are currently sorted by hand.

Belleville postmaster Roy Wainwright said before Christmas he has been asking officials in the regional office to change the system whereby cheques are mailed from the Belleville post office to unemployment recipients throughout the province.

"With all our computerization it (the cheques) still ends up being handled by people by hand," said Mr. Wainwright.

"I've been trying for five years to get it off the ground," he said referring to UIC computerization where cheques are sorted according to UIC divisions and not postal divisions.

"There are some things we have to get together on," Charlie Cordeau, UIC regional director of planning and evaluation said Tuesday.

Mr. Wainwright said it takes about 100 man hours a week to process the UIC cheques.

He said Tuesday officials at UIC are "quite upset" following his criticism of their system: "They think people are getting them (the cheques) late because of the post office."

UIC cheques for all of Ontario are processed in the Belleville UIC office. Cheques are coded according to the recipients social insurance number and one of 37 division offices where the claim is processed. Cheques leave the Belleville UIC office in trays which correspond to UIC geographical divisions. At the post office they are hand sorted into postal divisions.

"Anything can be improved," said Mr. Cordeau. "we'll take a look at it."

"We would never think of realigning our division to correspond with postal division," said Antoin Bastian, UIC regional comptroller.

UIC divisions, said Mr. Bastian, are based on Canada Manpower divisions which in turn are based on transportation routes and population figures.

J.A. Dutkiewicz, UIC regional manager of pay centre, said the computer system is too sophisticated to re-organize into postal areas.

He said the current system of coding is done to facilitate getting payment records to district offices. Microfilm records used by personnel to answer enquiries concerning individual cheques are sent to district UIC offices by courier to arrive before cheques reach recipients.

Mr. Bastian said 94 to 95 per cent of cheques have postal codes. Belleville's post office however, is not automated to make use of codes.

"What can be done at a local level has been done," said Mr. Bastian.

"We know that in order for the post office to get them (the cheques) out we know what time they have to be there. They've done tremendous things to help us out," said Mr Cordeau.

Restaurant Provides Escape from Rat Race

Willie Williams came to Belleville to open what he calls a "sit down take out restaurant" because he got tired of the "rat race" in Toronto.

He and his wife, Sandi, opened Willie's Place, on College St. W., about two months ago.

"It's been hard to adjust so far," said Mr. Williams, "I'm used to a lot faster pace."

He also came to Belleville to provide the city with something he says it doesn't have — good quality hamburgers and fish and chips.

Willie's Place has a varied menu ranging from pizza to pancakes to beaver. Mr. Williams says "you have to when you're small".

Mr. Williams, who was an accountant in Toronto for five years, said he's getting an interesting cross-section of customers, about half are over 20 and half under.

The adults buy more. They come in to buy meals for the family.

He also sells a low-priced hamburger because kids don't have that much money".

The biggest problem now, said Mr. Williams who also worked in a franchise restaurant in Toronto, is increasing volume.

He said he picked a bad time to open a restaurant. He hopes he should have opened in summer when "people go out when are small".

Willie's New Place

Willie Williams is entering his third month in business in Belleville on College Street West. with Willie's Place serving a wide menu including hamburgers, pizza and fish and chips.

Southbound

Eileen Collins makes arrangements with John Rawson of Rawson Travel Service Ltd. Monday for a trip south. The RRS Belleville resident is going to bask in southern sun for a week, something travel agents say, many area residents are doing during the winter.

More Travelling

Cuba Popular Stop for Vacationers

BY AL ZABAS
Staff Reporter

Those far-away places with strange-sounding names are attracting more Belleville area residents than ever before, say two local travel agents.

Where once Florida, Mexico, Jamaica, and the Bahamas were popular with Christmas, and anytime - of - year vacationers, now interest has switched to Cuba, the new "in place" to go.

That's how Joan Thompson at Bolal's Travel Centre answer current vacationing.

"There once spots like Miami, Florida, were popular, but of late people are buying flung, sun-light climes like Rio De Janeiro, Brazil, are capturing vacationers' interest.

That's how John Rawson at Rawson Travel Service Ltd. sees it.

Business at Christmas time, says Mrs. Thompson, is "fantastic" in part, due to comparatively low prices charged by airline and tour companies.

"I always sit there and wonder where people are getting the money," she says, but get the money they do.

Most of people are buying vacations south for Christmas present for Christmas, she says. And one reason is the price. A two week vacation in be Carribean on three islands now costing $629 which four years ago cost $900.

Lower prices are one reason more people are travelling. It's that that also creates problems, she says. You have to book far in advance of your departure date, something that Mr. Rawson also says.

Cruises, says Mrs. Thompson, another currently popular type of vacation are booked solid for the Carribean. For Cuba people have been booking since last year.

Mr. Rawson says, for those who missed a southern vacation this year, book now for next Christmas.

It's a good assurance you'll get what you want. If put off too long, he says, "It's not what you want you get, but what's left."

He describes two trends he sees among people wanting to get away from it all.

First, they're getting away to newer places for longer, whether at Christmas or any other time of the year. Holidays are not increasingly of two weeks duration, when formerly, it was one week.

And secondly, people don't seem to be as satisfied staying in one place anymore. Someone will take a cruise for a week and then spend a week on an island, or city. People are turning more to package tours, he says.

Islanders Have Flyers' Number

By RON SUDLOW
THE CANADIAN PRESS

Philadelphia Flyers faced the music while New York Islanders called the tune last Tuesday night.

The Islanders whipped the Flyers, 6-3 to record their third National Hockey League victory in as many starts against the Stanley Cup champs this season but this time the New York fans got into the act.

While the Broad Street Bullies were absorbing their sixth loss of the season, they were serenaded with God Bless America by the Islanders fans.

The crowd was mimicking Kate Smith whose rendition of the song has been a good luck charm for the Flyers at home in the Spectrum.

"I was really surprised to have God Bless America but it was a great feeling," said Islanders Bob Nystrom, the Swedish-born winger who came up with his second three-goal performance since he entered the league in 1974.

"It sent tingles up my spine but I thought it came too early."

The singing started at 16:04 of the third period with the Islanders enjoying a 5-2 cushion but "that doesn't mean anything against a great club like the defending champs," said the Calgary Center, Jude Drouin goaltender.

Nystrom earlier had put the penalty box for his third goal of the game and 14th of the season to make it 6-2 at 19:34.

In the other game, Chicago Black Hawks remained 10 points ahead of Vancouver in the Smythe Division by beating California Golden Seals 4-2 while the Canucks bested Kansas City Scouts 5-3.

In Uniondale, the Islanders moved to within two points of the Patrick Division-leading Flyers behind a first-period barrage of 23 shots that resulted in goals by Billy Harris and Jude Drouin and the sparkling goaltending of Glenn Resch who made 34 saves.

Rick Macleish scored twice within 2:43 in the second period to tie the game for the Flyers with his 10th goal of the campaign before Nystrom popped the winner behind Bernie Parent.

In Vancouver, Don Lever, who scored twice and missed a hat trick by a minute and a half in the Canucks' victory, said the Canucks doted during the third period because of Jet lag.

Lever, who gave the Canucks a 5-0 edge with a blistering drive from the left lane in the second period, said the club was tired in the final frame when Kansas City Scouts got shots on Gary Smith.

"When you travel 6,000 miles in three days and sit in airports like we did in the east trip you've got to be tired," said Lever.

Mike Robitaille, Dennis Ver-vergaert with his 18th goal of the season, and Garry Monahan were the other marksmen for Vancouver whose left Kansas City tied in last place with Minnesota North Stars.

Robin Burns and Gary Croteau scored for the Scouts who were described by Vancouver forward Bobby Lalonde as a team that hills you to sleep and then beats you.

"They beat Montreal the other night," said Lalonde of the Scouts' 6-5 win over the Canadiens earlier this season.

In Chicago, Stan Mikita, Doug Rota snapped a 2-2 tie in the second period to give the Black Hawks the win as five players shared the scoring for the winners.

Stan Mikita, Cliff Koroll, J. P. Bordeleau and Dennis Hull — the other Black Hawk scorers while rookie Blake Wilson for the Golden Seals a 1-0 lead in the first period. Chicago coach Jim Pappin got his fourth goal of the season from Dennis Maruk fired the other California goal with his other assist.

Tonight, the Golden Seals continue their road trip against the Maple Leafs in Toronto. Tuesday night the Seals visit Washington Capitals Pittsburgh Penguins and New York Rangers, will have a chance to gain on the Islanders in the standings.

The Rangers' opponent against Islanders Flames while the Capitals will make their first start under new general manager Max Mc-Nab in Detroit against the Red Wings and Los Angeles Kings visit the Penguins. Boston Bruins are at Minnesota in other encounters.

Montreal Canadiens, with the best record in the NHL, meet the Red Army of the Soviet Union in a nationally-televised game starting at 7 p.m. EST on CBC.

Whalers Getting the Message

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Cliches hold no terror for Don Blackburn, the new coach of New England Whalers.

"It may sound trite but the best defense is a good offence and that's the way we play winning hockey," he said Tuesday night after the Whalers defeated San Diego Mariners 5-3 in a World Hockey Association game.

The Whalers haven't lost in three starts since Blackburn replaced Jack Kelley, who left the Whalers to become hockey coach at Colby College in Maine.

Blackburn's offensive strategy seemed to be the right one for the Whalers 4-1 lead shrunk to 4-3 but it finally paid off when Larry Lund scored his third goal of the game midway in the third period to ensure the victory.

In Tuesday's other games, Winnipeg Jets downed Houston Aeros 8-3, Toronto defeated Minnesota Fighting Saints 4-2, Denver Spurs beat Indianapolis Racers 5-1 and Toronto Toros defeated Edmonton Oilers 6-3.

Pleau got a big assist on his first goal from San Diego's Swedish-born Kevin Morrison. Trying to clear Pleau's goaltender playing pass from in front of the Mariners net, Morrison fired the puck past his own goalie to give the Whalers a 2-1 lead early in the second period.

The victory pushed the Whalers four points ahead of the second-place Cincinnati Stingers in the East Division standings.

A record Houston crowd of 18,258 saw the Aeros get the first time this season and move back into a tie with Quebec for first place in the Canadian Division and overall standings.

Goalie Kurt Lauman still weak from a bout with the flu, played brilliantly for the Jets, making 34 saves.

Bobby Hull and Anders Hedberg each scored their 30th goals for the Jets and Willy Lindstrom added two more off the boards into the empty Houston net to give Winnipeg a goal in the final minute. Larry Lund had a goal and two assists for the Aeros.

Houston's Mark Howe was assisted on seven goals, including the second period when he skated from his own blue line. Steve Dowling after Howe's rush broke Houston's scoring minor penalty.

A pair of goals by Steve Sutherland and Marc Tardif in 30th goal of the season helped Toronto jump in front 4-1 in the first period at St. Paul but they fritzed away the lead as Minnesota Carlson gave Minnesota the tie early in the second period.

Francois Rochon scored in the first minute of the game and Ralph Backstrom in the last minute of the game to give Denver its victory.

Paul Henderson and Richard Lemieux scored two goals each for the Toros before a Toronto crowd 19,286. Henderson has scored three times in Toronto's last game, also against Edmonton Oilers.

Financial Bind Is Facing Teams

TORONTO (CP) — The Globe and Mail says 10 of the 14 teams in the World Hockey Association are losing money, adding up to $7.5-million this season.

The newspaper says Toronto Toros will be the big losers, dropping more than $3-million in their attendance maintains its current average of 7,000 Toros must average 10,000 to break even.

Seven of the 26 NHL teams will be in the red, including Detroit Red Wings, one of the six pre-expansion teams. Losses for those seven teams will total $4.4-million.

The losses forecast by the newspaper:

NHL — California Golden Seals, $1-million; Kansas City Scouts, Washington Capitals and Minnesota North Stars, $750,000 each; Pittsburgh Penguins, $500,000 each; Atlanta Flames, $400,000; Detroit, $250,000.

WHA — Toronto, $2-million; Denver Spurs and San Diego Mariners, $1-million each; Cincinnati Stingers, Houston Phoenix Roadrunners, Edmonton Oilers and Calgary Cowboys, $500,000 each; Winnipeg Jets, $400,000 each; Indianapolis Racers, $200,000.

WHA Bush League Charges Eagleson

TORONTO (CP) — Toronto lawyer Alan Eagleson says the World Hockey Association is "a bush league" and a disclaimer in its standard player contract that permits a player to be released without compensation.

Eagleson said Tuesday he is taking the case of a client he is forced by Toronto Toros of the WHA, Tony Featherstone, to arbitration.

"The Toros announced earlier in the day termination of the contracts of Featherstone, Mike Amodeo and Bob D'Alvise. Because of their refusal to accept demotion to Buffalo Norsemen of the North American Hockey League.

"Eagleson, who is executive director of the National Hockey League Players' Association, is agent for many players in the NHL and WHA.

He said in an interview every client of his now playing in the WHA is willing to play in the NHL for less money because of the lack of security in the WHA contract.

"The WHA is a bush-league operation," he agent said. "Where else in professional sport can you find a contract like theirs?

"It's all one way and is management's favor."

TONY FEATHERSTONE

Full-out Effort Needed Warns Canadiens' Dryden

MONTREAL (CP) — Coach Scotty Bowman of Montreal Canadiens says if the onus is on anyone in tonight's game between his National Hockey League club and the Central Red Army team from the Soviet Union, it was on Montreal goaltender Ken Dryden.

"In a game like this one, you have to have good goaltending," said Bowman after Montreal's one-hour workout Tuesday.

Ken Dryden, the top goaltender in the NHL this season, seems to be on the winning side tonight.

"It's a very big thing as far as I'm concerned," Dryden noted. "I don't understand that rocket attitude—that sort of professional cool. It's simply a way of conveying whatever you do."

Some members of the Canadiens said late last week that tonight's game was just an exhibition game and if Montreal won it, it would not mean anything in the standings. On the other hand, the feeling was that if Montreal lost, it would not mean the end of the Canadiens' chances for the Stanley Cup.

"One of the problems with the NHL's approach to any of these series is that they have a sort of take-it-or-leave-it attitude," Dryden said. "There's no special preparation—no need to have the opposition at your best. Just go out and play.

"But it's becoming increasingly apparent they are opposition of a quality that makes it warrant us approaching it in a full-out manner. Tonight is the first day we discussed this game as a team."

Dryden, who was a key man in Team Canada's series with the Soviet Union in Moscow in team in 1972, thinks he knows what he will have to do to stop tonight's contest.

"I don't feel I'll be able to stand up. I don't know if you heard Bobby Orr on the ice cast from New York on Sunday." Dryden said. "I think that's extremely difficult for a goalie to play against the Russians. When the puck comes down the ice, they're going to swarm you and they're going to make the goalie make a difficult save.

"There's no hesitation in their play around the net. Their passes are quick and their shots are taken without winding up."

Dryden said the Canadiens will have to make some quick changes in their style during tonight's game.

"If we play our standard game as the Rangers and Pittsburgh did, we're going to run into trouble. We're going to have to make some adjustments.

"The main thing—the first thing we have to keep in mind is the recognition that they are an overwhelmingly good offensive team."

The Central Red Army defeated the Rangers 7-2 Sunday night in New York while the Soviet team defeated the Penguins four-game tour with a 7-4 win over the Penguins in Pittsburgh Monday.

Red Army held a two-hour workout and both teams will skate today in preparation for tonight's game which will be carried on the full CBC television network starting at 7 p.m. EST.

McNab Heads Caps

LANDOVER, Md. (AP) — Max McNab took over as general manager of the National Washington Capitals on Tuesday and immediately named Tommie McVie of Dayton as his head coach.

McNab, 41, a former player who had been president of the Central Hockey League for the last 1½ years, was named to replace Bill Schmidt, 37, who has been general manager of the Capitals since April, 1973, and coach since late last year.

"I accept the challenge of trying to turn this franchise around," McNab told a news conference "I think it can be done."

McNab said he selected McVie who had worked with the Capitals in training. "The only reason for making the move so quickly as I have is because he knows so much about the personnel."

McVie has been general manager and coach for the league-leading Dayton Gems of the International Hockey League for the last three years. He was hired by Lefty McFadden, currently a member of the Capitals organization.

Peter F. O'Malley, Capitals president, said of McNab: "A fresh approach is something I feel is needed and Max is the man to apply it. He has been very highly recommended to me by many highly respected hockey people. I am sure he is the man to bring the Capitals respectability."

Schmidt was fired from both positions Monday night after his team lost 4-6 to Montreal Canadiens, bringing the Capitals' record to 11-26-10 since the team joined the NHL as an expansion club last season.

Kingston Dealt 8-0 Loss

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Mark Locken blocked 25 shots Tuesday for his second shutout of the season as Hamilton Flincups blanked Kingston Canadians 8-0 in Ontario Hockey Association Major Junior A action.

In other games, Sudbury Wolves dumped Peterborough Petes 10-3, Sault Ste. Marie Greyhounds defeated London Knights 4-2 and Ottawa 67s trounced Kitchener Rangers 8-3.

At Hamilton, Dale McCourt led the Flincups with five goals and two assists. Ted Long, Rob Sturkenboe, Cal Herd, Joe Kocur, Joe Contini and Mark Perras completed the Hamilton team.

The Pincups, leaders in the Emms Division, held period leads of 2-0 and 5-0.

Kingston goaltender Mike Freeman was kept busy handling 49 shots, including 29 in the second period.

There were 221 minutes in penalties called during the hard-hitting game watched by a crowd of 1,500.

The penalties included game misconducts to Kowal and Contini of Hamilton and Ron David of Kingston.

League play resumes Thursday with Hamilton at Windsor and Ottawa at Oshawa.

Wolves 10 Petes 3

Rod Schutt scored his 41st and third goals of the season and added two assists to lead Sudbury to victory.

The Wolves leaders in the Leyden Division, also got single goals from Mike Bullard, Bill Johnny Rohr, Kevin Howe, Ron Parrish, Dave Hamilton, Wes Jarvit, Dan McCarthy and Dave Hunter.

Brad Pirie scored two goals for Peterborough and Bob Stone added one.

Sudbury had 5-1 after one period and 5-2 after 40 minutes of play, outshooting the visitors 56 to 41 before 1,908 spectators.

Greyhounds 4 Knights 2

At London, Bruce Boulter and the Greyhounds scored four goals in the Hardy Division game against the London Knights.

Romano Carlucci, Vince Pyla, Tony Cuomo and Mike Kasprick scored for the Sault club, which trailed 1-0 after two periods. The opening period was scoreless.

Bill Beauchamp, who recently returned to London from injury after a preseason injury, scored the first London goal and his first of the season. Ron Zanussi got the other London goal.

The Greyhounds outshot London 42-34 and each club received 19 penalties before 3,316 fans.

67s 8 Rangers 5

Bruce Boulter scored three times in the second period as Ottawa overpowered the Rangers.

It was the first three-goal performance of Baker's OHA career. Peter Lee added two Ottawa goals and Tom McDougall, Tim Higgins and Larry Skinner added one each.

Red Lourence scored twice in place the Rangers, who trailed 5-1 and 7-3 at the period breaks. Gord McDonald, Mark Holbrook and Gerry Gingras added single goals for the visitors.

Warren Skinner handled 31 shots in the Kitchener nets and Ottawa goalie Mike Liney saw the Ottawa goal before 1,877 spectators.

Bears, Voyageurs Increase Leads

By THE CANADIAN PRESS

Sherbrooke Beavers extended their American Hockey League home winning streak to 10 games Tuesday night with a 3-0 win over Hershey Bears.

The Bears, led by goalie Don Edwards, extended its lead in the Eastern Division to 10 points over the Robins.

Edwards, who now has eight victories in a row at home, stopped 30 shots for his second shutout of the season. The 20-year-old Edwards, a native of Hamilton, is the cousin of Roy Edwards, former National Hockey League goaltender.

In Tuesday night's other contest, Rochester Americans, Guy Chouinard, Mike Polich and Glenn Shanahan scored in response as Nova Scotia Voyageurs blanked Rochester Americans 4-0.

CANADIANS WIN

TAMPERE, Finland (Reuter) — Canada was represented by Sherbrooke Beavers, beat Czechoslovakia 5-4 Tuesday in the world junior hockey championships but the Soviet Union Red Army team defeated Finland 6-4 win over Finland. The Soviet Union Red Army team is now at Sherbrooke Club is 3-1 and Finland is 2-2 in the tournament.

The win increased the Voyageurs' lead in the Northern Division to four points over the Americans.

The Voyageurs displayed a strong defence which allowed their goalie, Dave Elenbaas, to stop 18 shots while Ken Brophy, who is good for Rochester, faced 45 drives.

Rawlson's goal in the first period came when he deflected a low drive from Rick Chartraw at the point. The Voyageurs forced Broderick to make 18 saves in each of the first two periods.

It was the third shutout of the year for Elenbaas.

Michel Deziel scored Hershey's first goal late in the first period. Defenceman Mario Faubert added an unassisted goal to open the final period, before netting up Jean-Guy Gratton for the final tally.

Action resumes Friday night with Hershey at New Haven, Baltimore at Providence and Nova Scotia at Rochester.

Gas House Hockey

Bayview Snipers Frustrated

Jim Parker helped Rollins Lumber close out 1975 in top notch style in Gas House Hockey League play at Memorial Arena, Tuesday, closing the door on Bayview Orchards club's chances 3-4 win.

The victory moved the Lumbermen into a tie for fifth place in the standings with Bel-Con Engineering and Bayview.

Bill Dunn, Jeff Soule and Bruce Pascoe looked after the Rollins production with a goal apiece.

In other games, Constellation Carpets turned the tables on Bel-Con 6-3 as Ron Mitchell exploded for four goals, and Murray's Food Market nipped Procter and Gamble 4-3. Single markers went to Constellation's Bill Leitch and Ken Kerik. Replying for the losers were Robert Foster with a pair and Mark Brett, Brian Yearwood earned two assists.

Murray's got a goal each from Hester Thompson, Ken Forsythe, Doug Stewart and John Royal as the club picked up its second win of the season. Mark Bradshaw, Bob Kidd-ie and Ron McIntyre hit for the Procter and Gamble goals.

GET HORBUL ON LOAN

BALTIMORE (AP) — Baltimore Clippers announced Tuesday they have received left winger Doug Horbul on loan from Kansas City Scouts of the National Hockey League. Horbul, 23, played for both Baltimore and Springfield in the American Hockey League last season. With Springfield this year, he just recently returned to action after recovering from an injury.

EXTENDS SUPPORT

SAN FRANCISCO (AP) — The National Guard decided Tuesday to extend until Jan. 15 its financial support of the troubled San Francisco Giants while team president Horace Stoneham tries to sell the club. At the water baseball meetings early this month, league owners decided to extend credit to the Giants, who already had borrowed close to $250,000 from the league, to Tuesday. A committee of owners made Tuesday's decision, to continue on the same basis until Jan. 15.

POISON UNIDENTIFIED

SAN MATEO, Calif. (AP) — Autopsies being performed on two harness racing horses had not yet revealed Tuesday what kind of poison killed them last weekend, authorities at Bay Meadows racetrack said. A third horse, also poisoned, was recovered after treatment. Bob Werth, public relations director for Bay Meadows, said it is hoped that by the end of the week it will be determined what poison killed the horses.

ANNOUNCES OFFER

SAN DIEGO (AP) — Promoter Mickey Davies announced Tuesday he has wired W.rld Boxing Council featherweight champion David Kotey of Ghana an offer of $70,000 to fight Canadian Art Hafey in either San Diego or Anaheim, Calif. Hafey, former Bellarton, N.S. resident who now lives in San Diego, is the No. 1 contender for the 126-pound crown.

MORRALL HAS SURGERY

MIAMI (AP) — Veteran quarterback Earl Morrall of Miami Delphins underwent surgery for ligament damage in his left knee Monday but will be able to play in the 1976 National Football League season, team physician Dr. Herbert Virgin said Tuesday. Virgin said the 41-year-old backup quarterback, injured Dec. 1 while filling in for injured Dolphins' starter Bob Griese, suffered "torn and stretched medial collateral ligament in his left knee."

Rollins Bows in Peewee Major Final

Lion's Share to Kingston Township

TRENTON — Kingston Township teams had a shot at four of the Silver Cup Hockey Tournament titles here Tuesday. And they took three of them.

The only championship which eluded Township was in the Major Bantam section. And the team didn't play for that one. Apparently officials of the Township team informed tournament organizers it would be impossible to keep a title-game date with Whitby. So the Whitby skaters were awarded the top prize.

But in Minor and Major Atom and Minor Bantam, it was Township all the way.

Trenton proved to be a stubborn opponent in the Minor Atom match, giving the Kingston side all it could handle before falling 5-1.

Bryan Boyd's goal in the third period snapped a 1-1 tie and swung the tide in Township's favor. Ken Sizer was the other Kingston marksman. Shaw had Trenton's counter.

Township turned the tables on Trenton by a convincing 5-1 score in the Major Atom final. The champs were sparked by the two-goal effort of Mark Kirkpatrick. Trenton got its goal from Darrin Patrick.

Township's third title also came at the expense of a Trenton representative. Paced by Bob Denyes and Marty Sizer, Kingston rolled to the Minor Bantam championship with a 6-1 win.

Trenton opened the scoring in the game when Marko Turcotte found the mark. But that was it for the home side.

Belleville's lone chance for a title came in the Major Peewee section but the Bullies Construction squad fell to Trenton in that one, 5-2.

It was Rollins' sixth game in three days.

Belleville jumped in front when Darcy Maher stole the puck at his own blue line and walked in unmolested to put the puck past Trenton goalie Glen Cherrett.

Trenton fought back with two consecutive goals to take charge.

Dave Yeager led the winners' attack with a pair of goals. Adding singles to the production were Dave Ferguson, Steve Smith and Don Wilterton.

Belleville's second goal came off the stick of Bryson Lamble.

The Minor Peewee honors went to Napanee. Frankford gave it a good shot but came out on the short end of a 3-1 score.

The winners got an excellent effort from Mike Bailey, who displayed some clever moves and a good shot, while dumping himself to a pair of goals. Gord Ellis was the other Napanee scorer.

Frankford's top operator Rob Collins looked after his team's only goal.

Swedes Big Test for Jim's

Vallentuna of Sweden, the touring Juvenile team which will play Belleville Jim's Pizzeria at Memorial Arena, New Year's Day, lost its second game in as many starts, Tuesday when Kingston Township All-Stars came out on top 4-2.

Steve Howes paced the Kingston attack with a pair of goals. Dave Latour and Gary Andrews had one each.

Scoring for the Swedes were Gunnar Lidegren and Fredrik Ronnin.

Observers were impressed with the size of the Swedish team.

"It's a very big team," said Bill Thompson, manager of the Jim's Pizzeria Club.

"They're all good skaters and they move the puck out of their own end well," he said.

All but one of the Swedes are left-hand shots.

The game in Belleville is scheduled for a 2 p.m. start.

Belleville Minor Hockey Association's Glenn Hamilton, OMHA convener, says the Swedes will be given a short tour of the city when they arrive in Belleville about 11.30 a.m., Thursday.

After the game, members of both teams and dignitaries will attend a banquet at the Black Hawk Motor Inn.

CJBQ's Jack Devlin, past president of the Canadian Amateur Hockey Association and a member of the governing body of the International Ice Hockey Federation, will be master of ceremonies at the function.

Tickets for the game are on sale at McKnight's Variety, Front St.

Here's how the Swedes line up:

1. Haakan Klaesson. 2. Rolf Isaksson. 3. Mikael Gohns. 4. Torsten Hulin. 5. Mats Lidegran. 6. Jan Haldin. 7. Ronny Oeberg. 8. Roger Soederstroem. 9. Anders Skogg. 10. Fredrik Ronnin. 11. Hans-Gunnar Lidegran. 12. Tuve Sonnell. 13. Jan-Erik Karlsson. 14. Rolf Fager. 15. Roland Nordgren. 16. Lennart Jansson. 17. Tom Hammarberg. 18. Hans Thorsaeson. 19. Gunnar Bergqvist. 20 Christer Sundberg.

Belleville Rollins' Darcy Maher opens the scoring in Silver Cup Hockey Tournament Peewee Major final, slipping puck past Trenton goalie Glen Cherrett. Trenton rebounded to take championship with 5-2 win as three-section, four-day tournament finals were played Tuesday.

Nicks Double Winners

Bay of Quinte High School Basketball League's Nicholson Catholic College proved a rude host, Tuesday, when two of the school's teams picked up exhibition wins over Kawartha District's Thomas A. Stewart of Peterborough.

Nicholson Gaelors scored a 60-45 win while the Senior Nicks rubbed it in to the tune of 74-42.

Paul McAlpine took care of a major portion of the Junior Nicks' production with 24 points. Steve Sebian checked in with 12 points and Boyd Kalnay had nine.

Top for Thomas A. Stewart was Rick Dundas with 20 points.

In the senior contest, Dale Wilson hit for 21 Nicholson points and Jeff Boyle had 14. Chris Gehan clicked for nine.

John Fife was the visitors' best with 15 points.

Yardmen Goalies Shine
BRAMALEA (Special) — Belleville Yardmen lost both their starts in the Triple A Midget Hockey Tournament here on the weekend but still survived had to be impressed with the showing made by the squad.
With goalies Bruce Bell and Brian Cook taking turns supplying solid efforts, Yardmen lost twice by one-goal margins.
In their first start, the Belleville skaters were dipped 3-1 by Hamilton as Bell sparkled. Doug Arnold supplied the Yardmen goal.
It was Cook's turn to shine in the Belleville club's second start. Unfortunately, New York took the nod 3-2 with the winning goal coming in the second overtime period.
Arnold and Mike Bryant looked after the Belleville scoring.

Buckeyes, Bruins—They're 'Up'

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Ohio State is gunning for the national championship, UCLA is shooting for Ohio State.

And neither coach should have trouble motivating his football team as the Buckeyes and Bruins prepare for Thursday's Rose Bowl game in Pasadena, Cal.

"Our kids, I think, will play the greatest game of their lives," says UCLA coach Dick Vermeil. "I just don't know if that will be good enough to beat Ohio State."

Vermeil, of course, is thinking about the last time his team played the nation's top-ranked club earlier this season—and lost a top-billed, 41-20 decision in Columbus.

"They are not invincible," quipped out Cliff Frazier, the Bruins middle guard who is convinced that UCLA can reverse that bitter defeat in the fourth game of the season.

While UCLA is presumed to be a revenge motive, Woody Hayes and his Ohio State players are thinking about something far more noble.

"They're playing for a national championship," Hayes said, when asked whether he expected any complacency from the talent-rich players. "That should be plenty of motivation.

"This squad is more mature, a little quicker than last year."

This is the fourth successive trip to Pasadena for Ohio State and but the first for UCLA since 1966.

The Rose Bowl will highlight a two-day binge of bowl games that starts with today's Peach Bowl at Atlanta between West Virginia and North Carolina State and tonight's Sugar Bowl at New Orleans between Penn State and Alabama.

Featured on New Year's Day along with the Rose Bowl will be the Cotton Bowl game at Dallas between Georgia and Arkansas. Oklahoma takes on Michigan in Thursday night's Orange Bowl at Miami.

Archie Griffin, the two-time Heisman Trophy winner, leads Ohio State's ground-oriented attack against UCLA's stiff defence, ranked No. 3 in the country.

World Cup Tourney

Will USSR Be In?

TORONTO, (CP) — Five countries invited by Canada to participate in a World Cup-style hockey tournament next year have accepted but the Soviet Union is still expressing reservations.

Tournament chairman Al Eagleson had set a Dec. 31 deadline for written acceptance of the Canadian invitation. As of Tuesday, he had received letters of acceptance from the United States, Finland, Sweden and Czechoslovakia.

He also has received a conditional acceptance from Andrei Starovitov, general secretary of the Soviet Union ice hockey federation. Starovitov said he would attend a Jan. 7 organizational meeting in Toronto.

However, the Russian official expressed reservations over the proposed method of selecting referees for the tournament which will feature national teams from the six countries including Canada, and 15-5 teams made up of professionals from the National Hockey League and the World Hockey Association.

Two referees are to be invited from each country except Canada which will invite six. Following a clause prior to the September tournament, final selection of referees and linesmen would be made by a tournament directorate in which each of the five invited countries has one vote and Canada has two votes.

The Jan. 7 meeting is expected to deal with the tournament schedule and sites for the games. The tournament will be a single round-robin with the top two teams meeting in a best-of-three final.

You'll never be embarrassed to bring this all five year old to a party.

Next time you're invited to friends, take along Burke's Canadian Whisky. The taste will never embarrass you. But the low price may make you blush.

UNESCO Man Tries To Save Queen of the Seas

OTTAWA (CP) — UNESCO's man in Venice has returned to Ottawa after two years of trying to save the Queen of the Seas from further natural and man-made deterioration.

Joseph Martin, 51, was recently appointed deputy director of the National Gallery here and says he left Venice with regret, but with assurance his work will be carried on.

Mr. Martin was appointed in 1973 to head a new office of the United Nations Educational Scientific and Cultural Organization in Venice in order to represent international concern for the preservation of the ancient city on the Adriatic, a living but decaying international art treasure.

Venice suffered severe damage, some of it irreparable, in a 1966 flood and has experienced recurring floods since then. The historic heart of the city and some of its art treasures are also subject to industrial pollution from nearby petrochemical works, among the largest in Europe.

When the Italian government passed special laws for the preservation of Venice, UNESCO appointed Mr. Martin as an international expeditor and attention-getter. Mr. Martin, with degrees in sociology, town planning and art history, served as a kind of supranational ambassador.

"The whole world was—and still is—anxious about saving Venice" he said in an interview. "There were national and private committees formed to save Venice but at that stage there wasn't a committee composed of Venetians themselves."

Mr Martin was instrumental in forming such a committee. Most of his work was persuading and cajoling Venetian and Italian authorities to carry through the five-year, $300-million plan that was embodied in the new Italian law.

He invited five leading Italian authorities in engineering, town planning, art preservation and similar subjects of concern to prepare a report on the need and means of preservation.

Their report was then reviewed by an international body of similar experts and has become the handbook for work to be done in the next few years.

Mr. Martin, a bachelor with wide international travel and art experience, said no one has been nominated to succeed him in the Venice office of UNESCO but he will act as a consultant in the next year, making three visits to the city to see how work progresses.

As deputy head of the National Gallery under director Jean Sutherland Boggs, Martin will have special responsibilities for the gallery's international and international programs, publications and public relations.

The national program is the gallery's series of traveling exhibits. The international program involves conferences and such international art shows as the Venice Biennale, which is to be held next June.

He will also be a key figure in negotiations between the National Gallery of Canada and art galleries of other countries, such as the Louvre in Paris, in arranging international loans.

Before his appointment to UNESCO, Mr. Martin was assistant to the chief curator of the National Gallery and was instrumental in bringing art exhibit to Canada from the Louvre covering the Fontainebleau school of the 16th-century.

Born at St. Felicien and raised in Chicoutimi, Que., Mr. Martin studied sociology at Laval University and town planning in Paris. He then worked for the city of Montreal, Central Mortgage and Housing Corp., and the CBC for 10 years before going back to Paris to study art history at the Sorbonne.

In Memoriam

WESSELS — In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away December 31, 1966.
Your presence we miss.
Your memory we cherish.
Loving you is easy.
Loving you we remembered by Hazel, Mona and families.

ANDERS — In loving memory of a neighbor, Gerry, who passed away 1 year ago today, Dec. 31st, 1974.
—Bob, Pauline and family.

GUINNINGS — In loving memory of a dear mother who passed away peacefully on Dec. 1, 1966.
—Lastly missed but beautiful memories remain with us.

ASSELSTINE — In loving memory of our dear son, Ronald Gordon, who passed away January 1st, 1972.
Loving and kind in all her ways,
Upright and just to the end of her days,
Sincere and true in her heart and mind,
Gentle and merciless she left behind.
Sadly missed and remembered by daughter, son-in-law John and grandchildren Debbie and Gordon.

CARDS OF THANKS

Mrs. Elsie Reid, Wellington, Ontario, wishes to thank relatives, friends for the cards and gifts received on her 100th birthday, and the Belleville Army for their thoughtfulness at Christmas. My best wishes for a happy new year to everyone.

MONTREAL (CP) — The number of children attending private schools in Montreal has increased 26 per cent over the last three years, a school council report says. About six per cent of Montreal students attended private schools last year compared with 4.4 per cent in the rest of Quebec. The appeal of private education has caused surpluses in buildings and teachers for commission, the report says.

Showbiz Shorts

VIENNA (Reuter) — Tonsesses Williams opened rehearsals at Vienna's English Theatre Monday for a new play he said was "too hot" for audiences in the United States.

The U.S. playwright chose the 230-seath Vienna Theatre for his Red Devil Battery Sign, a play about moral anarchy set in Dallas, Tex., after withdrawing from rehearsals in Boston.

He said he ran into difficulties with U.S. producers over the play's content but that he also wanted to stage it in a small theatre.

Only Austrian teachers of English were admitted to the invitation-only rehearsal, with Ruth Ellington and Keith Baxter playing the only two roles. More rehearsals will be held this week, followed by four pre-views starting Friday.

Williams will then fix a date for the world premiere, also in Vienna, expected in mid-January.

TEL AVIV (Reuter) — Mandy Rice-Davies, a key figure in the Profumo scandal which shocked the British government in 1963, has begun a new career on the Israeli stage.

Miss Rice-Davies, 30, is attracting good notices for her performance in Who's Afraid of Marriage, a Hebrew adaption of the stage hit The Marriage-Go-Round.

She plays the part of a pretty, intelligent woman who wants to have the perfect child and goes about finding the father.

Miss Rice-Davies came to Israel 10½ years ago, married an Israeli and became a successful restaurant owner.

In a sense a friend of Christine Keeler, whose association with Conservative war minister John Profumo led to his resignation after he confessed he had lied to the House of Commons about the relationship.

LOS ANGELES (Reuter) — Mickey Spillane, best-selling detective-story writer, was used by a divorcee Monday by his wives wife, Sherri.

Mrs. Spillane, who appeared nude on the cover of her husband's recent novel The Erection Set, cited irreconcilable differences.

Mrs. Spillane, 34, and her husband, 57, were married in Los Angeles in 1964. They separated last month and have one children.

LADYBRAND, South Africa (Reuter) — Widow Margaret Griffiths was so fond of her old car that she said in her will it should be buried after her death.

But her sentiment has upset motoring enthusiasts here because the car is a 1948 Studebaker Champion — one of only nine left in the country. It is also in danger of running foul of South Africa's Apartheid laws.

Local undertaker T. Cortzer, who arranged Mrs. Griffith's funeral last August, has refused to handle the interment of the car.

"We can't bury it in the cemetery," he said. "That's for whites only." The car is black.

If plans are carried out to bury it at the municipal dump, Cal-lover Adriaan Van Zyl envisaged says he and his friends will be stunned by a mob scene, or an instant grave-robbing. "It won't really be desecration," he said.

BANNER ELK, N.C. (AP) — Actress Jean Seberg and actor Judy Garland in the motion picture The Wizard of Oz are among several items stolen Sunday from the Land of Oz amusement park, officials said Monday.

Police were investigating the possibility the thefts might be linked to a fire which heavily damaged a theatre early Sunday and a gift shop at the mountain-top amusement park.

Arson was suspected in the fire, police said.

HAYS, Kan. (AP) — It took two tries and 50 miles of driving to convince him, but Colby, Kan., man was finally persuaded Sunday that he had left his wife and daughter behind at a stop near Ellsworth, police said.

Highway patrol troopers stopped Terry Schneider in Russell, after receiving a call from Mrs. Schneider saying that her husband had left her and her daughter behind when he drove from the highway side.

Schneider told police the first time he was stopped that he had not let anyone off and continued driving westward on.

The troopers again stopped Schneider near Toulon, between Russell and Hays. He told them his wife and daughter were in the back of the car asleep. After checking and finding his family missing from the van, Schneider drove back to the highway stop to get them.

LOS ANGELES (AP) — "I think I like it better when the Disney people drew their stuff. I preferred it when Mickey Mouse was floating over a precipice and walking on air back to safety. Much better than submitting human actors to such things."

The wryly pointed comment came from Peter Ustinov, one of Disney's human actors. He was hobbling on crutches as the result of stunt work in the studio's new adventure film, Treasure of Matecumbe.

"I get out of the (plaster) cast in a week," said the portly actor. "The doctors diagnosed the injury as torn ligaments. I heard one of them tell another, 'You had it wasn't a fracture; then we would know where we stand.' Hmmmm."

One thinks of Peter Ustinov at, as sitting in a drawing room stirring bons mots between sips of wine. So how did he happen to be performing stunt work in a man-made hurricane?

"I wonder myself," he said. "It's too late in life for me to start making this kind of picture."

The accident occurred when Ustinov was working in the tank at the 20th Century-Fox location ranch in Malibu Canyon. He was not only damp but decidedly cold—"When my car was picked up after I went to the hospital, they had to spray it with hot water to thaw it out."

Ustinov and fellow performers Robert Foxworth and Joan Hackett, were doing a burlesque sequence in the post-Civil War adventure about a search for buried gold. Ustinov was told to turn away from the camera so his stunt man double could take over in subsequent scenes.

"I think that if I hadn't turned, I would have escaped life intact kept the actor sidelined for three weeks. Being Peter Ustinov, he wasn't idle. Among his works in progress: a television special he is writing for the Children's Television Workshop; his autobiography, which he is calling Dear Me; and a new play, Beethoven's Tenth, which he describes as "very funny, perhaps too funny."

Your Horoscope

Friday, Jan. 2

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Goals won't come easily to you today. If you want to grab the brass ring, you'll have to really make a dash for it.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) It's better to concentrate on one thing and do it well today than to spread yourself too thin.

GEMINI (May 21-June 20) This could be a rather tricky day for you businesswise. Take nothing for granted. Read the fine print before signing.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) You could spend the day weighing alternatives and making no decision. Be cautious, but if you make a mistake, you can later rectify it.

LEO (July 23-Aug. 22) Pace yourself at work today. Don't take on more than you can handle, then wind up frustrated at all that's left undone.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) This is not a day for you to bet on long shots or to take a flyer in the stock market. Be prudent and practical in regard to resources.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Don't make changes today that affect home or family just for the sake of change. Move only if you have a carefully considered reason.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24-Nov. 22) Frive cautiously today even if you have the right-of-way. The person you're going to see won't mind if you're a little late.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Deal only with those you know to be reliable on any purchases made today. Bargains from strangers later will prove costly.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) It's sensible to look out for your interests, but do it at the expense of others today. Treat them as you'd like to be treated.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Things may start out a little slowly for you today, but don't despair. You'll find perseverance pays off.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) You'll be far more productive today if you isolate yourself from disruptive influences. Lock the door if you're working on something important.

Thursday, Jan. 1

ARIES (March 21-April 19) Avoid competitive situation today. If you play the game, do it for fun, not for gold or glory.

TAURUS (April 20-May 20) Some strong views of yours may offend your audience today. If you sense this, back off a bit.

GEMINI (May 21 - June 20) Don't make large material requests today. Though you feel others owe you for past favors, they'll consider it an imposition.

CANCER (June 21-July 22) Be careful today not to get in the middle with friends or family. It will only cast you as the villain.

LEO (July 23 - Aug. 22) You could make an unwise, impulsive promise to help someone today because you're in an expansive mood. You'll be the one who you can't deliver.

VIRGO (Aug. 23-Sept. 22) Y ou well-intentioned New Year's resolutions could be shattered today if you're not careful. Guard against overindulgence.

LIBRA (Sept. 23-Oct. 22) Trying to wrap up an important deal in a hurry today may be a grave mistake. Be patient. Accept time as your ally.

SCORPIO (Oct. 23-Nov. 22) Today, don't try to monopolize conversation with subjects you alone are interested in. Give everyone a chance to air their views.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23-Dec. 21) Feeling like a wheeler-dealer today? Be too lavish with your resources and you'll leave the impression of "wasted not, want not."

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22-Jan. 19) Today, you shouldn't press your luck any way. Make your pitch, then graciously go along with others if outvoted.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 20-Feb. 19) Don't read derogatory meaning into things others say to you today. You could end up with hurt feelings, when no malice was intended.

PISCES (Feb. 20-March 20) Be a trifle cynical about things and organizations propose to you today, particularly if they're "pie in the sky" propositions.

By OSWALD and JAMES JACOBY

The Alcatraz coup was given that name back in the early '30s when a particularly slimy expert first tried it. Today's hand illustrates this ploy at its worst.

South is worried about the 10 of trumps. He is going to have to ruff the third heart. If West started with three spades to the 10 South won't be able to shut it out. If he started with 10 and out South can ruff high and pick it up but if West started with two small and South ruffs high it is going to establish the 10 in the East hand.

Our unlucky character found a way to have his cake and eat it too. He ruffed the second heart with the nine of trumps. West overruffed with the 10. Dummy added, "No hearts, partner" and South found a heart.

He took back his nine, followed suit, proceeded to ruff high the next time, dropped West's 10 and managed to make the contract. He gave it back after West threatened to punch him in the nose and North told West to go ahead.

Ask the Jacobys

Today's article was prompted by a Cleveland reader's request about what to do when someone perpetrates an Alcatraz coup.

In duplicate the director should not only adjust the score in favor of the victim, but if he believes that the offense was deliberate, should assess a severe disciplinary penalty. In any major tournament he surely would and the tournament committee would back him up. In rubber bridge games it is up to the other players to see that the offender mends his ways.

Phantom Pains Can be Fought

By G.C. THOSTESON, MD

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I would like to know about phantom pain in a person who has lost a limb. Is it real, or do people just think it is there when it really is all in the mind? Also how long do such pains usually last, and what can be done for them? Does hypnosis help? — Calvin, Texas.

This is post-amputation pain reported as originating in a missing limb.

In most cases, the term is an unfortunate one, because it usually can be traced to very real causes. More on this below.

There is, of course, speculation about the role of emotions in this. It is understandable that the loss of a limb causes great emotional strains, which, combined with the fact that the pain sensation is carried along the same nerve paths that formerly served the missing limb, complicates things.

But the pain almost always is the result of neural or muscular disturbances at the stump. The most common cause is a neuroma, a tumor which can develop at the end of the severed nerve. A scar formation or an infection of the soft tissue or bone is sometimes a factor. Or a bursa can develop and become inflamed. And one must always look at the artificial limb itself as a cause. The proper fit of one should be checked.

I have no personal knowledge of hypnosis helping in this, although I suppose that where the emotional factors I mention come into play it might be.

Phantom pain (without obvious physical cause) is rarely found in amputees under age 21.

There are locally effective drugs to alleviate post-amputation pains. But care has to be taken in use of narcotic pain killers, lest addiction result.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: I am an 82-year-old woman. For the past two years I have been bothered with excessive urinating, particularly at night, sometimes as many as six or eight times after I go to bed. It is sometimes slightly painful.

I go regularly to my doctor. He says x-rays show nothing wrong. When you get old, you just have to endure things like this!—Mrs. M.K.K.

You might expect such things as you get older. However, you not you must endure them depends on how correctible they are. Let me explain.

Two-thirds of the body's urine production occurs in the daytime, a third at night. This is to be expected, since the middle aim slows during inactive hours. As one gets older certain changes in the kidney's filtration system can alter this daytime rate, with proportionately more urine produced in night hours. The body answers the natural need for excretion, and the result is that you are up six or eight times after going to bed.

Painful urination raises suspicion of infection in the urinary tract. Infection would show on an x-ray. But it would in a urologist, specialist in certain bodily matters. In a male, one might also suspect prostate problems.

Dear Dr. Thosteson: My son, 32, has for the past two months complained about his ears ringing. He has been to two ear specialists and his ears check out okay. He has been taking high intensity hearing, however. He has had a wisdom tooth pulled on the same side of the head with the bad ear. Can it be ear wax?

Is this a common complaint, and what should he do?—Mrs. A.N.

There are several causes for tinnitus (ringing in the ears). Some are within the ear and others are "systemic," a result of a generalized condition—high blood pressure or anemia, for examples.

It wouldn't call tinnitus a common complaint for someone 32 years old. Your son's date of hearing for high-pitched tones would be important in indicating otosclerosis. This is a condition affecting the bones within the ear. It is usually found in older persons, but it can occur as early as the teens.

Drugs can cause ear-ringing. Quinine is one of them, and this can be found in certain types of tonic water used to mix highballs. It's just a thought. Another effector is aspirin.

The specialists undoubtedly discounted the possibility of earwax resting on the ring the ear drum as a cause. It would be important to know if any family history of hearing loss. I suggest further observation, particularly to determine whether the hearing gets worse.

Your loss is your gain.

UN Blemished By Militant Factions

UNITED NATIONS (CP)— The United Nations moves into 1976 with its reputation some what blemished by a three-month General Assembly session which produced frequent and bitter clashes between the West and militant factions in the Third World coalition.

Two elements combined to make the assembly meeting one of the most acrimonious in years—an Arab drive to undermine Israel's standing in the international community and the appearance on the UN scene of a new and abrasive United States ambassador.

The Arabs, unable to rally support for a drive to expel Israel from the UN, attacked the Israelis on the ground that Zionism, the implementation of the Jewish desire for a national homeland, was a form of racism and racial discrimination.

Mustering votes from Third World delegates, they managed to win assembly support for a declaration to that effect. The same issue was injected into a resolution to launch a 10-year program of action to raise the status of women around the world.

Canada joined other Western and non-aligned countries in opposing the Arab drive.

The Arabs succeeded in enhancing the stature of the Palestine Liberation Organization, which had been granted observer status at the 1974 session, by winning it the right to join in a Security Council debate on the Middle East early in the new year. Israel has announced it will not take part in the debate.

At the Arabs' prompting, the assembly also set up a committee to recommend a program enabling Palestinians to "return" to national independence and a return to their homes in what now is the state of Israel.

The assembly session was no sooner over than the anti-Zionism strategy surfaced in Paris where a meeting of the UN Educational, Scientific and Cultural Organization inserted the issue into one of its declarations. Canada, Israel and other Western nations withdrew in protest.

At the centre of the controversy in the General Assembly was Daniel Patrick Moynihan, outspoken former U.S. ambassador to India, who took over the post of chief UN delegate from John Scali about mid-year.

Moynihan denounced the anti-Zionism resolution as "obscene," told the General Assembly it was acting like a "theatre of the absurd" and infuriated African delegates by endorsing a New York newspaper's characterization of Ugandan President Idi Amin as a "racist murderer" after Amin called for Israel's extinction.

Moynihan's blunt pronouncements were privately criticized by other Western delegates and drew fire from Ambassador Radha Krishna Ramphul of Mauritius the public confession that delegates were reluctant to consult with the U.S. ambassador because they lived "in positive dread of his manners, his language and his abuse."

Moynihan's performance was generally applauded in the U.S., though isolated voices called for a more temperate approach.

UN membership rose to 144 with the admission of six small, newly-independent states: Mozambique, Cape Verde, Sao Tome e Principe, Papua-New Guinea, the Comoros and Surinam.

The admissions left unchanged the balance of power held by the Third World coalition, made up mostly of Arab and non-aligned countries from Africa, Asia and South America. On key issues, they can muster 85 to 95 ballots and outvote the West.

Western members hope for the future is fragmentation which occurred in third World ranks on some votes. On the anti-Zionism resolution, for example, 17 African countries either voted against the motion or abstained for fear of losing Western support for their own campaign against South Africa's racial segregation policies.

The Third World split prevented the assembly from taking decisive action on civil strife in the West African state of Angola.

Positive achievements included an agreement by Israel and Egypt on a second withdrawal of troops in the Sinai Desert, renewal of the mandate for the UN peace force on the Golan Heights between Israel and Syria and another extension for the UN force keeping the peace between Greek and Turkish communities in Cyprus.

Approximately 20 resolutions dealing with disarmament, including proposals for nuclear-free zones, were adopted.

Britain scored a minor victory when the assembly supported the territorial integrity of the self-governing British colony of Belize, formerly known as British Honduras, against claims of neighboring Guatemala.

Canada, which lost a round in midsummer when the UN switched its crime prevention conference from Toronto to Geneva because of an outcry over Palestinian delegates, was assembly approval of plans to stage the Habitat conference in Vancouver next spring. Canada assured the assembly that PLO delegates would be allowed to attend.

Canadian achievements were mainly in the realm of suggestions, a number of which were adopted, for improving the machinery and financing of the UN. The assembly adopted a Canadian proposal for a committee to look into UN financing. The membership likely will include a member of the Canadian delegation.

Hunters Assume Responsibility

KENTVILLE, N.S. (CP) — The future of big-and small-game hunting in Nova Scotia depends largely on the responsibility of hunters and that responsibility may be instilled through a hunter education program, says provincial wildlife director Merrill Prime.

An education and testing program for such sportsmen may be implemented next year, he said, and should explain to novice hunters just what is expected of them in the woods.

Mr. Prime said the comprehensive program will include classroom instruction on the use of firearms followed by field tests to ensure the men know how to use their weapons.

"All hunters must realize that hunting is a privilege, not a right."

An estimated 78,000 big-game hunters and 45,000 small-game hunters entered the province's woodlands this year.

1975-a Bleak Year For the Steel Industry

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The steel industry will remember 1975 as a bleak year when all of its glamor products lost their spark at the same time.

In 1974, steel shipments were 110 million tons. As 1975 came to an end, the industry figured it would be lucky to reach 80 million tons.

Why was the slump so pronounced? The answer lies in the trends of recent years.

After the Second World War, light, flat-rolled steels—the kind used in automobiles, appliances, containers and construction—became the industry leaders.

Population and income were increasing and more people were buying second cars, a second refrigerator, a new home—and flat-rolled production was geared to that end.

National Steel Corp., Jones and Laughlin Steel Corp., Wheeling-Pittsburgh Steel Corp. and Armco Steel Corp. increased production of glamor steel to the point where it now makes up about 70 or 75 per cent of their total shipments.

The industry's two giants, U.S. Steel Corp. and Bethlehem Steel Corp., remained more diversified, with no more than 50 per cent of their business involving flat-rolled products.

When inflation and recession hit the economy after the Arab oil embargo, fewer people bought new cars or appliances. Mortgages became extremely expensive and home construction dropped.

What called the consumer finally began to all steel, and it all hit at the same time in 1975, the worst year since 1963, when shipments were 75.5 million tons.

Steel mills ran at 60 to 70 per cent capacity for much of the year and unemployment hit about 15 per cent, with more than 60,000 workers laid off in the third quarter.

Although the first half of 1975 was disappointing, companies predicted an upturn the last six months.
